RIDE A BRANTFORD RED BIRD

VENING ... Music Hall last evening Miss Cora White presented a splendid representation of the pupils in recital, which moved a very interesting and enjoyable occasion to the parents and friends who attended. During the evening Mrs. Paul Stevring, wife of the noted violinist of New York, congratulated Miss White on the splendid results of her efforts. The programme will appear in to-morrow's Examiner.

A GREAT WEDNESDAY ANNEX BUILDING SALE!

The walls of the new four-storey addition to our building are right up to the roof and alterations to our main building are already well under way. This necessitates the temporary crowding of several departments and the resulting reductions of stocks. These over-flows from our regular stocks have away over-crowded the Annex and this great WEDNESDAY ANNEX BUILDING SALE offers twenty remarkable values, so that we can relieve our present stock congestion. We strongly urge morning buying, the early selections are always the best.

Shop in the Bargain Annex Wednesday

Every Wednesday for over thirteen years, the Bargain Annex has been doing business. It grows with the years. Last Wednesday 663 customers were served in this unique bargain department. There must be a reason for this success. It may be of interest for our customers to know that this Bargain Department is copyrighted with the Dominon Government. It's the only department of its nature, so far as we know, covered by government patent. Plan to shop in the BARGAIN ANNEX, Wednesdays.

BIG SEASON IN PROSPECT FOR THE STONEY LAKE COTTAGERS

THERE WILL BE FEW VACANT COTTAGES THIS SUMMER—JUNIPER ISLAND STORE WAS BROKEN INTO.

The Juniper Island Store was included in the activities of the robbers who Provincial Detective Boyd has been trailing at Stoney Lake for some time. The store was practically cleaned out of everything edible left over from last season. The traces left by the thieves indicated that they spent several days camped on Juniper.

According to the cottagers who spent the 24th at the Lakes the robberies were confined principally to the cottages on and along the Burleigh shore. Mr. Taylor of Toronto, formerly of Peterboro, found his cottage, "Casa del Porta," broken into after four doors had been tried. In one room the thieves, unable to force the lid off a trunk, chopped through the bottom of it, taking all the contents, but evidently judging that the tray of the trunk was the top, missed the cutlery stored above.

Popular Resort.

For the first time since before the war every cottage at the lake has been rented, and one of the hotels has already been booked for the entire season.

Returned Yesterday.

The cottagers who spent the holiday at the lake, most of whom returned yesterday, were, in the lower lakes, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, Miss Grace Reinhart, Sheriff and Miss Nan Hall, Miss Austin, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, Mr. Arthur Walters, Montreal; Mr. J. D. Collins, Miss Elinor Collins, Miss Clementi, Mr. Fred Collins, Mr. Durham Collins, Mr. Reid Munro, Major Frank Bradburn and Miss Stoewling, New York; in the upper lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. James Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carlisle, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. John Birnie, Miss Lenore Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McBain, Mr. and Mrs. Tarbox, Toronto; Magistrate D. W. Dumble, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, Mr. Foote, Mr. B. F. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Shortly, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson.

Good Season.

All the cottagers were enthusiastic over the prospect of an extra large crop of huckleberries, and many of them stated that never [illegible]

BUGGY SMASHED IN AN ACCIDENT

Horse Became Frightened at a Fire Cracker

LAKEFIELD, May 27.—On Friday evening Mr. Kenneth Sweeting accompanied by a friend, was driving along Queen street, when the horse became frightened at a fire cracker, plunged. An automobile going at a high rate of speed collided with the buggy, breaking a wheel and shaft. Fortunately neither Mr. Sweeting or his companion were injured, but the buggy was completely wrecked.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT THE STATES

Will Attend First Meeting of League of Nations at White House.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 27.— Premier Lloyd George will visit America during the first League of Nation's meeting, it was semi-officially stated to-day. The American delegation invited him to make the trip, it was stated, and he indicated probable acceptance.

It is reported that conductorettes in Vienna are unable to collect fares from riders on the footboards and buffers of the electric cars, thereby entailing a daily loss of something near $9000.

LEARN HOW TO GRAIN

The public have an opportunity today and to-morrow to learn how to do their own graining of homes, furniture, floors, etc., at the store of Messrs. F. R. J. MacPherson & Co., Limited, Nos 450-452 George street. The remarkable possibilities of Vernicol Stain is being demonstrated during these two days by Mrs. Sweetapple Brown, an expert from the well known paint company of Lowe Bros. In the hands of this lady, Vernicol Stain is made to do stunts in graining that is not only attractive to the eye, but easy and simple to learn. 1d

LANSDOWNE LODGE ATTENDED EARLY CHURCH ON SUNDAY

REV. F. E. MALOTT PREACHED INTERESTING SERMON TO MEMBERS OF LODGE.

The members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, attended in a body the evening service at Trinity Methodist Church Sunday. The pastor of the Church, the Rev. F. E. Malott, preached an appropriate sermon from Luke 17: 10, "When ye shall have done all the things that are commanded you, ye shall say we have done that much it was our duty to do."

The entire emphasis in the sermon was on the word "duty." Mr. Malott had announced as his theme "A Briton's Watchword." This he said to be "duty." The men and women whose names have been inscribed on the roll of fame have been those who enthroned duty. Appropriate illustrations of this were given from the lives of men like Nelson, Wellington, Haig and others.

The speaker called attention to the fact that we have just celebrated the 100th anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria, and he reminded his hearers that her life was a fine illustration of the theme of the sermon, Viscount Esher, who edited the letters of Queen Victoria, says that these give ample evidence of her devotion to duty and to the interests of her people.

Th war brought a new sense of obligation to many people who had become strangers to the meaning of the word duty. But there is still need that we learn this lesson. Too many continue to follow their own pleasure regardless of the many calls that come to them to live sensible lives. "So long as we view national and community problems from the standpoint of our own special interests, we shall never do our duty," said the speaker. "We have grasped at the privileges of liberty and have forgotten its responsibilities."

A great philosopher defined duty as the obligation to act from reverence for law. "Above all other law is God's law," said the speaker, "and when men are obeying God's laws and are living in a right relation to Him and to their fellowmen, they are doing their duty and God expects every man to do his duty."

"It is so easy to evade duty," said the speaker. "Self interest would continually turn us aside. Our feelings sway us so often and prevent us from doing what we know we ought to do, and then we are so often perplexed and find it hard to know just what we ought to do."

Carlyle's advice was quoted, "Do the duty that is nearest thee and the next duty will then become clearer."

Many fine quotations and illustrations relieved the sermon which was followed throughout with the closest attention.

In closing, attention was called to the aims of the visiting order and to their splendid record. Since the incorporation of the society in 1874 no less than $2,350,452.46 have been paid out for various benefits to the members of the order and their families.

PRESENTATION AT THE BONNER-WORTH

MISS LOUISA HAUN LEAVES EMPLOY OF COMPANY.

At noon on Friday, 23rd inst., the employees on the first floor met together to make a presentation to one of their number, Miss Louisa Haun, who is leaving the factory to be married.

Mr. Pilling, the foreman in the drawing department, read the following address:

Miss Louisa Haun:

We, the employees of the Drawing, Winding and Shipping Departments of the Bonner-Worth factory have met to-day to wish you much happiness, long life and prosperity on the occasion of your coming marriage. We shall feel your loss, as you have been a cheerful and willing helper during the five years you have been amongst us. However, our loss will be someone else's gain.

We take this opportunity of presenting you with this readnig lamp, and when using it we hope it will remind you of the time when you were working with us.

Signed on behalf of the employees,
Walter G. Worth, Asst. Manager.
Allan Pilling, Foreman.

The Presentation.

Mr. Walter G. Worth made the presentation. He spoke on behalf of the management, and said it gave him great pleasure to make this presentation; and he echoed the sentiments in the address read by Mr. Pilling. Mr. Worth said Miss Hann was one of the few girls who were in the employ of the company before he went overseas. He thought it a good thing that there existed such a feeling of good fellowship among the work people as that shown in the presentation of such a beautiful reading lamp. He said he hoped Miss Hann would treasure the gift as a memento of the high esteem in which she was held by her fellow-employees.

Miss Hann made a suitable reply, and the employees sang "For she's a jolly good fellow."

DE LAVAL TEAM HANDS SURPRISE TO MANAGER JAKE

ORIENTALS BEATEN 8 TO 6 IN MOST EXCITING CITY LEAGUE GAME OF THE SEASON LAST NIGHT—LOSERS WERE BAD BOTH IN THE FIELD AND ON THE BASES.

Manager Jake Solomon of the Oriental City League team has only one consolation to-day and that is that he is batting 1000 in both the Central Ontario and City Leagues, having gone in twice a pinch-hitter and delivered the goods on both occasions. Otherwise the scrappy pilot of the Orientals is in deep gloom for his crew were beaten 8 to 6 by the De Laval gang in a city league game at Riverside Park last night and instead of starting to-night's game with Matthew's-Blackwell on an even footing with Packers, he finds his outfit a rung down the ladder. The Orientals to tell the truth, richly deserved to lose last night's battle. They fielded like a public school team, were for the most part perfect ladies with the bat and ran bases with about as much judgment as the Kaiser showed in trying to lick the world.

In anticipation of a hard fight to-night, Manager Solomon saved Kirn his pitching ace for the Packers and sent in McNeeley to do the twirling. The youngster did not make a bad job of it in the face of support that would have discouraged any heaver. Nearly every error the Orientals made counted in the run-getting and they cannot blame their defeat on the pitching they received.

De Laval played good ball. Prest had the edge on the Oriental batters fanning eight men and showing a brand of stuff that seemed a puzzle to most of the losers.

The separator gang started in early and before the Orientals had realized they had a battle on their hands they were 7 to 1 behind. To give Manager Solomon credit he never quit trying. He threw every player he had in uniform into the game, argued with the umpire, worked on the coaching line until he was hoarse and come through with a nice single when he went in to hit for Head. His efforts were in vain, however, for although his team succeeded in knocking four runs off the margin against them, they could not make the grade.

Two features of the game were Campbell's fine hitting, the De Laval out fielder getting a double and three singles in four trips to the plate and a sensational catch by Cherrett, who robbed Prest of a hit by going over into short centre and grabbed a fly on the run with his gloved hand. It was the prettiest catch of the year on the local grounds.

The fans who failed to see last night's game missed the most exciting battle of the season. It was not good baseball but it sure was interesting.

De Laval did not score in the first innings but the Orientals got a cheap run when Cherrett was safe on Lipsett's fumble, stole second and third and came home on a wild pitch.

In the second Campbell scratched a hit on a slow one along the first bad line which rolled into fair ground. He stole second and after Legon had fanned, J. Murray singled to left sending Campbell home. Murray stole second. Lipsett lifted a fly to Murray who dropped the ball. The batter did not run out the hit and was thrown out at first. Murray stole third but Prest died on a pop fly.

The Orientals failed to score in their half.

The third session was a crazy one for manager Solomon's team. Dugan first up for De Laval got a cheap hit when Phelan misjudged his easy fly. He stole second and went on to third when Cherrett fumbled Bergoine's grounder. Rose hit to Murray who threw Dugan out at the plate Bergoine going to third. Phelan mussed up Fitzgerald's grounder and Bergoine scored Campbell hit to deep centre for two bases scoring Rose and Fitzgerald. Legon got a life on Murray's fumble but Murray fanned and Lipsett grounded to McNeeley.

The Orientals went out in order and neither side scored in the fourth.

The fifth, however, was another big session. Fitzgerald opened for De Laval by singling to right. Campbell smashed out his third hit, which Collins was lucky to knock down. Fitzgerald went to third on the play Murray dropping Sheehy's good throw. Keenan missed Legon's fly to left and Fitzgerald scored. Murray's infield out to Collins scored Campbell and Legon counted on a wild pitch. Collin's throw out Lipsett. Prest was safe when McNeeley dropped his pop fly but Dugan died McNeeley to Sheehy.

The Orientals got two in their half. After Murray had been called out on strikes, Collins singled to right, stole second and scored when Legon missed Bergoine's throw to Head him off at third. Solomon batting for Head, singled over second. Soden was put in to run for him and stole second scoring when McNeeley hit one down the first line and was out. Rose to Prest. Cherrett hoisted a fly for the third out.

There was no scoring for De Laval in the sixth but the Solomon crew got another counter. McCarney walked and stole second. Sheehy singled to centre and McCarney was out at the plate when he tried to score. Kirn fanned but Keenan singled to short scoring Sheehy. The batter tried to go to second on the throw to head off Sheehy and was an easy out.

The De Laval crew put over another in the seventh. Campbell started it with his fourth hig of the day. Soden threw high to second to head him off stealing and the runner tried to go to third. McCarney's good peg catching him sliding into the bag. Legon walked but was out stealing, Soden to Cherrett. Murray singled and Lipsett drew a pass. Prest singled to centre, scoring Murray but Lipsett was out trying to go from first to third. McCarney to Murray.

Orientals started out in the seventh as if they were going to tie things up. Murray was hit and stole second. Collins singled to centre and purloined the middle bag. Soden doubled to left scoring Murray and Collins but was out trying to go to third on the throw to the plate. McNeeley fanned and Dugan threw out, Cherrett, winding up the game.

ORIENTALS AND PACKERS IN BIG GAME TO-NIGHT

The defeat of the Orientals by the De Laval team last night has tightened up the City League fight and increased the interest in the pennant race.

To-night's game between Matthews-Blackwell, the League leaders and the Orientals will be one of the most important in the series inasmuch as a win for the Packers will put them well in front while on the other hand Manager Solomons outfit can pull up on even terms by beating the Matthews-Blackwell gang. The game is called for 6:45 o'clock and will undoubtedly be witnessed by the biggest evening crowd of the season. Kirn and Soden will be the Oriental battery while either Hedyke or Frost will pitch for the Packers with Lefave doing the receiving.

The league standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	To Play
Matthews	2	0	10
De Laval	1	1	10
Orientals	1	1	10

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"TEA FOR THREE."

"An angle on the triangle" is the programme's description of Roi Cooper Megrue's comedy, "Tea for Three," which was the attraction at the Grand Opera House, and which entertained a large audience with the humour of its situation and the breezy wit of the lines. "Tea for Three" might be called a "Tilly" play, but it must be said that while there was plenty of talk it was amusing, epigrammatic, and clever, and never grew wearisome. Briefly, the comedy dealt with the old situation of a husband inclined to be stody and preoccupied with business; a wife who wants to be amused; and the bachelor friend of the two who is an individual who has studied what he calls the "unfair sex" with considerable zeal, and is a specialist in the art of making small talk. This particular triangle, however, differs from the usual three-cornered affair, inasmuch as the friend's love for the wife is purely platonic. The manner in which the husband is convinced of this furnishes the plot of the play and provides the audience with considerable amusement.

"Tea for Three" was splendidly acted. Elsa Ryan, who was seen here in "Peg o' My Heart," and would have been seen as the Cockney girl in "Out There" if the train had not been stalled by a blizzard several winters ago, did admirable work as the wife, making the part real and convincing. Mr. Norman Hackett was equally successful in his portrayal of the role of the bachelor friend, and Mr. Hayden Stevenson gave a capital presentation of the part of the husband. The only two parts, minor roles, were well handled by Mara Keval and S. Sydney Chen.

LIVELY STEPPING.

If there is a slack time around Walkerton bars because of prohibition things are anything but slack around hotel dining-rooms because of daylight saving. Walkerton is working on old time, while the trainmen and travellers working on new, with the result that the latter want to feed an hour ahead of the other boarders, and as all hands are busy watching that they don't get juggled out of their meals, it makes some lively stepping for the tray-carriers' union.—Bruce Herald.

NOW THE FUTURIST CHURCH

Now comes the futurist church! The Church of the Messiah, Park avenue and Thirty-fourth street, New York city, has adopted a "statement of purpose," from which the mention of Christ and Christianity is omitted. The pastor, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, says that neither "sect, class, nation nor race" will be recognized. "We believe the day of denominationalism is gone," he declares. "I myself am a Christian, but I believe the best in Christianity and the best in Judaism are identical. We already have about fifty Jews and some Hindus on our membership. Chinese will be welcome, regardless of their faith."

INTERESTING PAPER READ TO TRINITY CHURCH BROTHERHOOD

MR. A. D. HONE REPLIES TO ARGUMENTS USED BY MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.—"GOD, NATURE AND ALCOHOL."

THE BREWING OF BEER

"God, Nature and Alcohol" was the subject of an address delivered by A. D. Hone, M.A., science master in the local Collegiate Institute, before the Men's Brotherhood of Trinity Church. At the close, the speaker was tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

This address is intended to show, from the standpoint of science, the part played by the production of alcohol, in the economy of nature and to answer some very extreme views expressed in the public press on the relationship of God, Nature and Alcohol.

The earth and objects in it, both living and inert are undergoing continual change. It appears that creation in nature was threefold. God created matter, life and a number of great forces operating on these according, to well-defined laws. We call these latter the forces and laws of nature. Through the operation of these forces, the universe became what it is today! One of the great laws of nature is that of life, growth, death and decay. Every living thing grows, dies and finally decays or disintegrates. This decay is one of the most important principles of nature and it is with it that we are particularly concerned in bringing out the relationship between God, Nature and Alcohol.

Let me quote from Bergen and Davis' "Principles of Botany," in this connection:

"Decay is the destruction or decomposition of highly complex compounds, such as proteids, fats, sugars, and cell walls of plants, by which they are broken down into successively simpler substances, and finally into fluids and gases, some of which are very ill-smelling. The products of decomposition form various chemical combinations and are finally used again in the constructive processes of life. The bacteria and other fungi are the chief agents of decay, and, if it were not for them, the world would soon be filled with organic waste products, together with the dead bodies of animals and plants of no value as food. Thus all the chemical elements capable of sustaining life would long ago have been used up and life on earth would have ceased. Not infrequently, however, incipient putrefaction forms certain organic poisons called ptomaines, in nitrogenous foods, and these may give rise to distressing symptoms, or even prove fatal to the consumer.

Different Classes

"Decay may take place in two very different classes of substances: (1) the carbohydrates, such as cellulose, starch, sugar, etc., and (2) the proteids. The breaking down of the carbohydrates is called fermentation, and many other fungi besides bacteria are concerned in the process. Yeasts, for example, are the most important organisms in the fermentation of sugar. Alcoholic fermentation involves, accompanied by the formation of large quantities of carbon dioxide."

I quote this at length because it makes clear the connection between God, Nature and Alcohol

God set in motion the forces producing decay. Without this "all the chemical elements capable of sustaining life would long ago have been used up and life on earth would have ceased." In the decay of sugar alcohol is produced at one stage in the process. If allowed to take its course, the alcohol itself is broken up further and simpler substances result. The process, then, is its own justification regardless of any substances produced during it. Some of these are harmless to man. Some such as ptomaines are poisons. Alcohol, to say the least, is of doubtful value as a food. And, in view of the facts, to claim that the process takes place in nature for the express purpose of producing a substance to use as a beverage, which is of doubtful value as such, is not only ridiculous and presumptuous, but also belittling the work of the Creator.

Mr. Burnham, is one of his letters says, "He is too wise who knows more than God." I would say that he is too wise who presumes to know the mind of God and calls everyone a blasphemer who doesn't believe the same as he. What better example of a modern Pharisee could be found?

Let us next consider man's part in the manufacture of alcohol. Mr. Burnham's argument is: "There are those, like myself, who realize that God made Alcohol and makes it and that if a prohibition law were to apply against all those trespassing it, the Almighty himself would be liable to fine and imprisonment."

Waste Sugar

In other words he considers nature's and man's methods of making alcoholic drinks to be identical. In the first place it is extremely doubtful whether any alcoholic drinks are produced, as such, in nature. Some artificial process of extraction, etc., is necessary before drinks result. At least, this is true of all of which we have any knowledge. As we pass along I wish to point out some differences in the processes as carried out by nature and by man. In the first place, as to material used. Dr. Macallum, in a letter to Mr. Burnham, says: "All we know is that the waste sugar and carbohydrates in nature, the amount of which waste is unknown, are finally disposed of through yeast fermentation and bacterial decomposition." To this Mr. Burnham makes answer: "Nature makes alcohol from waste sugar and carbohydrates, that is materials that have not been needed for food. As I have pointed out, this is a wise provision that the materials of which these are composed shall be returned to nature again. In his letter of April 19th, Mr. Burnham says, "It was not for me to criticize the ways of God, but to imitate them." Then he should see that nothing but waste substances are used in the manufacture of alcohol. If he did he would be a prohibitionist out and out, for practically no waste materials are used in the manufacture of alcohol in Canada. Dr. E. B. Shuttleworth, in an article in "The Canadian Chemical Journal," of March 1918, says:

"For the official year ending in the spring of 1914, a few months prior to the declaration of war, the output of the 12 distilleries then working was 6,972,583 gallons, obtained by the fermentation of 98,044,811 pounds of grain, and 19,690,720 pounds of molasses." Farther down he says that of the grain, 57% is corn, and the rest malt, rye, oats and wheat. These materials are not waste sugar or car-

GRAIN MARKET

Business is still very dull in the local grain market. There is plenty of enquiry for barley, oats and rye among the coarse grains, and for winter wheat, but so little of any of these grains is available, and for what little there is prices are so high, that the amount of business actually transacted is a negligible quantity. In the option markets prices yesterday were generally firm, and closing about steady at the previous close.

The Winnipeg oats market closed practically steady, and barley 1-2 to 3-4c. higher, according to closing quotations.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William; No. 1 Northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 Northern, $2.21 1-2; No. 3 Northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11.

Hay—Baled, track, Toronto, car lots, No. 1, $32 to $35; No. 2 mixed, $30 to $24 per ton; straw, car lots, $10 to $11.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts today: 109 cars, with 2,725 cattle, 761 calves, 3,784 hogs, and 176 sheep and lambs.

The feature of yesterday's market was the sale to the local firm of H. P. Kennedy of several heads of extra choice heavy steers for export to France, at prices probably as high as ever paid in this market for straight heads of cattle. These cattle for several days failed to find purchasers in the local market, and it was contemplated sending them to Buffalo to try there. Mr. Kennedy, however, has been able to place them, and at a price better perhaps than anything Buffalo could have done.

For the rest of the market, the butcher cattle trade was a little slow, and prices weer barely steady.

The hog market was steady at last week's record prices, but it is expected the market will be a dollar lower to-day.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

She rose briskly. "Let me show you this map," she said. "It is the very latest—Letitia Battle brought it to me two days ago. And do smoke."

"Thanks, but I must go over and watch those girls. Yes, it's a fine map. This war certainly is a godsend! Good luck. Keep up those splendid spirits. You're all right."

CHAPTER XXIX

Oyez, oyez, oyez! The Supreme Court of the State of New York of Brabant trial term is now in session all people having business with this court may draw near and give their attention and they shall be heard."

The court crier delivered his morning oration in one breathless sentence, the last fire words of which only have ever been captured by mortal ears. The roll of the jury was called. The first witness stood on the step of the witness stand and swore by the everlasting God that the testimony he would give in the trial of the People of the State of New York against the defendant would be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and then he seated himself in the chair. The trial of Mrs. Balfame began.

It had taken three days to select a jury. If Rush was determined to keep out Germans, Mr. Gore, the district attorney, was equally reluctant to admit to the box any man whom he suspected of being under commands from his wife to get on that jury and acquit Mrs. Balfame, if he had to imperil his immortal soul. He also harboured suspicions of felonous activities on the part of Mr. Sam Cummack and certain other patriotic citizens less devoted to the cause of Justice than to Elsinore. In consequence the questions were not only uncommonly searching, but both the district attorney and the defendant's counsel exhausted their peremptory challenges.

The talesmen that had crowded the courtroom beyond the railing were for the most part farmers and tradesmen, but there were not a few "prominent residents," including the rooted Brabantities and busy commuters. The last answered without hesitation that they had followed the case closely from the first and formed an unalterable opinion; then, dismissed, rushed off and caught a late train for New York. Those of Mrs. Balfame's own class would have been passed cheerfully by Mr. Rush, but in spite of their careless avowals that they had been too busy to follow the case, or had found it impossible to reach any conclusion, they were peremptorily challenged by the district attorney. They, too, went to New York, not on business, and returned to their hearthstones as late as possible.

Finally a jury of almost excessively "plain men" were chosen after long and weary hours of wrangling. They were all married: their ages ranged from forty-five to fifty; not one looked as if he had an illusion left in regard to the sex that had shared his burdens for a quarter of a century, or, German or no German, he had any leniency in him for a woman who had presumed to abbreviate the career of a man. But at least they were real Americans, with reputations for straight dealing, and good old-fashioned ideals of justice, irrespective of sex. Rush doubted if any of them could be "fixed" by Mr. Cummack or the able politicians whose services he had bespoken, although the sternest visages often hid unsuspected weak spots; but after all his best chance was with honest men whose soft spots were of another sort.

So naive had been the eagerness of the German-American talesmen to get on the jury that Rush had had little difficulty to demonstrating their unfitness for duty. These were too thrifty to go to New York and stood in no fear of their wives, but they avoided the gemütlich resort of Old Dutch until the trial was over.

Throughout this ordeal Mrs. Balfame sat immovable, impassive, her face a white bas-relief against the heavy black crepe of her veil, which hung like a black panel between her profile and the western light. Her chair was at the foot of the long table which stood beneath the two tiers of the jury-box and was reserved for counsel, the district attorney, the assistants and clerks. Her calm grey eyes looked straight ahead, interested apparently in nothing but the empty witness stand, on the right of the jury and the left of the judge. She knew that the reporters, and the few outsiders that had managed to crowd in with the talesmen, scarcely took their eyes from her face, and that the staff artists were sketching her. All her complacency had fled before certain phases of this preliminary ordeal for which no one had thought to prepare her. The constant reiteration of that question of horrid significance: "Have you any objection to capital punishment as practised in this State?" struck at the roots of her courage, enhanced her prison pallor; and that immovable battery of eyes, hostile, or coldly observant, critical, appraising, made her long to grind her teeth, to rise in her chair and tell those men and women, insolent in their freedom, what she thought of their vulgar insensibility. But not for nothing had she schooled herself, and not for a moment did her nerves really threaten revolt. She had taken her second sleeping powder on the night preceding the opening of the trial, but on the third morning she awakened with the momentary wish that she had preserved Dr. Anna's poison, or could summon death in any form rather than go over to that courthouse and be tried for her life. For the first time she understood the full significance of her condition.

But Mrs. Battle, Mrs. Cummack and Mrs. Gissing, when they bustled in to "buck her up," congratulated her upon "not having a nerve in her body"; and although she had felt she must surely faint at the end of the underground tunnel between the jail and the rear of the courthouse, she had walked into that room of dread import upstairs with her head erect, her eyes level, and her hands steady. She may have built a fool's paradise for herself, assisted by her well-meaning friends, during the past ten weeks, and dwelt in it smugly; but as it fell about her ears she stood erect with a real courage that strengthened her soul for any further shocks and surprises this terrible immediate future of hers might hold.

On the first day, although she never glanced at a talesman, she had listened eargerly to every question, every answer, every challenge. As the third day wore on, she felt only weariness of mind, and gratitude that she had a strong back. She was determined to sit erect and immobile if the trial lasted a month. And not only was her personal pride involved. Circumstances had delivered her to the public eye, therefore should it receive an indelible impression of a worthy representative of the middle class American of the smaller town, so little unlike the women of the wealthier class, and capable of gracing any position to which fate might call her—a type the United States of America alone has bred; also of a woman whose courage and dignity had never been surpassed by any man brought to the bar of justice on the awful charge of murder.

She knew that this attitude, as well as her statuesque appearance, would antagonize the men reporters but enchant her loyal friends, the women. Her estimate was very shrewd. The poor sob sisters, squeezed in wherever they could find a vacant chair, or even a half of one (all the tables being reserved for men), surrendered in a body to her cold beauty, her superb indifference, soul and pen. A unanimous verdict of guilty brought in by that gum-chewing small-headed jury merely would petrify these women's belief in her innocence. She was vicarious romance; for women that write too much have little time to live and no impuse to murder any one in the world but the city editor.

On the morning of the fourth day, the space between the enclosure and the walls of the courtroom was filled with spectators from all over the country, many of them the personal friends of Mrs. Balfame; but New York City would not become vitally interested until the business of examining the minor witnesses was concluded. Behind and at the left of Mr. Balfame were the members of her intimate circle. Occasionally they whispered to her, and she smiled so sweetly and with such serene composure that even the men reporters admitted she looked younger and more feminine—and more handsome—than on that day of the interview which had proved her undoing.

"But she did it all right," they assured one another. They must believe in her guilt or suffer twinges in that highly civilized and possibly artificial section of the brain tabulated as conscience. Their fixed theory was that she had mixed the poison for Balfame and then, being in a highly nervous state, and apprehensive that he would capriciously refuse to drink it, had snatched her pistol as she heard his voice in the distance, dashed downstairs and out into the grove, and fired with her established accuracy.

Save the Money You Waste and Make It Earn You More Money

How much of your wages do you fritter away each week on trifles?

If you reckon it up you will probably find that at least five per cent. disappears thus "like snow wreaths in thaw."

If your weekly wage is $15.00 you spend easily 75 cents of that on "mere nothings" before you know it.

But suppose you said to your employer: "Each week I want you to keep 75 cents out of my pay envelope and invest it for me in War Savings Stamps. As you buy each War Savings Stamp put it in my pay envelope, and go on doing that for a year."

You will never miss that 75 cents. But at the end of the year you will have over $36.00 invested in Savings Stamps. By then they will be worth considerably more than $36.00, and by 1924 they will be worth $45.00.

War Savings Stamps are guaranteed by the Dominion Government. They have the whole resources of Canada as their security, the same as Victory Loans. And they bear an unusually high rate of interest. You can cash them at any time, however, if you need to.

War Savings Stamps can be bought wherever this sign is displayed.

Make Your Savings Serve You and Serve Your Country—Invest Them in War Savings Stamps.

THIS IS THE MONTH OF VIOLETS.

There are many myths and legends connected with the violet, which has been considered the good luck flower by many nationalities.

In some places, rural folk say a bouquet of the first violets found should be taken into the farmhouse, so good luck will be assured in the hatching of all the baby fowls of the barnyard.

The violet was the national flower of the Athenians, and the men of Athens were frequently addressed by their orators as "Athenians crowned in violets."

The Romans believed the flower had medicinal qualities, and Pliny advised a garland of violets about the forehead would cure headache or dizziness.

The Mohammedans delight in flavouring their finest sherbets with extract from the flower, such as Mohammed had liked best.

In feudal England ladies gave a violet to their knights as a symbol of their constancy, and of good luck, too.

At the floral games in Toulouse, France, the prize given the best poem writer, at the first celebration in 1355, was a golden violet.

During Napoleon's imprisonment in Elba his followers wore the violet as a secret badge of constancy to him. Much of their jewelry was violet tinted also. As he had predicted, he returned when the violets were in full bloom, and great bunches of the blue beauties were showered upon him by his faithful adherents, hoping that they would bring good luck to him and to their cause.

HARDWARE TREND EASIER

Reductions in Prices of a Number of Lines Reported Last Week

Changes last week have been made, says Hardware and Metal, in a couple of lines of pipe wrenches, the decline ranging from 10 to 12½ per cent. A lower scale of quotations has been named also on malleable waggon goods.

Flower guard has advanced in price and some lines of roofing paint show a slight advance in revised quotations just issued.

Another change has been brought about this week in steel, bronze and brass screws. Discounts named a month or so ago on the steel and a few days ago on bronze and brass have been superseded by a new scale which provides for pretty substantial declines all the way around. The market seems to have receded to a pretty fair level now and indications point to a somewhat steadier basis being maintained.

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

boyhydrates. Who is most in harmony with the will of God and with Nature: The man who seeks to prevent the colossal diverting of these foods from their proper uses, or the man who approves of such sinful waste, in order to manufacture a substance which, to say the least, is of doubtful value as food?

Brewing of Beer

Let us next consider the process of manufacture. Alcoholic wine is made by allowing the juices of fruits to ferment. This is the only process carried on by man, according to the methods of nature and even here, artificial extraction is used.

Let me read from J. B. Cohen's Organic Chemistry how the other drinks are produced. He says:

"In the brewing of beer, barley, which like most cereals, contains a large amount of starch, is soaked in water and spread out on extensive floors. Germination soon begins, and is allowed to proceed till a small shoot appears, when the life of the grain is destroyed by heating in kilns known as malt kilns." (What a slaughter of the innocents is this! What an interference with the ordinary processes of nature!)

"One object of the germination is to produce diastase which converts starch into sugar. In the brewing of beer, the action of the diastase is arrested, after a short interval, so that only a small portion of the starch is converted, and the extract or wort is drawn off and boiled with the addition of hops. Yeast is added, whereupon fermentation sets in and the sugar is converted into alcohol. The product is beer. If all the starch is converted into sugar and fermented, and the alcohol and water distilled off, whiskey results. Rum is distilled from fermented molasses. Gin, like whiskey is made from barley and flavoured with 'juniper.' Now you have no processes exactly like these in nature, to produce the same products. Even the yeast used is a cultivated form. So these processes are largely inventions of man similar to race-track gambling, which Mr. Burnham is perfectly willing to prohibit.

I should next like to devote some time to answering Messrs. Burnham and Bagley's arguments as they have appeared in the public press.

In the first place Mr. Burnham does not appear to know what a prohibitionist is. A prohibitionist has no desire to "curse" alcohol as alcohol, but to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages by man. The only man I heard curse alcohol was a drunkard on the streets of Winnipeg. A fellow-teacher and myself were looking in at a store window. This man came up, and being under the influence of liquor, made free to address us. After some conversation he said, "Boys, look at me. You think I'm a fool don't you, and I guess I am, but it was drink that did it; I was a good man once. I belonged to the Salvation Army in Toronto and those were the happiest years of my life. But I was tempted and fell. When I think of the past and present and future, I feel as if I could tear things." (And he crooked his fingers like the claws of a bird). "Boys, I'm in hell now; I know you think I'm a fool and I am too, but leave the ——— stuff alone. Goodbye, I'm going over to get another drink now." And he lurched across the street and entered a bar room.

A Supposed Fact

Then, the prohibitionist is not opposed to the manufacture of alcohol under government control, for industrial and war purposes. It appears to me that Mr. Burnham's arguments rest upon the supposed fact that the only use of alcohol is as a beverage. He says, "If alcohol is made for consumption by the Creator, then the extinctionist is one who arrays himself against the Creator, and in the last analysis, is an atheist." The whole force of his argument depends on these words, "for consumption." If, then, we can show that alcohol has other uses than "for consumption," and uses that are of undoubted rather than doubtful benefit to man, the onus of proof is on Mr. Burnham to show that God placed alcohol in nature "for consumption" rather than for these other uses. What are the facts as contained in an article on Alcohol from Wood Waste, in the May number of "The Canadian Chemical Journal" It reads:—

"It (alcohol) may be expected to compete with gasoline for fuel purposes and motor cars. It is looked upon as the ideal source of power. Safety, cleanliness and reliability are greatly in its favour while in a properly designed engine its efficiency also favourably compares. In the manufacture of fine chemicals such as drugs, dyes, etc., Germany has been pre-eminent and her control of this trade was to a large degree dependent upon the cheap production of alcohol from potatoes, an industry that was encouraged in every possible way. Then we have such products as celluloid, which can only be made through the solvent power of alcohol and ether, of which the latter is derived, as well as use in our photographic industry, in the production of films. Shellac and lacquer are both products which we use in numberless directions, and in making which alcohol is the solvent used.

The manufacture of artificial silk and artificial leather, both new industries capable of enormous development, yet almost unknown here, can only exist where cheap alcohol can be obtained.

When we come to war essentials for every pound of smokeless powder, 1.4 pound of alcohol is required, while in the manufacture of fulminate of mercury the indispensable constituent of percussion caps, for every pound produced, 9 pounds of alcohol is used."

In 1917, although there was little consumption of alcoholic drinks in Canada, over six million gallons were manufactured. Of this, over four million gallons were used for industrial and war purposes and about two million gallons exported. These figures are by Dr. E. B. Shuttleworth, who calculates that over one million gallons will be required in normal times and says, "It is therefore plain that distilleries must continue to exist."

Industrial Alcohol

You will be pleased to learn that this industrial alcohol can all be produced without the use of a pound of valuable food material.

In this connection Dr. Ruttan, of McGill University, says:

"Our other sources of alcohol, viz.: Sulphite liquor waste and our waste wood, can produce all the ethyl-alcohol used in Canada."

Returning to my argument, I would challenge Mr. Burnham or anyone else to show that the alcohol produced in nature, be it little or much, is not produced for any or all of the purposes mentioned above, rather than for use as a beverage. Failing in this, the whole force of his argument is destroyed.

It appears as if, when confronted with the question of prohibition, Mr. Burnham found himself in a dilemma. The bright idea of this wonderful theory came to him. He sent it to the press. It then became necessary to find facts in support of it. Some time afterward, therefore, he wrote Dr. Macallum to find out how much alcohol is produced in nature. Dr. Macallum said he didn't know and gave him a scientific answer. Mr. Burnham, however, not having a scientific mind, could only put a politician interpretation on it, which consists in finding what you want whether it is there or not. Dr. Macallum says, "It is absolutely impossible to get data," and again, "It is only where the processes are controlled and guided by man that the quantity of alcohol produced may be determined."

Mr. Burnham concludes from this: "The vast quantity of alcohol so made is, as you will observe, not precisely to be estimated, but that it is enormous in quantity must be, of course, admitted from the data."

Dr. Macallum says, "It is absolutely impossible to get data."

Mr. Burnham says, "But that it is enormous must be, of course, admitted from the data."

The Data

What data? Why the data in Mr. Burnham's imagination when he formulated the theory. That piece of reasoning alone is enough to discredit and destroy confidence in any arguments on this question put forward by the member for this riding.

But are there vast quantities of alcohol in nature for consumption, unaided by man? Richter, in his Organic Chemistry, says: "Ethyl alcohol seldom occurs in the vegetable kingdom." The Encyclopedia Britanica says: "Ordinary alcohol seldown occurs in the vegetable kingdom." As Dr. Macallum points out, the amount produced by fermentation is limited by the amount of carbohydrates permitted to go to waste. What astonishes me is that if there are such vast quantities of potable alcohol in nature, the thirsty throng hasn't tapped them long ago. I would suggest, that, if Mr. Burnham has such a high opinion of the use of alcohol as a beverage, his time might be better employed than at present, in leading an expedition of such thirsty souls as J. Guise-Bagley, in search of these vast quantities which have been so successfully hidden for hundreds of years.

In conculsion, the views put forward by Mr. Burnham are extremely dangerous, if followed to their logical conclusion. Mr. Burnham says: "God makes potable alcohol in nature, therefore it is wrong to prohibit man from making it." In general terms Mr. Burnham argues that what God permits or does in nature it is right for man to do and wrong for man to prohibit. I just heard of a brood of chickens being hatched out at the Normal School. One was hatched later than the others and they attacked and killed it. That sort of thing is constantly happening in nature. It seems that a form of murder is permitted in nature. Is that any argument against prohibiting murder by man? One might also argue similarly concerning the marriage laws, and some do. Just to show the danger of this line of thought, it has already led Mr. Burnham to state in a letter to Prof. Wallace that "God prohibits nothing." We do not agree with that in view of the ten commandments, but suppose we accept it. According to Mr. Burnham's argument then, man should prohibit nothing. Therefore all laws of prohibition should be wiped of the statutes and Mr. Burnham has largely argued himself and Mr. Bagley out of their jobs as lawyers and the world back to the state of primitive man.

Again, Mr. Burnham says: "Believing that men were included in creation and not above it, I found that to curse alcohol was to curse something God made in nature and therefore to curse God and be an atheist."

Now, the Bible tells us that immediately after man was created, he was given dominion over everything else so created. Thus, while apart of the creation he is above all the rest of it just as God is above him. No one but a fool believes that man made laws are intended to apply to God or to nature. No one but a fool would serve a writ against God because lightning set fire to his barn. The right of man to regulate the actions of his fellowmen implies also the right to prohibit, because all regulation is partial prohibition. If man has the right to prohibit at all he has the right to prohbiit entirely. Therefore, since Mr. Burnham believes it is right to regulate, he must believe it is right to prohibit. Mr. Burnham has thus eliminated the question of right and wrong from the discussion.

Facts Agree

In consideration of the above facts you will agree with me that to quote Mr. Burnham: "A little religion is a dangerous thing, especially if home-manufactured." It is both amusing and interesting to observe how men who are not ordinarily very religious, become extremely so in order to bolster up some pet theory or excuse a pet appetite. They would "out-Herod Herod" and become both interpreters of the intention of God and expoumders of the scriptures. I challenge anyone to produce any statement in the scriptures about which there is absolute certainty as to the meaning, approving the use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. I admit that, while strong things are said against the use of strong drink, there is no direct pronouncement on the question of its prohibition by man, any more than there is concerning slavery. But the Bible does not pretend to be a book of specific regulations concerning every phase of human conduct. If it did neither Mr. Guise-Bagley or Mr. Burnham would have any use for a law-library and the Bible would be their most used book, which is probably not the case at, present. The Bible sets forth certain great principles to guide man in his relationship with his God and his fellowman. One is: "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." Another: "Let no man put a stumbling block or occasion to fall in his brother's way." The regulation of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks is contrary to these principles. Every brewery, distillery and bar engaged in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks is a stumbling block to thousands. The total prohibition of such is entirely in accord with the principles of Christianity.

If these men are so anxious to accept the teachings of the Bible on this question, why do they not accept all its teachings? The would then be co-workers with Christ in the Church of God and as he drove the money changers and drove sellers out of the temple with a whip of cords, they would drive out all that desecrates the temple of the body by a law of prohibition.

DOMINION

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—As an humble citizen and considerable taxpayer of this, my native city, I again not only warn, but implore our worthy Mayor and Aldermen to halt before the Corporate Seal is attached to any contract calling for a one span reinforced concrete bridge at Hunter street.

No necessity whatever exists for an experiment of this kind, the total or final cost of which no man can foresee.

No proper borings or test pits have been made for the abutments of this enormous span and I challenge Mr. Barber or any Engineer or Construction Company in Canada to tell—even approximately, without this most necessary precaution—to what depth they will have to go to get suitable foundations or what this work is going to cost.

These abutments will have to stand the enormous weight and pressure of probably fifty thousand tons.

Let us consider the excavation for the abutment on the west side of the river and only a few feet from the foundation of the immense main building of the Quaker Oats plant—how will this excavation be pinned to save the collapse of this building—and if it should collapse—with a sacrifice of three or four hundred lives—who pays the damage, the Contractor, the City or the Aldermen?

If Mr. Barber and the contractors are willing and able to furnish an approved bond of one hundred thousand dollars that this span will hold intact for twenty-five years, let our worthy Mayor and Aldermen fire ahead and let the contract, but under no other circumstances.

Let our worthy Mayor and Aldermen look around and be guided by experience. Take the Canadian Pacific Railway for example. This railway crosses hundreds of rivers and lakes. It was constructed by the best business ability and engineering skill on the continent. Where on this line, from coast to coast, will you find a reinforced concrete span of two hundred and thirty-five feet?

Surely the citizens of Peterborough, overburdened as they already are, and with an additional expenditure of one hundred and fifty or two hundred thousand dollars for a sewage disposal plant staring them in the face, will not approve of such a costly experiment.

While I feel sure there are few, if any, of our taxpayers who will raise the slightest objection to our worthy Mayor and Aldermen spending all the money that is required to keep our own men employed all season on necessary and legitimate public works, I am equally sure that the great bulk of our citizens are strongly opposed to the city taking chances on an experiment of this kind, the final cost of which may run into millions.

Respectfully yours,
J. W. FITZGERALD.

MADE IN CANADA

BUTTERMILK GOOD FOR BISCUITS, TOO

If buttermilk is good for hens, it is also good for humans, according to some medical authorities. (Of course, all medical authorities do not agree.)

"Drink plenty of buttermilk," frequently advises a local doctor, as his patients discover when they compare notes, then proceed to tell other people.

"I have given up tea since I had the 'influenza,'" said one of the many people who have had influenza, the other day. "They say 'flu' goes to the weak spot and always leaves some kind of trouble in its trail. Mine has been indigestion, and so the doctor told me I must give up my confirmed habit of tea drinking ,three times a day. I told him I didn't like milk and that coffee was my deadly enemy. I asked him if he thought I ought to restrict myself to drinking hot or cold water.

"Drink buttermilk," he said, "and lots of it. I started in right away and I can't begin to tell you how much better I am feeling. Buttermilk has more flavour than milk and I really like it, particularly when it is nice and fresh, as I get it every second day.

"Buttermilk is not only wholesome and easily digested by most people, but it is economical for use in cooking," observed a homemaker whose culinary skill is the wonder of her friends. "But there is one thing I have never succeeded in finding, and that is a good recipe for making buttermilk biscuits."

The writer remembered a recipe tucked away in a safe corner (one of those corners that it takes a whole lot of searching to find out), and the circumstances associated with obtaining it.

It was a blustery March afternoon that the door of an inviting looking home was opened by the mistress herself, her face flushed from close association with the kitchen range and a dash of flour on the sleeve of her blue house dress.

"I didn't think any visitors would have the courage to venture out," she said, "so, since the range was burning beautifully, I was seized with an inspiration to do some baking.

"You have arrived just at the right time. My biscuits must be about ready to take out of the oven. I will bring in some tea in a few minutes if you will excuse me. . . . It seems rather chilly in here." She hesitated a moment, then, "I wonder if you would like to come out to the kitchen? It seems the coziest place in the house to-day."

Would we?

Wraps left in the hall, the visitors were soon comfortably seated in the cheery kitchen of the cheery house, a kitchen with blue tiled paper on the walls, blue tiled linoleum on the floor and blue tiled oilcloth on an old fashioned kitchen table. There were a couple of shelves, one on a level with the window-sill, one half way up, both filled with blooming plants. There was a very modern kitchen cabinet at which the hostess had been mixing up biscuits, cakes, and other things to eat, and an old-fashioned wooden clock on a shelf nearby.

The owner of the kitchen in which the modern was so delightfully blended with the old-fashioned, opened the door of the glowing coal range, and out came a pan of delicious looking biscuits, puffy and nicely browned on top, light as the proverbial feather. These she placed for a moment on the nickel shelf part way up the pipe, while she first tested the cake to see how it was getting along, then measured the tea from an old-fashioned caddy into a squatty brown teapot. She brought forth a Benares brass tray that uncle, who had been a missionary, brought home from India, and on it she placed the Irish Belleek cups and saucers, sugar bowl and cream jug and silver spoons that had been the pride of her grandmother's heart.

As the guests sat by the blue and white tiled oilcloth covered table, drinking perfect tea from Irish Belleek china cups and eating more puffy biscuits than were good for them. Madame hostess told how she came by the buttermilk biscuit recipe which never failed.

"My grandmother used it," she said, "my mother and all my aunts. I don't believe in discarding good things, just because they are old-fashioned. That is one reason why I hang on to that old wooden clock for the kitchen and get such comfort out of this kitchen table, even if it takes up what my sister calls unnecessary room. I use a number of grandmother's recipes for sponge cake, seed cake, and things like that, but the one I use most is for buttermilk biscuits. It is a real thrift recipe, considering the price of buttermilk compared with milk. You would like to have it? Yes, I have the exact proportions. Grandmother wasn't one of the kind of people who take a handful of this and a pinch of that. I think she must have been a forerunner of the domestic science experts. Here is the recipe which she handed down to her children and her grandchildren." The guests borrowed pencils and bits of paper, and wrote it down as follows:

Four heaping cups of flour, sifted with one large teaspoon of baking powder, one small teaspoon of soda, and one teaspoonful of salt. Add half cup of shortening and mix thoroughly with two cups of buttermilk. Bake in a quick oven.

New Blood-Food Has Been Discovered That Works Wonders

SAID TO PUT NEW LIFE INTO PEOPLE THAT ARE RUN-DOWN.

For years doctors have been searching for a combination that would enable them to inject into thin blood the elements it lacked. This can now be done, and any weak-blooded person can quickly be made strong and well.

Already a small army of ailing people has proved the merit of taking after each meal with a sip of two of water, two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets. This is easily done and even one week's use of this wonderful blood-food will prove how nourishing and strengthening and flesh-building the treatment is.

Just think of it—Ferrozone uplifts the entire nervous system, removes the blood, makes it rich and red—gives the sort of aid that's needed in throwing off weakness and languor?

Tens of thousands enjoy the advantages of renewed health through Ferrozone:—if you'll only use it, you'll surely grow strong too; its beneficial action is noticed even in a week. You see it goes right to work, removes the causes of the trouble and then quickly makes a cure.

For those who sleep poorly and have nervous apprehensions, Ferrozone is a boon; it is a specialist in such cases.

Where there is paleness, poor appetite and langour, Ferrozone makes the patient feel like new in a few days.

In tiredness, nerve exhaustion, spring fever and debility, the power of Ferrozone is known from coast to coast—is universally used with grand results.

Let Ferrozone build you up, let it win you back to robust health,—it will do so quickly if you give it the chance. Sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name Ferrozone.

THE REASON.

He watched her daintily nibbling her cress sandwich.

"I know what it is!" he cried suddenly. "I know why you appeal to me more than any other girl I ever met. It's because you're the perfect combination of the spiritual and physical. Your fresh plump beauty and your bird-like appetite—"

"I never did eat much, even as a child," she murmured blissfully. "A touch of toast in the morning, a sip of soup at noon, a sprig of celery or a pinch of parsley at supper and I'm satisfied. Mother always says, 'The man that pays your board bill for life will be in luck.'"

"My ideal!" he cried.

Late that night she replied to the lavish and calculated seven hard-boiled eggs, four cold pork chops, half a pound of process cheese, three sandwiches and three pieces of pie.

"It's a Starlet attack," she thought; "but I'll land him this week, or die in the attempt!"

EXPLANATION SOUGHT.

Whitman, Mass.—I suffered from a nervous, rundown condition and loss of strength so it was hard for me to get around and do my work. GARDENING PAYS.

Gardening is one of the few sports in which you are unlikely to overdo. You will get tired and stop long before you are utterly worn out, unless you are a very unusual person. And if your back does ache and your knee joints creak like hinges on doors that need oiling, you need not be alarmed except on one point. That is that you have unused muscles so long that you need reminding of their existence. When you are thoroughly broken in you will be astounded to find that you can "stand" things you had never dreamed you could "stand."

If you begin work early in the spring the sun will get hot without you noticing much, you will get over spring fever, catch your second wind, thaw out in summer heat, and find you can bend and stoop, do actual hard physical labor and handle dirt without repugnance. You will be astonished to find your stiffened muscles, rigid long before their time, growing flexible, your joints becoming supple until you can sit cross-legged on the floor and rise with as much ease as your young daughter.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day, and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is.

MODESTY!

No place on the globe will you find as big-hearted, generous and noble people as reside in this old town. They are not much on dress parade. They do not wear silk stockings and silk hats, but they have hearts as big and warm as ever pulsated in human breasts.—Wingham Advance.

GUARDIANS OF THE TREASURY

Editor Examiner: Are the manufacturers of Peterborough holding up the public work planned for and the completion of which is urgently needed in order that this city might take the position among its neighbours in the Province which it should occupy? This query has been inspired in the writer's mind by the attitude assumed by the majority in the City Council and by what has been said in open Council and in conference by members of that majority. Organized Labor, possibly the heaviest taxpayer in the city, asks by what right does Mayor Duncan, Ald. Turner or Ald. Hamilton assume to legislate for the local factories, singling them out as objects for special paternal care? These three city fathers are mentioned because, while a regular attendant at Council meetings, the writer has not heard any other member of the majority express an opinion.

The labourers on corporation work are on strike for better working conditions. They ask 45 cents an hour and an eight-hour work day. The writer has tried to view both of these demands from all angles. Looking at the question from the city's standpoint, it has nothing to lose. The men now on strike are all town men; they spend their money at home, and the city is no poorer. The extra hour gained by the adoption of the eight-hour day would in most instances be spent in gardening and innocent and moderate recreation. And no fair-minded man will deny that the labourer is entitled to a little of the latter. There is one class who get their full share. While it has been said that "too much time for home work is not good as it induces to spending money," even if Council grants the 45 cents an hour and the eight hour day, the laborer would not find himself in such affluent circumstances as to be able to spend the extra hour in riotous living.

It looks to the average observer that the mayor and a few others of the Council are endeavouring to extend uncalled-for paternalism to the local factories. If they are real men and understand the functions of their offices in Council, they will get down to business and perform the duties devolving upon them. Leave the manufacturers alone. They can be trusted to look after their own affairs. They have done so with fairly good success during the past four or more years. It appears to be a question of setting a precedent for inside labourers to go by. The inside men are not as yet largely involved in this city, and the City Council has nothing to do with them as regards their working conditions. When their turn comes it will be time enough to consider their demands.

The universal eight-hour work day is at hand—nothing can prevent it. It will give the workers a little more time to recuperate after the daily grind, and will be another milestone in the march of progress. Those opposed to it might just as well bring their minds into a receptive mood. The man who raves against the eight-hour work day is the one who would go back to the twelve and fourteen-hour shift, these relics of slavery, if it were in his power.

Give the labourers what they ask, and there will be scant criticism. As for the injunction hawkers—if these self-appointed guardians of the public treasury would use their talents and energy in some constructive and beneficial work for Peterborough instead of indulging in tactics that tend to breed antagonism and bitterness, they would more than likely receive some thanks and appreciation for their pains.

Get on with the city work, give employment under twentieth century conditions to the idle army, and avoid a bread-line six months hence.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for valuable space, I remain,

Yours truly,
A. J. BOLWELL.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

An Incorrigible Coquette

By EDITH V. ROSS

In antebellum days there were sheetless matches when the gentlemen of the southern states in defense of their honor, the causes of which were usually published to the world. But when a woman was the subject of dispute some other cause was invented in order to keep her name out of the matter. At times when the ingenuity of the participants failed them in inventing a cause they would resort to absurd expedients.

Miss Cary Randolph many years ago was a belle in Charleston, S. C. Among her suitors were Robert Fitz-Hugh and Percy Bryce, both South Carolinians. Miss Randolph was not averse to setting her suitors against one another. It gratified her amour propre. But in this case she went too far.

One day while she was walking with Fitz-Hugh Bryce passed them. The lady smiled on him and invited him to join them. She knew that neither would relish the presence of the other, but this did not trouble her; she wished her friends to see her with one of the men who were known to be devoted to her on each side of her.

Having guarded her lovers before her friends she turned in the direction of her home and on arriving there dismissed them. Had she asked them to go in with her there might have been no unfortunate result. Had she asked one of them in it would have been tantamount to an expression of preference. This, too, would have ended the matter, for they were both gentlemen and either would have taken his dismissal as final. Leaving them to walk away together was the worst thing she could have done.

They proceeded some distance, remarking upon the weather and such other makeshift topics; then when they were about to part Fitz-Hugh said to Bryce:

"I was surprised at your intrusion."

"The lady invited me."

"That was common politeness."

"If you think yourself aggrieved you have a right to reparation."

Both men were ready to explode, but Fitz-Hugh repressed his feelings for the time and, turning on his heel, walked away. As he proceeded jealously got the better of him, and, speaking his friend Walter Raymond, he commissioned him to take a challenge to Bryce. Raymond asked the cause and when [illegible] replied that he would have nothing to do with an affair that was [illegible] in the name of a lady, whereupon Fitz-Hugh told him to make up a pretext to be given to the world as the cause of the duel. Raymond, after some thought, decided that the contemptible reason for the quarrel was to be that Bryce had called Fitz-Hugh a redhead. Fitz-Hugh's hair was auburn. This was not a reason calculated to deceive the public, but Raymond had no inventive genius, and it was the best he could do.

Miss Randolph had made choice between these two men—a very decided choice. She was ready to give herself to one of them. But she desired to prolong the pleasure of being courted by both and make herself more valuable to the man she loved by rendering her winning more difficult.

Despite the effort made to keep the coming meeting a secret from her, she got wind of it. On the morning appointed for the duel she mounted a colt and rode to the grounds, arriving there just in time to see the rivals for her hand standing facing each other with deadly intent. Her presence put a stop to the proceedings.

"I have heard," she said, "that one of you gentlemen is about to kill the other. Since I have made up my mind to accept a proposition of marriage from one of you I object to the other killing him."

The rivals glared at each other, but said nothing. The seconds, who were opposed to the meeting, saw an opportunity to step it where it was.

"Perhaps," said Bryce's second after an awkward pause, "Miss Randolph will deign to remove the cause of the quarrel."

"What is the cause?" asked the lady.

Again there was a pause, more awkward than the first, at the end of which Fitz-Hugh's second said that her principal had been insulted by being called a redhead. If Miss Randolph would decide whether Mr. Fitz-Hugh's hair was red it would end the matter.

"Mr. Fitz-Hugh's hair is a fiery red," she said, "and that has nothing to do with my preference."

Fitz-Hugh colored. "Gentlemen," he said, "I see no reason why this affair should not proceed."

"Nor I," added Bryce.

Miss Randolph made no interposition until one of the seconds had given the word "Ready" and the other stood ready to give the signal to fire by dropping a handkerchief. Then she, expecting that Miss Randolph would indicate her preference, stayed, keeping an eye upon her.

She smiled at him.

"This is absurd," he said. "Do you intend to risk losing the man you love? Decide."

"How can I," she replied, "in such a public fashion?"

"Gentlemen, shut your eyes," said the second.

Every man except the principals closed his eyes. Hearing a laugh at some distance from them, they opened them to see Miss Randolph walking away with her arm through that of Mr. Fitz-Hugh.

Probably.

At a dinner one evening a discussion arose about the peculiar customs in foreign countries. One gentleman told of the Chinese customs, which are nearly all the exact reverse of our own. "They use white for mourning, black for rejoicing and mourn at a birth while they rejoice at death," he remarked. "The needle of their compass points to the south, and they draw the saw toward them to cut. These customs may easily be accounted for, but there remains one which I cannot explain. Why do they take their soup at the end of the meal instead of at the beginning?"

Another man ventures, "To fill up the chinks, probably."—Philadelphia Ledger.

In Tight Skirts, She Found Way to "Kick" at Charge

But Judge Found Her Guilty of Disorderly Conduct—Diamond Broker Guilty of Swindling

NEW YORK.—Although Jennie Berger, of No. 63 West 110th street, offered as prima facie evidence the fact that her tight skirt precluded the possibility of her having kicked Joseph Goldmutz, jeweller, of No. 87 Nassau street, while he and his counsel, William Travers Jerome, were hurrying out of the Criminal Courts Building, Magistrate Douras, in the Tombs Court, held the woman and her sister, Minnie, in $500 bail to keep the peace.

Mr. Jerome caused the arrest of both women, who are employed in the New York Navy Yard, on a charge of disorderly conduct after he said both of them had attacked Mr. Goldmutz. He informed Magistrate Douras that he and his client had just left Judge Rosalsky's court, where Oscar Koogses, diamond broker, received a suspended sentence for swindling.

The two women were in the court at the time Kookses was arraigned and preceded Mr. Jerome and his client to the Franklin street corridor of the building. As Mr. Goldmutz turned into the corridor, Mr. Jerome explained, both woman ran at him, called him a thief and a smuggler and struck and kicked him. Mr. Goldmutz did not appear in court, and Mr. Jerome informed the Magistrate that he stayed away because he wanted "to give the women a wide berth."

Jennie Berger told the Magistrate that Mr. Goldmutz had been appointed administrator of the estate of their father, but that they had not been able to obtain an accounting. She denied that either she or her sister had kicked Mr. Goldmutz and declared that it would have been impossible because her skirt was so tight she couldn't lift her foot. She asked Magistrate Douras to make a personal inspection of her skirt to prove her assertion, and, after he had given it as his professional opinion that Miss Berger could not have kicked "very high," he found the sisters guilty of disorderly conduct.

Kookses pleaded guilty to the theft of fifty diamonds from Davidson Brothers, jewellers, of No. 15 John street. According to Edward Swann, District Attorney, Kookses is alleged to have stolen from jewellers in the city during the last five years diamonds valued at more than $100,000.

THE MAY DAY MOVING.

May 1 in New York saw not the general moving characteristic of past years. The reason was that people couldn't find a place to move to, and have either had to decide to pay more rent and do without straw hats, or else store their furniture and go into boarding houses. Furniture warehouses all over the city are packed from basement to roof and many even have waiting lists.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and [illegible] will [illegible] and keep us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material (if the item of ashes), so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who [illegible] with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

"What SHALL I Do?

"HOW shall I get past this crisis? What will come next?"

These are the questions which are to-day causing keen mental anxiety to many business men and making them old before their time.

After the four years of exceptional strain during the war many a man finds himself now burdened down as never before with problems—financial and otherwise—which are more than he can solve.

Is it any wonder that the nervous system gives out? Is it any wonder that there comes moments of discouragement and despondency?

There is nothing which breaks down nerve cells so rapidly as mental anxiety or worry if you choose to call it that.

And it is under just such circumstances that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves of very great benefit, for it supplies to the human system the very ingredients from which Nature rebuilds the wasted nerve cells and restores the mental vigor.

The headaches, the brain fag, the sleeplessness and indigestion, which are the usual accompaniments of exhausted nerves, soon disappear when the upbuilding process is established by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

For the man in the office as well as for the woman in the home Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven the best means obtainable of restoring tired, starved nerves to health and vigor.

Try it when you are tired and brain weary and feel inclined to look on the dark side of things, for these are the indications that your nervous system is in need of nutrition which it is not obtaining from the food you eat.

OBITUARY

MRS. HELEN CRAWFORD.

Perhaps no event has ever caused a feeling of more genuine regret throughout the village of Marmora than the death of Mrs. Hamilton Crawford, which occurred early Wednesday morning, after three days' illness. She was in her usual health on Saturday and in the afternoon took Nurse Lillian Brock to the latter's home near Blairton. Mrs. Crawford was returning when something went wrong with the car. She had the children with her and carried the baby a considerable distance. She then had to wait sometime while the doctor went out, and took a chill, but no serious results were anticipated. Later she became very ill and gradually grew worse until she passed away, death being due to acute Influenzal Toxaemia.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Thomas Hay and Mrs. Hay, of Peterborough, and was thirty-four years of age. She was married to A. Hamilton Crawford on May 25th, 1911, and if she had lived until Sunday would have observed the 8th anniversary of their wedding. Besides her husband she leaves two little daughters and one son, the latter being about 16 months old. She is also survived by her mother and one sister.

For a short time after their marriage they resided in Havelock, and came to Marmora in the latter part of 1912, Dr. Crawford taking over the practice of Dr. Mackenchnie. Since coming here they have been very popular with all classes.

The late Mrs. Crawford was a graduate nurse and her experience in connection with her profession was a great help to the doctor in his work. She was always ready to help any one in an emergency and her ready sympathy and help was greatly appreciated by many whom she aided.

The remains will be taken to Peterborough for interment to-morrow. The deepest sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved family.—Marmora Herald.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I understand there is a law against storekeepers leaving the gum slot machines out on the Sabbath Day. I know of one or two of these machines which are out all the year round and I think the owners should be made to take them in on Saturday nights. It is a great temptation to the little tots going to Sunday school to drop their collections in the gum box instead of taking it to Sunday school. I know for a fact this happens repeatedly every Sunday in the vicinity of All Saints' school. The children are young and don't realize what they are doing and I think the temptation should be removed. Hoping those in authority will enforce the law, I remain,

Yours truly,

A MOTHER.

The Editor of the Examiner,
Peterboro, Ont.,

My dear Sir,—Having been a resident of Peterborough County for many years and a subscriber to the Examiner for over nine years, I was induced in consequence to address you in connection with the subject of the leadership of the Liberal party of Canada. We see from time to time the names of certain individuals as likely successors to Laurier. Among the names mentioned I note the names of King, Graham, Martin, Mackenzie, Hudson, Fielding and others. At a representative gathering of business men held in this city some few days ago this matter was very thoroughly discussed and the conclusion reached that none of these gentlemen would prove sufficiently strong to command the full and complete support of all classes to assure success at the polls. A name was brought before us that met with the hearty approbation of some fifty level headed business men some of the Liberal faith others of an independent turn of mind. . . . . The name of Mr. F. F. Pardee K.C.M.P. as a man of splendid ability, sterling honesty, and a capacity for public service so necessary to a leader of men. Mr. Pardee's close and intimate as well as affectionate relations with Laurier gave him an opportunity to observe the ways and means of successful and efficient leadership such as is vouchsafed to few of our public men. His conduct during the trying years of the war has proven him to be a true patriot and a man of courage ready at all times to stand for principle no matter what the consequences might be to party or the personal loss entailed. Mr. Pardee has shown that he is disinterested as evidenced in his refusal to accept cabinet rank. His unselfish devotion to country and the interest of his fellows stamp him as a man well disposed toward true democracy, and of a spirit whose sole purpose and aim is to be at all times on the side of justice equity, and fair play. Mr. Pardee has a truly national outlook so sadly lacking in our public men today. He has a fervent zeal for the interest of of the state, and his broad and deep sympathy with the needs and ambitions of all members of our common humanity simply indicates a personality imbued with those qualitites which make for success in a leader of men. Some three years ago in conversation with Mr. George Taylor, Senator and Chief Whip of the Conservative Party, he told me that Pardee was the best whip in the annals of our Parliamentary life and a gentleman eminently equipped to fill any post in the gift of the people. This is testimony of a character, which speaks well of any man as Mr. Taylor was a master in such matters. In short Mr. Pardee is in the judgment of many the man of destiny and gives every evidence of possessing all those essentials necessary to successful and effective leadership. We are sadly in need of a leader in this matter and trust you will give us that lead at once so that we may have the subject fully and thoroughly discussed and a selection made which will ensure and make for the good of our beloved Canada.

Let us hear from you through the Examiner as we are all convinced that Mr. Pardee is the outstanding Liberal today possessing all the necessary qualifications for effective and successful leadership.

With best wishes for continued success

I remain,
A PETERBORO LIBERAL.

Peterborough, 26th May, 1919.

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—As regards the wage dispute, Council vs. Labourers, it appears to me and many others that the Council does not take into consideration the difficulties that face labourers on outside work. In the first place, many of these men have been idle for months through no fault of their own, many are now in debt for groceries and provisions, and in some cases rent is due to their landlords, who have in several cases (if not cheerfully) kindly agreed to wait, and are now trusting to the future and to the honesty of these labouring men to repay them later on.

You cannot compare men working on outside work to those working in factories, etc., at less wages, for the simple reason in normal times one is a steady job all the year round, the other, outside labour, cannot be depended upon for a full week's wages. All depends upon the weather conditions. The outside labouter has often to work in drizzling rain, if possible. A great many of them, especially during October and November, are laid up occasionally with colds, caused by weather conditions. Many days are too wet, especially on concrete work. They do not get paid for these days, neither do they expect it.

The Council cannot guarantee the weather, nor the number of wet days they will be laid off, and it will be a mighty small pay envelope to take home to a wife and family should they have a couple of rainy days, or even one day, unfit for work in any week. This happens often on outside work. Then the worst has to come. As winter approaches, outside work is knocked off. The carpenters, masons, bricklayers, farmers' sons, and hired men have already made for the factories, seeking inside work for the winter months; the outside labourers, as a rule, stick to their work up to the last. Consequently, they find themselves without work during the winter months, and have to rely on their summer wages and what they can save to pull them through the winter. Some of them may be lucky, but many are left without employment; and this coming winter, with things topsy-turvy all over the world, they should be encouraged and helped by the Council for the coming winter. Don't let us hear that old cry again, "There are a great many receiving charity in the city, but most of them, I am sorry to say, only work during the summer months." It is a disgrace to hear it.

Although it is not the fault of the outside labourer, he often has hard times. He simply cannot find work in the factories during the winter time, and his wages have been too low to save and carry him through even part of the winter months. Another thing must be taken into consideration—i.e., labouring is laborious and hard. The muscles and sinews are tired out, even, with eight hours' work, and one feels generally too tired to work longer when such takes place. I am now alluding to labourers on sewerage, bridges, or outside work, where pick and shovel and barrows are engaged. As regards labourers or workmen in factories, etc., they cannot be placed in the same category as outside labourers. Many of these are on piecework, and make an hour or two daily, which makes quite a difference in their payroll, besides having a steady job, as a rule, all the year round. Weather conditions, such as rain, makes no difference to them whatever, and they are certain of a full pay. Can an outside labourer get any extra pay? Certainly not, no matter how hard he works, but he may lose time through weather conditions and no fault of his own. Such are some of the reasons why an outside labourer should be supported by the Mayor, Council, and the ratepayers, and I trust and hope the Mayor, Ald. Turner, Ald. Hamilton, and others who may have had divergent views as regards labourers in factories and outside labourers, will agree that there is a vast difference between the two classes of labourers (inside and outside labourers), as the latter have to depend chiefly upon weather conditions as to receiving full wages. They may also have critical times before finding employment during the winter months. Trusting our city councillors will take these things into consideration at their meeting next Wednesday, and hoping they will come to an amicable agreement as regards the wages and grant these men the 45 cents an hour under the present times and conditions that they have to contend with,

—I remain, yours,

C. Duggan.

P.S.—Everybody has heard about that "certain man" who fell among thieves. He was middling lucky. The working classes are in a durned sight worse fix these days. They have fallen amongst profiteers—and should be pitied.

SEED SUPPLY HAS BEEN DISPOSED OF THIRTY-TWO MEMBERS HAVE NOT SENT IN OPTION LIST.

All of the thirty packages of government seeds have been disposed of and no further supply will be brought in.

Of this year's members there are thirty-two who have not yet sent in their option lists to indicate their selections for the spring delivery.

Confirming the truth that "delay means disappointment," it was necessary to cancel options number 1 to 11 on May 21st and future orders will be confined strictly to options 12 to 27. The time for the selection of these perennials had already been extended from May 1st and good stock could no longer be secured.

Those who wish to get options 28 or 24 should indicate the variety of seedlings they want.

This year the options are being delivered by the society and not by the contractor, and practically all have been distributed in East City and south of Charlotte street. The section north of Charlotte street will receive the options on Tuesday and Thursday evening of this week. This applies especially to the boxes of seedlings and the potted plants for bedding purposes.

An urgent and final appeal is made for all members to have their option sheets sent in at once, and for any persons wishing to become members to make application without delay so that the spring business may be closed on May 31st.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

GRAIN MARKET

Barley continues in very strong demand, but apparently very little coming out. At Winnipeg yesterday barley closed 4 1-4c. higher for May delivery and 4c. higher for July. In the local market, Ontario barley is quoted 3c. higher. Except for a 1c. advance on cash oats in the street market, these were the only price changes yesterday. The general tone of the option market was firmer, May corn closing 2c. higher, July 1 3-8c. higher, and September 7-8c. higher.

The Chicago market closed an hour earlier yesterday on account of some local parade.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday, 58 cars, with 986 cattle, 508 calves, 1,014 hogs and 67 sheep and lambs.

There was a very slow market yesterday, and though the run was light many loads of cattle were held over for to-day's market along with some still holding over from Monday's market. Prices went off about 25c. towards the close of Monday's and held about steady at that for yesterday. "Will there be a general strike?" is the question very much in the minds of the packers and wholesale butchers, and the uncertainty of the situation is probably having an effect in holding buyers back from making heavy purchases.

Calves easier.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Good market for milch cows of quality.

The hogs situation is easier, and packers yesterday were quoting $2 lower, making their bids on the basis of $19.25 fed and watered. Some sales were made at that figure, but up to noon some of the drovers were still holding on to their hogs.

Many General Strikes Threatened Throughout the Dominion

TORONTO GENERAL STRIKE CALLED OFF PENDING A CONFERENCE WITH PREMIER—HAWKER'S PLANE IS REPATRIATED—STREET CARS OPERATE IN WINNIPEG—TUESDAY EVENING BULLETIN.

Wednesday Morning Bulletin:

OTTAWA, May 28.—Premier Borden declared last night that public service must be maintained and that law and order will be upheld.

Strike Order Off in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 28.—City officials and the Strike committee, after a conference last night, and exchange of telegrams with Premier Borden as to a conference between factions to be held in Ottawa to-morrow, decided to call the strike order off until Friday morning at ten o'clock.

Hawker's Machine Found.

ST. JOHNS, May 28.—Harry Hawker's machine, with mail, was picked up in the Atlantic by the American ship "Charlottesville," and is now on its way to Falmouth, England.

Start Car Service To-day.

WINNIPEG, May 28.— The Winnipeg municipal authorities have taken hold of affairs and expect to start the street cars to-day. The general situation is unchanged.

Budget Read on Thursday.

OTTAWA, May 28.— Sir Thomas White announced in the Commons last night that the budget would be brought down on Thursday.

Tuesday Evening Bulletin:

MOOSE JAW, May 27.— Unless the Winnipeg strike is settled by Thursday night the affiliated unions in Moose Jaw, with the exception of the Typographical Union, will go on strike.

Saskatoon in Sympathy.

SASKATOON, May 27.—By a vote of five to one the Labour Unions decided to go on sympathetic strike at noon to-day. Typographical Union and civic employees will not strike.

No Change in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, May 27.—No change in the Winnipeg strike situation is visible to-day.

Near Lisbon.

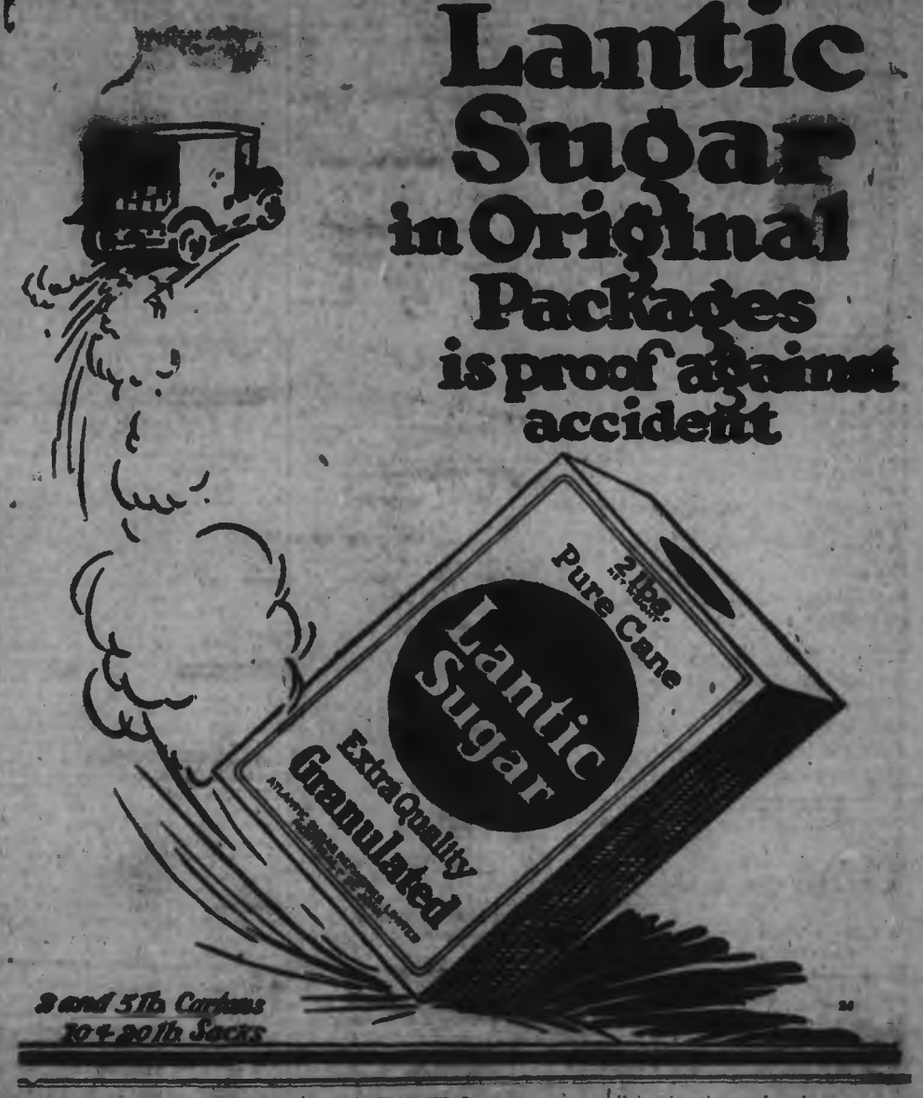
PONTA DEL GADA, May 27.—N. C. 4 passed Station Ship 12, three-fourths of the way to Lisbon at 2.00 this afternoon.

Strikes in Peru.

LIMA, Peru, May 27.—During the strikes of trades to-day the mob became violent and stoned many large business houses. The troops were called out.

NEW ICE CREAM TAX.

Soda water, ice cream, sundaes, root beer and all other soda fountain drinks are now taxed. Five and ten cent drinks or dishes require a one cent tax, while fifteen or twenty cent orders yield the Government two cents a time. Being essentially patriotic, the New York Broadway ice cream parlours have put up all their prices. Tea, coffee and cocoa have been overlooked, and have not been taxed.



Lantic Sugar in Original Packages is proof against accident

FROM BEET TO BOWL
a product of Canadian Industry

MANY women fail to specify any particular brand, when ordering Sugar. They seem to imagine that "Sugar is Sugar." In this they are mistaken. There is Sugar and Sugar. On the one hand, there is the ordinary kind—the kind some Grocers will send you if you are not careful to specify. On the other hand, there is Dominion Crystal Sugar, the Sugar that is always uniform in quality, always pure, always fine in granulation.

DOMINION CRYSTAL SUGAR

Pure, sparkling and finely granulated. A sugar that will give unfailing satisfaction in preserving, all baking, and for table use.

This is the only sugar that may be safely termed "Canadian from the ground up." We do import the finest of raw cane sugar and refine it—but our pride is in the product we make from Canadian sugar beets.

In many Canadian homes the merits of this brand were fully realized during the year of 1918, when the supplies of imported raw Cane Sugar were so depleted that, but for our product of the Sugar Beets, Canada indeed would have found a Sugar famine. Then it was that Canadian housewives learned to appreciate what a fine thing it is to have a Sugar that is "Canadian from the ground up." Then it was that they turned gratefully to Dominion Crystal Sugar—and found it to be all that we had claimed—a Sugar of exceptional quality that gives unfailing satisfaction whether used in the kitchen or on the table. The interesting story of the Sugar Beet and how we extract from it this finest and purest of Sugar, is told in our Illustrated Booklet entitled: "Sugar from Beet to Bowl." A copy of this Booklet will be mailed to you if you will send us your name and address on a post-card.

NUMBER OF LAKEFIELD SOLDIERS RETURNED HOME OVER THE HOLIDAY

SEVERAL HAVE BEEN REWARDED FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE —LAKEFIELD PERSONALS.

LAKEFIELD, May 27.—On Sunday several of the original members of the 21st Battalion returned home after an absence of more than four years. In November, 1914, ten young men left Lakefield to enlist at Kingston in the 21st Battalion, and fortunately all have been spared to return home safely. Two of them won the Military Medal for distinguished service, viz., Joe R. Hill and Charles R. Armstrong. All of them were in heavy engagements, but by great good luck came through. The names of these men are: Fred S. Hall, Joe R. Hill, Norman Hurl, Fred S. Baisdon, Harry Penberthy, J. Roy Robinson, Charles R. Armstrong, Dudley C. Chads, Reg. Murduff, and Wilbert Webster.

Over Three Years.

Pte. D. C. Chads, of the 21st Battalion, returned on Sunday. He was with the C.A.M.C., and served in France for more than three years before the armistice was signed.

Pte. T. R. Isbister returned on Sunday after an absence of a year. He served in France several months with the 21st Battalion.

Sig. Wheeler, M.M., of the 20th Battalion, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Blewett.

Won Medal.

On Sunday Sergt. Sherman Hill, M.M., returned to the village. He came over on the Caronia with his battalion, the 21st. Sergt. Hill enlisted in C Company, 93rd Battalion, and went overseas three years ago. He won the Military Medal for conspicuous gallantry in action. His brother, Joe Hill, also won the Military Medal.

Scout W. L. Webster, of the original 21st Battalion, returned on Sunday. He was for many months a sniper, and accounted for a large number of Germans. His brother, Arthur, is with the Siberian Force.

Wounded in the Neck.

Sig. Harry W. Blewett returned on Monday to the village. He enlisted in 1915 with the 93rd Battalion and joined the Signal Corps. He was transferred to the 20th Battalion, and served more than two years in France. He was wounded in the neck last August during the great offensive. For conspicuous bravery in keeping up the line of communication during a heavy engagement, he was awarded the Military Medal in the autumn of 1917.

Roll of Honour.

The Methodist Church propose to erect a permanent and suitable Roll of Honour in their church in the very near future, and are arranging for the same. The Methodist Church has a long Roll of Honour, and one of which they may be justly proud.

Personals.

Mr. Thomas Harris was in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson were visitors to Peterborough on Saturday.

Miss Drain spent the holiday in Peterborough.

Miss Gertrude Dunford was in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. S. Henderson and Mr. Jack Henderson, of Toronto, passed through Lakefield en route to Stoney Lake.

Hon. J. H. Walters, Governor of British Honduras, is the guest of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie at "The Grove." Mr. Walters has a son at "The Grove."

Mr. A. G. Fawcett, of Guelph, is a holiday visitor to the village.

Mr. James Graham, of Peterborough, was in the village on Saturday.

Mr. Jack Mahood, of Galt, spent the week-end with his parents.

Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, of Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. John Birnie, of Peterborough, went up on Saturday to their cottage at Stoney Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fitzgerald are spending the holiday at their cottage at Sandy Point.

Mrs. George Johnson, of Peterborough, is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, of Toronto, are at their cottage near Sandy Point for the week-end.

Capt. P. J. Young, of Young's Point, was in the village on Saturday.

Mr. D. G. Carlisle, of Peterborough, spent the holiday at Stoney Lake.

Miss Thirza Allan, of South Smith, is the guest of Miss Vera Fairbairn.

Mr. John O'Connell, of Peterborough, is spending the week-end with his mother in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rathbone, of Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sherin on Friday. They will spend the week-end at their cottage near Mount Julian.

ORIENT BUYS CIGARETTES

Heavy Increase in Exports to India and China

The Oriental demand for American made cigarettes is increasing, according to export figures prepared by the National City Bank, which show that the actual number exported from the country in the fiscal year which ends with next month will be in excess of 8,000,000,000, as compared with 2,000,000,000 in 1915. The value has increased from $3,000,000 to $16,000,000 in round figures.

According to the bank the heaviest increase in the demand has been in China, the Straits Settlements, and India. China alone will import 7,000,000,000 cigarettes from America in the fiscal year which ends with June, 1919, as compared with less than 725,000,000 in 1915.

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Corrected by "Fruit-a-tives"

St. Martin's, N.B.

"For two years, I suffered tortures from Severe Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth.

I tried doctors, but they did not help me. But as soon as I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I began to improve and this medicine, made of fruit juices, relieved me when everything else failed."

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

She had had plenty of time between the crime and her arrest to pass the pistol to one of her friends, or even to slip out at night and drop it in the marsh.

As to the shot that had missed Balfame and entered the tree: it was either by one of those coincidences more frequent in fact than in fiction that another enemy of Balfame's had been lurking in the grove, intent upon murder; or the bullet hole was older than they had inferred. The idea of a lover they scoffed at openly. And it was one of the established facts, as they reminded their sisters of the press, that the worst women in history had looked like angels, statues or babies; they had also possessed sex magnetism, and this the handsome defendant wholly lacked.

The theory of the women reporters was far simpler. She hadn't done it and that was the end of it.

The judge, a tall imposing man with inherited features and accumulated flesh, very stately and remote in his flowing silk gown, looked unspeakably bored for three days, but was visibly hopeful as he swept up to his seat on the rostrum on Thursday morning. As the justice for Brabant, Mr. Bascom, had not been on speaking terms with the deceased, and as his wife was one of the defendant's closest friends, an eminent Supreme Court justice from one of the large neighbouring cities had been assigned to the case.

The reporters of the evening newspapers were packed closely about a long table parallel with the one just below the jury-box, and behind were four or five smaller tables dedicated to the morning stars. A large number of favoured spectators had found seats within the railings, but a passage was kept open for the boys who came up at regular intervals to get copy from the "evening table" for the telegraph operator below stairs.

Broderick's seat beneath the rostrum commanded both the witness box and Mrs. Balfame. He had used his influence to have Alys Crumley assigned to the position of artist for the Woman's Page of the News, and she and Sarah Austin shared a chair.

The trial began. Dr. Liequer established the fact of the death, described the course of the bullet, demonstrating that it had been fired by some one concealed in the grove. A surveyor followed and exhibited to the jury a map of the house and grounds. Three of the younger members of the Country Club, Mr. John Bradshaw Battle, cashier of the Elsinore Bank; Mr. Lemuel Cummack, son of Elsinore's esteemed citizen, Mr. Sam Cummack; and Mr. Leonard Corfine, a commuter, had been subpœnaed after a matching of wits. Overawed by the solemnity of the oath, they gave a circumstantial account of the quartet which had preceded the murder but a few hours—all, in spite of constant interruptions from the defendant's counsel, conveying the impression, however unwillingly, that Mrs. Balfame had been livid with wrath and the man who had been her husband insufferable. It was a master-stroke of the district attorney to open his case with the damaging testimony of two members of the loyal Elsinore families. As for Mr. Corfine, although born and brought up without the pale, he had been graciously received upon electing to build his nest in Elsinore and his young wife was one of Mrs. Balfame's meekest admirers.

Mr. Broderick muttered, "H'm! H'm!" and Mr. Bruce squirmed round from the "evening table" and jerked his eyebrows at his senior. "Bad! Bad!" muttered Mr. Broderick's other neighbour. "But watch her nerve. Can you beat it?' She hasn't batted an eyelash."

Two former servants that had preceded Frieda in the Balfame menage, testified that the household consisted of three people only, the master and mistress and the cook in help. A gardener came three times a week in the morning. No, none of the old spare rooms was now furnished, and the Balfames never had had visitors overnight.

The prosecution rested, and Mr. Rush approached the bar according to usage and asked that the case be dismissed. The judge ruled that it should proceed, and immediately after the noon recess the first witness for the defence was called. This was Mr. Cummack, and he testified vigorously to the harmonious relations of the deceased and his amiable wife; that Mrs. Balfame—who was always pale—had treated the episode out at the Club in the casual manner observed by all seasoned and intelligent wives, the conversation over the telephone in his house proving that the domestic heavens were without stain of storm clouds; and that the deceased had departed for his home quite happy and singing at the top of his lungs. He had often remarked jocularly (his was a cheery and jocular temperament) that he expected to die with his boots on, especially since he had taken to bawling Tipperary in the face of American Germany.

It is not to be imagined that Mr. Cummack was able to deliver himself of this valuable testimony without frequent and indignant interruptions from the district attorney, whose "irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial" rang through the courtroom like the chorus of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Mr. Gore, a wasp of a man with snapping black eyes and a rasping voice emitted through his higher nasal passages, succeeded in having much of this testimony stricken out, but not before the wily Mr Rush, who stood on tiptoe, as alert and nervous as a race horse at the grandstand, had by his adroit swift questions fairly flung it into the jury box. It was of the utmost importance with an obstinate provincial jury to establish at once a favourable general impression of the prisoner.

When, in the theatre, a trial scene is depicted, it is necessary to interpose dramatic episodes, but no one misses these adventitious incidents in a real trial for murder, so dramatic is the bare fact that a human being is battling for his life. When the prisoner at the bar is a woman reasonably young and good looking, the interest is so intense and complete that the sudden intrusion of one of the incidents which have become the staples of the theatre, such as the real culprit rushing into the courtroom and confessing himself, a suicide in the witness box, or dramatic conduct on the part of the defendant, would be resented by the spectators, as an anti-climax. Real drama is too logical and grimly progressive to tolerate the extrinsic.

The three other men who had been at Mr. Cummack's house that night were called, and corroborated his story. They all wore an expression of gentle amusement as if the bare idea of the stately and elegant Mrs. Balfame descending to play even a passive role in a domestic row was as unthinkable as that any woman could find aught in David Balfame to rouse her to ire.

"By Jove!" whispered Mr. Broderick to Mr. Wagstaff of the Morning Flag, "just figure to yourself what the line would be if she had been caught red-handed and was putting up a defence of temporary insanity caused by the well-known proclivities of that beast. A good subject for a cartoon would be Dave Balfame in heaven with a tin halo on, whitewashing Mrs. B., weeds and all. The human mind is nothing but a sewer."

The afternoon session was also enlivened by the testimony of several of the ladies who had been members of the bridge party on the day of Mr. Balfame's unseemly conduct at the Club. They testified that although Mrs. Balfame naturally dissolved upon her return to the card-room, there had been nothing whatever in her demeanour to suggest seething passion. Mrs. Battle, who was an imposing figure in the witness chair, her greater bulk being above the waist, tossed her head and asseverated with refined emphasis that Mrs. Balfame was one of those rare and exquisite beings that are temperamentally incapable of passion of any sort. Her immediate return to her home was prompted more by delicacy than even by pain. Miss Crumley's pencil faltered as she listened. She could not give a jeering public even a faithful outline of a woman as devoted to the sacred cause of friendship and Elsinore as Mrs. Battle.

The testimony of none of these ladies was more emphatic than that of Mrs. Bascom, wife of the supplanted justice, and she added unexpectedly that she had been so upset herself that she too had left the clubhouse immediately, and, her swift car passing Dr. Anna Steuer's little runabout, she had seen Mrs. Balfame chatting pleasantly and without a trace of recent emotion.

BOMBARDED MEN WITH BEER MUGS

THE DOCTOR'S ROOM WAS FULL IN TEN MINUTES—STORY OF RIOT.

The following letter was received by Mrs. George A. Wood, South Monaghan, Ont., from her son, Pte. Fred Wood:

Seaford, May 4th.

Dear Mother: Just a line to say I am still alive after the big riot. I suppose that you will have read about it in the papers. I wrote and told you yesterday about expecting some trouble.

It all started over the M. P. arresting a negro who belonged to the 18th Reserve, so they formed up a mob last night about 8 o'clock, came up to the 18th Reserve, and made them let the negro out. Somewhere about two thousand men went to the 1st Reserve, smashed into the canteens, dry and wet ones, and what they did not take, they destroyed. They met an ambulance driver, halted him and wouldn't let him go. He started full speed, ran over three, killed one and badly wounded two more. From there they went to the machine guns, smashed everything in the machine guns. The mob was getting larger all the time. The most of them were drunk.

The 6th Reserve knew that we would be the next, so we all had to turn out with rifles and fixed bayonets. They put us all in a single rank along the front of a hill guarding all the canteens, sergeants and officers' mess rooms.

They came up within 25 yards of us yelling and every man had either stones or beer mugs. They were bound to go through and we were determined to stop them. They were knocking out our fellows by the dozen with stones. Three fellows in our hut were knocked stiff.

That K. L. Martin, who got his photo taken with me, got a cut four inches long on the top of his head. The doctor's room was full in ten minutes.

At the same time we were arresting everyone we could catch.

I was in the bunch then to go and guard the Quartermaster's stores. Just as we got there they broke in, smashed out every window; those who slept there were kicked outside.

I don't know who they blame most for it. I think the machine gunners, and the engineers get the blame. I just came off guard a few minutes ago. A draft left out of here this morning for Canada. Will write again. Fred.

Attacks Wife in Court, Is Beaten Into Insensibility

James Fleming Interrupts Her Testimony Against Him After She Was Twice Shot.

NEW YORK—An unusual demonstration of brutality was seen in the West Side Court here when James Fleming, a powerfully built laborer seized his wife by the throat to stop her testimony against him, and was beaten into unconsciousness before his effort to strangle her could be halted. She had gone to court in an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital, where she has been under treatment for two weeks after having been shot twice in the mouth by her husband.

Fleming stood near the witness chair sullenly during his wife's recital of his conduct toward her. He was held by Detective Sergeants James Fitzpatrick and Thomas Donahue, and, owing to the fact that he had fought at the time of his arrest, both kept a hold of his arms. Suddenly he lifted both of them from the floor and, as they fell, he seized his wife by the throat and threw her to the floor, shrieking that he would kill her right then.

The woman became unconscious, and subsequently knew nothing of the struggle which resulted in her husband suffering a severe scalp wound. He was held by Magistrate Groehl in $20,000 bail on the felonious assault charge.

Upon being taken to Bellevue on April 19 last Mrs. Fleming refused to tell the circumstances in which she had suffered her wounds. Her husband was arrested on April 26, accused of being implicated in a safe robbery, and at that time detectives learned of his wife's injuries. He was held in $10,000 bail in connection with the robbery and arraigned on the assault charge.

Magistrate Groehl declared he regretted his inability to send the prisoner [illegible] "unless"

COURT SAVES MARY PICKFORD ONLY $108,000

Appellate Division Holds She Need Not Pay Mrs. Wilkining for Making Her Famous

By a decision of the Appellate Division Miss Mary Pickford was relieved of the necessity of parting with $108,000, which the Supreme Court decreed was due Mrs. Cora C. Wilkening for helping the actress achieve fame and a bountiful salary.

Mrs. Wilkening, who is a literary and booking agent, brought an action against the motion picture actress in the Supreme Court for ten per cent. on a contract which brought Miss Pickford $1,080,000 for two years' work before the camera. Testimony at the trial revealed that Miss Pickford received $4,000 a week before making the acquaintance of Mrs. Wilkennig.

The actress was advised that by writing her biography she could obtain more advantageous contracts. Soon after her salary was boosted an incredible sum, and the jury decided Mrs. Wilkening was instrumental in gaining the increase.

Justice Merrell wrote the Appellate Division opinion and said it taxed one's credulity to believe Miss Pickford had entered into a verbal contract with a stranger, inexperienced in the particular role she assumed, whereby one-tenth of the emolument was to be paid in helping Mary "find her real value."

At the trial, Justice Merrell said, Mary showed herself a business woman of no mean ability, while her mother displayed sound business judgment and experience. Miss Pickford, said the jurist, received large financial returns for magazine and newspaper articles, the use of her name in advertisements of toilet preparations and cosmetics, and in other ways showed a marked degree of thrift and ability to accumulate money.

SLAMMED DOOR AND BROKE THE SIGN

The Tweed office of the Bell Telephone Company added another sign to Tweed's "great white way." But the electricity had only been turned on for one night and our citizens were expressing themselves on what a nice little sign it was, when the next morning it was broken. The cause of the trouble seems to be that a young fellow went in to call up his girl in Madoc to ask her if he could come over on Sunday, and she said "No!" He was so disappointed that on going out he slammed the door and that was the end of Mr. Sign.—Tweed News.

FARM SITUATION SERIOUS

Suggestions Made by Dr. Zavitz of Guelph College

GUELPH, May 20.—The rains of the past week have prevented farm seeding to such an extent that the farmers are at a loss to know just what to do. Dr. Zavitz, Professor of Field Husbandry at the O.A.C., when seen regarding the situation was not at all optimistic. "I would say that the situation is decidedly serious. Seeding is very late, except in the earliest districts of the Province, and only judicious adjustments and substitution of crops will save the situation for many farmers throughout the Province this year," said Professor Zavitz.

"Spring wheat must be sown early, and any man putting it in now is taking great chances that are not justified, because there are other crops which can be substituted and will give a good return.

"Where a farmer has not sown his spring wheat and has his land prepared, I would recommend sowing oats, peas, or buckwheat, which will come along nicely now."

When the room is rather dark, curtain the windows with golden yellow Chinese silk.

UNIFORMS OF DIFFEREND ARMIES

Until the great war broke out Frande had never adopted any official field uniform for its army as a whole. Troops on duty in Africa had been supplied with khaki, while several experimental uniforms had been tried in sections of the home army. When the war broke out in 1914 the troops went into service in their historic red and blue. The impracticability of this uniform was soon discovered, and a coloured cloth of light grayish blue was adopted. This was said to blend better with the surroundings in the field in Northern France than the khaki worn by the British.

The British army was first entirely equipped with a field service uniform in the South African War of 1899-1902. The colour adopted was the same as the khaki-coloured uniforms which had been used in India and the same uniform is still used. Though varying in colour and details this type of uniform has been practically copied by all nations.

The uniforms of the Italians have been rather French in character, particularly since the Napoleonic conquest of Italy, but of an endless variety of colours. Previous to the unity of the country in 1861 each separate kingdom and state maintained and dressed its army as it saw fit. It was not until 1870 that the entire Italian army came under one dress regulation. These regulations were changed in 1890, at which time the present uniform was adopted. The field uniform is brownish gray in colour.

In Germany experiments with a field service uniform were begun immediately after Britain's war with the Boers, but it was not until 1908 that a definite uniform was decided upon. The army since that time has been equipped with field uniforms of brownish gray. Military critics of the war of the nations agreed that it was the most practical of the uniforms now in the field as far as adaptability for concealment is concerned, though the tight-fitting tunics and heavy helmets are unsuited for modern warfare.

NORTH MONAGHAN COURT OF REVISION HELD A MEETING

A NUMBER OF CHANGES WERE MADE IN THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

The North Monaghan Council met as a Court of Revision at the town hall, North Monaghan, on Monday, May 26. Mr. J. H. Bell was elected chairman. Lewis Whitfield's appeal was the first heard. A motion was passed lowering the assessment on Lewis Whitfield's property being the northern portion of lot 9, concession 10, $100. Mr. P. Adamson appealed stating that he had disposed of his dog and asked to be relieved from paying this year's dog tax. Granted.

The assessor was authorized to change certain named persons from public school supporters to separate school supporters. Mr. J. T. O'Connell was present and asked the Court of Revision to lower his assessment on 62 lots owned by him on plan 45. The assessment on his property is $31,000. There was some discussion, and a motion was made to lower the assessment $600. An amendment made by Mr. John McIntosh provided for a reduction of $700. The amendment finally carried.

Was Confirmed

The assessment roll as finally revised, was accepted and confirmed. The Council then proceeded with regular business.

The bill for freight on the road grader of $2.15 was ordered to be paid.

By-Law No. 766 was read, establishing a dump ground in North Monaghan on the farm of Mr. Archie Patterson. By-Law No. 767 was passed, appointing road commissioners for 1919, also setting a scale of wages for men and teams. Richard Revington was appointed road commissioner for road division No. 6. The following is the scale of wages:

Teams drawing 1¼ yards of gravel $5.75 a day.

Teams drawing 1 yard of gravel—$5.00 a day.

Road Commissioners' Salaries—$3.50 a day each.

Men—$3.00 a day each.

Mr. Foster Moncrief was appointed custodian of the stone crusher and also the road grader. The balance due on his salary, Mr. James C. Morrow as sanitary inspector, for $10, was ordered to be paid.

The meeting adjourned until Saturday, June 14, at 1 p.m. (Standard Time).

BREAK COMBINES, SAYS SKELTON

ARGUMENT OF J. M. SKELTON BEFORE CENTRAL RATEPEYERS' ASSOCIATION.

"Break the combines which have overreached themselves in price-setting, and you have solved the housing problem," stated J. M. Skelton at the Central Ratepayers' Council meeting held in Toronto recently. The speaker continued that the city of Toronto would have a surplus of houses inside of a year if the combines were broken. He also declared that vacant property was from 25 to 75 per cent. cheaper now than before the war, and that building was restricted only by the advanced prices for material.

George Shield was elected President of the Council for the next term. L. W. Mullen was elected First Vice-President; William Farquhar, Second Vice-President; Mrs. Jessie MacIver, Third Vice-President; Ald. Honeyford, re-elected Secretary; Ernest Cook was returned as Treasurer, and S. Thompson elected Recording Secretary. Messrs. J. M. Skelton and Ald. Blackburn, Past Presidents, were elected Honorary Presidents.

Ward Eight Ratepayers' Association made application for affiliation with the central organization, and was accepted.

HADN'T SEEN WELL DAY FOR 20 YEARS

TAYLOR SAYS HIS WIFE IS IN BETTER HEALTH THAN HE EVER SAW HER—PRAISES TANLAC.

"My wife has been a great sufferer from a disordered stomach ever since I first knew her but she is in better health now than I have ever seen her and the reason is she is now taking Tanlac," is what Richard A. Taylor said to the Tanlac representative the other day. Mr. Taylor lives at 3 Oak Street Place, Toronto, and is employed at the Consumers' Gas Plant.

"She always had a poor appetite and I don't believe I have ever seen her enjoy a good hearty meal like other people. What little she did eat seemed to sour on her stomach, and the gas formed from her undigested food would bloat her up till she felt perfectly miserable, and after meals she would often complain of a heavy feeling in her chest. Her food did not seem to do her a bit of good, for she fell off in weight, and I don't believe that she had a real well day till recently in twenty years. Her nerves were shattered. She said she felt tired and worn out all the time, and she had so little strength and energy that her housework almost broke her down.

"I believe that she has taken about every medicine there is on the market trying to get well, but nothing did her a bit of good until she got hold of Tanlac, and that is the only medicine that she ever found that helped her any. One of her friends who had taken it, told her about it so I got her a bottle. She has taken only four bottles so far and she is now feeling and looking so much better that her friends are congratulating her on her improvement. That stomach trouble has almost entirely left her and she is feeling stronger than ever. Why, she can do all her housework now without getting all tired out like she did before, and it sure is a pleasure to see how she enjoys her meals like she does. Really, I was so taken with the way she began to pick up after starting on Tanlac that I tried the medicine myself, and it sure did me a world of good, too."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle & Son.

RUMANIAN FUNDS ARE STOLEN

Mystery in Disappearance of Huge Sum in Rumanian Money from Spandau.

BERLIN. — It has become known that nearly a couple of months ago during the disturbed days of early March, Spartacides were successful in carrying out a robbery of almost unparalleled dimensions. It is estimated that by their daring coup the robbers obtained notes having a total value of 20,000,000 marks. It is not yet known, however, how they actually carried out their plan.

When Germany evacuated Rumania the German Economic Commission in that country brought to Germany the sum of 30,000,000 lei in notes. Half of those notes were pre-war Rumania lei notes, while the other half consisted of lei notes issued by the German government during the occupation of Rumania. The latter have of course no value now but the former have an exchange rate of 100 lei for 125 or 130 marks.

When this large amount of money arrived in Berlin it naturally gave the government officials a good deal of anxiety. For some reason or other it was not consigned to any bank nor hidden in any government office, but taken to the Berlin suburb of Spandau and there the cases containing the notes were put in a building called Julus Turt. One day it was found that they had gone, and every effort to discover how and by whom the coup was carried out has completely failed.

It has been established that those notes have not been exchanged in Germany, but beyond that more than six weeks of investigation has left this gigantic robbery still a complete mystery.

BEAUTIFUL HOME OF COMMODORE BOURNE

Alexandria Bay.—The summer home of the late Commodore Frederick G. Bourne, who died in New York in March of this year, is one of the most beautiful places in the Thousand Island region.

Commodore Bourne came to the Thousand Islands 14 years ago and purchased Dark Island from the Harrison estate. The Harrisons, former residents of Ogdensburg, were living in Virginia at the time. Commodore Bourne paid $7,000 for the property, and its present valuation is estimated at a half million.

In about 1904 Commodore Bourne gave Joseph B. Reid, a local contractor, a contract to build a summer home on Dark Island. Mr. Reid has been working there a greater part of the time since, with a large force of men, and several thousand dollars' worth of work remained to be done the coming summer.

With the exception of Boldt's castle on Hart Island, the Bourne home was the largest summer place on the St. Lawrence river and was most [illegible]. The interior of the home was unknown to the public, but it is known that the main hall is 40x40 feet in size, with stone ceiling and pillars.

The house was built of stone some what after the fashion of a French chateau. It sets up a bluff overlooking the river. It is three storeys high with towers and battlements and below is a large stone boathouse with several stalls. An elaborate stone stairway leads from the boat houses to the castle proper.

When Commodore Bourne first started this summer home it was to have been a surprise to his family, as they only knew of his building a hunting lodge. Through a correspondent the secret came out and the family finally came into possession of the real facts of his ideas.

In addition to Dark Island, Commodore Bourne also owned Corn Island, located a short distance from Dark Island, where he expended several thousand dollars in improvements during the past few years. He owned an interest in Ice Island, which is used for hunting, and last summer he sold Chimney Island to William Gilbert, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. Gilbert plans to restore the chimney which has fallen in ruins.

Commodre Bourne was a member of the Thousand Island Yacht Club the Thousand Island Country Club, the Chippewa Bay Yacht Club and the New York Yacht Club. He was the owner of the following steamboats: Artemis, Colonia, Delaware and Seat. He owned the launches Music and Sparks, the sail yachts Getry, Meriam and Reverie, besides about ten motor boats, including many speed craft.

Mrs. Bourne died about four years ago.

All of the stone used in the construction of the castle and boat houses had to be brought by boat a considerable distance from the quarries, thus increasing the expense of construction.

Dark Island is located in the town of Hammond, St. Lawrence county, and the property, which besides the castle, docks and boat houses, includes about 2 acre of ground, is assessed at $55,000, a mere fraction of its actual value, it is said.

Arthur Balfour's Charm And Powerful Intellect Defined by an American

WRITING in The Dial, Norman Hapgood strongly recommends "The Mind of Arthur James Balfour." It is, he says, "a challenge to consider Mr. Balfour apart from his political record; as a thinker, a spirit, a personality." And Mr. Hapgood goes on to say:

"He is a fascinating creature, of a fascinating entourage, but his individual importance for history lies in his policy of force and the British style of reform in Ireland—in those long years when he led either the Government or the Opposition—and in his success as a diplomat in the greatest of wars. As his uncle believed in him, he was put in Parliament at twenty-six; five years later he made himself famous by applying to Ireland coercion plus sensible concrete proposals as seen by a mind bred across the Channel; and at forty-four he was Prime Minister. Nobody claims for him a constructive legislative record—in his three most conspicuous subjects, Ireland, education and tariff, he solved nothing—but the House of Commons, which knows so much about Britain's progress, through many years loved and followed him. Britain always has her men of action — her Rhodes, Gladstone, Chamberlain; she has a quiet and prevailing instinct for getting things done; but her governing class also love a measured manner and calm indifference to political prizes. Sir Edward Grey's known preference for fishing over public life, the Duke of Devonshire's devotion to country occupations, Lord Salisbury's indifference, fitted the taste of an assembly of gentlemen long accustomed to rule. Mr. Balfour's manner, his love of philosophy, his rapier-like debating, his personal charm and his courage reached the House of Commons, as they will reach some who merely read his written words. A Briton will pass final judgment on some one by saying he is the sort of man with whom one would like, to go tiger hunting.

"This firmness is not to be explained. Even tragedy is compassionable. A perfect type of the British aristocrat has a kind of unobtrusive preference for the agreeable. 'I personally like the spring day,' Mr. Balfour says, in responding to a toast to literature, 'and bright sun and the birds singing, and if there be a shower or a storm, it should be merely a passing episode in the landscape, to be followed immediately by a return of brilliant sunshine.' It is not the Lear or Oedipus type. I know not how true it is, but there used to be a statement current about the time Mr. Balfour was coming into prominence, that the most quoted book in the House of Commons was 'Alice in Wonderland,' and surely there is no book that appeals more unquestionably to a high and rather late culture. The fact that the House of Commons liked it so much is not unrelated to their love of Mr. Balfour, to whom human reasoning appears much as a grotesque.

"This type of mind has made him more formidable in destructive criticism than in positive propaganda or enactment, and it is fit that his most notable piece of writing should be entitled 'A Defence of Philosophic Doubt.' It is an entirely successful defence of philosophic doubt. The misty notions of evidence harbored by the unskilled have small chance against the writer; and his favorite target is the cruder skepticism.

"In insisting on Mr. Balfour's essential Toryism we must emphasize also the superiority of his individual intelligence. Why did he cease to be the leader of his party? Why were the letters B.M.G.—'Balfour Must Go'—posted over London? Who succeeded him? He lost his leadership, in the fight of a decade ago, over the House of Lords because he was not sufficiently rigid and narrow-minded to meet the spirit of the unbending Tories. It was the Bitter-Enders, in the House of Lords contest, who threw Mr. Balfour out. Since those days the leader of the Unionists has been an unconscious and sometimes amusing man, with no troublesome individuality, and frequently Mr. Andrew Bonar Law disturbed his talk, before the world was dark again, to the satisfaction of those immediately concerned. Mr. Balfour's reputation seemed to have entered on the decline until in the war he emerged as the man most fitted in foreign diplomacy, not for imagination, for concealing or manufacturing future, but for that, negotiating ability, tortoise shrewdness and judgment."

Bismarck and Russian.

Although Bismarck spoke Russian with the decision to intimate snatches of lightning utterance to the Russian envoys sitted in that language.

"My predecessor," he once remarked, "wrote to all the diplomatists in German, and they replied each in his own language—Russians, Spanish, Swedish and what not. I decided that all communications received in languages other than German, French, English and Italian should be left unreplied."

Hadenberg, the Russian ambassador in Berlin, wrote one account after several always in Russian. No matter was returned, and at last he came to ask the reason for my silence. 'There is a great pile of documents in Russian downstairs,' I told him. 'Yours are probably among them.'

"We have no one who understands Russian, and I have given instructions for all documents written in a language we do not understand to be put away in the archives.' It was then arranged that Hadenberg should write to us in French."—New York Sun.

England's Most Famous Bell.

In 1858 the world famous bell "Big Ben," which peals out the hours in the tower of the Westminster Houses of parliament in London, was cursed out of the mold. "Big Ben" was named after Sir Benjamin Hall, commissioner of works, who was a man of enormous stature. The great sounding instrument was formally christened "St. Stephen," but from the first it was popularly called "Big Ben." The bell was designed by E. B. Denison, who later became Lord Grimthorpe. The first attempt to mold the bell was a failure, and it was broken up, and the same material, twenty-two parts copper and seven tin, was used in the second casting at Whitechapel. "Big Ben" weighs thirteen and a half tons, is nineteen feet and six inches in diameter and seven feet and ten inches in height. The clapper weighs 680 pounds. "Big Ben" cracked shortly after he was hung in place, but his tones, previously somewhat mournful and dirgelike, were improved by the accident.

Polish Versus English.

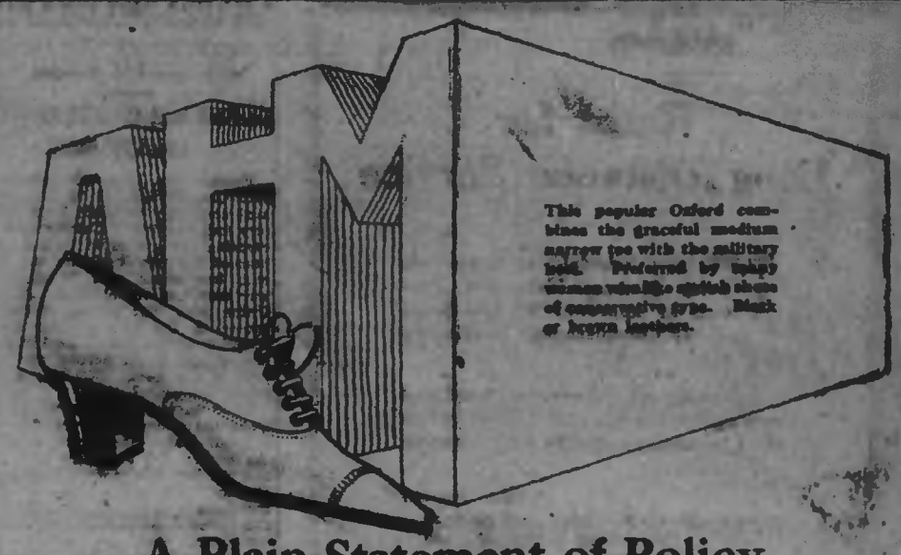
We have our difficulties in the pronunciation of Polish names, and I was foolishly chaffing a Polish friend as to the tongue twister Przasnysz. The Pole laughed, said the word with an easy swing and taught me in a minute how to pronounce it. And he taught me something else—the difficulty of the tongues of England. Words of English sin beat the Polish in the consonantal strangulation of vowels and consonants, and my Polish friend after we had sat and spat and gurgled and gurred the easy words of his speech pulled out a newspaper and pointed. "The relative strengths"— He would like to know how to pronounce that word of eight consonants and one vowel. And I should like to hear that word to beat the friendliest foreigner on our shores.—London Chronicle.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WALK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her to Health.

Perth Amboy, N.J. — "For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time, had dizzy spells, and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and tried it. Now I am better, feel stronger, have no pains, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me I look well, too, and I tell them to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — that is what makes me feel well and look well. I recommended it to my sister and she is using it now. You can use this letter if you wish, for it is certainly a good remedy for a woman's ills." — Mrs. Minerva Swanson Wilson, 324 Penn St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.



This popular Oxford combines the graceful medium narrow toe with the military heel. Preferred by many women who like stylish shoes of conservative type. Black or brown leathers.

A Plain Statement of Policy

YOU have seen A.H.M. advertising before. You will see it again. We shall continue our efforts to make it a fit representative of the character of this house, and of the product which we sell.

At the opening of each new season, we will make a plain statement of the conditions which govern the market for shoes, and will endeavour to give you clear and impartial advice as to how you may obtain the best possible value. We will seldom ask you to buy A. H. M. Shoes, being content to leave that to your own good judgment.

In a word, we shall continue in our advertisements, and in such printed matter as we issue, to tell the Canadian public how they may obtain shoes of good quality at fair prices. For the success of this company depends, in the long run, upon that very thing.

Our booklet "How to buy Shoes" will be sent with our compliments to any address in Canada. Please mail requests to our head office at Montreal.

What the Letter Meant.

"We arrived here safe after a long and troublesome journey. The ordered goods have arrived in excellent condition. The messenger has brought us snow and salt in good order. The storm came one day later. I am sorry that the thunder burst up, and the lightning we had to patch up also the ocean and others I wish you to send us early as possible, and do not forget to send us new clouds and a new sun. But the most important thing we want is a bay, as ours has been burned. Then we want a few yards of forest. Well then all up and send immediately."

This letter was not written by a practical joker, but by the manager of a traveling theatrical company which had lost many of its members.

The Useful Penny.

Introduction of the penny transfer in the operation of the Indianapolis street car system, which caused the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company to supply itself with 5,000 pennies the first day, brought to the mind of J. J. Mahoney, superintendent, a story of the eighties when Tom Johnson, afterward mayor of Cleveland, was treasurer, and a supply of pennies in the hands of the company helped to stop a run on a bank. Mr. Mahoney has been connected with the Indianapolis street car system for a long, long time.

In those days passengers dropped a nickel fare in a box and sometimes they put in five pennies. The company was usually overstocked with pennies, and had to send them to the United States mint to get rid of them. The pennies were put in bags. It happened that the company had a lot of bags full of pennies when it run short on a bank. There was a great throng of people at the bank demanding and getting back their deposits. Although an understanding the bank and the street car company resorted to camouflage. Several street car employees were called in and directed to carry the bags of pennies into the bank. It was an impressive sight, as bag after bag was passed through the cashier's wicket, and Mr. Mahoney says it had the desired effect.

Disappointment.

"I never robbed a man but once," said the hoboes' scribe, "and that I was starving. He would not give me a penny, and I couldn't stand the gnawings in my stomach any longer. So I knocked him down and went through his pockets. What kind of a haul did I make? Just one little bottle, which read on the label: 'Pepsin.—For that full feeling after eating.'"—Wisconsin State Journal.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acids and waste so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

GRAVES DECORATED BY 57TH CHAPTER

CHAPTER WILL COMPILE RECORD OF LOCAL SOLDIERS.

Empire Day, Friday, May 23rd, the 57th Chapter I.O.D.E. held their annual ceremony at Little Lake Cemetery and St. Peter's Cemetery, of decorating the graves of former members of the 57th Regiment and those who had taken part in the great war and are buried here. A large Union Jack was placed at the entrance to the chapel, with the inscription at the base: "To the memory of our fallen heroes who took part in the Great War," as a temporary memorial.

Then each grave was visited and while the following prayer was read, a small Union Jack was placed on the grave: "In the name of Canada and the British Empire we place this flag upon the grave of ——— in remembrance of duty done. May God ever protect and bless our country, our homes and our people." One hundred and twenty-five graves were decorated at Little Lake Cemtery.

Some time ago a suggestion was sent to the National Executive, from Mrs. Baker, of the "Caxton" Chapter, Hamilton, that each chapter of the order should keep for future generations an historical record of members' relatives who have been on active service overseas, the record covering such points as: name, battalion, rank, photograph, and condensed items of their lives, re service, promotions, honours or the supreme sacrifice. The National Executive cordially approves of the suggestion and hopes at some future date to collect these individual records into one National Historical Souvenir for the order. Therefore; each chapter was asked to keep as complete a record as possible. A number of slips were typed with space to be filled in with name, battalion, rank, etc., and distributed, but up to the present time no returns have been made. We would again remind our chapter, if they wish to comply, to kindly send the slips filled in as soon as possible. as information can now be obtained which in future might be unobtainable.

BRITISH TITLES TO PASS

The war has hit heavily the aristocratic land-owners of England, and the old-fashioned gentry are fast disappearing. Many of the stately homes in England are coming under the hammer; old baronial halls and picturesque Tudor mansions, hallowed by age-long traditions, and for centuries the playground of romance, are being knocked down to the newly-made rich. In an auctioneer's catalogue just issued, there are no fewer than 28 country estates, carrying with them as many country houses, with acreages running from eight to 21,-743—the latter being an estate of the Duke of Sutherland's, in the northern Highlands—for "early auction," and in the same catalogue there are 76 other country mansions down for quick sale by private treaty. For many years land has not yielded more than two and a half per cent., and the old type of aristocratic landowner always made a rebate to his tenants if they had experienced a bad season. On many estates the rents were barely sufficient to meet current expenses. Titles in England to-day do not barry the weight of former times. A lord may be a gentleman—or a blackguard. Titles are not sought after as they used to be. They have been made too cheap, and the lavish way in which the Orders of the British Empire were chucked about made the whole thing a laughing-stock. Nothing could induce men like Gladstone to accept a title, and only recently a princess of the blood royal has voluntarily relinquished a title that some people would give a fortune to secure. All these are signs of the times, and prove the democracy of the age, even in Britain.

As an aid to poultrymen, a Massachusetts man has invented a machine that at regular intervals delivers water to a trough and scatters measured feed broadcast.

DOWNIE ST. CREEK CAUSES NEW FLOOD

BOARD OF WORKS WILL NOTIFY MR. DUMBLE TO CLEAR THE COURSE.

City Solicitor Widdifield was instructed by the Board of Works last night to write Mr. D. W. Dumble, asking him to have the Downie street creek cleared of all obstructions in its course through his property between McDonnel and Dublin streets. Mayor Duncan, Ald. Phelan and other members reported that the recent rains had collected in that district, held up by the blockage in the old drain. "Some action should be taken against the Magistrate," remarked Mayor Duncan. "They are all poor people in that district and their gardens have been flooded."

City Engineer Parsons stated that the accumulation of water last week was as serious as the spring freshet.

Ald. Edgar proposed that the advice of the City Engineer be obtained before ordering Mr. Dumble to clear this drain of obstructions, but it was pointed out that the latter was required to keep the passage open for the free movement of water.

The resolution was thereupon moved by Ald. Edgar and seconded by Ald. Taylor.

Gladstone Avenue Heard From

J. P. Ego wrote that Gladstone avenue had not been graded for eight or nine years and had suffered from sewer, water and gas excavations. It was in such bad state that he urged immediate repairs. Ald. Morrrison moved, seconded by Ald. Canside, that this request be granted.

TORONTO TO NEW YORK CITY.

A through train service from Toronto to New York City, leaving Toronto at 5.45 p.m., daily, was inaugurated by the Grand Trunk on May 4th. This train carries through coaches and sleeping cars and arrives at New York at the Pennsylvania Terminal Station, 33rd Street and 7th Avenue. Also train leaving Toronto. 4.00 p.m., daily, runs through to New Buffalo, making direct connection at Buffalo for New York; coaches and parlor-library-buffet car Toronto to Buffalo, sleeping cars Buffalo to New York and Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania Station is so centrally located that it is a great convenience to the Visitor to New York and is in easy reach of some of the latest hotels, also the shopping and theatre districts. There is also direct tube service to and from Brooklyn.

HAMILTON, ONTARIO.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped me greatly at the turn of life. I commenced to have heat flashes and dizzy spells and became nervous and run-down. These conditions very quickly left me after I commenced with the 'Favorite Prescription.' I took several bottles of it and truly believe that I owe my good health of to-day to the medicine I took and the care exercised at that trying time."—MRS. ROBERT SMITH, 64 Bay Street, S.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c, a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

READY FOR THE COUNCIL

CITY'S BRIDGE AGREEMENT WITH THE CANADIAN ENGINEERING AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY EMERGES FROM THE BOARD OF WORKS.

IN BY-LAW FORM TO-NIGHT

The agreement embodying the city's contract with the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company for the construction of the Hunter Street Bridge was revised by the Board of Works last night, and with several minor alterations will be introduced as a by-law at the special meeting of the Council to-night.

Ald. Garside asked the representatives of the company, Mr. Paulin and Mr. Magee, if they proposed to recognise the Unions.

"That would mean that the contractors would have to employ only Union men," Ald. Edgar suggested.

"We would be willing to employ only Union men, but can you furnish enough of them?" Mr. Paulin asked.

"We don't want to tie up to anything like that," said Ald. Edgar. "Every citizen should have the right to get work on the bridge."

Ald. Turner expressed his opinion as desiring to give the contractor complete authority to engage and dismiss men without any distinction.

Mr. Paulin assured Ald. Garside that the Union or prevailing wages would be paid, which in itself, he explained, was an assurance that Union men would be employed.

In the discussion on this point, it was made clear that the bridge work will not be an exclusively Union job. Preference will be given to local labour without discrimination.

"We have no disposition to reduce wages," Mr. Paulin declared. "We paid higher wages last winter than there was any necessity of doing. The city is a co-partner with us in the bridge contract, and will share in any benefits that may be obtained in the cost of the work. In the same [illegible] should have to pay [illegible] the rates of 40 and 50 cents [illegible] and will be [illegible] should [illegible] share of the excess cost.

Mr. Paulin also said that the rental and other charges for steam shovels, pile drivers, and such heavy equipment would not be more than $1,200 or $1,500. There might perhaps be no charge at all under this head.

In Three Payments.

The company suggested that they should be paid in two instalments for the work, but they readily agreed to Ald. Turner's proposal that three payments be made, the last one thirty days after the work is accepted by the Engineer.

Under the agreement the city pays the wages of all employees except the superintendent, who will be Mr. Paulin himself. He said that his office and directing organisation would probably number 15 men. Because it would mean the disrupting of this force, the Board agreed not to press in this particular the clause requiring preference for local skilled and unskilled labour except in the head position.

Mr. Barber's Force.

Mr. Frank Barber, the designing and consulting engineer, assured Mayor Duncan that students would not be engaged as inspectors.

"Some local men have been seeking this work," the Mayor explained, "and we wished to recommend competent men as inspectors."

The appointment of the inspectors devolves upon Mr. Barber, and recognising that fact, Mayor Duncan said the Council had no intention of interfering with the engineer.

Mr. Barber replied that his inspectors would all be bridge engineers from his own office; men who had been with him for some years. A surveyor would also be brought here for part of the time, and his complete staff on the bridge would likely be four, although all of them might not be employed continuously on this work. One Peterborough young man had applied to Mr. Barber for an inspectorship, stating that he wished to remain with him and learn bridge construction.

"He is a likely looking young man," the engineer said, "and I may engage him, but I don't think he will be started on this work. I will probably send him somewhere else. Of course, we have other jobs than the Peterborough bridge."

Mr. Conroy's Offer.

In a letter to the Board, Mr. Ed. Conroy withdrew his lump sum tender, but guaranteed that on the cost plus basis he would build the bridge at a cost of not more than $250,000. This communication was received without comment.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

QUESTION OF FIUME AND OTHER BOUNDARY MATTERS WILL NOT BE INCLUDED IN AUSTRIAN PEACE TREATY.

AUSTRIAN TREATY

(United Press.)

PARIS, May 28.—The question of Fiume and other boundary matters affecting Italy will not be included in the peace treaty which will be handed the Austrian delegates at St. Germain Friday, it was learned to-day. It was also learned the treaty will not contain detailed provisions regarding reparation.

Counter Claim.

(Canadian Press.)

VERSAILLES, May 28.—The German peace delegation here, it was learned to-day, will present a counter claim of 12 billion marks for damage from the allied blockade as an offset to reparation demands of Allied Powers.

(United Press, by Carl D. Groat.)

BERLIN, MAY 28.—The German counter-proposal to the Peace Treaty as made public here to-day, refuse to surrender the Kaiser, and demands the immediate admission of Germany to the League of Nations, with a mandate over her former colonies.

361 FEET OF SEWER HAVE COST $1,932

SIMCOE STREET SURFACE DRAIN WAS BUILT FOR $380.

The surface drain on Simcoe, recently completed, cost $380, according to City Engineer Parsons' weekly report to the Board of Works last night. The cost per foot for 12 inch pipewas 54c and for 9 inch pipe 40c. On King street 247 feet of 18 inch drain pipe was laid at an expenditure of $198.50. The labour cost was 80 cents a foot. Having completed the King street work, the men were sent to Romaine street, where they have tmporarily completed the sewer west of Park street. Mr. Parsons reported that 361 feet of sewer had been laid in this stretch at a cost of $1032.80, or $5.35 a foot.

Pipes have been attached to the road oil tank, which contains a quantity of oil left over from last year. The Board of Works spent $822.32 last week.

DELEGATION WILL GO TO THE CAPITAL

PROPOSED STRIKE IN TORONTO DELAYED 48 HOURS.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, May 28.—This city today enjoyed a temporary relief from the anxiety of an immediate general strike, while Mayor Church and his big delegation of employees and striking employees with Board of Trade members and other representative citizens, prepared to leave to-night for Ottawa to place the whole matter before Premier Borden. There has been no change in the situation since 2 a.m. when the Strike committee, after a strenuous session, accepted the advice of Mayor Church and postponed the strike call for 48 hours (till Friday, 10 a.m.), pending a discussion before the Premier regarding government legislation enacting a 44 hour week generally in Canada. The postal clerks here are exhibiting some unrest over the delay of the government regarding re-classification.

Minister of Interior Is On Way to Ottawa With Report of Winnipeg Strike Situation

GOVERNMENT ACTION WILL LIKELY BE BASED ON REPORT—POSTAL EMPLOYEES GO BACK TO WORK —A POLITICAL CRISIS.

HIGH PRICES

(Special to Examiner.)

NOYES, MAN., May 28. — Leaders and officials of union labor connected with railway organizations, are gathering here from all parts of Canada to be on the ground with the object of keeping in closest touch with strike conditions here.

A. McAndrew of Moose Jaw, Sask., general chairman of the C. P. R. Maintenance of Way employees, in charge from coast to coast of 10,000 employees, is one of the leaders. Speaking for the Examiner readers he said, "Our men are holding to their work. While they have been approached with the object of securing their active cooperation in a general strike they will not take such action until our International Headquarters instruct them to do so. The local men are strong in sympathy with the objects for which the strike has been inaugurated. Maintenance of Way men are the only railroad organization that has a national agreement embodying uniform rates and rules for all railroads in Canada, which was carried out under the principle of collective bargaining."

Endorse Principle.

"We are hoping that the participation of train service organization in a general strike will be averted," George Wark, Toronto, the Vice-President of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen stated. "Our members fully endorse the principle of collective bargaining but it is not the policy of this organisation to engage in sympathetic strikes. Such will only be tolerated in the event of our membership becoming directly affected on account of conditions brought about by the strike of other employees.'

"We are certainly a public utility. We have a Dominion law which governs our action on public utilities question, as far as strikes are concerned; beyond that I should not care to speak just now as regards the attitude of running trades toward pre-

[illegible] was A. S. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, just previous to attending a meeting of the running trades at their union headquarters.

The remark was in answer to a question regarding the probable action of running trades in relation to the Winnipeg strike as well as their feeling concerning the principle of public utilities employees participating in sympathetic strikes. While the running trades have not yet come out they are waiting to see if some loophole is available as a sufficient excuse to impress International headquarters at Cleveland. They desire to have the strike fund available if they are out and to be in a position not to have lost the benefits of the Order after the strike is over. The older members of the Order, who have much to lose, have succeeded so far in holding back the younger members from drastic action.

Post Office Closed.

The post office was closed tightly back and front all day yesterday to citizens. It was open all Monday. There was some mystery as to why the merchants and business men could not get their mail.

Postmaster McIntyre said that he was reorganzing the staff as plenty of men had been secured for all purposes. Lawrence Pickup, head of the Postal Clerks' Union, said that only five of their members were working inside; 280 are still out.

While the executive officials of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association refrain absolutely from making any official statement, it was learned authoratively to-day that railway mail men decided on Monday night to walk out to-night. The association is not affiliated with the Trades and Labor Council.

It is said that a number of individual mail clerks will disregard the association's action and remain on duty.

Lawrence Pickup, of the Postal employees executive stated that the postal men were practically unanimous in their determination to stand together in spite of all threats and promises. About ten of the members had been induced to return to their posts, but of these four or five had already regretted the step and were reported in the union ranks again. The men are firm and their general demeanour and attitude are in keeping with the best of our experience and I have not the slightest doubt but that they will remain true to each other to the end," he said.

Situation in Calgary.

(Canadian Press.)

CALGARY, Alta., May 28.—Business was not noticeably dislocated yesterday by the general strike. Street cars were operating and lighting plants, theatres and hotels were conducted as normally. Volunteers are at work in the post office and more will be added it was announced. About two hundred of the former government employees are on strike. Conditions at Edmonton were

MAY SETTLE THE DISPUTE BETWEEN HYDRO-ELECTRIC AND THEIR EMPLOYEES

FOUR HOUR CONFERENCE WAS HELD LAST EVENING IN THE OFFICES OF THE PROVINCIAL COMMISSIONER—SITUATION LOOKS MORE HOPEFUL.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 28.—Prospects of a settlement of the dispute between the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and their employees in the Niagara District Trades Federation which would avoid a tie-up of the whole Hydro-Electric service in the Niagara system, involving one hundred and thirty-four municipalities, are brighter to-day than they have been for over a week, though the danger of a strike greater in extent than a general one in Toronto is by no means averted.

At a four-hour conference in the offices of the Provincial Commission last night, held by Sir Adam Beck, Chief Engineer Gaby, and M. Acres, representing the Commission, Frank H. Healey, president, J. Flett, of the American Federation of Labour, J. Hunter, of the Painters, and E. Ingles, representing the men, the Commission offered to recognise the eight-hour day principle but to meet the needs of the work on the Chippewa Canal development to continue the ten-hour shifts, paying the men overtime at the regular rate plus ten cents an hour.

GENERAL REPAIRS TO THREE SCHOOLS

PROPERTY COMMITTEE OF BOARD OF EDUCATION MADE ANNUAL INSPECTION.

General repairs with the repainting and decorating of the King Edward, Central and Queen Alexandra schools were improvements decided upon by the Property committee of the Board of Education in their annual inspection of the Public schools yesterday. The work will be done during the mid-summer vacation. The Collegiate Institute, King George and Queen Mary schools were reported in excellent condition, requiring only the holiday house-cleaning. Mr. A. A. Fowler, chairman, and Messrs. G. O. Cameron and Mr. J. A. McKone, the members of the committee, were accompanied by Mr. J. M. Greene and Inspector Mowat. They expressed themselves well pleased with the results of the [illegible] of the caretakers. The Central school was thoroughly renovated last summer, and because of the new building which will be erected in that district, will receive only ordinary attention this season. The King Edward, Central and Queen Alexandra are three of the oldest schools, and consequently need more repairs than the schools of comparatively recent construction.

A WELCOME FOR REV. JAS. ROLLINS

WILL REACH PETERBORO THURSDAY AFTERNOON G.T.R. FROM KINGSTON, 5.25 O'CLOCK.

The members and adherents of St. Andrew's church and the public generally will be pleased to hear that Rev. Jas. Rollins, who has been overseas for almost three years, will reach Peterborough to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon, from Kingston, at 5.25, per G.T.R. The members of the Board of Managers and of the Session and many of the congregation are going to be on hand to greet Mr. Rollins on his arrival at Peterborough and escort him and his family to the Manse, where the ladies of the church will have everything in readiness for their home-coming.

The members of St. Andrew's church deeply appreciate the part taken by Mr. Rollins in the war, he having gone overseas as Quartermaster of the 93rd Battalion, and subsequently as a chaplain in France, where he has done excellent work, and the people desire to show by their presence to-morrow at the station that he is still warm in the hearts of his people.

Mr. Rollins will occupy his own pulpit on Sunday next, and the best reception any pastor can receive is to be given the opportunity of speaking to a crowded church, which will no doubt be the case at St. And. on next Sunday.

ORIGINAL FIRST HOME FROM FRONT

OSWALD BROOKS OF YOUNG'S POINT ONE OF THOSE BACK THIS MORNING.

Sergt. Oswald Brooks, son of Mr. William Brooks, of Young's Point, was among the party who returned home from overseas this morning. He is one of the Original Firsts, having enlisted here in August, 1914, with the 57th quota to the 2nd Battalion, under Major Bennett. He went overseas with the 2nd Battalion, and has been in France with that unit ever since, February, 1915, going through the whole campaign without a scratch. Two days after the armistice was signed, he was stricken with pleurisy and was ill for some time.

Sergt. Brooks arrived at Halifax on Sunday on the Aquitania.

Another Original First who arrived to-day was Gunner W. J. Clark, of East Glen, who went overseas in 1914 with the 4th Battery, C. F. A., and had long service in France.

Gunner Mordie McGill is another to return this morning. He enlisted here in August, 1914, and after fighting with the artillery in France, was invalided home in 1915, and immediately re-enlisted with the C. F. A., and returned overseas, so that this is his second homecoming.

Sergt. Charles Thorpe, the well-known local runner, and a member of the firm of Grant & Thorpe, who went overseas with the 77th Battery, arrived home this morning.

BUILDING ACTIVITY IN WESTERN ONTARIO

Indications of building activity in the west end of the province were conveyd in the following telegram received by Ald. Turner from W. N. McEachern, whose firm are known in this city through an address delivered here last winter:—

"Building hundred houses for Hiram Walker and Sons. The largest steel corporation in Canada with a location at Goderich have instructed us to construct four hundred houses with their money laying out nine hundred acre townsite there require $200,000. They show a million and a half profit. Collect our Windsor Office."

RUNAWAY ON CHARLOTTE STREET

Horse Smashed Into the Charlotte Street Gates at G.T.R. Crossing.

A runaway provided a few thrills for pedestrians on Charlotte street at 10.20 this morning, when the delivery horse of Mr. John Hill, grocer at the corner of Charlotte and George streets, after turning out of the lane at the rear of the store was frightened by the fall of one of the boxes with which Mr. Hill's delivery cart was overloaded. The driver of the vehicle also fell off and the horse went at full speed up Charlotte street toward the G.T.R. station. Luckily the gates were down at the time, and the horse, running against them, was stunned and lay on the pavements several minutes before it recovered, when it started to kick and make a row generally. Two or three passers-by held the horse until it quieted down. If the gates had not been down the animal would likely have been killed as the shunter was working at the time and crossed the street just as the horse threw itself against the gates.

BOLSHEVIKI DEFEATED

TWO REGIMENTS WERE DESTROYED AND A QUANTITY OF MATERIAL CAPTURED.

NEAR PETROGRAD

(Special to the Examiner.)

LONDON, May 28.—Heavy defeats administered to the Bolshevik troops in North and South Russia were announced by the War Office to-day.

Two Communist regiments were destroyed in North Russia, west of Rodakoua, the statement said.

Near Manch, in Southern Russia, on 9th May, anti-Bolshevik Russian volunteers attacked the Reds and advanced to Remontnoe, capturing 3,300 prisoners and 15,000 rifles, 13 cannon, and 50 machine guns.

THE NELLIE L. McCLUNG LECTURE

TO-MORROW NIGHT IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH—HEAR THIS GIFTED AUTHOR AND LECTURER ON "WOMAN'S PART IN RECONSTRUCTION."

Mrs. Nellie L. McClung, on her return from Philadelphia, will speak in Peterboro to-morrow night in St. Paul's church, before returning to her home in Edmonton. The subject of Mrs. McClung's lecture is "Woman's Place in Reconstruction," and has received much favorable comment wherever given. Mrs. McClung is a constructive critic and brings to all her observations a large sympathy and an inexhaustible supply of common sense. She outlines many avenues of activity for the new woman citizen and does not hesitate to point out the inconsistencies of her own sex. Woman's work, in its narrowest sense, the care of the home, is the most "hap-hazard" and disorganised corner of the whole field of labor, she says. And unless the home helper is given a higher grading, and accorded a larger measure of respect it will continue to be so.

Mrs. McClung speaks of the communal kitchen as the solution of the lowering marriage rate. Why should a woman have to renounce her chosen life work because she marries? The desire for children is a natural one but it is a foolish dream to believe that the mother of a child is the only person who can care for its physical needs. As it stands now with the uncertain and inefficient kitchen help, many a mother is so harrassed and burdened caring for her family physically that she has no time or strength to be a real mother to them, neither has she the energy to make of herself what she ought to be to guide her children when they grow older.

In the communal life each family will have the privacy and delight of their own home, without the drudgery which so often robs the home of its joy. She explains what this means and also the woman's vote.

The question of woman's dress comes in for some sharp criticism from Mrs. McClung in the course of her discussion. Women will never be entirely free human beings until they have a rational mode of dress and a new conception of what dress should be. Dress should be to women what it is to men, a comfortable, suitable, proper cover, designed for convenience and comfort, and good taste. It should be suited to the wearer's work and to the season of the year, and to climatic condition. Furs in July and open-work stockings in January, big hats in windy weather do not reflect favorably on the wearer's mental condition.

"But there is still a tendency to immodesty in evening clothes that all students of human nature must deplore. There was a time when the women of the underworld dressed like the lady. That is reversed now The lady now indicates in her dress the woman of the underworld.

"And the tragic part of it is that the little shop girl, or school girl, in imitation of her elders, pulls down her pretty hair into a rakish puff over one eye, secured by a rhinestone heart, and wears a low-necked blouse, and has a slit in her skirt and wears colored stockings so that when a man of evil mind looks at her, he sees in all these an invitation and feels free to make advances in a way that he would never dare with a properly dressed young girl. The girl herself is innocent—who then is to blame? We are, the older women, who dress this way, or make no protest against those who do. The element of decency has in evening clothes, at least, almost disappeared."

ADRIFT IN ATLANTIC

HAWKER DESCRIBES HIS EXPERIENCES WHEN THE SOPWITH REACHED THE WATER.

A DECORATION

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 28.— Describing further the trip of Hawker and Grieve in their attempt to cross the Atlantic in an airplane, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says that Hawker remained seated the whole time, but that Grieve moved about, kneeling to examine the drift indicator, standing up for observation or going forward for a wireless. Each of them ate a sandwich and drank four cups of coffee out of a vacuum flask, and the next time I ate, said Hawker, was about seventy-two hours later, adding with a laugh, "Yes, we didn't take enough calories. The fact is, I was very seasick when we got down low, and afterwards for two days in the ship. It was like being in a small motor boat in a heavy sea when we flew down low to look for a ship. We were between high waves and were bumped about quite badly."

Describing their position when the plane alighted, Hawker and Grieve said they were in water up to their knees and the waves were close to the upper plane at times. The nose of the machine was turned into the wind and now and again a big wave dashed over it. Hawker said they spent their time discussing how the Mary was handled and whether she could save the machine and its appliances. All this time the little boat carried by the Sopwith machine was afloat beside the plane dancing about like a cork. "When the ship's boat reached the plane," said Hawker, "she banged right into the machine and we hopped on board. The ship slung a rope out and hauled the boat back and we climbed aboard the Mary."

Received by the King.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 28.— Harry G. Hawker and Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve, who reached here from Thurso, Scotland, after being reported in mid-ocean when the airplane in which they were attempting to cross the Atlantic lighted near the Danish steamer Mary, were received by King George at Buckingham Palace this morning. They received ovations from the crowd. His Majesty bestowed on Hawker and Grieve the insigna of the Air Force Cross. The Air Cross with which King George decorated Hawker and Grieve is now the honour bestowed for "devotion to duty."

BATHING PLACES.

With the bathing season at hand, the hundreds of people in the city, who are interested in the public bathing beach question will be glad to know that the joint committee of the City Council and the Playgrounds Association have the matter under consideration and have a plan ready for submission to the council. The details have not been made public but it is expected that the proposal of the committee will meet the needs of the situation and that it will be acted upon promptly. There is little time to be lost for the bathing season is not very long and anything that is going to be done should be done now. Those who are interested will hope that the council will not interfere with the success of the enterprise by a niggardly policy, such as has been adopted in the past. It is a matter that is of importance to many citizens, and it should be wisely carried out by the City Fathers, as a movement that will be of distinct benefit to the community.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKES.

Press comment throughout many parts of Canada, including that found in papers which have sympathized with the desire of labour to secure shorter hours, more adequate wages and better living conditions, condemning the sympathetic strike as it affects public utilities, and the publicity that is being given this feature of the industrial crisis may be regarded as definitely conclusive evidence that public opinion is becoming more and more opposed to the methods that are being adopted.

Despatches from the West say that sympathetic strikes will be called in Calgary, Saskatoon, and Edmonton because of the Government's attitude in demanding the return to work of the Winnipeg postal staff and public utilities employees before any further effort is made by the Minister of Labour to settle the Winnipeg strike, says the Toronto Globe. It should be made clear beyond shadow of doubt that strikes of postal employees, policemen, firemen, and the waterworks staffs will not be tolerated by Federal or civic Governments, which, in the last analysis, means the majority of the people. Having made that clear, however, it is the duty of all Governments to see to it that no legitimate protests against illegal grievances are ignored, and that no time is lost in rectifying any causes of dissatisfaction that may be found to exist. The sympathetic strike is not entitled to any sympathy, and nothing must be done to see that a minority of employers whose methods are still archaic are not allowed to find excuses for some labour leaders to persuade their followers to extremes. Canadians are not going to be bludgeoned into a sympathy with tactics they condemn in their hearts.

The Hamilton Herald remarks, "Western strike leaders resent being called Bolshevists, but the best way to avoid that stigma is to shun Bolshevist methods."

THE OPTIMISTIC SIR ROBERT

In his reply to the civic welcome received at Ottawa, Premier Borden declared that he was an optimist and that he was confident that some way would be found out of the difficulties which Canada is facing at the present time. The remarks of the Premier would be hailed reassuringly if they indicated that there was more than mere optimism behind them, that they indicated that the situation and how to deal with it as the result of careful study. That there is an optimist cannot be denied. The [illegible] which commenced in other cities and is being repeated in others, the menace to fast spreading, and the government's authority being challenged by the action of postal employees in joining in the strike, are matters which call for more than optimism. The government has been given the difficulty of the situation by the latest action in connection with the postal service, and it is to be hoped that it has a way out of the trouble. Instead of acting as some of the Premier's supporters declared it to be, the proper course is to [illegible] from Winnipeg for assistance with a laconic wire to the effect that there "did not seem to be anything that he could do." And when he, after a delay of nearly a week, arrived on the scene in company with the Minister of the Interior, the complaint is made that for two days he did not even consult with Winnipeg's Mayor upon whom the responsibility of handling the situation had been thrust.

The present crisis needs something more than a few cheery words from Sir Robert Borden.

SHARING TRANSPORTATION COSTS

A proposal that the cost of constructing the roadbed and laying the rails of street railway and steam railways should be met by taxation is put forth by R. J. Deachman in a pamphlet recently published at Calgary. This, he says, would be the same as in the case of highways, pavements and sidewalks. The cost of operation, apart from these fixed charges, would be met by those making use of the service, just as with highways at the present time.

The exact line of division between services to be rendered free of charge and those to be maintained by rates is one which cannot be decided on any permanent basis. Highways were first constructed as a private industry, and tolls were charged to meet the expenses and yield a profit. This method became cumbersome, however, and it was also realized that the use of highways for purposes of commerce was of value to the community, apart from the individuals who immediately profited by them. Consequently, these enterprises are now constructed and maintained in all civilised countries by public taxation. When steam railways were first proposed in England, on the other hand, it was the intention that the roadbed and rails should be public property, while the companies would merely operate the trains. This, however, was soon supplanted entirely by private ownership and management. The general trend has, of course, been in the direction of providing more and more services free of charge. In addition to the instance mentioned above, other outstanding examples are education, the use of public libraries, and the free distribution of literature by government departments.

Ownership and operation at the public charge of important utilities, such as the street railway, telephone and waterworks, is not a new proposal, but there have been substantial reasons which have heretofore made these schemes impracticable. If all charges, or part of the charges, of operation were met at the public expense, the use of the services would be immensely increased, and the burden of taxation would be much greater than under the present system of operation on the self-sustaining basis, in which the charges imposed acts to limit their use to those to whom the services are of greatest value. Municipalities in Canada which own street railway and waterworks systems are continually endeavouring to maintain these upon a self-supporting basis, and there is no evidence of any general sentiment that this effort is in the wrong direction. The same conception of the purpose and method of operation of our national railway system is not disputed.

But the writer of this pamphlet goes further. His aim, it would appear, is not so much to remove a portion of the expense from consumers who make use of these means of transportation as to shift it specifically to the landowner, who, he says, benefits by the construction of a street railway or of a steam railway system. But it does not seem possible to prevent an addition to the value of property through the construction of a wisely-planned transportation service. Under the present method those who benefit by that service pay for it. In a medium-sized Canadian city, for instance, it is the suburbanites, whose property has been undoubtedly benefited by the construction of lines, who bear the expense of construction and operation, while those living in central parts of the city do not pay any of the cost. Mr. Deachman does not discuss any plan for meeting the fixed charges by the taxation of the property specially benefiting, and presumably he would meet them by a general levy on land values. This would mean that part of the cost would be borne by the owners of centrally located property, to whom a street railway system is only of indirect value, while suburban property would benefit through receiving transportation service at less than present rates.—Monetary Times.

CENTENARIAN GARDENING

Joseph Mantell, Who Celebrated 109th Birthday This May

Every fine day Mr. Joseph Mantell of Toronto formerly of Peterboro, can be seen in his garden, in which he takes a great interest, although he has passed the century mark. A few days ago he celebrated his 109th birthday.

Mr. Mantell was born in Edmonton, England, 1810, and was christened in the old church of Hendon, then near London, but now a suburb of the city. Eighty-two years ago he came to Canada and walked from Quebec to Toronto. For a number of years he lived in London, Ont., and also in Peterboro, Tillsonburg, and finally came to Toronto. He is still hale and hearty, and is in full possession of all his faculties.

A BALE FOR LABRADOR

A bale will be sent to Labrador early in June and any friends who have warm clothing to send are asked to notify the Treasurer so that these can be called for.

Dr. Grenfell makes another appeal for funds for the new brick home for children at St. Anthony. He says: "I should like to emphasize the pressing need for care for the orphan children who are left as a result of the influenza epidemic. A number of the men leave young families and in some cases both parents have been taken. Our present orphanage, besides being so poorly constructed and difficult to run, is full to its capacity and we are at our wits end to meet the problem of caring for so many helpless children, unless friends will come to their help and give money for a new brick orphanage. These funds have been coming in slowly for some time, but the need has suddenly become so urgent that I am venturing to make a very special appeal to the sympathy of the friends of little children."

Contributions for this home or any clothing for the bale will be gratefully received by the Treasurer, Mrs. James Wood, Box 490.

COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE GRAND

SYNOPSIS No 1.

Clara Kimball Young and her own company, will appear at the Grand Theatre on Thursday in her latest Select Star Series production, "The Reason Why," by Elinor Glyn, adapted by Mary Murillo and directed by Robert G. Vignola.

KEITH VAUDEVILLE AND FEATURE PICTURES AT THE GRAND

Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The best that can be secured in the vaudeville line will be presented at the Grand, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee daily. The feature act will be the Van Bros., a pair of happy disposition chaps. Both are born musicians and have a natural gift of being able to amuse an audience well, entertaining them with first class music and presenting an unusually clever comedy offering, which is entitled "Get 'em and Hold 'em."

Gertrude Dudley Co. will be seen in an offering of youth and pep, consisting of "Class and Jass." Miss Dudley is a remarkably fine vocalist. Her success in musical comedy will be remembered by many theatre-goers in Peterboro. Mr. Dudley is a pianist of great ability and a song writer who has given a host of successful popular songs to the world. In their offering all of the songs are written by Mr. Dudley and therefore are restricted.

The Yattos, great exponents of sensational and society dancing will present the several original dancing numbers, and it is safe to say that no better balanced vaudeville bills could be presented anywhere than at the Grand.

Regular scale of prices, 10c and 15c matinees; 15c and 25c evenings.

The famous Clara Kimball Young and her own company, in "The Reason Why," will be the feature picture, and Charlie Chaplin, in "The Flirt," will complete this special bill.

It was a happy bit of news indeed for local play goers when the announcement first came that arrangements had been definitely concluded calling for the appearance at the Grand Opera House for one performance, Thursday evening, June 5th, of Ethel Barrymore, in R. C. Carton's delightful comedy, "The Off Chance." Happy, since her coming engagement marks the first visit of this most beloved of American actresses to this city in two or three years. Miss Barrymore spent the entire season last year in New York, where at the Empire Theatre, she achieved little less than a series of triumphs in a repertoire, including Edward Sheldon's appealing version of "Camille," called "The Lady of the Camellias," A. A. Milne's brilliant comedy, "Belinda," and Mr. Carton's "The Off Chance." Despite the enormous success of the other two, it was the latter which made the happiest impression on Miss Barrymores following.

Mail orders accompanied by marked cheque, made payable to manager of Grand Opera House. Seats will be alloted as orders are received.

Can't Puncture Nor Blow Out

DAYTON AIRLESS TIRES in the past 6 years have been used by thousands of owners of light passenger and delivery cars in all parts of the civilized world, and have conclusively demonstrated:

1st: They can't puncture nor blow out.
2nd: They ride as smoothly as pneumatics.
3rd: They give much longer wear than the average pneumatic.
4th: They absolutely will not injure the car.

They have been endorsed by 50,000 or more satisfied users, including the late George Westinghouse and Edward Grey, formerly Chief Engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

Piers of live, elastic rubber built about one inch apart inside the casing and vulcanized or welded to it, take the part of an inner tube.

Nothing can happen but wear.

We have standardized on 30 x 3½, and the price is right.

DEFENDING PETROGRAD

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 28.—A Russian wireless message to-day denies the report that explosions had occurred in Petrograd due to its approaching evacuation.

The despatch declares there is no intention of abandoning the city, and that reinforcements already sent to Gatchina front, south of Petrograd, are succeeding in driving back the enemy.

You Know My Al!

A game of baseball was being played "over there"; American boys on one side and British and Colonials on the other. A critical moment came in the game and an East Indian stepped up to the plate. He looked upward and said: "Allah, give thou me strength to make a hit."

He struck out.

The next man up was an Irishman. He spat on the plate, made faces at the pitcher, and yelled: "You know me, Al!"

He made a home run.

ORIENTALS ARE SHUT OUT WITHOUT A RUN OR A HIT

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL WON BEST PLAYED GAME OF THE SEASON BY 3 RUNS TO 0—SPLENDID PITCHING AND FAST FIELDING MARK CITY LEAGUE BATTLE, IN WHICH THE SOLOMON CREW RECEIVE THEIR SECOND BEATING IN TWO DAYS.

In by far the best game of the season the Matthews-Blackwell team increased their lead in the City League race and sent the Orientals down to third place, when they defeated Manager Solomon's outfit by 3 runs to 0 at Riverside Park last night. It was a pitching duel between Frost of the Packers, and Kirn of the Orientals, and the youngster triumphed over the veteran, inasmuch as he not only held the Solomn crew runless, but turned them back without a hit. In the seven innings only twenty-two batsmen faced him and but two men got to first base, Cherrett on a base on balls in the first innings, and Murray through being hit in the second. Cherrett was extinguished trying to steal second, and although Murray succeeded in purloining the middle station, he died there, and not an Oriental player reached third. The Packers' twirler had his curve ball working perfectly, and with his teammates playing errorless ball behind him, the Orientals never had a chance to win.

Kirn pitched grand ball for the losers, delivering a brand of twirling that would have won nine games out of ten. He held Manager McCabe's gang to four scattered hits, two of which were scratchy, and gave only one complimentary, but his work was useless in the face of the Matthews' defence, which never gave the Solomon crew an opening.

The game was marked by the snappiest fielding of the season. The Packers never made a skip behind Frost, taking care of everything that came their way. The Orientals only had two errors, but both of them cost a run. Outside of the pair of boots they supported Kirn in excellent style, and the crowd enjoyed the fast fielding of both teams. The feature plays were contributed by Cherrett and Hagerman, the former pulling down with his gloved hand a liner from Adams' bat that looked like a sure hit, and Hagerman coming through with a one-handed stop of a hot drive from Heenan that had all the earmarks of a safety. Shaughnessy and Adams in the outfield for the McCabe crew, and McCarney and Heenan for the Orientals, did some pretty fielding.

First Innings.

Matthews.—Cherrett grabbed Adams' hot liner with one hand, Murray threw out Butcher, Lowe got a life when Sheehy dropped Kirn's throw on an easy roller to the box. Lowe stole second. Hagerman singled to centre, scoring Lowe. Shaughnessy lined to Heenan in left. One run, one hit, one error.

Orientals — Cherrett walked, but was out stealing, sliding over the bag. Heenan fanned and Kennealley grounded to Lowe. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Matthews. — Jackson singled through the box and went to second on a passed ball. Holyman walked, and the pair pulled off a double steal. Lefave grounded to Murray, Jackson scoring. Frost flied out to McCarney, whose quick return kept Holyman at third. Adams rolled to Kirn. One run, one hit, no errors.

Orientals — Holyman threw out Collins. McCarney fanned. Murray was hit and stole second, but Sheehy struck out. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

Matthews.—Butcher fanned. Cherrett grabbed Lowe's liner. Hagerman's fly was nailed by McCarney. No runs, hits or errors.

Orientals.— Soden's fly to centre fell into Adams' hands. Shaughnessy corralled Kirn's high one to left and Holyman nailed Cherrett's fly to short. No runs, hits or errors.

Fourth Innings.

Matthews.—Shaughnessy rolled to Murray, Jackson fanned and Holyman lifted an easy fly to McCarney. No runs, hits or errors.

Orientals.—Heenan fanned. Frost threw out Kennealy, and Collins' roller to Holyman made the third out. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Matthews.—Lefave's grounder was well handled by Murray. Collins tossed Frost out and Adams died on a tap to Kirn. No runs, hits or errors.

Orientals.— McCarney rolled to Butcher. Murray was easy on a grounder to Holyman and Shaughnessy gathered in Sheehy's fly. No runs, hits or errors.

Sixth Innings.

Matthews.— Butcher's roller to Kirn was fatal. Lowe scratched a hit through the box. Hagerman hoisted to McCarney and Kirn threw Shaughnessy out at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Orientals.— Lefave made a nice catch of Soden's foul fly. Kirn's pop foul fell into Butcher's hands and Cherrett went out on a tap to Frost. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Matthews.— Jackson died on a grounder to Kirn. Holyman doubled to deep left. Lefave was extinguished on a foul fly to Soden. Cherrett missed Frost's grounder and Holyman scored. Adams grounded to Sheehy. One run, one hit, one error.

Orientals. — Hagerman saved Frost's no hit record by a sensational stop of Heenan's hard drive. Solomon, batting for Kennealley, flied out to Shaughnessy. Collins was easy on a grass-cutter to Lowe. No runs, hits or errors.

Central Ontario League Here Saturday Afternoon

The first local Central Ontario League game of the season will be played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, when the Cobourg team will battle with the Petes. Cobourg have a fast and well-balanced outfit, and with Higginbotham on the rubber for them, the local crew will have their work cut out on Saturday if they want to break into the win column. The Peterborough team will be stronger than in Oshawa on Saturday, and judging by the calibre of ball that is being played in the City League, a line-up cannot be selected that will let the Cobourg crowd know there is a game on. There is an ever-increasing interest in baseball in Peterborough, and the first Central Ontario League game will undoubtedly attract a big crowd.

FISTIC FANS TO LIVE ON TRAINS AT BOUT

Expected That Over 70,000 Will Attend Big Fight at Toledo.

Representatives of twenty-seven railroads, twelve electric railways, and three steamship companies are working out transportation problems incident to handling the 60,000 or 75,000 persons expected for the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey championship fight on 4th July, at Toledo, Ohio.

Facing the greatest transportation problem in the history of the city these men will endeavour to agree upon a schedule that will bring the visitors here and out again in a minimum of time and without confusion.

It was announced that no rates would be given from any point, and that the trains would depart from the point where they are parked upon arrival. It will be announced to the passengers that the train upon which they arrived will leave at a designated hour from the point where it is put upon a side track. Every track in the terminal at Union Station will be cleared for use of these special trains. It may be that passengers will be permitted to occupy berths during the time they are here.

David F. Fitzgerald, an alderman and ring official of New Haven, Conn., to impress upon Tex Rickard his qualifications as referee of the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey heavyweight championship battle here on 4th July. He is the first candidate for the position to reach the battleground.

Fitzgerald, a six-footer of 200 pounds, is a ring official of 20 years' experience. He has refereed all of the important ring battles decided in Connecticut, and has given decisions at the finish at all of them, which will be required here Independence Day if Willard and Dempsey are on their feet at the end of the twelfth round. He refereed a contest in which Willard was engaged before he became champion.

Dempsey is nicely settled in his training camp at Maumee Bay and ready to begin the serious work of his conditioning grind. Jimmy Deforest, of Long Branch, N.J., a veteran boxer and trainer, arrived today to assume charge of the challenger's work. Deforest has supervised Dempsey's conditioning for several matches. Before the end of the week a half-dozen sparring partners will be on the job.

$127,000 BONDS

Willard to Receive $100,000 and Dempsey $27,000—Hinkle May Not Referee.

Frank Flournoy, of Memphis, associated with Tex Rickard in promoting the Willard-Dempsey championship fight, to be held here July 4, on his arrival in Toledo, purchased $127,000 worth of Victory Loan bonds with which to pay the fighters.

It was stated that Willard will receive $100,000 in bonds and Dempsey $27,000. Rickard is due to arrive Monday and Dempsey Wednesday or Thursday. Ad Thatcher of the Toledo boxing commission and Mayor Schreider went on record as against Matt Hinkle of Cleveland being appointed as referee of the fight.

BUT FOUR CUBAN PLAYERS REMAIN IN THE MAJORS

NEW YORK. — Cuba has sent some first-class players to the major leagues, and baseball fans in Havana are proud of them. Armando Marsans, Acosta, Calvo, Aragon and Romanach, who once were conspicuous, have passed out of the game in this country, but Cuba is still represented by Miguel Gonzales of the Giants, Adolpho Luque and Cueto of the Reds and Tuero of the Cardinals, also by another Gonzales, who is with Toronto, and Rolriguez, a former Giant, who is covering shortstop for the Rochesters. Luque and Tuero, right-handed pitchers, both have beaten the Giants, a feat that insures a royal greeting when they go back to Havana to spend next winter.

4th LINE DOURO VS. 8th LINE OTONABEE

The challenge from the 4th line, Douro, five-pin bowlers has been accepted by the 8th line, Otonabee, team. The match promises to be a good one and will be played on Saturday night at 8.00 p.m. at the Water Street Alleys.

During the past months great interest has been shown by the boys from our adjoining townships in this great indoor game. All interested are invited to come and witness the match.

LAST ACT IN THE BRIDGE COMEDY IS SET FOR TO-NIGHT

Th expected will probably happen at to-night's special meeting of the Council. That is, the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company's guaranteed cost plus tender of $276,000 for the construction of the Hunter Street Bridge, as recommended by the Board of Works, will be accepted if the session is as placid and smoothly moving as last night's dress rehearsal by the Board of Works.

To-night, however, there will be a full house. The labourers have bought up the house for the little demonstration they have been preparing, and even standing room down on the sidewalk will be at a premium, according to the advance notices. Hence, the performance may be nulled. It has been rumoured that the big show will be somewhat disappointing, but it is not safe to venture conjectures on a subject that has been turned upside down so often the aldermen have lost the count, that is supposed to be an accomplished fact at this writing, and to which anything may happen at the last ditch.

Labour's chief concern is the strike of the city's outside men for 45 cents a day of eight hours, but they will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to demand of the Council definite guarantees that the bridge contractor shall pay the Union scale in all trades concerned, and also establish the eight-hour day. At least, this is what is heard on the street. Some of the men declare that they want the Fair Wage clause bulwarked in the contract.

At any rate, the Council's actions retain the element of interest through a series of scenes to a climax that is actually but the culmination of climaxes. The City Fathers are considered by some citizens to be better actors than they are bridge builders.

PROPOSED SITES BATHING BEACHES

Several Were Inspected Yesterday By Committee.

Mr. A. G. Roberts, President of the Playgrounds Association with Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mr. J. W. Worth, Mayor Duncan and Aldermen McIntyre, Hamilton, Taylor and City Clerk Armstrong visited a number of prospective bathing beaches yesterday afternoon and made a recommendation to the Council. A special meeting of the committee in charge will be called soon and arrangements made for taking over two or at least one site for city bathing beaches.

$260,000, COST PLUS, WAS MR. ED. CONROY'S TENDER

Mr. Ed. Conroy's letter to the Board of Works last night guaranteeing a cost plus limit of $260,000 for the Hunter street bridge was as follows:

Harry Phelan, Esq.,
Chairman of the Board of Works,
Peterborough,

Dear Sir,—In reference to my tender for the Construction of the Hunter Street Bridge I beg to say:—

Seeing your committee has recommended this contract to be awarded on the cost plus basis, I hereby withdraw my offer on the lump sum basis that I have submitted to you on or about April 1st last.

On or about 28th April I also submitted you a tender on a percentage basis. This sum was $13,000.00, me to supply my own services and the plant to complete this work. This sum I am prepared to stand by and carry out according to the plans and specifications.

I shall further guarantee and sign a contract to this effect that the bridge after completion will not cost the city of Peterborough not over $260,000.00.

At the above figures you will note that I am saving the City in the neighbourhood of $21,000.00 on the work, by accepting my tender.

I shall also agree and guarantee to pay union or prevailing rates of wages for all labour I use on the contract.

Yours truly,
Ed. Conroy.

PLEADED GUILTY IN POLICE COURT

Bert Esson is Charged With Being a Defaulter.

Another defaulter was discovered by the Dominion police on the farm of Mr. William Thompson near Lakehurst P.O. nineteen miles north of Lakefield yesterday evening at 6.30. Bert Esson is a farm hand and submitted quietly to arrest by Constable Archie McBride and was allowed to spend the night in the Montgomery hotel last night without guard by Inspector H. P. Ward. He turned up at the police station sharp at 10 o'clock this morning and was allowed out on $2,000 bail until Saturday morning's session of police court. Esson was ordered to report for duty on October 16, 1918, but never showed up. He pleaded guilty to the charge of being a defaulter.

BASEBALL.

PATRIOTIC GRANTS PASSED BY COUNTY

The County Council, at a special meeting, authorised the payment of the patriotic grants to the Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus, and Salvation Army Funds which were recommended in January pending the validating legislation which the Provincial Government passed at its last session.

The grants were $2,000, $3,000, and $3,900 respectively in the order mentioned above.

Yesterday's meeting was required for the reason that the payments had to be approved before 1st June.

CHAMPIONED THE FARMERS' CAUSE

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION HEARS VARIOUS WITNESSES IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, May 28.—"I hope that you, gentlemen, will be able to give some advice to the geese," said A. W. Mance to the Industrial Commissioners. "A paper [illegible] morning, in [illegible] on the pallet. "That's [illegible] from the re[illegible] some thirty [illegible]

The [illegible] Mance, [illegible] their positions [illegible] the servants [illegible]

Chief Justice [illegible] intervened at this point, reminding the witness that he had exhausted his time allowance, and warning him to adhere to the subject under investigation by the commission.

John Fielding, the witness, although connected with a steel factory, expressed his intention of speaking as a farmer, rather than as a manufacturer.

Mr. Fielding declared that labor was reaching at a shadow in its efforts for high wages. No matter how high wages went, the cost of living would soar higher.

"If the workingmen do not realize that conditions are better to-day than when they were young, they are foolish," he declared. "The workman is getting all the froth of life. He is not contented with that; now he wants the super-froth, and he won't be satisfied with that, either.

"The cure for this discontent is not in higher wages or shorter hours. There are two million workers in Canada beating the air and making a great fuss about democracy in order to loaf two hours a day."

"Do you regard an eight-hour day as loafing" demanded Mr. Moore sharply.

"I say that any strong, red-blooded man should be able to work nine hours a day," replied Mr. Fielding.

"And you would call any less work than that, loafing?" demanded Mr. Moore.

"Yes," was the response. "The farmer works more than nine hours a day. I am a friend of the working man ——

"You don't speak like one," interrupted a spectator, while others laughed derisively.

"Yes, I do speak like one," retorted Mr. Fielding. He advocated action by the Government to take over one factory in each line of business in the country. In this manner, a fair price for all commodities could be determined, and the other manufacturers forced to conform reasonably to that figure. If they refused to do so, the Government could lower the tariff.

BENEFIT CONCERT WAS A BIG SUCCESS

OPENING ITEM ON PROGRAMME WAS A SPEECH BY W. STEVENS.

A packed house greeted the benefit entertainment for the Labourers' Union at Victoria Hall last evening, and a splendid programme was presented by some of the city's entertainers. Mr. A. J. Bolwell, President of the Trades and Labour Council, occupied the chair.

The opening item of the programme was a speech by Mr. W. Stevens, who gave an interesting and comprehensive address on "The Labour Conditions of To-day." His address was followed by a splendid solo by Miss Allan. Mr. Mack Murty, who has already won considerable distinction by his step dancing, won more laurels for himself by his performance last evening. In a monologue, "An Englishman's Opinion of Life," Mr. George Lynch kept the audience is shouts of laughter, and responded to the insistent encores by a recitation, "Little Batiste." Charles Coleman contributed a much enjoyed solo, which was followed by a good rousing step dance by the man who knows how to dance, Mr. S. Houlihan. Mr. J. Johns, whose appearance on any programme is always an assurance of something live, gave a side-splitting monologue on "The Rights of Women to Vote." Mr. Bartley and Mr. H. Lee rendered splendid solos and appeared again in the closing item, a trio by Mr. Bartley, Mr. Lee and Mr. Kearns. Mr. F. Clarke contributed a banjo solo. Miss Delaire and Mr. Barrie capably filled the positions of musical directors. The bunting used in the striking stage decorations was very kindly loaned by Mr. D. Hardie.

Financial Success.

While the actual figures of the receipts of the concert are not available, those in charge state the affair was a thorough financial success.

To Keep the Face Fresh, Clear, Youthful

More important than the cosmetic care of the complexion is its physical care. To keep the face clean, fresh, youthful, there's nothing better than common mercolized wax. It absorbs the soiled or faded worn-out skin particles. Cosmetics simply add unwholesomeness to the complexion. That's the difference. By all means, acquire the mercolized wax habit. It's so easy to get an ounce of the wax at the druggist's, apply at night like cold cream and wash it off next morning. There's no detention indoors, the old skin coming off so gradually no one suspects you're using anything. When in a week or two the alluringly youthful, rose-like underskin is fully in view—well, you won't want, or need, a make-up complexion after that. It must be apparent that this process means complete riddance of all cutaneous blemishes, like freckles, pimples, blotches and blackheads.

STIRRING ADDRESS AT DISTRICT MEETING OF METHODIST CHURCH

REV. H. A. FROST REFERRED TO THE PRESENT CONDITIONS OF UNREST —"THE CHURCH AND THE PRESENT CRISIS."

Diverting from the usual custom of holding the District Meeting of the Methodist Churches of Peterboro District the sessions extended into two days in place of one as formerly, and last evening it was arranged to hold a public meeting to be addressed by Rev. Dr. Moore, General Secretary of Social Service Departmnat of the Canadian Methodist Church. At the eleventh hour, however, the address on "The Church and The Present Crisis", was handed over into the hands of Rev. W. Higgs of Millbrook and Rev. H. A. Frost.

"For every man who will allow selfishness to create a state of discord the hottest place in Hell is not too hot", Rev. H. A. Frost commented in speaking of the evident motive behind the present unrest. The Empire, he said, is going through a period, possibly as seious as that of one year ago and like that of the past war the motive is evidently selfishness. Rev. Frost said that his sympathy had always been with the laboring class, he himself being a farmer's boy and he had never witnessed a man working man digging but he felt he would like to take off his coat and apologize that the man should be working for him. He, however, in his capacity, was too given an opportunity to serve man. Speaking of the unequal distribution of wealth he said if God has given man the power to make money there is a place where God calls upon him to use it in the service of mankind.

Lost His Balance

The speaker said he felt the laboring man had somewhat lost his balance. There is something radically wrong with the Winnipeg strike when the man who has given his oath to serve has taken advantage of the present unrest. Probably the conditions arises not so much with the British workman as with the foreign element which a lax emmigration law has allowed into the country. If those men who are responsible for creating the unrest succeed in turning th laboring man aside they will produce a state of chaos similar to that of Russia.

Radically Wrong.

"It is my impresaion, the speaker continded, "that there is something radically wrong, and it is my personal opinion that it is largely that the people are flocking to the cities and not producing. If the people of the country are not going out to produce the country cannot expect to have enough. Back of all," he continued, is the ever present motive of selfishness. Selfishness on the part of the working man in seizing this moment of unrest, selfishness on the part of the man who has used conditions for his own personal aggrandisment

Optimistic View.

In an interesting address on the same subject as that of Rev. Frost, Rev. Wm. Higgs was inclined to take an optimistic view of conditions and emphasised the need of bringing the teachings of Jesus Christ upon the situation. Let us not he said lose our heads but keep them level in facing this period which is not by any means the worst that has ever faced th eworld but is in keeping with the world's history which invariably tells of periods of unrest following great wars. Let us apply the principles of the Holy Writ in solving the problems of to-day. In one sense we should be glad of a period of unrest as out of such, better conditions are built and it is hped that the present period may be taken advantage of to lift the Nation.

Musical Programme

During the evening a splendid musical programme was given to which Miss Etta Kempt and Rev. Mr. Beck of Apsley contributed solos.

Permanent Home.

Rev. Mr. Higgs made a plea for funds to buy a permanent home for the Missionary at Apsly which is the largest field in the Bay of Quinte Conference. Mr. Higgs stated that the present quarters are available for about $500.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"BILLETED."

Last seen here a number of years ago in "Green Stockings," the distinguished Canadian actress, Miss Margaret Anglin, returned to the Grand last evening in her New York success, "Billeted," a clever comedy that highly entertained a fair sized audience. "Billeted" is not a war play, although of course there is a war background. It deals with the case of Mrs. Taradine, whose husband has left her some years ago, owing to a difference of opinion. In her house is billeted an army colonel and a busybodying old maid, who questions the propriety of his being there under the circumstances. To save the situation Mrs. Tarodine pretends to have received a wire that her husband is dead. Immediately afterwards Capt. Rymill, the adjutant whom the Colonel is expecting, and who is to be billeted with him, arrives, and turns out to be the missing husband. The complications that ensue furnish the fun of the play.

The comedy was brilliantly acted. The role of Mrs. Taradine gave Miss Anglin a splendid chance to show her marked ability, and she took full advantage of the opportunity, making the part convincing and effective. The supporting company was uniformly excellent. Langdon Bruce gave a capable picture of Col. Dreedy, and Eric Bruce scored heavily as the errant husband. Miss Phyllis Birkett was loveable and realistic in an ingenue role, and the other parts were handled in sparkling fashion. The work of Harry Barfoot, as the vicar, and Ralph G. Kemmet as the Scotch banker, being particularly effective.

The performance was altogether one of the most enjoyable of the season and should have been greeted by a capacity audience.

WIDE PLATFORM TO QUAKER OATS WAREHOUSE FROM NEW BRIDGE

BOARD OF WORKS ADOPTED THIS SUBSTITUTION FOR PROPOSED RAMP—PREFERRED BY COMPANY AND APPROVED BY THE COMMITTEE.

MR. ROBT. STUART PRESENT

The Board of Works unanimously agreed last night to erect a platform from the Hunter Street Bridge to the third floor of the Quaker Oats Company's No. 2 warehouse, instead of the ramp which had been contemplated in the original plans. It will be as wide as the warehouse and will be constructed on reinforced concrete slabs mounted on stout piers. Its cost is estimated at $6,500. The proposed ramp was intended to provide an opening at one side of the bridge by which trucks and other vehicles could descend from the road to the yards. Mr. Robert Stuart, of the Quaker Oats Company's head office, Chicago, told the Board that the company preferred the platform, and expressed the opinion that it, when completed, would meet with the approval of the citizens. The city had proposed to build the ramp in the interests of the company, but the principal purposes which it was previously thought would be served, will be otherwise provided for. For example, Mr. Stuart said, it had been thought that the ramp would be a convenience for farmers hauling in grain, but as a matter of fact this business was comparatively light and the farmers could drive into the yards from Murray street.

Mr. Stuart was cordially received by the committee, as were also Mr. Cormack, the new superintendent of the local branch, Mr. George Edwards, the assistant superintendent, and Mr. Rathell, an engineer of the Leonard Construction Company.

The question was asked as to what effect the wide platform approach to the warehouse would have on the sidewalk traffic. The handrailing, of course, will be cut out in this section, but it will be extended along each side of the platform and will reach from the bridge to the corners of the warehouse, thus providing complete safety in that respect. Mr. Stuart replied that he did not expect the sidewalk traffic to be interfered with to any extent by the passage of vehicles from the bridge to the factory.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the platform be built in lieu of the ramp, and this resolution will be recommend to the Council.

Need a Retaining Wall

Mr. Stuart and Mr. Cormack spoke of the company's plans to erect a retaining wall along a section of the west boundary of their property to prevent the earth from the high bank being carried by rain down to the siding below. This work is required along part of the frontage between Brock and Murray streets, where a steep cut was made for trackage on the yard level of the propery. Mr. Stuart stated that the water seeped through the ground and washed the earth down into the yard. A drain will be built outside the wall with "weeping" tile drain leading down to a main string of tile at the bottom which will carry the water off to the river.

Mr. Stuart assured Mayor Duncan that the company would not object to any slight encroachment of the bridge upon their property on the east side of the river. If this were found necessary, a satisfactory arrangement could be easily concluded.

Mayor Duncan suggested that if the company would build workingmen's houses across the river they would be appreciated by employees, in view of the present scarcity of dwellings, but Mr. Stuart replied that the Quaker Oats Company had never considered any venture into this field, and added that it was unlikely that they would make the experiment in this city.

CIVIL SERVICE MUST SERVE, SAYS BORDEN

GOVERNMENT IS DETERMINED THAT LAW AND ORDER WILL BE MAINTAINED.

CONSCIOUS OF UNREST THROUGHOUT WORLD

OTTAWA, May 28.—Sir Robert Borden in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon made the following important statement regarding the Winnipeg situation.

"First, the Government is absolutely determined that law and order shall be maintained (general applause), second, the Governmnet is of the opinion that members of the civil service (in this case the postal employees) shall not be permitted to dislocate the public service under conditions such as have arisen in Winnipeg. They must make their choice as to whether they will serve the public as a whole or whether they will abandon once and for all the public service."

Sir Robert Borden's statement was made in answer to a question by Major G. W. Andrews of Winnipeg as to the Government's attitude in regard to "collective bargaining." Major Andrews declared that he was informed this was the cause of the sympathetic strike.

The Prime Minister said: "The Government is thoroughly conscious that throughout the world there are conditions of unrest which in some countries have reached a very acute stage. We are very sincerely hopeful that conditions in this country will not go so far."

SPENT MOST OF LIFE IN PRISON

MAN ARRESTED IN PETERBORO BECOMES POETICAL.

Apart from his criminal career which he admits has resulted in him spending most of his life behind the bars, the personality of Charlie Brew who is held here on the charge of breaking into Houzer's jewelry and clothing store in Lindsay, on the evening of Thursday, May 22, is one that is not unattractive. Brew had a brief conference with Adjutant Buntin before he was arrested, who advised him to give himself up and take his sentence. He told Brew that he would intercede for him with the headquarters Salvation Army patrol officer, and on his release fit him out in a new suit and outfit and find a job for him. After he was arrested Brew promised to communicate with Adjutant Buntin.

Brew told the press that he was educated in Douglas Public School, Douglas, England, "But, he added, bitterly, "I have attended school in prison most of my life." He is somewhat soured against society, but seems cheerful enough despite the fate which now threatens him. He was writing the following poem when seen, and asked that we see if the metre was correct:

THE RAT

(By Charles Edward Brew)

Through the bars of the jail he sawed his way
To freedom, and hope of a brighter day;
And freedom like wine entered into his brain—
He felt like a soul that is born again.
In a time of great stress he had made his mistake;
But no matter what happened he never would break
The promise he gave to a friend in his cell:
That promise he proved, he kept only too well.
He intended to live the right kind of a life;
To refrain from dishonesty, lying and strife,
And when he was starting out on his new way—
A rat blotted out the light of the day.
The rat born in darkness and dirt
Came out of his hole to betray and to hurt
This poor hunted creature who was seeking a place
Till his crime was forgotten—forgotten his face.
The rat has forever lost all hope of joy;
And his ill-gotten gold he can never employ:
For like Judas of old he will throw it away
And hide his vile face from the light of the day.

This skit was written by Brew and refers to Frank McCullough, the condemned murderer who escaped from Toronto jail. He stated that he never knew McCullough or saw him.

Brew has been taken to Lindsay for a preliminary hearing.

MR. GUISE-BAGLEY REPLIES TO MR. HONE

The Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I would not trouble to notice Mr. A. D. Hone's remarks at all so far as the scientific side of the prohibition question is concerned (for I have no interest particularly in it) were it not that he referred to me in his remarks. I want to say he must not be taken to have attempted to answer me. I take exception to his disparaging remarks as to the quality of my religion, a thing he knows nothing about, and to his way of belittling of the Bible. When you have a bad case it is said you should abuse the other side, and this is the kind of tactics adopted by him in touching on my challenge. How does he know to what extent I read the Bible? If he read it with an open mind diligently enough he would know more about its contents.

The world is full of temptations, and rightly so, if it were not we would become a nation of jelly fishes. To say that every time we do not abolish a temptation we are putting a stumbling block in our brother's way, is impliedly to say that God who made all things ought not to have permitted the temptation to have ever existed. Temptation is a thing we must meet and grapple with and overcome. To him that overcometh are all the promises made, not to him that alters God's world by any man-made trick or device that leaves nothing to be overcome. God deliberately put temptation in the Garden of Eden. It was necessary for man's perfection that he should be tried and tempted and I venture to say even Mr. Hone will not accuse the Almighty of putting a stumbling block in the way of Adam. Our Lord Himself went into the wilderness to be tempted. If He had not been tempted, He could not have said "I have overcome," John xvi. 33. He was a drinker of wine and was criticised by the prohibitionists of His day, Matt. xi, 19; Luke vii, 34. I have already referred to His making wine, John ii 1-11, and see Matt. xxvi 29.

The inspired Apostle Paul throughout his writings denounces in the strongest language drunkenness in every shape and form, I Cor. vi. 10, and v 11, Rom. xiii 13, Eph. v 18, 1 Thess. v 7, etc. He was a scholar, and said what he meant, and if total abstinence was more according to the gospel than moderation, he would have surely said so definitely. On the contrary, he recommended the use of intoxicating beverages, 1 Tim. v 23, and denounced the total abstainers of his day as hypocrites, Col. ii 21 (and what he said then is equally true to-day.) He said, "Every creature of God is good, and nothing is to be rejected (r.v.) if it be received with thanksgiving," 1 Tim. iv 4, and note what he says about this commanding to abstainers. He calls such "Doctrines of Devils" which he says are through the hypocrisy of men iv 1-3. Any unprejudiced person that has not "drink" so written over his eyes that he can see nothing else, may also by reading the Apostle's directions to Timothy and Titus who he sent as Apostle's delegates to ordain priests and deacons, see clearly that nothing was further from his mind than total abstinence. He told them to ordain men not given to MUCH wine, Tim. iii 8, Titus ii 3, 'temperate' Titus i 6. If the present generation of theologians were right, the Apostle would have said, "Do not ordain any man that uses wine at all." Ascetic as he was, almost a misogynist, he was not a teetotaller, and was clearly opposed to teetotalism. Moderation in all things was his maxim, true temperance was his teaching, Phil. iv. 5, Acts xxix 26, 1 Cor. ix 25, Gal. v 23, (and see verse 21 and St. Peter held the same doctrine (for they were both inspired) 2 Pet. i 6. Your prohibitionist of to-day is, the most intemperate of men, he cannot even use temperate language, and for want of a better argument suggests that the man that conscientiously differs from him has but little religion and does not read his Bible. He knows nothing of the power of the Holy Spirit to save a man in the hour of temptation, and avers that the moderate man is worse than a drunkard. The truth is this total abstinence is a snare of the Devil. It is the hand of the flesh and is not of God. Just as Uzza (2 Sam. iv 6, 1 Chron. ix 9) in his lack of faith put forth his hand so the men of to-day seek by their fleshly devices to bolster up the gospel thinking to save souls in their way instead of in the way of the Lord and His holy Apostles. They would remove all causes of temptation from the world, make sin impossible, as an easier way to the preachers to earn their salaries than teaching their flocks to let their moderation be known to all men. Altering God's word and vainly thinking they have made an improvement! The Khoran is the only book that contains their doctrines, they cannot find total abstinence in the Christian book.

One thing I omitted to notice. Mr. Hone said in the Bible there are "strong things said about the use of strong drink." This is not accurate. There are one or two references in the Old Testament on the subject, but the Christian book (the New Testament) does nothing of the kind. It says some very strong things about tthe abuse of strong drink (e.g. 1 Cor. vii 31) which is very different.

And as soon as he finds the Bible will not back him up in his theory, he throws the Bible overboard, and says it is not a book of specific regulations concerning human conduct. If he could quote a text that by any manner of twisting would back him up, he would quote it triumphantly. The best he can find is love thy neighbour as thyself, and in the last analysis this means if you find a man dying on the street or at house of heart failure he may die rather than allow him to have what God has provided for his relief and preservation.

I will not take up any more of your valuable space, although there is much to say, but I think the men that Mr. Hone considers better able than himself (some of the preachers) to interpret the Scriptures had better tackle the question and tell us what they would do to the Lord of Glory if He came to Peterborough to a wedding feast and made and supplied drinks to the guests, and if they can, refute my plain interpretation of the doctrines of the church on the subject as disclosed by the founders of our faith.

One word more. It is useless to quote 1 Cor. viii 13 in support of prohibition, so nobody need do so, for the following reasons:

First, the Apostle was referring to meats offered to idols, and the use of alcoholic beverages was not even under discussion, and second, even if it did have any reference to the "drink question" it does not support prohibition, and only puts it on the integrity of the individual to pursue a certain course of conduct in the presence of a given individual with particular failings, and in any case it leaves the free will intact which prohibition does not.

Mr. Hone winds up with a metaphor as amusing as it is incorrect, and as a parting shaft suggests that I do not accept all the teachings of the Bible. How does he get that knowledge? Let those that have glass houses not throw stones!

Yours, etc.,
Jas. G. Guise-Bagley.

GAVE A RECITAL

The Music Hall of the J. M. Greene Music Company was filled to overflowing at the recital given last night by Miss Isobel Donnelly and Miss Greta Giles, piano and vocal pupils respectively of Mr. F. E. Walden; with Mr. Frank Whitehouse, violinist, assisting. The recital was an immense success. Miss Donnelly played with fluent technique in a finished style, "The Two Larks" (Leschitzky), "To a Wild Rose" (Macdowell), The 4th Mazurka (Godard), and lastly the deservedly popular C minor Prelude, by Rachmaninoff, the Russian composer. Miss Giles revealed an excellently trained voice, pure in quality, and with brilliant and clear upper register, this being especially telling in "Il Baccio" (Arditi), and "Merrily I roam," by Scheiffarth. Her other numbers were: "The Swallows" (Cowen), "The Gipsy Trail" (Galloway), "Happy Days" (Strelizki), and lastly "A Little Pink Rose," daintily sung, indeed, quite the gem of all, the vocalisation being well-nigh perfect. Miss Donnelly and Mr. Walden played the Overture Semiramide (Rossini) as a duet, while Mr. Whitehouse' numbers were the overture "Caliph of Bagdad," by Boreleigh, and by special request a hymn, with variations, and obligato to the solo, "Happy Days," played in his well-known artistic style.

During an interval in the programme Miss Donnelly and Miss Giles were each presented with bouquets of flowers by little Miss Gwynne Anderson and Master Gordon Hughes, two of Mr. Walden's promising young pupils. At the close of the recital Miss Giles and Miss Donnelly were showered with congratulations, as was Mr. Walden, who, as a teacher, has certainly achieved wonderful results in the training of these two capable young artistes.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

Pimples are sure sign that the blood is not in its proper shape.

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisons or secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto Ont.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe And Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural colour dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR LOCAL CAMPAIGN.

Further arrangements for the evangelical campaign to be conducted by Evangelist H. D. Kennedy were completed at a meeting held on Sunday in the Y. M. C. A. It was decided to open the campaign on Sunday, 15th June. A mammoth tent is to be erected on the lot on Hunter Street, adjacent to the Bell Telephone Office. Evangelist Kennedy has had years of experience in the United States, where his efforts have been attended with very marked success. Recently he has conducted successful campaigns in Madoc, Oshawa, Thedford, and other Ontario points. Committees were appointed at a recent meeting to complete the various arrangements for the campaign. A special committee to deal with the musical features of the campaign has been appointed. A number of the churches are co-operating in the campaign, which promises to be one of great influence.

SAMOAN POLITENESS COSTLY

Etiquette Requires Islanders To Be Lavish With Host's Cigars.

HONOLULU, May 27.—Conceptions of politeness run many freakish gamuts, but in the opinion of Lieut. Com. Stanley M. Mathes, a visitor in Honolulu, the palm goes to the Samoans.

When a man tendered his Samoan servant a pack of cigarettes from which to extract a smoke, Commander Mathes grinned broadly. "You can't do that with all Samoans," said he. "Their conception of the proper thing to do is to take not one cigarette, but to take five."

Frequently when Samoan chiefs visit the naval officers at Pago Pago they demonstrate how polite they can be. For instance, when a box of cigars is placed on the table, the guest takes as many as he can get into one handful. When he is about to depart he goes to the box and takes another handful, a token of politeness. And be it said for the Samoan, that when a visitor enters a Samoan home said visitor is expected to be lavish in helping himself.

A RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

PUPILS OF MISS CORA WHITE PARTICIPATED.

Miss Cora White of the Conservatory of Music Faculty, presented a large number of her pupils in recital last evening a the Conservatory Hall which afforded a very pleasant hour for a large number of parents and friends present. The recital was another in the long list of musical events which are very popular and much enjoyed by friends of the Institution. The playing of the pupils shows the result of careful training on the part of their capable and charming teacher, and at the close of the programme Miss White was heartily congratulated on the success and work of her pupils.

Mrs. Paul Stoeving, wife of the noted violinist of New York City, who is visiting in Peterborough was present and expressed her pleasure and appreciation of the painstaking work of teacher and pupil. The assistance of Mae Perry, who gave an interesting "Habitant" reading, and Dora Brown from Miss Logan's Studio was much appreciated.

Took Part

The pupils taking part in the programme were: reported as more serious. Street cars had stopped, restaurants and hotels were closed or badly crippled, and the electric lighting system shut down. Police and firemen were said to be at work under orders from the Strike committee.

Elsie Bennett, Walter Bigelow, Helen Byers, Marion Hall, Kathleen Bateman, Ethel Perrin, Dorothy Hall Edith Killaly, Hazel Jackson, Violet Jackson, Mae Perry, Ruth Hamilton, Stanley Jones, Jean Ingram, Gladys Bateman, Jean McKinnon, Lena Johnston, Norma Ingram, Camilla Fitzpatrick, Connie Downs, Dora Brown, Lois Carley, Mildred Morphet, Louise White, Irene Staples, Agnes Snowdon, Mercedes Rae, Bernice Barnard, Helen Morphet, Agnes Sowdon, Dorothy Baskill.

MINISTER OF INTERIOR IS ON WAY TO OTTAWA

Some Going Back.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, via St. Paul, May 28.—Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, in an interview last night said that he could see no indication of an early settlement of the general strike which has been in progress here for nearly two weeks, although some of the strikers were going back to their work. The Senator said that officers of running trades of railroad organizations had a conference with the Strike committee and had definitely decided to take no part in this sympathetic strike because of the motives back of it. Premier Norris has positively declined to have anything to do with the appointment of a Board of Conciliation as suggested by the Strike committee, until the sympathetic strike is called off.

A Complete Tie-Up.

(By Jas. Kolbert.)

WINNIPEG, May 28.—A complete telegraphic and mail tie-up is the first step contemplated in a sympathetic strike, labour leaders said to-day. It is intended to sweep all western Canada. Christopher Severeid, of Victoria, B.C., President of the Amalgamated Postal Workers, between Port Arthur and Vancouver, notified all members of his organization to quit work by noon to-day. Commercial and press telegraphers in cities where favourable strike votes were recorded, were ordered to leave their keys at noon.

The general strike here may result in a political crisis, it was indicated here to-day. Strike leaders, editors and government officials said that the failure to lower the cost of living may result in a bitter political struggle. Living costs form the big factor in the strike which for almost two weeks has isolated this city. Strikers say they have been joined by many non-unionists who see in the movement a battle against high prices. Food is higher now than at any time in four years. This spring, the period of the year when food costs formerly descended, prices are rising. Butter sells at 80 to 85 cents. Across the border in Minnesota it is 40 to 45 cents. Other foods relatively high, are ten to twenty cents lower across the border. Labour leaders charge that foods are coming to Winnipeg in great quantities, but that dealers are storing them—holding for still higher prices. The anticipated demand from European countries, they add, is back of the practice. The strikers claim the dealers expect the foreign demand to run the prices into dollars instead of cents. Strike headquarters has issued no official statement regarding the possibilities of political action. Individually the members claim they have the support of non-union workers as well as hundreds of returned soldiers. The soldiers, they claimed, are dissatisfied with the living costs and with immigration matters. Some have claimed that immigrants from the United States have been given preference in land settlement projects.

Returned to Work.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 28.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, left Winnipeg for the east yesterday and will shortly reach Ottawa with his report on the strike situation. The report will be considered in Council and it is probable that upon it the government will base action for the future. To-morrow morning at ten o'clock Mayor Church and a delegation from Toronto will hold a conference with the Prime Minister and his colleagues on the Toronto situation, which at present is uncertain. Indications are that the Winnipeg situation is less serious than it was. Seventy postal employees have already returned to work and recruits are offering in larger numbers than can be taken. It is stated that more of the older employees would have returned had it not been for the crowd of pickets before the post office who vehemently advised the men not to go back. Sympathetic strikes are on at Brandon, Calgary and Edmonton, but it is stated that the situation in these cities is not so serious as it was in Winnipeg. Fifteen hundred are out in Calgary, including the Dominion Express and postal employees. The trainmen, however, are everywhere standing by their jobs. From Vancouver word has been received that the Trades and Labour Congress there will call for a sympathetic strike on the 31st of the month. It is stated, however, that the Citizens' committee has been organized and will work in conjunction with the civic authorities.

Rev. Mr. Greatrix Superannuated.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon it was recommended that Rev. B. J. Greatrix be superannuated. The matter was further dealt with this afternoon.

Lay delegates representing Peterboro city churches were Messrs. G. W. Powell, A. W. Crestman, T. J. Carr and Thomas Brown.

A DIFFERENCE.

They had become fast friends on the fields of Flanders, the Scots Presbyterian chaplain and the Roman Catholic padre, and their parting when they reached Blighty was sad and touching. Each thought of the days that had gone, of the efforts towards a common end that must now cease. "But," said the padre, "we have both been doing the work of God." "Aye, aye," responded the Scot, "you in your way, and I in His."

AGREEMENTS DISCARDED

SYMPATHETIC STRIKES, SAYS SENATOR ROBERTSON, ALWAYS FAIL.

STATEMENT TO PRESS

Canadian Press:

WINNIPEG, June 2.—Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, Dominion Minister of Labour, in a statement made to the press before leaving for Ottawa to confer with the Federal authorities, said that the promoters of the general strike in Winnipeg "now sit in the ashes of their folly," that "sympathetic strikes must always fail," and that the Winnipeg strike is "the first rehearsal of the play written at Calgary," where the One Big Union movement was launched last March.

DISCARDED THEIR AGREEMENTS.

Mr. Robertson's statement was as follows:

"The promoters of the general strike in Winnipeg now sit in the ashes of their folly. Something like 30,000 men and women were called out, professedly for the purpose of enforcing the recognition of the right of collective bargaining. In responding to the call the majority violated and repudiated their obligations to their own trade unions and their contracts with their employers. Individually and collectively they wilfully discarded their agreements, indicating that the possession of what they are contending for is of little value.

"Labour organizations which require that contracts made be fulfilled merit and command the respect of employers, of the public and of Governments. Labour leaders who advocate that only might is right, who hold that law, justice and honour should be discarded at will, merit and receive the condemnation of all good citizens."

DEFAULTER DRAWS MINIMUM PENALTY

LINDSAY, June 2. — William Madill, Haliburton County, who appeared before County Magistrate F. D. Moore on Saturday, under the Military Service Act, charged with failing to report for service, was fined $100 or six months in jail.

The Court was held at 9.30 o'clock. Mr. L. V. O'Connor, for the accused, and Crown Attorney Stinson and Mr. J. E. Anderson, conducted the prosecution. Inspector Ward, of Peterborough, was present at the trial.

The plea entered was one of ignorance of the law. The accused stated that he had never been on the train and never further south than Kinmount. Owing to the backward life he claimed to be ignorant of the law.

THE CHAUTAUQUA COMING TO PETERBORO

A REPRESENTATIVE MET THE LOCAL COMMITTEE ON THURSDAY LAST.

The local committee in charge of the arrangements and presentation of Chautauqua Week in Peterborough, met one of the travelling representatives on Thursday afternoon last and were shown the programme for this season, which is pronounced to be even a better one than last year." It comprises lectures, vocal and instrumental programmes by rare artists, a play by the same company as last year. Some of the most popular lecturers of last year will be here again, augmented by others of world-wide fame.

Several committees were drawn up and arrangements are progressing favourably. A meeting will be held on WWednesday night in the Board of Trade rooms at 8 o'clock to go into the matter further.

THE WEATHER

Sunday was an unusually hot day for so early a date. Ninety-one degrees was the highest point reached. Saturday was also very warm, 87 degrees in the shade being the maximum figure. This was also the warmest day in May. The coolest day during the month was the 6th, with 32 degrees. Almost twice the usual amount of rain fell, the total being 5.23 inches.—W.P.

Peace Treaty Was Handed to Austrian Delegates With Usual Instructions

NO ORAL DISCUSSIONS AND A FIFTEEN DAY TIME LIMIT IMPOSED —SUMMARY OF TEXT.

ADRIATIC CLAIMS

By Henry Wood.
(United Press.)

ST. GERMANE, France June 2.—The peace treaty was handed to the Austrian delegates at 12.30 p.m. today. The meeting did not continue until 12.25 owing to the late arrival of President Wilson. He was the last of the delegates to reach the Chateau, entering the hall at 12.14.

Premier Clemenceau, in his instructions to the Austrian delegates, informed them that no oral discussions would be allowed, and that all written observations must be submitted within a maximum of fifteen days.

While the treaty indicates generally the territory which Austria loses, the precise boundaries will be fixed later, either by the Allies or a mixed commission. It provides that Austria shall retain the northern boundary she had in 1914, with the Czecho-Slovak boundaries on the northwest, while on the south she will be assigned the boundaries fixed under the treaties of 1916, except the regions of Marburg and Klagenfurt, the allegiance of which will be decided by plebiscites. The treaty holds that the recent plebiscite in Voralberg, where the population voted to join Switzerland, is invalid and provides that Voralberg shall remain in Austria and pay her portion of the Austrian war debts and indemnity.

Adriatic Claims.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 2.— Terms of peace will be presented to the Austrians today with the problem of Adriatic claims of Italy unsolved. The Council of Four held a brief meeting before going to St. Germain this morning. Premier Orlando, of Italy, was present. During the meeting the Adriatic question was discussed. Austria was given fifteen days to reply to the terms of peace presented by the Allied nations. M. Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, was the first prominent figure to arrive to-day at the meeting, at which the terms of peace were presented.

A Summary.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 2.—Following is a summary of the text of the Austrian peace terms received here by the government, and issued to the Canadian Press:

London, June 1.—The conditions of peace of Allied and Associated Powers, with the exception of military reparations, financial and boundary clauses, were handed to the Austrian plenipotentiaries to-day. Those clauses which are not yet ready for presentation will be delivered as soon as possible, the Austrians in the meantime having an opportunity to begin work on the greater part of the treaty in an effort to facilitate the greater decision.

The Austrian treaty follows exactly the same outline as the German and in many places is identical with it, except in name. Certain specific clauses which applied only to Germany, are of course omitted, and certain new clauses of particular applicability of Austria, are included, especially as regards new States created out of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Austria is left by treaty a State of six million inhabitating territory of between fifty thousand and sixty thousand square miles. She recognises the complete independence of Hungary with a population of fifty million and 200,000 square miles. Austria agrees to accept the League of Nations covenant and labour charter, to renounces all her extra European rights, to demobilize her whole naval and aerial forces, to admit right of trial by Allied and Associated Powers of her nationals guilty of violating laws and customs of war and to accept detailed provisions, similar to those of the German treaty as to economic conditions and freedom of transit.

A Big Gathering.

The Austrian representatives arrived at 12.20 o'clock, entering the chamber by the rear entrance. The delegates were attired in conventional morning dress. The Austrians were escorted in by an Italian officer. Immediately upon their arrival at 12.30 o'clock the session was formally opened by an announcement of the head usher. Premier Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, immediately began his address. M. Clemenceau spoke for only three minutes. The hall was densely packed, many of the secretaries having been admitted to the Chamber, and the denseness of the throng detracted somewhat from the impressiveness of the ceremony. The entire peace treaty was not presented to the Austrians to-day, and fifteen days' stipulation with regard to their reply therefore, refers only to the portion of the terms handed them at to-day's session.

PICTURE WILL BE AWARDED BY THE COMMITTEE IN CHARGE.

By a majority of 59 Central School headed the polls in the War Savings Competition for the splendid picture of the Review of the British Fleet at Quebec in 1908 and the picture will be awarded as soon as arrangements can be made with the committee in charge.

The Figures.

The results of the competition was Central 257, Queen Mary 208, Queen Alexandra 130, King Edward 48, King George 9. The entire competition was handled by the management of the Woolworth Store.

THE STRIKE IN TORONTO

STRIKE COMMITTEE FAILED TO GIVE OUT USUAL MORNING STATEMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 2. — The representatives of the Toronto firemen this morning withdrew their ultimatum to the City Council in which a strike was threatened unless granted their demand for a new wage scale.

The withdrawal was a feature of the developments in the strike situation. The decision of the street railwaymen to refrain from a sympathetic strike, it has resulted in a pessimistic attitude on the part of many of the strike leaders.

Implementing the decision of Saturday night the members of the Marine Workers' Federation stopped work this morning. It is estimated that about three hundred workers walked out from the various yards.

Estimates on the total number of workers on strike are conflicting but it is generally admitted to be between twelve and fifteen thousand.

Representatives of the Central Strike Committee place the number definitely at fifteen thousand.

Members of the Central Strike Committee of fifteen failed to give out the usual morning statement regarding the progress of the strike.

An endeavour is to be made by the Metal Trades Council to enlist sympathy from the workers in Eastern Canada.

TORONTO HOLY NAME REPRESENTATIVES HERE

To show their interest and good wishes toward the Holy Name Societies of Peterboro, the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society of Toronto, was represented at Sunday's ceremony here by some of its officers, and individual societies also sent some of their members. Two front rows in the body of St. Peter's Cathedral were reserved for the visitors, among whom were the following: A. Dwyer, President; J. O'Hagan, Past President, and G. McDonald, of the Archdiocesan Union; F. Micelli, of the Big Brothers' Club; James Boccio, and J. A. Hyland, agent for the St. Vincent de Paul and Children's Aid Societies.

WAS KILLED INSTANTLY

CEDAR STREET HOME BEREAVED—CHILD STRUCK BY A MILK TRUCK.

FUNERAL TO-DAY

Edward O'Riley, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis O'Riley, 476 Cedar street, was almost instantly killed on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when a milk truck owned by the Shearer Cheese Factory, struck him. The little lad, with his mother and sister, Geraldine, had gone out to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hogan, the latter the proprietor of the cheese factory, which is about eight miles out on the Norwood road, and in the evening he and his little children had been taken for a ride on the truck, which was at the time loaded with about 6,000 pounds of milk. At the gate of Mr. Hogan's house the driver let the little children off the cart, and she girl, who was the elder, ran towards the house. The little boy, however, with the evident intention of having another ride, ran back towards the truck and was struck below the heart. The driver immediately stopped the truck and the little boy was carried to the house, but in twenty minutes life was extinct, due, in Dr. Gallivan's opinion, to shock. The boy was just three years and three months old. Interment took place at St. Peter's cemetery this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RUMOURED FIRE WAS DISTURBANCE ON SUN

Rumours of a fire "in the north country" that was supposed to have occurred some time during the night or early morning were rife to-day. When Chief Grange was asked if he had heard anything of the reports, he replied: "That's the same story that's been heard all the way to Orillia. A traveller told me this morning that there were rumours of a big fire also in the "north country," but all that I can say is that the people have kindled that fire from last night's sunset. You may have seen in Saturday's papers the astronomers' accounts of vast solar disturbances. The sun they have observed has been throwing out great flames and that may have been the cause of the spectacle in the sky last night."

Chief Grange didn't say that a fire alarm had been sounded in the heavens.

Last night's afterglow was a beautiful and awesome sight. As the sun descended below the horizon the sky was illumined with dissolving colours of amber, yellowish green, pinks and reds that shaded off into purples that left a dull lingering light along the north-western horizon long after dark.

INCREASE IN THE POPULATION

Triplets, two boys and a girl, with an aggregate weight of 17 1-2 pounds, were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Doris, 420 Bolivar street. The three children who are perfectly normal are, like thier mother, doing splendidly.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR MONTH OF MAY

The building permits for May of this year totalled 26, with a value of $9,350.00, while last year's list showed only 25, but with a value of $94,255.00. The great difference in the values is the building activities of the Bonner-Worth Co. with $5,000.00 permit, Duffus Garage $11,000.00, Bradburn's $16,000.00, Fred Trebilcock $8,000.00, Peterborough Canoe Co. $10,000.00, and R. Neill, Ltd., $35,000.00.

NEW SITUATION.

NEW YORK, June 2. — The Associated Press this morning issued the following:

Austria's delegates at St. Germain, received to-day the terms of peace formulated by the allied and associated powers. The Austrians were given 15 days to reply.

Meanwhile a situation which may affect the peace settlement with Germany has arisen through the proclamation of an independant republic of the Rhine province, stretching along the frontiers of Holland, Belgium and Luxemburg, and extending from the Lowlands along the Dutch border to the hills of the Sarre. This province contains vast fields of coal and iron, great industrial cities and centres of some of the most important textile manufacturers in Germany.

Thousands of Returned Soldiers Take Active Part In the Winnipeg Strike

BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING WAS BOOED AND CITIZENS COMMITTEE CAME IN FOR A GENERAL DEMONSTRATION.

WINNIPEG STRIKE

(By J. J. Conklin, Copyright.)

NOYES, Minn., June 1.—Returned soldiers have entered into the general strike in an unexpected and menacing manner. Following their visits to Premier Norris they gained in momentum Saturday soon on their march back from the Legislative Halls, and gathering thousands in their long circling chain of the return march down Main street, they reached the city hall in numbers that delayed traffic on a number of streets, over-flowed across the wide expanse of green that fronts Winnipeg's home of civic employees. The pressure was so great that the iron fence running along the north side of oasis went down to earth just as the bar of the house at the entrance of the Legislative chamber was smashed and crushed earlier in the day by the pressing crowd. All the way along the route of march cries of "we are the citizens, not the Citizen committee." "We'll show the Citizens' committee who are the citizens," "We fought for a dollar ten a day; now we want a living wage."

The Board of Trade building was booed, also all big stores where the clerks are still working and where a strike has been declared. Their sympathy with the strikers was shown on every possible opportunity. Dozens of flags filched from lapels of citizens were worn. Soldiers declared that the flag was being prostituted when worn as a badge by the Citizens' committee of a thousand. Up the steps of the city hall they swarmed, carrying everything before them. All obstacles before them were swept aside.

Invaded the City Hall.

Like the long stream of transports that moved steadily towards the front line in days when these same men were in the front line trenches, this mass of men in dogs of peace went until half they proceeded, carrying consternation into the ranks of the Police Commission and City Council who were sitting impatiently waiting for the hour of the ultimatum to the police to expire so that they might lop off the heads of the force. They demanded a conference with the Mayor and Aldermen and tried to get into the Council Chamber. The crowd was so dense that every available space was taken up with a shouting, wiggling, threatening sea of faces that would not be argued with. Mayor Charles Grey, seeing the plight the aldermen, were in, offered to hold a meeting on the steps in front of the City Hall, since it was impossible for the crowd to enter the chamber.

In the meantime the crowd waiting outside alternated cheers and hisses, according as individuals shouted new cries. Civic employees working in the City Hall were hissed whenever they were seen at windows.

Addressed the Crowd.

Mayor and members of the Council went out to the steps, where the Mayor was introduced to the crowd by Wm. Bathie.

"The Mediation committee, consisting of representatives of railway running trades have agreed with the City Council that policemen and firemen should not join the sympathetic strike," Mayor Grey told the crowd of returned soldiers.

"These men who are trying to conciliate all the troubles in Winnipeg have agreed with us that the police and firemen should not join or participate in any disputes between employers and employees in this city," the Mayor declared.

"Only on this principle could the city retain the police and firemen," Mayor Grey asserted. His announcement was greeted with loud hisses and a faint cheer.

"I am the last man in the City of Winnipeg who wants to see the military in control here," Mayor Gray went on.

"I have tried in the last two days and nights to prevent a police crisis and we are hopeful yet that the crisis will be averted," he said.

British Fair Play.

"I am a Britisher and am strong for British fair play, and if you men won't stop interrupting me, I will stop speaking," when a number of men threatened to become disorderly. His announcemnet coupled with a plea by Mr. Bathie, again brought order although the crowd cheered and hissed in turn while the Mayor paused between statements.

"Men," said the mayor, "I have been elected by this community to direct the city's affairs. The council is also in power as a result of a fair election. We have powers, and we are going to administer them whenever in our opinion it is necessary."

"We have taken certain action in regard to some of our employees who have gone on strike. We are taking other steps in connection with other civic employees. We will con-

CITY FIREMEN WILL NOT STRIKE

HAVE WITHDRAWN THE ULTIMATUM PRESENTED TO CITY COUNCIL.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 2. — The city firemen to-day decided not to go on strike and withdrew the ultimatum presented on Saturday to the city Council.

WILL THEY NEGOTIATE?

HUN DELEGATE SEES LITTLE PROSPECT OF AN UNDERSTANDING.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, June 2.—Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, asked by the representative of the European Press Bureau, whether he believed the German counter proposals would lead to negotiations according to a Berlin despatch to the Wireless Press, said he had cured himself of the habit of believing in such things. The chairman of the German delegation added: "I will do what I think right and await results. The French press began the game of asking, 'Will they negotiate?' according to an article in the 'Tempa,' on Wednesday. Our opponents seem to assume that the German counter proposals go beyond the limits within which they want to grant us a discussion. If this article interprets the view of the enemy leaders, I believe the real prospect of an understanding is small."

Canadian Press:

PARIS, June 2.—The reply of the Allied and Associated Governments to the German counter proposals, the "Echo de Paris" declares, will be handed to Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau on Friday. It will constitute a refusal of the German proposals. The Germans, the paper adds, will be told they must either accept or refuse the Allied conditions before June 23.

OILING OF STREETS HAS BEEN COMMENCED

Road oil is being laid on Aylmer, McDonnel, George and Water streets, City Engineer Parsons reported today. The present supply was left from last year, and the first car of an order placed some time ago is expected to arrive shortly.

The clouds of dust that hung over the city on Sunday was a disagreeable reminder that the pleasures of summer sometimes have attendant nuisances. The dust was blown up and churned by hundreds of automobiles and hung like a heavy dirty mist in the streets.

VOTERS' LEAGUE TUESDAY EVENING

The regular meeting of the Women Voters' League will be held on Tuesday, June 3rd at 7:45 p.m. in the Art Room at the Public Library, (first room to the right downstairs).

Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, will give an address on the Municipal Government of Peterboro.

IN MEMORIAM

STANLEY.—In loving memory of Lance-Corporal Fred Stanley, killed in action at the Battle of Zillebeke, 2nd June, 1916.

Sleep on, beloved! Sleep, and take thy rest;
Lay down thy head upon thy Saviour's breast.
We love thee well, but Jesus loves thee best.
Good-night, good-night.
Gone, but not forgotten.
—From his Wife and Son.

To the memory of Corp. Fred Stanley, killed in action June the 2nd, 1916:

Memory gives birth to a well known form,
Envolving a hand, a face and a voice,
I clasp his hand and call him Fred,
I see his face, although he bled
On Flander's field, he is not dead,
He lives above, so let's rejoice.
—E. Pemberton.

CUFFE.—In memory of Private Trevor (Ted) Leggette Cuffe, who fell for the cause of right, 2nd June, 1916.

A GRAND WIND-UP

MISS CONSTANCE BOULTON, TORONTO, LEAVES THE ORDER ALLEGING DISLOYALTY.

THE NEW PRESIDENT

MONTREAL, June 2. — There was a dramatic finale to the I.O.D.E. convention at the Ritz Carlton on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Constance E. Boulton, for seven years regent of the Chambertin Chapter of Toronto, and a member of the Order since its foundation, tendered her resignation, alleging reprehensible and disloyal actions by a few members, and left the meeting.

The resignation of Miss Boulton came as a surprise. She had been closely identified with the work of the Order during the past year, being national organizing secretary and school lecturer in Ontario for the joint committee of the I. O. D. E. and Navy League.

After eight years as president of the most important woman's organization Mrs. A. E. Gooderham has retired from office, and Mrs. John Bruce has been elected in her stead. Mrs. Gooderham's farewell address was among the best features of the whole meeting, showing as it did true patriotic feeling and unselfish interest in the Order.

THE NEW BATHING PLACE.

Although the City Council has many other important matters to consider at to-night's meeting, which will be featured by a labour demonstration, the question of bathing facilities, which will be brought forward through the report of the special committee appointed to select a site, should not be crowded out of the programme. The hot wave has caused an unusually early opening of the bathing season, so that it is necessary that any action that is to be taken by the Council to provide better accommodation should be taken at once. The committee has recommended that the new bathing beach be established at the foot of [illegible] Street, a site that would seem to be an ideal one for the purpose. It would admirably serve the people of the southern part of Peterborough, while it is reached easily by street car from the other sections of the city. There is no current at this point, so that the conditions are conducive to safety, while a fine sandy beach makes it a splendid place for the little folks and for their elders who have not learned to swim. For these the site selected has been a favourite bathing place of the south-end youngsters, and probably no better location could have been chosen. The Council should lose no time in proceeding to put it into shape if the citizens are to benefit this season.

TITLES.

After two sessions' consideration, the Canadian House of Commons, by a large majority, has taken very decided action against the system of conferring Imperial honours on Canadians. A somewhat lavish distribution of knighthoods and the conferring of a few honours of a hereditary character brought about an agitation which resulted in the very sweeping resolution adopted by the House of Commons on Thursday last. Probably the hereditary honours were the chief cause of the hostility that was displayed towards the whole honours system. Something can always be said for the conferring of an honour on any man of distinction; but it is not easy to find any reason for passing on that honour to future generations. Even in conservative old England there will soon be some reformation of the ancient laws respecting the House of Lords. As for Canada, practically nobody here attempts to defend the hereditary system. Public opinion, once aroused on the subject, was not careful to discriminate between the hereditary honours and others. The rather free distribution of knighthoods in recent years afforded material which, in conjunction with the hereditary honours, enabled critics of the whole system to win a considerable measure of sympathy. The question was not one on which there was much manifestation of public opinion. Probably many readers think the decision too sweeping. It would be a mistake to suppose that the strong vote of the House of Commons could have been given in the existence of a widespread dissatisfaction with the manner in which the honours have been conferred.

The vote of our House of Commons does not impair the right of the King to confer these honours if he desires to do so. But, as a matter of practical politics, the House of Commons' action will prove effective. It is well understood that while, as in a thousand other cases, the name of the Crown is used in the conferring of honours, the favours are distributed on the advice of his Cabinet. The action of the House of Commons is tantamount to a request to Canadians, even against the advice of the Canadian Government. In the face of the action of the House of Commons in the address to His Majesty will be adopted, no Canadian Government will feel free to recommend the granting of these honours in future.—Journal of Commerce.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

Developments over the week-end indicate that there is a distinct change for the better in the strike situation, and that there is but little danger of Toronto being the victim of a complete "tie-up," along the lines followed in Winnipeg. The Toronto labor man is apparently more reasonable and sane-thinking than his western comrade, and has begun to realize that a sympathetic strike, which involves suffering and inconvenience to the public, to thousands of citizens who are not involved in the matters under dispute, cannot fail to alienate that public support without which no movement can hope to succeed. Consequently we find the members of many of Toronto's trade unions voting strongly against striking, and these adverse votes are undoubtedly a shock to the Central Strike Committee who had planned a demonstration on hug lines. There must be especially keen disappointment over the decision of the street railway men to remain at work. Their going out would have been felt by all classes in Toronto's population, and their action in very strongly voting against participation in the strike, will be a blow to the plans of the leaders. Other unions have taken a similar vote and the situation in Toronto to-day is much brighter than the most optimistic citizen could have foreseen last week.

APPOINTING AN ALDERMAN.

Mr. Thomas Tooms, business agent of the Laborers' Union, in his letter to the press to-day, in reference to the Examiner editorial on the appointment of a successor to ex-Ald. Murray, declares that our article makes it clear that Alderman Turner was elected as a Board of Trade candidate. The Examiner did not make any such statement. It simply took the position that it would be as logical to appoint a Board of Trade member to succeed Ald. Turner, if he were to resign, as it is to ask the council to appoint a labour man simply because the man whose place he is taking, happened to be one.

The Examiner maintains that in the appointment of a new alderman to succeed ex-Ald. Murray, the Council should see to it the best available man for the position should be selected. If in the judgment of the Council Mr. Joseph Crowe is that man, then his appointment should be decided upon. His standing as a labour man should neither favour nor handicap him as an applicant for the position. If he is the right man there is nothing more to be said; if he is not considered the best qualified candidate for the position, he should not be pitchforked into the council merely because he is the selection of any particular portion of the city's population.

THE GOVERNMENT'S FAILURE.

The industrial situation and the high cost of living are to be debated in the House of Commons. Having spent months in futile talk about matters of little concern, while the present crisis was rapidly developing, Parliament is at last slowly awakening to the fact that the labor unrest in Canada forms a menace to the growth and prosperity of the Dominion. There is no question that the Government's indifferent and careless attitude has aggravated the trouble. The utter failure of the administration to realize that the high cost of living, the complete absence of any sign that the government intended to take any steps that would curb the profiteers and bring the necessities of life down to a price level where they within reach of the workers, have caused the state of mind which has made possible the strikes in the west and elsewhere. Thousands of level-headed, responsible workingmen who under other conditions would have realised the folly of such demonstrations, have been driven by the feeling that the government was allowing the profiteering class to feed upon them, to participate in these strikes. They were rendered desperate by the enormous prices of everything they had to buy, and through the knowledge that the government was doing nothing to help them. The Borden administration cannot evade responsibility for much of the trouble. It has been dead to the appeals from all parts of the country for relief from higher prices; it has ignored the development of the present situation; it has failed to give any indication that it is competent to govern this country. Never was there greater need of strong, sane, leadership in Canada; never was there less hope of obtaining it from the ruling government.

FIRST PUBLIC ASSEMBLY OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY LARGELY ATTENDED

ESTIMATE OF MORE THAN 1,000 MEN ATTENDED DEVOTIONAL EXERCISES AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL ON SUNDAY—SERMON PREACHED BY REV. J. E. BURKE.

THE MEMBERS RECEIVED PROMISES

Holy God we praise Thy name!
Lord of all we bow before Thee,
All on earth Thy sceptre claim,
All in heaven above adore Thee.
Infinite Thy vast domain,
Everlasting is Thy name.

This verse from the concluding hymn sung by approximately nine hundred men, members of the Holy Name societies of the parishes of Peterborough and nearby communities, at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday afternoon, breathed the spirit and suggested the objects of this Catholic society, which were explicitly enunciated when the large congregation of men with right hands raised solemnly renewed their promises to venerate the name of Jesus. The hymn of the Holy Name brought to a close the first annual public assembly and procession of members of the branches in the parishes of St. Peter's, the Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception, also of Ennismore, Lakefield, Douro and Norwood, and in every detail the ceremony was an impressive act of faith. Although organized only within the past year, yesterday's attendance demonstrated the appeal of this Society to Catholic men, and in his words of commendation, Bishop O'Brien expressed the hope that before long every Catholic man would be enrolled.

The nave of the Cathedral was completely occupied and the remaining members were seated in the transept. Women and children filled the rest of the church. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien stood in the sanctuary in a soft glow of lights. Floral decorations, the work of the Sisters of St. Joseph, added to the beauty of the scene.

After the hymn "O Sacred Heart," the Litany of the Holy Name was recited by Rev. Dean McColl, and after the sermon the members repeated their pledge with Rev. J. V. McAuley, of Ennismore. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, with Bishop O'Brien officiating, concluded the devotion, all the hymns being sung by the congregation.

The clergy of the three churches assisted in the devotional ceremonies, together with Rev. Father Foley, editor of the Catholic Record, Father Cantillon of Toronto, and Fathers Galvin of Downeyville, McAuley of Ennismore and Bretherton, of Hastings.

President Dwyer and Secretary McDonald, of the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Societies of Toronto, were present as an evidence of their interest. They were accompanied by representatives from each Holy Name Society in Toronto.

Rev. John E. Burke, of the Paulist Order, delivered the sermon, which was a succinct exposition of the need of faith in man's affairs. Faith, he said, was the highest development of the will and intellect, and must be the foundation of all national and religious greatness. Man's conduct was dictated largely by his education and religion and was therefore influenced by his faith.

Bishop O'Brien congratulated the united societies upon their first public procession. It was very encouraging that a large body of men should show their faith and love for the holy name of Jesus. Bishop O'Brien appealed to the men to be faithful to their promises, to venerate the Holy Name in a positive way, but also negatively, refraining from profane language and the bad story.

Gypsies in the Army.

Whoever else may be demobilized quickly, it is unlikely that the many gypsies who are serving in the army will be parted with easily—that is, if commanding officers have any say in the matter.

The genuine Romany is too valued an acquisition to a cavalry regiment, or to any mounted unit like the Army Service Corps or the Royal Horse Artillery, to be parted with lightly.

He knows probably quite as much about the ailments of horses as does the average army "vet," more about the best methods of shoeing the tender-footed ones than the farrier-sergeant, and more about breaking in and riding the obstreperous ones than the riding master.—Tit-Bits.

SPECIAL SERVICE ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

"FRATERNITY THAT EXPANDS" WAS THE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS BY REV. W. H. WHITE.

"Fraternity That Expands" was the topic of the sermon preached yesterday by the Rev. W. H. White at St. Luke's Church, with the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters in attendance.

The preacher took as his text 1st Peter 4 7-10: "The end of all things is at hand. . . . Have, therefore, fervent charity among yourselves. . . . As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God."

A citizen of an Ontario town, while still in health and in middle age, had caused a monument to be erected in the local cemetery, inscribed with his name and with the text: "The time is short." Since he lived many years afterwards, the matter became a subject of amusement among his fellow-citizens. Yet, Mr. White suggested, the sentiment remembrance of the swift approach of the end of earthly life was entirely Christian, just as the instinct of the worldling was to persuade himself even on the brink of the grave that the end was far off. The point involved, however, was not so much the occurrence of physical death as the close of life's opportunities. From this point of view death occurred many times in a man's life; that is, with the termination of each period which it was possible to use for inward growth or outward service.

It was futile, therefore, to merely sentimentalize about the transitions of life—to shake one's head and say, "In the midst of life we are in death," and then go on as usual, carelessly wasting times of opportunity.

A Sentimentalist.

St. Peter was no sentimentalist. His warning that "The end of all things is at hand" was followed by the practical suggestion, "Have, therefore, fervent charity among yourselves." Attention was drawn to the fact that by charity was meant both good will and good works, or in one word, "fraternity." Moreover, the original word for "fervent" might with equal accuracy be rendered "expanding." This interpretation was confirmed by the subsequent remark about charity "covering a multitude of sins"—not one's own sins, but the sins of one's brother man.

The spirit of the unfraternal man was narrow and restricted in its range of sympathy. It omitted to cover the frailties or supply the needs of anyone else. It might be compared to an umbrella. It was the spirit of the "profiteer," whether the latter were a capitalist or a labourer. "Every man for himself," said the profiteer, adding piously, "and God for us all!" The fraternal motto was "God for us all, and every man for his brother."

Fraternal Spirit.

We were intended not to live our lives under an umbrella, but, as it were, in a tent—a tent that should keep extending itself to shelter ever more and more occupants. In its primitive and least developed form it was just big enough for a family. Then it expanded to take in a clan. The utmost limit to which as yet the fraternal spirit had expanded was the patriotism which regarded the nation as a family and fellow-citizens as brothers. But to the genuine spirit of fraternity there could be no final limit; its very nature was to keep on indefinitely "stretching out." To limit one's sympathy and sense of responsibility to a class, a nation, or even a colour, was to be false to the essential spirit of brotherhood.

Such considerations enabled one to say that the ideal of such societies as the C. O. F. was distinctly Christian in so far as they aimed at fraternal service in widening range. There was always, however, the danger of departing from the path upon which they had entered—by losing their elasticity, by taking on a character of selfishness in devoting themselves to sectional interests, or at worst fostering a spirit of antagonism towards those outside their borders.

Losing Touch.

That was why no society could afford to lose touch with the Church of God. This was the first, greatest, and ever-enduring fraternal society. Its symbol was nothing narrower than the all-covering sky, "wherewith encompassed, great and small in peace and order move." Its charter was, "Go into all the world" and bind all men into a universal brotherhood. And with the Church's commission was linked the assurance of that which every merely human society lacked, namely, sufficient and limitless power—the power of the Divine Spirit of brotherhood, for which at this special time the Church was praying. In the household of the Church "every man," high and low, rich and poor, had entrusted to him a rich share of the manifold gifts of God. Let us not neglect to minister the same one to another, as good brothers and good stewards!

The preacher wished continued prosperity and success to the C. O. F. Might they find in the Order one useful sphere in which to exercise their Christian responsibilities. Might they also find in the divine and eternal society of the Church a perennial fountain-head of inspiration and power.

NOW as never before! The great readjustment of all business following the sudden termination of the War offers you a WIDE OPEN OPPORTUNITY to Sell or to Buy.

There exists in nearly every line a SHORTAGE of MERCHANDISE which creates a big field for WANT AD. ADVERTISING of USED Machinery, SECOND-HAND AUTOMOBILES, HOUSEHOLD GOODS, etc., etc.

The RENTING SITUATION, too, is a complete reversal of WAR CONDITIONS. On one hand Manufacturers are CLAMOURING for Factory Space for Peace Time purposes, and with others there is a corresponding FERMENT to UNLOAD factory space rendered useless by the ending of the War. And so it is with Houses and Rooms, Stores and Storage.

All this means MORE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

Furthermore, there exists a badly balanced condition in the DEMAND and the SUPPLY of LABOUR of ALL kinds. This offers great possibilities for HELP WANTED and SITUATIONS WANTED WANT ADS.

There also exists an ABUNDANCE of WANT AD. business created by the desire to BUY and SELL Businesses, Farm Lands, Real Estates, etc., etc.

PLAY LINDSAY NEXT

Before a big crowd of fans the Peterborough Central Ontario League club handily won its first home league fixture of the season at Riverside Park on Saturday, beating Cobourg by 10 runs to 1. The showing of the home team was entirely satisfactory to the crowd, and although a blow-up on the part of the whole Cobourg outfit in the third innings took the "pep" out of what otherwise would have been a lively battle, the fans were so delighted with the splendid work of the Petes that they did not mind the one-sided score.

"Bun" Frost, the young pitcher of Matthews-Blackwell team, did the ning for the Petes, and made a job of it, holding Dick Turpin Company to five hits. Up to the h innings the visitors went hitless. y managed to bunch two in that on for their only run, but a single ch of the last three innings was best they could do afterwards. t had good control and his curve was working smoothly. THE TWO LEADING CITY LEAGUE TEAMS TO MEET

To-morrow night's game in the City Baseball League is one of the most important in the schedule as it brings together the two leading teams in the league, the Matthews-Blackwell and the De Laval outfits. The Packers are out in front with three wins and no losses, while De Lavals are a game behind them. A victory for De Laval will tie the two teams and also bring the Orientals, who are a game behind De Lavals up in the running again, so there is naturally unusual interest in the clash. Both teams will be at full strength. The Packers will be reinforced by Swanston, who has been given a clean sheet by the C.A.A.U., and the Ontario Baseball Association, and who will do the back stopping for them, while it is expected that Meredith Huycke, who has not been seen in City League Ball since 1915, when he enlisted for overseas, will be on the rubber. Prest and Bergoine will be the De Laval battery. The game should be one of the best City League fixtures of the season.

eral nice plays on awkward grounders, as well as two nice catches of foul flys, and Hagerman at second acted as the pivot for two double plays, and took care of everything that came his way. Long covered first base faultlessly, accepting fourteen chances. Soden looked after the backstopping in great style. Heenan was the only outfielder who had anything to do and he grabbed off two flies in good style.

Outside of the third innings, when the Petes scored seven runs, the visitors did not look so badly. That session was a nightmare. Higginbotham, Cobourg's much-vaunted twirler, was not hit hard, but he helped in his own downfall in the fatal third by handing out three walks and making two deliberate balks, the first of which sent a run in. There were two out when the fun started, and a combination of tow hits, three complimentaries, two balks and a half dozen errors gave the Petes seven counters and cinched the game for them. It was a terrible exhibition.

Skitch succeeded Higginbotham in the sixth and held the Petes to three hits and one run for the, balance of the game. Higginbotham went from the box to centre field, and after dropping an easy fly, tore off the two sensational fielding plays of the day. In the seventh he gathered in Long's fly to left centre, after a long run, and in the eighth came back with the real fireworks when he robbed Cavanah of a hit by tearing in and grabbing his fly to short left centre with his gloved hand. It was one of those catches that are often dreamed of by budding ball players, but that seldom happen. Higginbotham was at full speed when he reached the ball, grabbing it with one hand at, inch or two off the ground. The Cobourg player got a great hand from the crowd when he came in from the field.

The game was opened with fitting ceremonies. Mayor Duncan, after a short address, pitched the first ball, Ald. Taylor went behind the bat, and President Copping, of the Peterborough Club, was the batsman. After fouling one, he hit a grounder to second base and the game was on.

First Innings.

Cobourg.—Cavanah threw out Butler. H. Skitch died on a roller to Cherrett. Turpin fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough. — Cherrett was thrown out on a bunt. Heenan and Hagerman went out on grass-cutters to W. Skitch. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Cooburg.— Cavanah extinguished W. Skitch on a grounder to third. Cherrett nailed Irwin's skipper and threw him out. Cavanah made a nice catch of Climo's fly back of third. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.— Long beat out a slow one to the box and went to second on a wild pitch. Cavanah walked. Kenneally fanned, and Connell, after dropping the third strike, made a bad throw to first, the base runners moving up on the needless error. It was a "bone" on the part of Connell, as the batter was out anyway. Long scored on a wild pitch. Wade's fly was captured by Butler, who also threw out Soden. One run, one hit, one error.

Third Innings.

Cooburg.— Cavanah made a nice running catch of Laflesh's foul fly. Connell was safe on Cavanah's wide throw to first. Higginbotham hit to Cherrett, who nailed Connell was a quick peg to Hagerman. Soden made a fine play on Butler's roller in front of the plate, getting the runner by a perfect throw. No runs or hits, one error.

Peterborough. — Frost walked, Cherrett fanned, and Frost was out at second trying to steal on the third one. Heenan walked and stole second. Hagerman singled to centre, Heenan being held at third. Hagerman stole second. Long walked, filling the bases. Heenan scored and the others moved up a sack when Higginbotham made a balk. H. Skitch's error on Cavanah's tap, sent Hagerman and Long in. Cavanah went to second on a balk. Kenneally was safe on Butler's error, and stole second. Wade hit to W. Skitch, who fumbled, and Cavanah and Kenneally scored. Wade was caught off first by a bluff throw but got back safely after a chase. Soden hit a long fly to left centre which Laflesh dropped, and then threw badly to the infield. Wade scored and Soden came all the way round on the 2 errors, making a beautiful slide around Connell to score. Frost was safe on Climo's muff. Cherrett beat out a bunt. Heenan ended the fun with a grounder to W. Skitch. Seven runs, two hits, seven errors.

Fourth Innings.

Cobourg.—H. Skitch fanned. Turpin rolled to Frost. Cherrett tossed out W. Skitch. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough. — Hagerman was thrown out by H. Skitch. Long grounded to W. Skitch and Butler got Cavanah at first. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

Cobourg.— Irwin did on a tap to Cherrett. Climo walked. Bulger fanned. Climo was forced at second, Cherrett to Hagerman, on Connell's grounder. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.—Kenneally flied to Climo. Wade fanned. Soden got a life on Butler's fumble. Connell threw badly to first on Frost's tap, Soden going to third. Cherrett beat out a bunt. Soden scoring. Cherrett stole second. Heenan walked. Hagerman struck out. One run, one hit, two errors.

Sixth Innings.

Cobourg.—Higginbotham grounded to Hagerman. Cherrett's throw beat Butler to first. H. Skitch doubled to left centre, Heenan making a great try for the ball. Turpin singled down the third base line, scoring Skitch. W. Skitch flied to Heenan. One run, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough.— With W. Skitch pitching for Cobourg, Long rolled to Bulger. Cavanah was safe when Higginbotham, who shifted to centre field, dropped his fly. Kenneally hit to Bulger, who threw badly to first and every body was safe. Wade fanned and Soden died on a grounder to short. No runs, or hits, two errors.

Seventh Innings.

Cobourg.—Irwin grounded to Cavanah. Climo singled over second. Bulger hit to Cavanah who tried to get Climo on second, but the runner beat the throw. Connell hit into a double play, Cherrett to Hagerman to Long. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough.—Frost rolled to the pitcher. Cherrett hit to deep right for three bases. Heenan singled to short, scoring Cherrett. Heenan stole second, but Hagerman fanned and Higginbotham made a nice running catch of Cavanah's fly to left centre. One run, two hits, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Cobourg. — Higgingbotham beat out an infield hit. Butler hit to herrett, whose quick throw nailed Higginbotham at second, and Hagerman shot the ball over to Long in time to double Butler. H. Skitch flied to Heenan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough. — Higginbotham made a sensational catch of Cavanah's fly to left centre. Kenneally singled through the box and stole second. He hurt his leg sliding into the bag and Bergoine was put in to run for him. Wade grounded to Turpin and Soden flied out to Butler. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Cobourg.—Turpin, after half a dozen fouls, struck out on a lob. Cherrett threw out W. Skitch, Irwin beat out a hit and Climo walked. Bulger fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

MANY OVERSEAS PLAYERS IN THE CITY BALL LEAGUE

If the Veterans Ball Club could have secured the services of all the overseas men for their team they would have had an outfit in the City League that would have taken some stopping. All the G. W. V. team are Veterans of the war, but in addition to them another complete team could be selected from the other League outfits composed of men who have done their bit overseas. Here is a line-up of overseas men who are not playing with the Vets:

Huycke, p; Swanston, c; Soden, 1b; Hagerman, 2b; Holyman, ss; Cavanah, 3d; Callaghan, Adams, Campbell, Barrie, outfield.

PORT HOPE WINS AT HOME

PORT HOPE, June 1.—The first home game in the Central Ontario League was played here to-day between Oshawa and Port Hope, resulting in a win for the latter by 6 to 5. Both teams played well, and the contest furnished much excitement. Wilfred Hilb pitched a star game for the locals, allowing only six hits, and striking out thirteen. Only one man was given a base on balls.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES AT THE WATER ST., ALLEYS FIVE PIN LEAGUE

Wednesday—Shamrock vs. Matthews.
Thursday— De Laval vs. Lawn Bowlers.
Friday—Turnbulls vs. Bankers.

BASEBALL

The War Veterans Ball team will practice at Riverside Park to-night at 6:30 o'clock. A full attendance of players is expected.

Ebert, New German Ruler, Is a Political Plodder, Slowly Gained Eminence

FRIEDRICH EBERT, the new President of Germany, was the standby of the old autocracy, despite his professions to the contrary.

Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, openly encouraged Socialists of the Ebert type, because he believed that they were a bulwark of imperial rule.

Friedrich Ebert is a plodder. He never made harness for a Pegasus. He reached the position he now occupies through patient toil and by taking advantage of every opportunity. Those who criticise him most admit that, although not a man of strong character, he is far better educated and more in touch with the development of modern life than most persons realize.

Born in Heidelberg in 1871, Ebert is now in his forty-eighth year. His father was a tailor in the old German University town. Young Ebert came in contact with the learning which permeated the place. He attended the lectures of the favorite docents and absorbed odds and ends of knowledge from the students who visited his father's shop. He went to one of the people's schools until he was fifteen years old. The instruction there was thorough. It did not make for high aspirations, but it gave him a good grasp of those practical things necessary to the German mechanic.

Then began his apprenticeship at the saddler's bench. After several years he was duly qualified as a journeyman and was able to earn 30 marks, about $7, a week.

While learning the trade Ebert connected himself with the Young Socialists. This group was composed of youths who had not reached their political majority. He has been attacked since by Socialists of the Spartacus type as an apostate and a renegade. L. Lore, editor of Volks-Zeitung, who has met him, says that, although opposed to the political views of the new President of Germany, he considers Ebert a man of considerable knowledge of life.

Herr Ebert has the manner of a peasant. Indeed, he closely resembles thousands of Germans who keep small shops or work in the factories. Short and stout and heavy in tread, he has the air of plodding. His dress is plain and he invariably wears a slouch hat jammed down on his head. A stubby, bristling black moustache and a small goatee accentuate his Teutonic aspect. Nearsightedness has put two sharp creases in his forehead. This gives him a scowling look.

Eighteen years ago Ebert began to be a factor in politics. His progress was slow. Although he took part in international councils of the Socialists, both in Germany and in France, he did not make any deep impression upon his comrades from other lands. In committee meetings he showed more force. For the most part he was content at this period to sit at the feet of August Bebel. "Comrade Ebert" was gradually recognized, however, as one of the coming men of the Social Democratic Party.

In 1900 Ebert began to hold offices among the Socialists. As the editor of a paper devoted to the Marxian cult he gained a livelihood. His influence grew. He had not the insight of Bebel nor the brilliancy of Liebknecht, but he was accepted as a faithful interpreter. He was elected to the Reichstag in 1912, and there came days of affluence. For was he not a member of the executive committee? As such he was passing rich at 3,000 marks a year (about $750.) What with his salary and some income from his writings, Ebert and his family were able to live in dignity when he represented the twin manufacturing cities of Elberfeld-Barmen in the National Assembly.

The coming of the war brought Ebert to the fore, although even at that time he was not known to international fame. He had several important conferences with the Kaiser, according to persons who know him. He represents that majority of Socialists who supported the regime of autocracy and junkerdom.

The Social Democratic Party, of which Ebert had become the vice-chairman, consistently supported German imperialism in the Reichstag. It voted vast sums for the carrying on of the war. Ebert was on the side of the militarists and the "intellectuals." The radicals still regard him as a reactionary.

NOW SHORTAGE OF CANDLES

British Food Ministry Seeks Method by Which It May Be Enabled to Regulate Supplies.

News is coming from many parts of the country that the shortage of candles is increasing owing to the fact that many people who did not use them before are now supplementing their gas and electric light rations by their use. It is becoming more clear every day that some means must be adopted to insure that householders in rural districts, where there is no gas or electricity, have an adequate supply of illuminants. Important national industries which cannot well be carried on without an adequate candle supply must also be protected. A scheme for controlling candle supplies is engaging the attention of the ministry of food.

During and since last winter, there has been a candle shortage. The oils and fats branch of the ministry of food, within whose view this matter comes, have received numerous complaints from rural councils and individuals of the difficulty of getting supplies and of retail prices going up by leaps and bounds. There is evidence of a new demand having sprung up within the last six weeks, accentuating last winter's shortage and making a candle famine imminent.—Manchester Guardian.

War Coinage in Germany.

Due to metal shortage Germany has instituted iron coinage. The fractional mark coins are no longer of copper and nickel, but are forgings of Siemens-Martin steel. The coinage of copper was discontinued in 1917. Aluminum had been coined to a small extent before the war; the smallest coins, one and two pfennig pieces, are now made of aluminum, which is more attacked by ordinary water, soda, salts, etc., than by distilled water. Zinc coins have recently been introduced. Zinc coins had been used in French Indo-China; they are again more apt to corrode, especially when impure with lead, cadmium and iron. In distilled water than in ordinary water; they turn yellow-brown, but assume a pleasant gray tint in soda and salt. On the whole, the cheapest iron coins have answered best.—Engineering.

Correct.

A funny one occurred in Judge Wood's court the other day, observes the Los Angeles Times. It was a divorce case and the witness was inclined to be vague. Finally he mustered up courage and said:

"I can't testify much, Judge, 'cause I don't know what this incompatibility is."

"Cold feet and hot words," snapped the judge.

HARVEST FROM UNDER OCEAN

Kelp Has Been Proved of Such Value in Industry That It Is Now Carefully Gathered.

A good deal has been written about the use of the seaweed, kelp, for the production of potash, and a good deal of extravagant dreaming has been indulged in. However, the kelp industry has put itself on a solid and prosperous footing, and gold in the shape of the indispensable potash is being harvested from the waters of the Pacific. The cutters or harvesters are ocean-going boats and stay out at sea all the time, while the barges carry the macerated kelp back to the wharf, where it is pumped from the holds into fermenting tanks. Foreign matter such as bolts, nuts, etc., brought in with the kelp are removed by electromagnets before the pumps are reached.

Harvesting consists in cutting the plant about six feet below the surface of the water. It has actually been found that this treatment improves the growth and stand of the beds to such an extent that they may be cut over about every 90 days. The area cut at present extends from Point Conception south to the Mexican line.

The potash is all used for chemical purposes, owing to its unique purity, and there is not enough of it to supply this demand. The total quantity of the pure product is not great enough to be considered seriously for fertilizer purposes. There are, however, a number of residues produced containing potash which amount to quite a tonnage.

Document is Equivalent to Death Sentence for Fatherland.

BERLIN, June 2. — "No German can be found who would attach his name to a document equivalent to a death sentence to the Fatherland," said Count Von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador at Washington, when questioned regarding a press report from Paris that it would be easier to get him to sign the treaty than Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the head of the German Peace mission at Versailles.

"If our opponents sincerely wish peace," he continued, there is only one way—to amend the unacceptable stipulations of the treaty."

TRACK BUCKLES OWING TO HEAT

BELLEVILLE, May 30.—Grand Trunk passenger train No. 14, due here at 12.06, was derailed at Sidney Crossing today. On account of the intense heat the track buckled under the weight of the train, the two last coaches leaving the rails. Lieut. Jordan, in charge of a party of soldiers was the only passenger hurt, receiving scalp wounds, which are not of a serious nature. The rest of the train proceeded, after 45 minutes' delay.

BOYS DESPOIL THE FLOWERS AT ST. JOHN'S

Boys have abused the privileges the public enjoys of the freedom of the beautiful grounds of St. John's Church. A short time ago they stripped the tulip beds of their best bloom and within the past few days they have despoiled a white lilac tree. big limbs were broken off, and not content with taking the flowers they have almost destroyed the tree. The officials of the church have decided that any boys who may be caught damaging the property in future will be prosecuted.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FORESTERS HEAR DEFINITION OF RELIGION

"WE CANNOT BE RELIGIOUS BY PROXY," DECLARED REV. R. POGUE AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH SUNDAY EVENING.

The Ancient Order of Foresters paraded to St Paul's church last evening. In spite of the unusually hot weather, a fairly good representation of members attended the service.

In welcoming the brethren, Rev. R. Pogue, pastor of the church, referred to the good work accomplished by the Order and its relationship with the Christian Church. Mr. Pogue gave a very instructive and practical definition of religion based on the Epistle of James 1:27:

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

"Even people who are lowest in the scale of humanity are not without religion," said Mr. Pogue. Religion is here to stay and to destroy a man's religion is to destroy his identify as a man. With some religion is an outward expression and with others it is an acknowledgment of a doctrine or a creed. God tells us that religion consists of two things — Charity and Purity.

In the first place we are urged to visit the fatherless and the widows, and in the second place we are enjoined to keep ourselves pure. Christ gave Himself in service to others. If we love our fellow men we will lay down our lives for them.

There are many forms of charity, said the speaker. One man will give ten thousand dollars to a worthy cause, and the fact will be heralded next day in the newspapers. To get a proper and true conception of charity one must visit the homes of the needy and afflicted and come in actual contact with some of the sorrows of life. We cannot be religious by proxy. The man who lives for himself dies while he lives.

A second ingredient in religion is to keep ourselves pure and unspotted before the world. A man who is charitable is not always religious. To be a true Christian we must be both charitable and pure in heart. That is why a true man of religion is an enemy of the liquor traffic.

ETHEL BARRYMORE IS A FITTING CLOSE TO THE THEATRICAL SEASON

WELL KNOWN STAGE STAR WILL BE SEEN HERE ON THURSDAY EVENING NEXT.

No announcement throughout the year is of more interest to playgoers than that of the coming of Ethel Barrymore. Particularly at this time does such an announcement take an added importance since this delightful actress has not been seen here for several years. It will be good news, therefore, to the enormous Barrymore following that at the Grand Opera House for one performance, Thursday evening, June 5th, Miss Barrymore is to be seen in "The Off Chance," the comedy of R. C. Carton, in which she appeared the larger part of last season at the Empire Theatre in New York. Miss Barrymore's individual success in the comedy was only secondary to that of the play itself, since in "The Off Chance," Mr. Carton was declared to have even eclipsed his earlier "Lord and Lady Algy," "Wheels Within Wheels,' or the memorable "Liberty Hall."

Seldom has Miss Barrymore been better fitted with a role than in "The Off Chance." It is one in which the delightful methods so beloved by her admirers are displayed at their best. Abundant opportunity is furnished her for the play is full of exquisite Barrymore sense of humor and flashing comedy. The actress portrays Lady Cardonnel, an Englishwoman, of a charming and attractive middle-age, divorced some years ago, but who, now remarried, turns up to extend a kindly hand to her young daughter, whose husband is about to run off to Vienna with a famous dancer. Mother and daughter have not seen each other since the latter was a baby. Neither is the mother known to her son-in-law. Lady Cardonnell, in beauty and charm, is little like the traditional mother-in-law, nor are the methods she adopts to smooth out the difficulties of the young couple at all unusual or ordinary. In fact they become at times as startling as they are extremely amusing. However, they meet with immense success, and Mr. Carton has planned a climax at once amazing in its unexpectedness and appealing in its quiet charm.

Miss Barrymore's surrounding company is of the customary Charles Frohman calibre. Important roles are in the hands of Eva Le Gallienne, Marcelle Rousillon, Anita Rothe, Cecilia Radcliffe, Mary Balfour, Wm. Boyd, Edward Emery, Harry Plimmer, Albert Gran, Joseph Brennan, T. Wigney Percyval, C. MacLean Savage, John T. Troughton and F. C. Butler. Needless to say, the comedy has been produced with all the good taste and care to be expected of Charles Frohman presentations.

MR. SAMUEL KEMP WAS 16 YRS. WITH W. J. MILLER

In reference to the statement in last Tuesday's issue of the Examiner, which referred to Mr. Samuel Kemp's (655 George street) leaving the city for a more lucrative position in Toronto, it may be added that Mr. Kemp had worked for 16 years for W. J. Miller & Son, boot and shoe store, George street. He was a first class mechanic, as well as a thorough operator and one of his specialties was turned work.

Mr. Kemp was also financial secretary of Court Langton, C.O.F., and it is with genuine regret his associates of the lodge learned of his departure, but are pleased to wish him every success in his new position. The members are united in wishing that he may return to his home town in the near future.

Members of the lodge can pay their dues as usual or to W. E. Payton, 220 King street.

Perseverance Does It.

"It's the allies' perseverance that is going to win the war," said Senator Lewis.

"The allies suffered defeat after defeat, but from each defeat they learned something.

"It's like the advice the editor of the Cinnaminson Scimitar gave to an unlucky wooer who had been rejected by seven girls in turn. The editor wrote:

"'Unlucky Wooer: Go ahead. Don't be discouraged. Never say die. You must have learned a lot by what you have gone through. Strikes us you must hold something like a record. Well, stick all your experience together and make love to the next girl who comes around and takes your fancy. If she doesn't reciprocate try another. Remember, you only want one girl to say "Yes," and she'll probably last your life.'"

Army Nurses in Peace Times.

There is a corps of regular army nurses maintained in peace times as well as in war times. When nurses volunteer under the Red Cross organization and enter the army service they assume the same status as that of the regular corps of nurses. A nurse aid receives no pay for her services. Transportation and maintenance, however, are supplied. Nurses and nurse aids, sworn into the government service through Red Cross channels, and all nurses employed by the army and navy are under the order of the army and navy medical departments. If a nurse or nurse's aid is incapacitated through service, either in this country or abroad and thereafter, because of disability suffered while in the service, is unable to provide for herself, there is not known under the law any means whereby she can secure the benefits of a pension.

time to assert our authority and no man or body of men can question our rulings," he said.

Clock Struck Three.

Mr. Bathie, the spokesman for the delegation, which by this time numbered six thousand, made a plea for order. He said that he was taking the returned soldiers' interest in the strife. He was out to see a settlement. The returned soldiers wanted to see that the policemen were given a square deal. He had headed the delegation to Premier Norris in the morning and later had told him that the city council ruled over the policemen and that the provincial government had no authority to interfere. The council, Bathie said, was the only constitutional body for returned men to deal with.

"And now that we are here we will hear what the council has to say."

"There is no alternative for the council. It must settle and settle the matter in the best interests of Winnipeg."

"Withdraw your new agreements and ultimatums to the police department and it will settle their end of the dispute," the crowd demanded.

Bathie suggested this movement to bring about a settlement between the policemen and the commission. His suggestion was taken up by virtually every man in the delegation.

Mayor Gray was "booed" when he announced he would not deal with a crowd of men but was willing to confer with a representative committee. He announced that the "ultimatum" to the police department was not an ultimatum at all. The police would send their answer to the city hall session of the police commission at 3 o'clock.

As the announcement was made, the clock in the city hall tower struck that hour and the men laughed.

Following Mayor Gray's speech the leaders addressed the gathering and explained what they hoped the city would do in connection with the policemen. Some claimed to be neutral, while others scored the Dominion government for being "spineless."

Not Allowed to Speak.

Mrs. Helen Armstrong was not allowed to speak by the soldiers as they told her this was a meeting of returned soldiers and not of strikers. Mrs. Armstrong is in charge of the girls who are on strike and is furishing free meals all day to the girls of the union not working, in the Strathcona Hotel Dining Room, given over that that purpose. She is a daughter of her renowned father, the late Alfred Jury of Toronto, for a number of years Dominion Immigration Agent to Great Britain, stationed at Liverpool. Her husband, who is the organizer of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, is in Fort William at present, inducing the men there to go out on strike in sympathy with the Winnipeg members.

Mayor Gray came out at the conclusion of the conference with the police commission and stated that the ultimatum to the police force had been extended until 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

The crowd dispersed without much noise, shouting that they would be back on Tuesday, if not sooner.

ETHEL BARRYMORE in R. C. Carton's Comedy "The Off Chance," at the Grand, One Night Only, Thursday, June 5th.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE GRAND FOR THE NEXT THREE DAYS

TOM MOORE IN "JUST FOR TO-NIGHT"—A GOOD PROGRAMME.

Tom Moore in "Just for To-night" and Keith Vaudeville at the Grand twice daily, to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Greater fame than any that has yet come to Tom Moore awaits him when the screens of the world present this tremendously popular player as a Goldwyn star in "Just for To-Night," a play that brings out as no other vehicle has every angle of the many-sided talents that have endeared Tom Moore to screen audiences everywhere.

Goldwyn promoted Moore to stardom at the request of theatre owners and picture patrons, who, charmed by his ability and splendid personality, were a unit in declaring him worthy of a place among Goldwyn's famous group of stars. Moore's performances as leading man with Madge Kennedy, Mabel Normand and Mae Marsh in Goldwyn Pictures were the achievements that prompted public clamor.

All of Tom Moore's efforts in the past are dimmed by his ingenious work in "Just for To-Night." It is from the pen of Charles A. Logue, which is in itself a recommendation that it is all that is best in screen drama, considering that Logue is also the author of Madge Kennedy's highly successful patriotic comedy-drama "The Service Star."

Goldwyn introduces Tom Moore as its first man star with the assurance that his big following will acclaim him in "Just for To-night."

The vaudeville programme will consist of Faber and Taylor in comedy singing and talking hit, "Going North". Archie Nicholson, duo-comedy musical offering, and Earl Girdeller and Pat in an unusual comedy "It's Bound to A'cur."

Prices remain the same, 15c, 10c, matinees; evenings 15c, 25c.

Spend an evening in the summer house of vaudeville, cooled by pure, fragrant, frozen air—the coolest spot in town.

REV. THOS. WEARING PREACHED AT BOTH SERVICES AT MURRAY ST. YESTERDAY

PRINCIPAL OF WOODSTOCK BAPTIST CHURCH DELIVERS TWO FINE SERMONS ON OCCASION OF 73RD ANNIVERSARY OF MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

THE MORNING SERVICE

Permeated with a spirit of conciliation and surcharged with God's message to love one another thus fulfilling the law of Christ the message of Rev. Thomas Wearing M.A., B.D., Ph.D., at the Sunday morning service at Murray Street Baptist Church commanded rapt attention from a large and appreciative congregation Rev. Thomas Wearing is one of the most brilliant ministers in the Baptist Church of Canada to-day and he is at present principal of Woodstock College, the centre of Baptist training for Ontario, a place where one is equipped with a modern education in a Christian and unselfish atmosphere. Rev. Mr. Wearing is a brother of Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A. of this city and was invited here to preside at both services on Sunday, the seventy-third anniversary of Murray street Baptist Church, the first church of that denomination in the city.

Special Music.

Special music was rendered under the direction of Mr. Asa Huycke, choir leader and Miss Ida Sanderson, organist. That stirring anthem "Immaneul" was beautifully rendered and while the special offering for Christian education was being taken "Pilgerchor" by Tannhauser was played on the organ. The mixed quartette with Miss Lillian Eastwood Mrs. A. A. Perrin, Mr. Jethro Graham and Mr. Asa Huycke sang beautifully "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is" by Shelly and Mr. Douglas Carlisle's solo "Open Wide the Gates of the Temple" was a musical triumph.

"The Present Crisis"

Rev. Mr. Wearing took as his subject "The Cross and the Present Crisis" dealing with Christianity in relation to the present labour unrest in the Dominion. Mr. Wearing refused to hit the sawdust trail but dealt with the subject in a diplomatic way showing that a little more love for one another and consideration for other's rights and viewpoints would go a long way in alleviating the trouble which now besets the country. He took his subject from the first epistle of Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians wherein the eighteenth vrse of the first chapter it reads:

"But as God is true, our word toward you was not yea and nay."

Spells Unrest

Mr. Wearing mentioned the crisis in Canada to-day and displayed a copy of the "Winnipeg Citizen", a small five column, four paged newspaper published daily by the Citizen's League of Winnipeg.

"In it I learned more of the Winnipeg strike than in any other place," said Mr. Wearing. "Every word spells unrest and mistrust. There is an atmosphere of red revolution which threatens to overflow its banks and soil the white garments of civilization in Canada to-day."

"As a Christian I make no apology for linking up the cross with this present crisis," stated Mr. Wearing. "As Lloyd George said when he electrified the whole of the British Empire, 'We have been too easy, comfortable and selfish.' It is the paramount duty of every Christian to line up with the Cross to-day to face the present crisis. We must show the cross, that emblem of sacrifice. The preaching of the cross may be to many, foolishness, but to us, it is the power of God."

History of the Cross

The speaker traced the history of the Cross throughout the centuries, how in the first centuries death by crucifixion was considered the most ignominious of deaths especially in the great Roman Empire. But in that Empire of the Caesars the symbol of the Cross came to the exhalted so that in the time of Constantine he was glad to have that hitherto shameful sign enscribed on his banner with "By this sign conquer" enscrolled beneath it. Then the Cross is almost lost sight of for a time until in the Dark Ages the Cross re-emerged in the Crusades, the first cue staring in 1095 through the instrumentality of the fiery oratory of Peter the Hermit. The crusaders fronged with enthusiasm and the sign of the cross was in the ascendant until the Orders of Knighthood established from the Crusades great lukewarm and supine and changed the sign into one of the financial gain. The cross was draggled in the dust but then came the Reformation with the great heroes, Luther of Germany, Wycliffe of England, Knox of Scotland and John Huss of Bohemia. Luther held the cross before the peoples of Europe as their sign-manual and dragged all the superstitious ceremonies and pitfalls surrounding it up to that time. But then these men thought of the Cross in Rational terms. Knox of the Cross of St. Andrews, Wycliffe, St. George's Cross and Huss the Cross of Bohemia but Erasmus, the recluse, the scholar, away from the by-paths of the world, he alone broke down the national barriers.

A Wide Character

It was not until the time of modern evangelism that the Cross came out again, John Wesley stands out and William Cary, the cobbler and a Baptist who crossed the sea in 1792 holding up the symbol.

"In these first two decades of the present century the cross has assumed not only a wide character but an intensiveness. It not only is the sign of nations but of societies. The man, who is smitten with the light of the Cross will give all his powers of life to the work of the cross.

"How are we going to apply to the present crisis the teachings of the cross?" asked Mr. Wearing.

Self-sacrifice is one of the teachings. It is all right for one class to say, 'I am going to have my right, the capitalist has been grinding me down.' If he is right he will demand justice not only for himself but for his employer," declared Mr. Wearing "In Christ there is neither Jew nor Greek, bondman or freeman and so we must say that there is no capitalist on one side and industrialists on the other. If all the Christian members of the church in Canada would carry away the spirit of the cross righteous would prevail."

Evening Service

Rev. J. R. Webb, the pastor made a touching reference to Pte. Fred Stanley, a member of Murray Street Baptist Church, who was first reported missing then as having passed the Great Divide. In his memory the platform was beautifully decorated with flowers by friends and relatives.

Rev. Mr. Wearing's subject at the evening service was "The Measure of a Man" and another fine musical programme was given by the choir. After the Scripture Reading, the choir sang, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and later Mr. Tom Ward sang "Rolling the Foaming Billow". A male quartet was also heard at the evening service singing the "Holy City." The members of the quartette were Mr. E. Humoage, Mr. Jethro Graham, Mr. Tom Ward and Mr. Asa Huycke. The postlude was the "Processional March" by Batiste.

Both services were singularly beautiful and the spirit present can better be expressed in the words taekn from a hymn at the morning service:

And from my smitten heart, with tears
Two wonders I confess—
The wonders of His glorious love,
And my own worthlessness.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir, — In reference to the editorial in Saturday's Examiner, "Ex-Alderman Murray's Successor," and the comparison drawn between Mr. Crowe for the Trades and Labor Council and Alderman Turner for the Board of Trade, are we to understand from the Examiner, after all has been said to the contrary, that Ald. Turner is really the representative of the Board of Trade, on the City Council?

This being so, the public are always learning something that they are not supposed to know; for as published in your paper, the constitution of the Board, they do not nominate or have candidates for any public legislative position, such as city council, etc.

The next thing the public might see is the Board of Trade camouflaged under the name of the citizens' committee and holding the city seal.

BASEBALL

The Auburn Baseball team defeated the Tool Room of the C.G.E. on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval after an exciting game, the final score being 19 to 11. The woollen men got away to a good start scoring 11 runs in the first which proved too big a lead to overcome. The batteries were Smith, Coughlin and Starr for Auburn and Vinette and Helson for Tool Room.

The Auburn Baseball Team will meet Cressman's at 6.30 Monday evening at Nicholl's Oval. This promises to be an exciting battle. The big store boys were victorious the last time these teams clashed but Auburn is confident of evening up this evening.

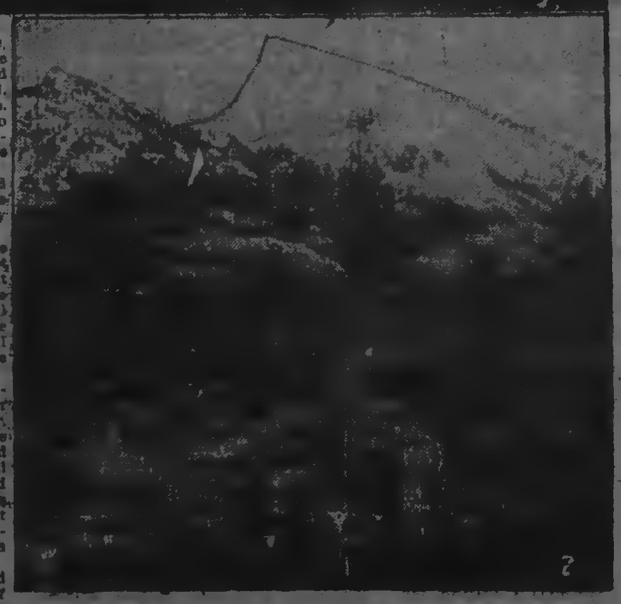
DISCOVERING CANADA



(1) Lake Louise in the Clouds. (2) Banff Springs Hotel.

One of the interesting, if inevitable, results of the great war is the way in which it has diverted the course of summer travel. Formerly, when Mr. and Mrs. Upper Ten of Halifax or Toronto wished to arrange their holiday itinerary, there was positively only one place to go—Europe.

Now things have changed. Mr. and Mrs. Upper Ten must go somewhere for a summer vacation, and so they have discovered Canada.

They have found to their immense surprise, that Canada has the most gorgeous scenery in the world, that nothing in any of the older countries can compare with our wonderful Rocky Mountains, and that nowhere is there a more exquisite pastoral landscape than in Ontario, or in the British Columbia Valleys.

Even the prairies, despised and rejected by descriptive writers, have an infinite charm to the real Westerner. "Monotonous?" he says, in genuine surprise, "monotonous? Never! I'd sooner motor over a prairie trail than take the finest macadamized lakeshore drive in the world. Then, monotony, if you like. Nothing but smooth pavements, conventional boulevards and fashionably dressed with their neat little gardens."

"No, sir, give me the open road where you can let out a warwhoop, if you like, sing if you want to, drive with your hat off, and your sleeves rolled up, take a pot-shot at the gophers bobbing up to watch you pass, or stop for a 'chin'chin' at a homesteader's shack and find him mighty glad to see you. What would the of your city folk think, I ask you, if you stopped at his door to say: 'I'm driving across your town and thought I'd just step for a chat.' Gee! He'd have you arrested! Me for the prairie!"

But it isn't all prairies and homesteads in the West. You may be just as formal and "dressed-up" as you like at the beautiful mountain hotels of Banff, Lake Louise, Field, Glacier, and at the coast. All the hotels from Winnipeg to Victoria are excellent, but personally I like the Banff Springs Hotel at Banff, the Chateau at Lake Louise, and the Empress at Victoria. These three hotels are so particularly restful and "homey" in their atmosphere, that one feels as if one could linger there forever in a lotus-eater's paradise, always happy and comfortable.

At Banff there are innumerable methods of enjoying oneself — such sulphur baths, such mountain walks and rides, such fishing, such meals, such evenings of talk and music before blazing log fires, such a splendid dancing floor in the sun parlor—I grow quite homesick when I think of Banff.

At Lake Louise one could be happy if one did nothing all day but to sit and gaze at that exquisite emerald lake, set like a gem in its circle of snow-crowned mountains, the sun transmuting the wooded slopes into purples and golds and greens such as one would see nowhere else in the world. And when you add to that unparalleled view the charm of the hotel with its lawns like green velvet and its beds of white and golden poppies, its whisper-hung bedrooms and its cosy sitting-rooms, you have scenery viewed under ideal conditions.

If you really want to "rough it," you can get at any of the mountain resorts near by Swiss guides and start out for several days, weeks, or even months of mountain-climbing. You may hike and fish and tramp and sleep out under the stars and get just as far away from civilization as your heart desires.

And then, when you come to Vancouver and Victoria, you may have all the advantages of shops, macadamized roads, good hotels, and theatres, together with a certain Oriental flavor that is both piquant and fascinating. Japanese servants in the hotels, Japanese and Chinese shops with all sorts of intriguing novelties in the windows, tall, dignified Hindus with their picturesque turbans, stalking about the streets, sailors from every country off the various ships in port—nothing in quite so interesting as a coast town.

"See Canada first," should be the slogan of all loyal Canadians in these days of storm and stress. It would give each and every one of us a more passionate love for our country if we could go from Halifax to Vancouver to see just what an incalculable treasure we have in our Dominion and how worth while it is to fight for her, to live for her, and even to die for her.

It's up to you to have those

SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY

The executive committee of the Kennedy Evangelistic Campaign sent an announcement yesterday to the different pulpits of our city regarding the big tent meeting that is to open here on June 15. In it a request was made that every Christian, beginning on June 1st, read one chapter a day in the Gospel of John, spending half an hour in prayer and the study of each chapter. This is intended, for the time being, to consecrate the thought of all upon the great truths taught in this wonderful book. In order to assist busy people, the evangelist has been asked to give some suggestions, and a list of the book, and we are printing below an article, written by Mr. Kennedy, for the benefit of all those who may desire to join in this Bible study circle; and it might be well for those interested to keep this article for future reference.

THE CHRIST OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

In the four gospels Christ's Person is set forth, and in the book of Acts His power is manifested. In the epistles His precepts are taught and in the book of Revelation His programme is given.

The book of Matthew was written for the Jews. In it He is spoken of as their King. Mark was written for the Romans; they did not want a king, so He is spoken of as the Servant of God. Luke wrote his gospel for the Greeks, and in it He is spoken of as the Son of Man; and later John wrote his gospel for the Christians, his chief thought being that Christ was the Son of God.

In John's gospel we find a conflict between unbelief and faith. In chapters 18 and 19 the climax of unbelief is reached, and in chapter 20 the climax of faith. In this gospel Christ has seven witnesses: John the Baptist, His Father, His works, the Scriptures, Himself, the Holy Spirit and His disciples.

In the first twelve chapters we find His self-manifestation to the world; in the next five the manifestation of Himself to His disciples.

The key thought of each chapter may be termed as follows: Chapter one, chapter of beginnings, of the word, of the Baptist's ministry and of His disciples; two, the beginning of miracles; three, the story of a good man who needed salvation, and four, of a bad woman who got converted; five, the chapter of life; six, of bread; seven, of water; eight, of light; nine, of darkness; and ten, of the Good Shepherd; eleven, of a dead man raised to life; twelve, the anointing chapter; thirteen, of foot washing; fourteen, of comfort; fifteen, of abiding; sixteen, of the Holy Spirit; seventeen, of prayer; eighteen, tells of the arrest; nineteen, of the crucifixion; twenty, of the resurrection; and twenty-one is a postscript to the book, or might be called the seashore chapter. —Com.

REAL FAITH IS BASED ON HABIT AND MORAL LOYALTY

INSPIRING AND INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BY THE REV. JAMES ROLLINS AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Rev. James Rollins reassumed his duties as pastor of St. Andrew's church yesterday for the first time since leaving for overseas three years ago and at both morning and evening services the capacity of the church was taxed by the congregations who wholeheartedly welcomed their pastor home after his long absence at the front.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Rollins took for his text Matt. 8:8:

"And Jesus said unto him, I will come and heal him. The centurion answered and said, Lord I am not worthy that thou should come under my roof, but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

Mr. Rollins preached an eloquent sermon which bore with it a message of moral discipline as a parallel necessity to army discipline in meeting the emergencies of life.

Jesus, Rev. Mr. Rollins said, divined in the Roman centurion, a man with faith stronger than that of the Hebrews. We are inclined to associate faith with an acceptance of a system of theology, but the Centurion knew very little of doctrine, and Jesus divined in him a spiritual attitude. The centurion in the text came to Jesus as to a superior officer. His mind had been shaped in the army, and he had learned discipline and the habit of obedience. He had been obeyed and expected to obey. Discipline has two elements—authority and obedience; obedience learned as a non-commissioned officer and obedience which gives a soldier the right to claim obedience as an officer.

The Difference.

The difference between an army and a mob is not a matter of bravery but a matter of discipline. The individual of the mob may be fearless but under the disciplined attacks of the soldiers it immediately melts away. It was discipline which hurled the mobs of Arabs back and the British held the field because each man from the highest officer down was under authority. When poison gas was first let loose at Ypres the line held and the attempt to gain the Channel ports was frustrated, because as long as the men retained consciousness they retained discipline.

The power to command rose from the power to obey. Men who have had training learn to give orders because they have learned to take them. The first real claim to authority lies in discipline.

Moral Emergency.

What gives resistance under the pressure of temptation and mastery over evil? We say strength of mind. What makes a man steadily a slave of temptation? The whole problem of moral emergency is whether we will obey and heed the command. Man, the speaker continued, accumulates stores of will by discipline. Moral crises of life come unsuspectingly and the discipline of the past is transferred to an instinct for action. When an American submarine was attacked during the late war, and every man came on deck it was found that the air chambers had been closed, after the torpedo had hit the boot. Automatically, through the habits of life, the soldiers had attended to their duty, and had come on deck, with no remembrance of their attention to discipline.

The will, which takes command in the hour of temptation, must be in such perfect control that, like the seaman, action is made by instinct instantly. "Is it," the speaker asked, "too much to ask that the man made in the image of God should get into such a condition as that?" The first thing we have been speaking of is what Jesus calls faith. Real faith is a much more simple thing than is often supposed. It is a habit of moral loyalty. What a soldier feels and demonstrates for a commander is faith. It is summed up and expressed in obedience.

Moncur's Digestive Tonic

is slightly laxative and acts upon the liver as well. It is especially suited for those suffering from Bilious Indigestion. It corrects at once the formation of gas. It assists in the assimilation of food and protects the Inflamed Lining of the stomach in Gastritis.

It strengthens and relieves the whole Digestive Tract. This preparation used in connection with proper diet and nerve sedatives, gives the most satisfying results in Nervous Dyspepsia and Hyperacidity.

Even the old chronic cases show a decided improvement under treatment with this remedy.

TORONTO STRIKE IS PETERING OUT; THE LARGE UNIONS REMAIN AT WORK

WINNIPEG STRIKE SEEMS TO BE BROKEN—METROPOLITAN LONDON POLICE WILL NOT STRIKE UNTIL PEACE IS SIGNED—BRITISH FLEET ENGAGE BOLSHEVIK WARSHIPS—SUNDAY AND SATURDAY EVENING BULLETINS

Monday Morning Bulletin:

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 2.— There were few additions to the sympathetic strike yesterday. Street railway men voted three to one not to strike. Other large unions failed to vote favourably on going out.

Strike Broken in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, June 2.—Strike conditions seem to be broken here and it it predicted that very shortly a great majority of the strikers will be back at work.

A Sane Measure.

LONDON, June 2.— The Metropolitan police will not go out now, but will await the signing of peace and the return of Premier Lloyd George.

Answer is Ready.

PARIS, June 2.—The answer of the Allied Powers will probably be delivered to Germany at the end of this week.

Bolshevik Fleet in Action.

HELSINGFORS, June 2. — The British fleet engaged four Bolshevik warships yesterday, who retreated to Kronstadt.

Stranded in England.

LONDON, June 2.—Ten thousand Canadians who went to Great Britain before and during the war will be unable to secure accommodation to Canada before September.

Sunday Evening Bulletin:

LONDON, June 1.—Paris despatch says it was announced at the conclusion of yesterday's secret plenary session of the peace conference that the Austrian peace treaty would be presented to enemy delegates at St. Germain at noon Monday. Financial reparation and military terms, however, will be held in reserve. Representatives of Poland, Roumania and other small nations presented objections during the session to treaty provisions designed to safeguard racial religious and linguistic minorities which were taken under advisement by the Big Four, together with some objections to the financial terms.

No Change in Treaty.

PARIS, June 2.— The Council of Four has decided that no modification can be made in the peace terms and that there is no necessity for verbal discussion. The Germans, it is added, have been notified that no further notes can be accepted.

Saturday Evening Bulletin:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.— Three were killed and two others seriously injured by the overturning of cars in auto races here this afternoon. The men were making ninety-two miles an hour when the accident occurred.

No Change in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 31.—Conditions are unchanged this afternoon. The railroads issued a notice that all men not returning to work by Monday morning will be considered discharged.

Plane Disappeared.

LONDON, May 31.—The airplane in which Hawker and Grieve attempted to fly across the Atlantic was brought to London to-day by the American steamer which picked it up.

Fly From England to America.

LONDON, May 31. — The giant British airship "R-34" will make an attempt within a fortnight to fly from England to America.

Another Country Bombed.

LONDON, May 31.— British airplanes dropped bombs on Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, and several other towns.

14,000 Canadians Wounded.

PORTLAND, Maine, May 31.— A Canadian officer here says that fourteen thousand wounded Canadians are still in England, and will be home by September first.

The estimated cost of the armies of occupation in Germany is one billion, one hundred and seventy-five million dollars per annum, or very nearly five million dollars a day. And then we have another reason for the speedy conclusion of peace drafting.

It Isn't a Real Game Without Chiclets

Did you ever notice the players on a ball team—always chewing gum? Because it keeps them on their toes, and relieves thirst, too. You'll enjoy the game more if you make Chiclets one of the party.

There are several mighty good scientific reasons for the regular use of Chiclets by athletes. It improves their digestions and promotes mouth hygiene. It relieves the tension of a hard-fought game. It allays thirst. These things Adams Chiclets will do for you. Chiclets are sold everywhere. Next time you see them displayed, leave a nickel and get ten Chiclets.

A LETTER TO MASTER PLUMBERS

Peterborough, May 31, 1919.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—After carefully reading the comments on the issue at stake in regard to the plumbing in our city, I beg to differ in opinion with some of the master plumbers of the city. In the first place I do not pass my opinion on anything unless I know that I am in the right, or with anyone that knows the art of the plumbing trade who has worked, or served his apprenticeship. But a man that never served his apprenticeship should be the last man to voice his opinion. Our local does not want to injure anyone; all they are asking is for the enforcement of the by-law.

Has there been any convictions for breaking this branch of the law? This master states that where circumstances warrant you may vary from the by-law. Nothing of the sort. What is law is law, and no man, inspector or anyone else, can change the same until he goes through the proper channel. We would have a funny country if everyone could make their own laws. If the masters slates are clean or near enough to not be afraid of a showdown, why then all this hubbub? They have nothing to fear. When a man can see the law is being broken, and does not try to have it corrected, then in my opinion they are in a measure to blame, as well as the party doing the work.

We asked the Council by letter to have this matter looked into and received no reply. But now they intend to have outside opinion it is only fair to everyone concerned that this plumber be an inspector actively engaged in the business and I would recommend that one be procured from Toronto and protected by the city on his final report of the conditions found. I have personally been accused of starting all this trouble. It is a good job they have someone to throw the stones at. But take it from me, they want to watch their conversation very carefully, for news travels very fast. If they or anyone else can find fault with any of my work in the past seventeen years, then I am willing to take back water. After the inspector brings in his report there may be a few dirty slates to be seen. If the day ever comes that an outside man is procured, I am willing to go with him, without extra cost to the city and show him these jobs that have been brought up from time to time and discussed by the boys of the local, provided that the master plumbers send some one to see that I do not influence the inspector in any way while he is making his inspection, or until after he has made his report. I am making this offer, because I feel that I have been accused wrongfully on more than one occasion.

Now, Mr. Editor, in conclusion, I would like to ask your view of a man, an employer, who would go to another employer, and try, in fact to do his best, to influence him in discharging his help because they are trying to have this matter corrected. This has been our experience. We will publish this man's name if needs be.

If I was in business and everything was in order, I would welcome an inquiry to show the public that I was conducting a fair and square business. It would be a very good advertisement for me.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am,

Yours respectfully,

WESLEY ROSE.

MRS. BALFAME

These three witnesses, examined after the noon recess, occupied very little time. It was at ten minutes to four that the district attorney electrified every one in the court room by calling to the stand a man whose name up to that moment had not been mentioned in the case. The reporters looked deeply annoyed; even Mrs. Balfame raised her head a trifle higher as if listening; Rush's pale face was paler, the lines in it seemed deeper, as he sprang to his feet, alert at once, his nostrils expanding. The district attorney balanced himself on his heels, his thumbs in his waistcoat armholes, a grin of triumph on his sharp little face.

The name called was James Mott, and it was borne by a highly reputable drummer who had made sales for many years to houses carrying general merchandise, including that of Balfame & Cumnock. Mr. Mott was as well known in Brabant County as any of its inhabitants; in fact, he was engaged to an estimable young lady of Elsinore and hence, so it soon transpired, had happened to be in town on the fatal night. For once the acumen of the district attorney had proved more penetrating than that of the brilliant counsel for the defence.

Mr. Mott took the stand. He was a clean-shaven, upstanding American with the keen eye and grim mouth of the travelling salesman who knows that he must do or die. He looked as honest as urbane, and for the first time Mrs. Balfame's heart sank; and her hands, so the women reporters noted for the benefit of the public, clenched for a full minute.

Although Rush stood with his head stretched forward, he thought it wise to let the man tell his story in his own way. Interruptions would have been of little avail; the Judge would sustain the district attorney if it were patent the witness were telling the truth; and as he was completely in the dark himself it were better to wait until he got a promising lead. He knew that no man's brain could work more quickly than his.

Mr. Mott being solemnly sworn, deposed that on the night of the shooting he had been taking supper with his friend Miss Lacke, who lived at Number 8 Dawbarn Street, just around the corner from Elsinore Avenue. He left her house at a little before eight, as he was obliged to catch the eight-ten for New York. As he closed the gate behind him, he saw David Balfame walk unsteadily past, shouting "Tipperary"; and being a friend of many years' standing, had concluded to follow and see Balfame safely inside the house. He would lose but a minute or two, and it seemed to him a decent act, for it was possible the man might fall and hurt himself before he reached his home. Mott was so close behind him that he must have just escaped the shot or shots himself, and although he jumped backward he saw distinctly somebody run out of the grove and toward the back of the house. Whether it was a man or a woman he had no idea, but the figure was tall—yes far taller than either young Kraus or Frieda. Then, he said, he doubled on his tracks and got back into Dawbarn Street as quickly as he could. He blushed as he admitted this, but added that he knew from the shouts on Gilning's verandah that men were hastening to Balfame's aid, and he had to catch the eight-ten or lose his night train to the West and a big piece of business. Moreover, he didn't like the idea of giving testimony against anybody; he abhorred the institution of capital punishment. For the same reason he did not come forward until the District Attorney ferreted him out, as he was afraid the running figure might have been Mrs. Balfame and she was the last person she wished to harm, innocent or guilty.

No one could doubt that he told the truth and hated to tell it. Nor could any one jump to the conclusion that he was the assassin; he had as little motive for killing Balfame as any of the other men of Brabant County with whom he had been for years on the same cordial terms.

All that Rush could do was to make him admit that perhaps he was naturally confused by the flash, the report almost in his ear, the man sinking at his feet, and only fancied he saw a running form, the elusion would be natural in the circumstances, particularly as his thoughts seemed to have been concentrated upon getting out of the way. Mr. Mott admitted almost too eagerly that this might be true, but added that when the district attorney, who was a cousin of Miss Lacke, as well as an old friend of his own, had squeezed the story out of him bit by bit (the form of extraction was supplied by Mr. Rush), that had been his impression; he seemed to have that tall running figure imprinted upon his retina, as it were. Of course it might be just imagination. He wished to God he could swear it was. When asked sharply if even one of his parents was German, he recovered his poise and replied haughtily that he was straight American and as pro-Allies as the best man in the country. He had never entered Old Dutch's beer garden; his choice was a hotel bar, anyhow; he avoided saloons.

Rush had a diabolical power of making a witness look ridiculous, but the American mind is essentially a just mind, normally unemotional, and a very magnet for facts. As the judge adjourned the court until Monday the sob-sisters trailed out dejectedly, after a vain endeavour to get close to Mrs. Balfame; the young men sauntered forth with their heads in the air, and Rush's lips were so closely pressed together that his face looked pure granite. As a matter of fact, his heart felt like water.

Mrs. Balfame, who had not permitted herself to show a flicker of interest while Mott was on the stand, rose as the Judge left the room. She smiled upon each of her friends separately and kissed the prominent ladies of Elsinore who had sat beside her throughout that trying day.

"Please don't come over to the jail," she said. "I know you are worn out, and I have a headache. I must lie down. But do please come to-morrow. You are all too good. Thank you so much.

Then with a faint smile and a light step she followed the sheriff through the long tunnel, a horrible vision

CHAPTER XXXIII.

When Rush arrived at the sitting room of the jail's private suite he found Mrs. Balfame, not in tears as he had nervously anticipated, but distraught, pacing the room, her hands in her disordered hair.

"I am done for! done for!" she cried as Rush hastily closed the door. "It would have been better if I had told the truth in the beginning — that I had gone out that night. It was not such a bad excuse,—that I thought I saw a burglar down there,—and it was God's truth. Or I could have said I was walking about the grounds because I had a headache—"

"It never would have gone down. If I could have discovered who the other person in the grove was—found him and his forty-one calibre revolver, well and good. Failing that, our line of defence is the best possible. I will admit," he too was pacing the room,—"it looks bad to-day, pretty bad. There isn't the ghost of a chance to prove Mott was the man. Gore has the time to the minute he left Susie Lacke's; you must have gone out some time before—"

"Oh, he didn't do it. I've not thought it for a moment. No such luck. It was some enemy who went straight to New York —in that car. But I—I—Auburn—the electric chair —they all believed —Oh, my God! God!"

She had tossed her arms above her head then flung herself down before the table, her face upon them, rocking her body back and forth. Her voice was deep with horror and despair, her abandonment far more complete than on the day of her arrest; and wrought up himself, Rush was stirred with the echo of all he had felt that day. In the semi-intimacy of these past ten weeks, when he had talked with her for hours at a time, she had disillusioned him in many ways, bored him, forced him to admit that her lovely shell concealed an uninteresting mind, and that the only depths in her personality that he was permitted to glimpse were such as to make him shrink, by no means to excite that fascination even in repulsion peculiar to the faults of a more passionate nature. He still thought her the most beautiful woman he had ever seen, however, and if it was beauty which now left him cold, his admiration of her had been renewed these last three days when her manner and appearance in court had been beyond all praise. He had excoriated himself for his fickleness, his contemptible failure as a lover; and the more he hated himself the more grimly determined he was to behave precisely as if he still loved and revered her as he had when ready to sacrifice life itself for her sake. He was in such an impasse that he cared little what became of himself.

He leaned over the table and pressed his hands hard on her arms.

"Listen!" he said peremptorily. "You never will go to Auburn. You will leave this jail not later than the middle of next week, a free woman. If I cannot get you off by my address to the jury,—and it will be the supreme effort of my life,—I'll take the stand and swear that I committed the murder myself."

Toronto War Memorial.

Formal sanction of the University of Toronto Alumni has been given to the memorial plans submitted by a special committee. These include the construction of an archway and tower connecting two of the main buildings, and the creation of certain scholarships for returned men and for dependants of soldiers killed in the war. The total sum to be raised for this purpose is $500,000, of which $375,000 will be set aside for scholarships. The university has also established a fund from which loans may be drawn by students who have served in the war and need financial assistance, and a special committee has been appointed to co-operate with the university authorities in requesting the Dominion Government to make financial provision for those veterans who wish to attend Canadian universities.

Tommy's Spirit.

"You don't get any sympathy in the army," said a returned soldier. "And most of them do not mind a joke now and then on their infirmities. A bunch of us were waiting on the dock at Brest. There were a lot of wounded casuals among us ready to be checked up and sent aboard the transport for home. One of them sat on a box swinging what was left of his leg. It had been amputated between the knee and the ankle. Another Tommy with one arm gone yelled over to him, 'Say, Bill, why don't you water it a bit? Maybe it will grow.' And the other made back at him: 'Water yer brains, you big stiff! Who got your other arm?'"

Patriotism and Profit

It is patriotic to buy War Savings Stamps because Canada must have money for reconstruction.

But it is also profitable to buy War Savings Stamps because you are investing in Government Bonds yielding over 4½%.

You don't need to be a capitalist. You can start with 25 cents. Buy a Thrift Stamp for a quarter. When you have sixteen of them, exchange them for a War Savings Stamp, and you will have laid the foundation of a solid investment with your odd savings.

You can add to this investment as often as you save $4.00, and in 1924 the Government will pay $5.00 for every War Savings Stamp you buy now for $4.00 odd.

This is the biggest opportunity ever afforded to wage earners to become investors.

In May W.S.S. Cost $4.24
In June W.S.S. Cost $4.26

REACH LIMIT IN ABSORPTION

Small Things Like the Turmoil of a Great War Cannot Disturb Chess Devotees.

To its devotees chess is the most absorbing of all mental activities, the game that above all others brings complete forgetfulness of the world to those who play and those who watch the moves, observes a writer in the New York Herald.

A striking example of this self-absorption has been shown recently in the rooms of a local chess club when distinguished experts struggled for supremacy in the mimic field heedless of the stupendous four-year struggle that was fast drawing to a close on Europe's shell-torn, blood-soaked board. What was the reckless slaughter of thousands of German soldiers in comparison with the sacrifice of a single ivory pawn standing guard before its queen? Which one of those who moved the pieces or of the greater number who watched them with furrowed brows and fast-beating hearts thought of the kaiser's peace offer while the queen's gambit was passing before their eyes? The pope may lift his voice in words of solemn counsel, but they heed him not. The only ecclesiastical power that they recognize is that of the mitred bishop sweeping into the heart of the enemy's country and smiting the rock as it stands.

To read the printed accounts of this tournament is to recall the old Puck picture of two chess players carried in their chairs from a burning building with the board between them. Nor do we wonder at the fact that it was only while absorbed in his daily game that the exiled Napoleon could forget Sir Hudson Lowe.

Take a Case Away With You

HAS the milk supply at your summer home been precarious in other summers? Take Carnation Milk away with you—take several cases.

Then you will know the convenience of always having milk on hand. Whole milk, sweet and fresh and pure. Milk rich in butterfat. And milk that will meet all your needs.

Carnation Milk is rich, whole milk evaporated to the consistency of cream. Nothing but water is taken away. Nothing is added. Sealed air-tight and sterilized, it will keep for several months in a cool, dry place.

Use it as cream as it comes from the can—even for whipping (chill it first).

Add water and it is milk of unusual richness.

You can buy Carnation Milk wherever groceries are sold. It is the only milk supply you need.

A case contains 48 tall size 16 oz. cans. Directions on every can.

Before you go away, write us at Aylmer for our illustrated booklet "The Story of Carnation Milk." It contains 100 splendid recipes.

MRS. MAY COULD NOT WORK

Made Well and Strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbia, Pa.—"I was very weak and run down and had dragging-down pains and pains in my back. I could not get around to do my work and had to sit down and rest often during the day. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers and read the testimonials, so I thought I would try it. Now I am healthier than I ever was in my life, and can recommend it to any woman who suffers as I did." —Mrs. ELIZABETH MAY, R.F.D. No. 1, Columbia, Pa.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence, and the letters which we are constantly publishing from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of this famous root and herb medicine.

A FRIEND OF BRITAIN

FACTS ABOUT AMEER HABIBULLAH OF AFGHANISTAN.

Ruler Whose Enemies Recently Caused His Assassination Was Clever and Versatile Man — He Remained Neutral During Great War Though Influential Men In His Country Desired to Help Turkey.

THE Ameer Habibullah of Afghanistan, who was assassinated recently, was looked upon as an ideal by his people, and was a strong d and ally of Britain. There is r that the Ameer's assassination have a disturbing effect upon ical conditions in Western Asia n war began in 1914 the Ameer ntly advised to maintain com- plete neutrality and to preserve r upon his frontiers. He did this conspicuous success, though ey's entry into the conflict d his subjects to become ex- ely restive, says the London spondent of the Brooklyn e. Nasrullah Khan, the Ameer's her, and many of the nobles eager that the Afghan nation d draw the sword in order to Turkey.

hen Turkish and German agents n to penetrate into the country, even found their way to Kabul, were some very anxious mo- s. Even Mahomed Omar, once d upon as a successor to the e, is said to have joined hands Nasrullah to force the Ameer into war against the Allies. But Habibullah remained steadfast, and after the fall of Bagdad the Afghan nation began to perceive the advantages of neutrality. Its views deepened into certainty when Turkey unconditionally surrendered, and the belief in India at the beginning of this year was that Habibullah's position was stronger than it had ever been before. Presumably with the consent of the British Government, Habibullah entered into an alliance a few weeks ago with the Emir of Bokhara and other less prominent rulers in Central Asia. The object of the confederation which was dominated by the Ameer, was chiefly to resist the spread of Bolshevism eastward and southeastward.

The late Ameer was born in Samarkand, in Central Asia, in the year 1872. His father was then an exile from Afghanistan, but in his wanderings he married a daughter of "the King and Mir of Badakshan," who bore him two sons. Abdur Rahman named the eldest Habibullah (Beloved of God). After Abdur Rahman was chosen by the British to be Ameer of Afghanistan toward the close of the Afghan war in 1878, he married Bibi Halima, the daughter of Mullah Adikullah, who became the favorite among his seven wives. Bibi Halima had a son whom Abdur Rahman named Mohammed Omar Jan, and it was thought that this lad would succeed to the throne. When Abdur Rahmar died in 1901, however, Habibullah succeeded him without any active manifestations of hostility. Bibi Halima long intrigued against her stepson, but her schemes came to naught, because Mahomed Omar proved to be stupid and loutish. Habibullah's brother Nasrullah Khan was for some time a far more dangerous competitor. Nasrullah went to London in 1895 as his father's envoy, but returned to Afghanistan with a strong hostility to the British and to all Europeans. He was angered because he considered he had not been treated with sufficient deference in England, and still more because he had failed to persuade the British Ministry to allow his father to communicate direct to London instead of through the Government of India. On his return Nasrullah became an almost fanatical religious devotee, and gradually gained the support of the bulk of the priesthood.

For a long time he was on bad terms with his elder brother, and again and again it has been thought that he would try to seize the throne. He never made the attempt, and it has sometimes been thought that the bad relations between the two brothers were to some extent simulated. Habibullah had the backing of the Afghan nobles, Nasrullah controlled the priests. Together they kept Afghanistan fairly quiet, though there were periods when Habibullah would leave all authority in the hands of his austere younger brother. The natural heir is Habibullah's eldest son, Inayatullah Khan, who visited Lord Curzon at Calcutta in in 1904. Nothing would induce Habibullah to take any real interest in the warships assembled in Bombay for his edification. When he saw the sea for the first time he surveyed it languidly and turned his back upon it. He quickly became enthusiastic about motor cars and race meetings, however; was soon an ardent diner out; even developed a weakness for tea parties; could sing a song or two, accompanying himself on the piano; tried waltzing, not without success, and astonished everybody by showing that he could play an uncommonly good game of bridge. He was a fine shot, could cook a dinner, boasted of his powers as a doctor, declared that he could preach a better sermon than any mullah. He was an extremely good linguist. There can be no doubt that he was head and shoulders above any man in this state in intellectual capacity and progressive tendencies, but he was wont to say that he feared to introduce reforms into Afghanistan because his people were not ripe for them.

That Was the Point.

"Is your place within walking distance of the cars?"

"I dunno," answered the farmer. "How far kin you walk?"

GALLANT PEER WON HONORS.

Earl of Dunmore, V.C., D.S.O., Was a Visitor to Canada.

Alexander Edward Murray, eighth Earl of Dunmore, V.C., D.S.O., M.V.O., who recently visited Canada, possesses one of the most distinguished records of military achievements to be found anywhere in the British peerage, despite the fact that scions of nearly all the noblest families in Britain were among the first to answer their country's call and have since acquitted themselves on the field of battle with honor and distinction. During the war, the earl, who is now in his forty-ninth year, was awarded the D.S.O. for conspicuous gallantry. He is one of the Imperial "Originals," being in France shortly after the outbreak of hostilities in 1914. He was wounded in 1916 and invalided back to England.

Lord Dunmore has served in India both as a soldier and as A. D. C. to the viceroy. He won the Victoria Cross in the frontier war with Afghanistan in 1897 and gained fresh honors in the South African war. He was through the Dongola Expedition for which he received two medals and was with the 6th Inniskilling Dragoons and 16th Lancers in South Africa, 1899-1900, being also mentioned in despatches. He was then in command of the 31st Imperial Yeomanry, Fincastle's Horse, in the same war. His South African decorations include the Queen's Medal with four clasps.

The earl is a student and writer, as well as a soldier, and incidentally has many interests in British Columbia, which he has visited several times. His wife, who was Miss Lucinda Dorothea Kemble, of the Isle of Skye, was an indefatigable worker in the interests of the Red Cross and of other kindred patriotic and philanthropic societies.

The Dunmore title dates back to the fascinating yet tragic period of British history which deals with Mary, Queen of Scots. It was during this reign that Lord Charles Murray, of the house of Athole, Master of the Horse, was created Earl of Dunmore. The Dunmore estate is a vast one, extending over some 17,000 acres.

Steel.

Steel is a kind of iron which can easily be hammered out thin without cracking and can be made extremely hard by being heated and then cooled quickly. It is different from ordinary iron because of the amount of carbon in it. Wrought iron contains less carbon than steel and so it can not be made so hard; cast iron contains more and so is brittle.

A Memorial at Tapley.

Premier Borden unveiled at Tapley, Bucks, England, on April 4th, a memorial to those who have died at the Canadian Red Cross Hospital there. The memorial takes the form of a female figure typifying Victory, and stands in the beautiful little cemetery on Mrs. Astor's estate, adjoining the hospital cemetery, being in the form of an Italian garden.

Quite a Difference.

"There is quite a difference between the blowhard and the garrulous toper."

"Say it!"

"One is inebriated with the exuberance of his own verbosity, and the other is verbose with the exuberance of his own inebriation."

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or should be. Any of these conditions nerves, or both, are not what they should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:— "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Trying Tactics.

He watched her daintily nibbling her cress sandwich.

"I know what it is!" he cried suddenly. "I know why you appeal to me more than any other girl I ever met. It's because you're the perfect combination of the spiritual and physical. Your fleah, plump beauty and your bird-like appetite—"

"I never did eat much, even as a child," she murmured idyllically. "A touch of toast in the morning, a sip of soup at noon, a sprig of celery or a pinch of parsley at supper, and I'm satisfied. As mother always says, 'the man that pays my board bill for life will be in luck.'

"My ideal," he cried.

Late that night she repaired to the larder, and consumed seven hard-boiled eggs, four cold porkchops, half a pound of potato salad, three tomatoes and three slices of pie.

"It's a fearful strain," she thought; "but I'll land him this week or die in the attempt."

INNER MAN WELL FORTIFIED

American Soldier, Ordered to the Front, at Least Did Not Set Out on Mission Hungry.

An American doughboy entered a restaurant in the Ile Richelieu and after carefully studying the menu, ordered dejeuner.

The waitress brought him bacon and eggs, cheese and a pint of beer. When he had finished eating, he paid his bill and called the waitress.

"Now I want some lunch."

This time she brought him a plate of roast beef, vegetables and chicken, which he washed down with half a dozen cups of tea; then he paid his bill and called the wondering waitress back again.

"Now, my dear, I want dinner."

He ate some beef, vegetables, apples and drank a bottle of wine.

At 1:30, after having taken all three meals at once, the soldier left the restaurant, and a little while later set out on a mission to the front.—Stars and Stripes.

Nitrogen From Atmosphere.

There has been erected at the United States department of agriculture's experiment farm at Arlington, Va., the largest experimental plant in the United States for the production of nitrogen from air. The nitrogen so produced is combined with hydrogen to form ammonia, which can be used in the manufacture of explosives and fertilizers. Experiments with the view of increasing the efficiency of the process are now being conducted by the bureau of soils. The Haber process of manufacturing nitrogen is being employed. This process involves the production of ammonia from hydrogen and nitrogen. The two gases are mixed in the proper proportion, put under high pressure and subjected to intense heat. They are then passed over a spongy iron, whereupon a portion of the mixture combines to form ammonia.

WANTS WHOLE WORLD TO KNOW

MISSOURI WOMAN DOING HER BEST TO LET OTHERS KNOW WHAT TANLAC WILL DO.

"My eight years' search for a medicine or a treatment that would overcome my troubles never met with any success until I commenced taking Tanlac," said Mrs. A. B. Cosseboon, who lives at 425 Independence Avenue, Kansas City, Mo., while talking with a Tanlac representative the other day.

"My kidneys and stomach were both in very bad condition," she continued, "and it is hard to say which of these troubles caused me the most misery. The awful pains in my back and the terrible raging headaches; had would almost drive me wild, and if I stooped over for anything it was impossible for me to straighten up without assistance. Then I would have severe pains on account of my food not digesting properly, and forming into what seemed to be a lump in the pit of my stomach. I was also bothered a great deal on account of my limbs getting numb, or going to sleep, and would often have to rub them wth alcohol before I could get any relief. Finally my nerves got in very bad condition, and I was not able to sleep very well, and I just got so weak and run-down that it would exhaust me completely to do any part of my housework.

"After reading so much about Tanlac in the Kansas City papers, I decided to make one more effort and give Tanlac a trial; and let me tell you, that was the wisest decision I ever made in my life. It seems almost too good to be true, but I am now as well and happy as I ever was in my life. Why, the change in my condition is so wonderful that everybody who knows me is talking about it, and I always take a perfect delight in telling them that Tanlac is responsible for it all. My kidneys seem to be in perfect condition now, and I am entirely free from those pains in my back, and I haven't had one of those raging headaches since I finished my first bottle of Tanlac; and I eat just anything I want and my food digests perfectly. The numbness and pains in my limbs have disappeared, and I am so completely rid of nervousness that I sleep like a child every night. My strength and energy have come back to me, and I can do all my housework without the least trouble. In fact, Tanlac has made me a well, strong woman again, and I just want the world to know what a great medicine Tanlac is, and I am glad to recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

PEACE BRIDES IN THEIR GAY GOWNS

End of War Has Released Girls From Somberness of the Recent Weddings.

PAGEANTRY IS NOW FEATURE

Medieval Fashions Are Generously Copied as Well as Those of the First Empire and Directoire.

New York.—Peace brides will have more splendid weddings than war brides. There will be less of tragedy attached to them; less of nervous emotionalism, and probably less of haste in selection, observes a leading fashion writer.

There was much to be said against the epidemic of war weddings; but the public remained quiet because the world loves a lover, and loves even better a fighter, and with the two combined the rush of super-emotion which filled America since April, 1917, tolerated much that was done in the name of love and war.

Sumptuous weddings were taboo in war. Marriages took place, in the simple meaning of the term. To a large majority of minds there is an acute difference between a marriage and a wedding, and this difference has been sharply impressed upon the public mind during the last twenty months.

These war brides are getting a glimpse of what a wedding may be through the new trousseaus that are ordered for the belated honeymoons, and the peace bride is swinging into the full regalia of a splendid wedding, now that the trumpet has ceased to call for the man to go and the whistles blow to show that the man had come home.

The world is again turned topsy-turvy, and all our conditions and emotions, our mannerisms and expenditures turn an even somersault with it. It is thus that the world is kept from losing its balance. When we all turn together we do not feel abnormal.

Eighteenth Century Pageantry.

In the centuries that have gone before this one, weddings were spectacles, differing in degree between royalty and peasantry, between the landed multionaire and the salaried worker. A revolt against the spectacular side of a wedding controlled a majority of people on this continent for several years before the war, but the present hour seems a fit time for sumptuousness; it is an expression of the riotous gayety in every heart.

Peace brides have been quick to catch this feeling in the air, and weddings are planned for the early spring that might almost be termed pageants. It is youth getting its revenge. Debutantes have not been allowed to make their bow to society for two years. Youngsters have been thrust into the furnace of war-work here and on the battlefields, learning more of the tragedy of the world in twelve months than they might have learned in a lifetime during other epochs. Now youth must have its fling, for it is the quickest to rebound from tragedy. The old and the middle-aged feel that youth has had a ghastly experience during the last four years; that it has been deprived of its birthright; that it has been fettered in the dungeons of grief. Now that it has been released into the sunshine, its debut into happiness must be attended by a fanfare of trumpets, a throwing of garlands, and a brilliancy that the old have foresworn.

All this traditional impulse toward gayety will reach its highest peak in the spring weddings. Since the day the armistice was signed the mating of young people has taken on brilliancy. Churches are thrown open to crowds of guests, bridesmaids are chosen as though one were indulging in a new and riotous extravagance. It is as though splendid weddings had lain on the shelves for a century, so brightly and happily has the public taken up their revival. All that was once considered boredom is now considered an occasion for bubbling merriment. It is good for a nation to be compelled to forego all its luxuries, so that they may be better enjoyed when brought back into life.

The dressmakers are eager to abet this form of splendor in apparel, and artists, and even interior decorators, have been called in for consultation to provide new and agreeable features for the wedding service.

The old fashion of dancing, which for many generations ruled the customs in America, where it was carried from Europe, is again on the cards. The bride remains for the festivities, instead of creeping away after innumerable hand-shakings. She opens the dance with the groom, and at a recent wedding, in which all the costumes were copied from the eighteenth century, the entire bridal party danced the minuet before the guests as a bit of pageantry. The bridesmaids wore the gowns that once flitted through Versailles—gowns which now look down from canvas upon the peace commissioners. The bride wore a frock of brocade fashioned after the same style, and her lace veil, mounted on net, was held low on the forehead by a chain of diamonds.

Medievalism and Modern Weddings.

There is also a drop to centuries that make the eighteenth seem modern. Medievalism, with its splendor, barbaric as it seems to us now, suggests the pageantry for weddings and balls. It was then that royalty spent the millions given in taxes by the poor for such weddings as that of Catherine de Medici to the young king of France.

The entire trend of fashion having gone toward medievalism since the end of the war, it is not difficult to arrange these wedding pageants in keeping with modern costumes. The lattice work of metal threads and seed pearls, which distinguished that era in history, was revived several months ago, not only for evening gowns, but for those afternoon gowns intended for something more formal than tea at a restaurant.

One apparel scheme for a bridal group includes a wedding gown of satin embroidered in pearls without price and silk and silver threads. The lattice work is carried up to the knees, downward from the hips, and covers the train, which is lined with cloth of silver. The slim, high-necked bodice has an outstanding medieval collar of lace down with silver threads, and the long tight sleeves of lace have a lattice work of pearls from shoulder to elbow.

The bridesmaids' gowns are of pale rose velvet, an exquisite soft weave of this fabric, which clings to the body like chiffon. The frocks are made with straight panels back and front, over a sheath slip; the panels are embroidered with a lattice work of silver, and there are small ornaments of seed pearls placed at intervals.

A Wedding of the Directoire.

The first empire and the Directoire, which preceded it, are again handing down inspiration to the French dressmaker, and each month sees a return grouping together of the accessories of fashion during that time. So weddings also reflect this age. The clothes for a pageant of this kind are a bit mixed in the political eras they suggest, but who cares?

The bride wears the full regalia of Josephine, empress of the French, with heelless slippers, white silk stockings and white satin gown with the velvet court train, lined with silver and caught at the shoulder with silver ornaments. The coiffure is copied from the one that Josephine made famous, with its ringlets at the top and at the temples. The bridesmaids are appareled in pure directoire costumes—in the red and blue of France. Their cutaway coats are of red satin, and the skirts are blue. The high-crowned hats are of soft white straw faced with French blue.

Some Benefit From Poison Gas.

Chemists are planning to use inventions devised to protect soldiers from the poison gas of the Huns for the protection of industrial workers in mines and factories. The absorbents used in gas masks may also serve as safeguards from foul gases which are generated in certain industrial processes. Likewise, some of the poison gases that American chemists have devised in reprisal against German deviltry, it is believed, can be used in the extermination of vermin and also for the disinfection of fruit orchards from insects and other blights, such as San Jose scale.

Repopulation Problem.

The reichstag is concerned with problems which threaten the German birth rate. It is recommended to get the workers away from the cities, where they can have small detached cottages in which light and country air and nutritious food can be obtained. This course would tend to increase the number of births. It has been learned that about half of the mutilated soldiers are marrying women older than themselves, a custom which is pernicious for repopulation. To check infant mortality more children's clinics will be established.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

Restore a Healthy Condition

Why permit your liver and kidneys to remind you constantly of their unhealthy condition, when Bliss Native Herb Tablets taken at regular intervals will free you from pain, and keep your system in sound physical health. Don't neglect them, for to do so will lead to perhaps very serious consequences. Take Bliss Native Herb Tablets at the first sign of trouble, and you will be agreeably surprised at the results. They are recognized everywhere as the standard kidney remedy for all ills due to a disordered stomach. Constipation disappears, the liver and kidneys function properly, the blood becomes pure and healthy, the appetite improves, and the general system becomes invigorated.

Mrs. Francis Mercier, Brunswick, Ga., writes: "My liver and kidneys were very bad, but thanks to Bliss Native Herb Tablets, I have not a trace of my old trouble now. I shall continue to keep them on hand, but as long as I can get them."

Bliss Native Herb Tablets are put up in the box, enough to last the average family six months. Price $1.00. Accept no substitute. Look for the trade mark and money back guarantee on every box.

Sold by local druggists and local agents everywhere.

Glasses that merely seem helpful to your sight are not necessarily the lenses that will correct your vision any more than a pleasant-to-taste drug is certain to correct some other physical ailment. OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Grist

By ARCHIE CAMERON-MEW

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

John Gates came out of a trance-like stupor and stared in disgust. He had not been the victim of a bad dream. No, he shivered, would that life were like that dream!

Two minutes before there had danced before his vision a picture of an old grist mill. He could see the trees lazily and happily brushing their leaves with every puff of wind, and the little dam that laughingly dashed its spray against its rocky formation. And his father, with his kindly old eyes and stooped shoulders, pouring into the mill's grist fine whole wheat.

And then he saw the pure-white flour, so much in keeping with the sacredly pure precincts about which he had scampered years before, barefoot, poor, but happy. And then the sweet smile of his mother—that dear, kindly soul, whose happiest mission was ministration to his boyish whims and an appreciative father's wants. And then he woke up!

For a moment he surveyed himself sadly. Those bare toes of his boyhood were now encased in rich, comfortable shoes, showing off in marked contrast the worn carpet on which they rested. He fingered nervously the well-tailored clothes that long since had replaced torn, ragged overalls, and smiled bitterly. And then he looked up!

An old man bent over a desk several feet away seemed to remind him of the old miller, his father, with his sparse gray hairs and stooped shoulders—until he looked up. A pair of rascally, cunning eyes met Gates' furtively, and then darted to a rough-looking individual waiting, as was Gates, on one of the chairs in a row about the wall of the large outer office. A buzzer sounded and the door of the inner sanctum opened.

"It's your turn next," huskily whispered the old man to the other. "Leave it to Jerry Bletzman. He'll fix you up."

The man grunted unintelligibly and rose hesitatingly to his feet. He, like most of his waiting brethren, had come to be "fixed up." And Bletzman, the far-famed P. Gerald Bletzman, self-styled "counselor at law," was to do the fixing," or, rather, the "unfixing." For Bletzman's many hired henchmen proclaimed that no matrimonial knot was too hard for their patron to untie.

"Jen' leave it t' me," boomed a raucous voice, which Gates recognized as Bletzman's as he hurriedly pushed a spidery-looking young man out of his office. "I'll get somethin' on her. They ain't none o' them too foxy fer Bletzman, are they, Pete?"

Pete, his assistant, acquiesced speedily with a chuckle, and Bletzman bent a beady eye on the man who stood close to Pete's desk.

"Come right in," he welcomed the other suavely, laying a sweaty palm on the client's sleeve. "Pete, bring th' gentleman's card in—now."

The door slammed and again the outer office subsided into a low murmur of voices.

So, mused Gates, this was what he had come to. A place where the sacred ties of marriage and motherhood were bandied about like packing boxes and card-indexed like a case of measles. Brr-r!

And across the room, instead of the sweet smile of his mother, a star-eyed woman in gay clothes watched fraternally at him while waiting her turn.

This drove Gates' eyes up to the lean on which rested a neat package, which he now untied. Dragging forth a yellowish paper, he fell to reading it, and again it conjured forth visions from out of a happy past.

There was a great high-ceilinged parlor, smelling deliciously of fresh-picked blossoms, and echoing the sound of many laughing voices and the crinkle of many stiff party dresses. And a rose-bower in the center, under which an ecstatic couple were receiving congratulations. And Gates, as he read his marriage license, heard anew, as if it were yesterday, the little old pastor's solemn warning, "Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

"Purty well prepared, ain't yuh, mister?" The voice at Gates' elbow caused him to thrust the paper back in the packet, as he looked up to meet the leer of the man on his right. "My old woman swiped mine," continued the other, enviously. "Leastways, she muster given it t' th' guy she 'loped with. Cost me fifty extra t' get a new one. Ain't women th' darndest vegys?"

Gates stared at him unseeingly, but the last remark caused him to shiver anew. Lucille, his wife, a vegy? Never! She was a fine girl, through and through. They just couldn't get along—that was all. And some one had suggested Bletzman to him, had—

"I'll come outa th' mill sadder an' poorer," vouchsafed another waiting one. "Bletzman'll see t' that."

"Out of the mill," echoed Gates to himself, in horror. To be sure, it was a mill; but what kind? Bletzman's mill swallowed up human souls and gave up what? Flour, white flour? Could that hoydenish girl be stooped to his father's flour? Or the decrepit, red-nosed wreck at his side who called his—wife—a—vegy? Or that old woman who flirted with him, and in whose brassy locket at her wrinkled neck there probably reposed pictures of her grandchildren? And was he to be made a party to "fixing" his wife—little winsome Lucille, whom he had wronged? Yes, he reflected, he had wronged her. No wonder she had complained of his friends coming to the house, drinking heavily, talking lodgely and gambling madly. It had offended those finer sensibilities that now, in him, in the midst of Bletzman's revolting atmosphere, came back with a rush. Why hadn't he kept that promise to do so, the giving of which he had called hen-pecky? If he only had kept it—she might still be with—

Two doors opened simultaneously. Through one a burly Bletzman thrust a man, and stood surveying the crowd of waiters.

"Who's next?" he vociferated, in his best barber manner, as if getting divorced was no more than a shave. "Ah, the little lady!" He advanced toward the outer door and Gates followed him with his eyes. And then Gates staggered, in horror, to his feet.

"Lucille!" cried Gates, as a pretty, slender young girl of obvious refinement hesitated at the threshold.

"I want to see—Mr.—Bletzman," she announced in a low tone, and that individual was about to take her outstretched hand when he was roughly pushed out of the way and a tall, muscular figure stood between him and Mrs. Gates.

"Lucille," repeated John Gates, forcing her to meet his gaze, "you have no business—here—this—place."

"What in the—," Bletzman started to splutter, edging himself toward the couple, but again Gates pushed him aside.

"Come, Lucille," he urged, taking her hand, and leading her toward the door. "Out of this—den. This is not for us. I came—as I know you did—to get—a—divorce." He brushed his free hand across a feverish brow as if to wipe away an awful vision. "Come, this is not the mill for us. Let's—go—back to Lochinvar—to peace. Let's be happy as we were before I came to the city. We—"

"Do you know you are interferin' with my business?" demanded Bletzman, in a seething rage. "This lady wants t' see—"

"Me," John finished Bletzman's sentence, restraining his clenched fists with an effort. "She wants to see me," he repeated. "Do you get that? And she will—exclusively—for the rest of her life—if she wants to." And then, as if the mighty Bletzman were no more than a troublesome beggar, Gates swung around and faced the trembling little girl he had promised to love, honor and protect. "Don't you, Lucille?"

As she nodded her head and buried her face in his sleeve, John led her into the corridor. He slammed the door and then breathed deeply.

"Even here the air is foul," he growled, putting his arm around her. "Come, let's hurry. We'll get the 3:20 train down. Dinner will be ready for us when we get there."

Inside the office Bletzman stared dumfounded at the closed door, then, shrugging his shoulders indifferently, sauntered toward Pete's desk.

"Why didn' y' show 'im in quick?" he roared at Pete. "Couldn't y' tell he's th' big' that think twice? If I'd seen him, I'd fixed it." Then he turned savagely toward the waiting line. "Next!"

Building of Roads Marked Breaking Up of the Ignorance of the Dark Ages.

When light began to glimmer, day to break, on the dark ages (as we call them, and thereby impute to them, I think, aloud with their own darkness, no little of ours, such as the British museum abroad has been heard to commiserate "those poor ignorant foreigners")—when daylight began to spread over the dark ages, what was the first thing to be seen? I will tell you what is the first thing I see. It is the roads.

I see the roads glimmer up out of the spreading twilight with the many sutes, like ants, coming and going upon them; admitting, passing, overtaking; knights, merchants, carriers; fustilugs with dusty trains, king's messengers, riding post; abbot, friars—black, white and gray—gardeners, poor scholars, minstrels, beggar pats; pack horses in files; pilgrims bound for Walsingham, Canterbury, or to Southampton, to ship there for Compostella and home.

I see the old Roman roads—Watling street, Ermine street, Icknield street, Akeman street, the Fosse way and the rest—hard mettled, built in five layers, from the foundation or pavimentum of fine earth hard beaten in, through layers of hard stones, small stones (both mixed with mortar), pounded nucleus of lime, clay or chalk, brick and tile, up to the paved surface, summum dorsum; one running north through York and branching, as Hadrian had diverted it, to point after point of the Great Wall; another coastwise toward Cornwall; a third for Chester and on to Anglesey; a fourth embanked and ditched through the Cambridgeshire fens; I see the minor network of cross-roads, the waterways with their slow freight.—Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch in "Studies in Literature."

Getting Oil From Peat.

In his method of converting peat into synthetic coal, S. C. Davidson, an engineer of Belfast, Ireland, returns to the peat vegetable oils that have weathered out, mixes with 15 per cent of pitch dust, and forms into square blocks by hydraulic pressure. This fuel is reported efficient and comparatively cheap.

Industrial Exemption.

Conscription boards have their troubles, and occasionally a tragedy, but once in a while they have a little joke, too. The local draft board at Scottsburg thinks it has a "good one" on the third district appeal board.

Recently the Scottsburg board sent up papers of a man who sought exemption because of marriage since August 5, 1918. In due time the papers were returned by the appeal board with the ruling "deferred classification refused. Place can be filled by another."

It is presumed that the appeal clerks wrote a reason for refusal of an appeal for exemption on industrial grounds on the papers instead of the one intended for case.—Indianapolis News.

YES, he reached the top first, but at the expense of his stockings.

Perhaps this was your boy and you gave him a scolding. But it really wasn't his fault, he wouldn't be normal if he wasn't hard on stockings.

Because we knew boys, we designed Buster Brown Stockings. Made them to stand the strenuous use of the average boy.

We knitted them from extra-long yarn made by ourselves to ensure uniform quality. Our employees have had years of special training in knitting Buster Brown quality into hosiery.

We knitted good looks as well as durability into Buster Brown stockings. They are made to fit—to give a dressy, gentlemanly appearance. They are suitable for any occasion.

Because of all these features, Buster Brown stockings cost less—and they require less mending.

'wars Souvenirs.

Even "kultur" has its limitations. One of these is brought out in a letter from Private Ralph G. Kibbon of the Sixteenth engineers. He says: "I am in a dugout that was very hastily abandoned by a 'kultured' Boche. He was 'kultured' enough to have a nice feather tick in his bunk, which I appreciate in spite of the fact that even his 'kultur' didn't keep it from being alive. However, he left me his helmet for a box and plenty of candles to light up the place. There is everything in the line of souvenirs that one could ask, but everything I have goes on my back, with an overcoat, blankets, raincoat, shelter tent and extra clothes, so the souvenirs will stay just about where they are, unless somebody comes along with a truck."

Breaking It Gently.

Kind Old Lady (visiting penitentiary)—Ah, my poor fellow; you look like an honest man. Why did they put you here?

Poor Fellow—Yer right; it was a shame, liddy. They put me here just fer tryin' to open up a little business.

Kind Old Lady—Why, that was an outrage! What kind of a business was it?

Poor Fellow—The little business on the front of a safe.

Saw Another Chance.

"Say, that lot you sold me is three feet under the water."

"Is it?"

"Yes, if is, and you know it."

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

What Everywoman Knows

Every year, dress fabrics are becoming sheerer and sheerer—the colors more dainty. The ordeal of trusting the delicate garments to "soap and water", however, is done away with by the use of Lux.

You may feel quite free to buy the daintiest blouse or underwear your purse can afford—without a bit of worry about the washing of them. You keep them fresh and new the Lux way—simply dipping them up and down in the creamy, copious Lux suds with never a bit of rubbing to injure them.

Lux won't hurt anything that pure water itself may touch.

Umbrella Morals.

"Not long ago at a tea," said a man who frequents such decadent diversions, "somebody walked off with a new umbrella of mine. What I got in return was not fit for publication.

"I spoke to the host about it—the tea was at a bachelor apartment—and he gave me a list of all those present with their addresses, about twenty-five person, suggesting that I write and ask who had a new umbrella in place of an old one.

"I took it with some degree of hope which he at once crushed by telling me that on one occasion he had lost a new silk hat at a social function and the hostess had given him a list of sixty four men who had been among those present. He wrote to the entire lot and received four replies in the negative. The others simply ignored his notes of inquiry.

"Thereupon I concluded to let somebody have my new umbrella. But stealing's stealing just the same, in my opinion."—New York Sun.

BRINGS HOME HUN SAVAGERY

Contrast of Present War With That of the Spanish-American Conflict Twenty Years Ago.

One night, 20 years ago, I sat in an army camp in Cuba during the Santiago campaign, listening to a discussion of war weapons. That day some 2,000 men had been killed or wounded in a three hours' battle, which involved all of Shafter's army corps at San Juan hill and at El Caney. The matter which created the most comment was the very small per cent of mortalities in the casualty list. The wounded would nearly all recover, and, except here and there, without permanent injury. Two American staff officers were discussing it and praising the Mauser rifle, which the Spaniards were using. I remember substantially the words of one of the staff officers. He said: "It is a more merciful weapon than the Krag, which we are using, because it is of smaller bore, makes a cleaner wound and puts the other fellow out of business just as effectively as the Krag does without inflicting as dangerous an injury."

I remember that they both agreed that the science of modern war was to knock the other fellow out without slaughtering him. I thought of that odd American conception of that twenty-year-old period while visiting yesterday a hospital where Americans were being brought in from the field. Some of the men are indescribably mangled; some wounds lie open as though they had been made with a cleaver—others are of the crushed, ragged kind. I went from this dangerously wounded ward into a neighboring tent, where 200 gassed men with bandaged eyes tossed restlessly. As I thought of the desperately wounded I had just left and of those poisoned men, called upon to defend themselves against an inhuman weapon which gave them no chance to strike blow for blow, I realized the utter savagery to which we have reverted since that gentle day in which we sank the Spanish navy and made guests of the Spanish army until the hour arrived when we might send the conquered home in chivalry and in honor.—Kansas City Times.

Overcoming Hay Fever.

Hay fever is gradually becoming better understood. From the public health reports, it appears that recent investigations have shown only one person in a hundred to be susceptible, while the susceptibles differ widely in the effects produced on them by the various plant pollens that give rise to the disease. In the eastern and southern United States pollen of the ragweed finds the greatest number of sensitive subjects, the spring type of hay fever being therefore the most common. The smaller number of persons who are affected by grass pollen have the autumnal type of fever. Some persons have both the spring and the autumnal fevers, and about 8 per cent of the susceptibles are sensitive not only to the ragweed and grass pollens, but to various other pollens, including some trees. Such unfortunates are liable to hay fever attacks throughout [illegible] year. Some patients are affected only when the specific pollen is [illegible] in abundance, but others [illegible] during the entire season of the plant's pollination.

On War!

The war department recently invited bids for the [illegible] to supply 125 regiments: fourteen thousand five hundred [illegible] boxing gloves, 7,000 baseball bats, 21,000 baseballs, 35,000 playground balls, 3,000 rugby footballs, 7,000 soccer footballs, 350 volley balls and 1,750 medicine balls.

RECORD PRICE FOR SPEECH

Chauncey Depew Tells of Occasion When a Few Spoken Words Were Worth Much Money.

In commenting upon the death of Mrs. Russell Sage, Chauncey M. Depew, who knew Mrs. Sage for 40 years and was an intimate associate of her husband for a longer period, told how he made a $120,000 speech at her suggestion.

Mr. Depew stated that although Mr. Sage accumulated a vast fortune he rarely gave away any money, adding that the reason for this was the confidence which he reposed in the judgment of his wife as an able and experienced philanthropist. He said that years ago he received a letter from Mrs. Sage inviting him to make an address at the Emma Willard school, at Troy, N. Y., upon the occasion of the donation by Mr. Sage to the school of a large sum of money for use in erecting a building. This was the school of which Mrs. Sage was a graduate.

"I replied," said Mr. Depew, "that I was so overwhelmed with engagements to speak that it would be impossible for me to accept the invitation. In answer I received by special messenger a note from Mrs. Sage, saying: 'Russell is going to give $120,000. He will not give one cent unless you make the speech. This is Russell's first excursion into this field. Don't you think he ought to be encouraged?'

"My immediate reply was: 'I will make that speech.'"

COMPLETE CHAOS IN RUSSIA

Inevitable Anarchy as the Result of Insufficient Supplies of Food for the People.

By far the most terrible toll of the Russian winter will be taken in the peasant villages, the home of nine-tenths of Russia's 180,000,000, Oliver M. Sayler writes in the Saturday Evening Post. The sullen and defiant mushik, who has planted for himself and only for himself, hasn't taken into account the possibility that superior force from the city or from his own or a neighboring village may seize his grain. When the calamity befalls, an endless train of disaster and bloodshed and starvation will follow in its wake.

Reprisal on some weaker peasant will be the next step, and from that the flame will spread to virulent border warfare with whole villages on the trail to plunder the grain bins of others or intrenched to protect their own. In some districts, even before I left, this most cruel form of civil strife had broken out.

I contemplated returning from Petrograd to Moscow by sleigh overland in case the German advance enveloped the railroad outlets. Careful investigation, however, disclosed the fact that machine guns, brought home from the front, were mounted on all the roads leading into many villages and travelers approached them at their peril.

World's Greatest Troopship.

One of the devoted women who have not spared themselves at the emergency aid rooms told this story among the flying needles the other day to her co-workers. A letter from the front has brought the intelligence:

A pompous German major had fallen into the hands of our valorous Pennsylvania troops, and after they had questioned him, he ventured to ask them for information.

"How many men have you on this side of the water?" he inquired.

"Two million," answered a young lieutenant.

"How did you get them over?" was the incredulous query of the Hun.

"One boat brought them all over," was the answer.

The German stared. "How so? What boat was that?"

The American gave the German a searching look. "The Lusitania," he answered, quietly.

Tallow Dips in Denmark.

Denmark has a lighting problem so serious that the Danish government recently purchased 400 tons of tallow from which to make candles, Commercial Agent Normal Anderson reports from Copenhagen.

"There is a scarcity of kerosene also, and electricity is, of course, not available to the isolated farmhouse," says Mr. Anderson, who quotes from the Tidsskrift for Industri, which, in discussing the possibilities of acetylene and alcohol illumination, states: "Acetylene may now legally be used and may be included in fire insurance risks. As a result the manufacture of acetylene lamps has flourished greatly and at the end of the year 180 types had been put on the market."—Exchange.

Reasonable.

The Boss—Take that suit at $40, and I'm losing money. Customer—Well, I'll take it; but how much are you losing? The Boss—Well, I'll tell you. I paid $3 for it and have had to store it, brush it, insure it and advertise it for ten years. Figure it out for yourself.—New York Globe.

Made Over.

"I'm all out of kelter," declared the typewriter man. "My arm feels loose, my back seems twisted, and my left leg is shaky. What would you advise?"

"I think I'd get myself rebuilt," suggested the automobile manufacturer.—Kansas City Journal.

Attire to Suit.

"The groom and his bride were certainly appropriately dressed for their wedding."

"How so?"

"She wore a changeable silk, and he had on a check suit."—Baltimore American.

IN THEIR LAST LONG SLEEP

Beautiful Spot in Which Have Been Laid American Soldiers Who Died in Liberty's Cause.

On the wooded slope of a steep hill that rises high over a great bend in the River Seine lies a little plot of earth that is as much America as is the national cemetery at Arlington or the hallowed ground of Gettysburg. It is a quiet and peaceful spot, for although Paris is near—the slender pinnacle of the Eiffel tower is in plain view over the trees—the city is separated from the American cemetery at Suresnes by the green expanse of the Bois de Boulogne. The heart of the city that is the heart of the world is not five miles away; you would think it at least fifty. It is a spot far removed from war, and yet there are enough of the accoutrements of war about it to remind the visitor that the 700 graves here are the graves of soldiers—mostly of soldiers who died of their wounds on the journey in from the front or at one of the hospitals in or near the capital. Further up the slope frown the ramparts of the fort of Mount Valerien, one in the chain of defenses that surround Paris. During hostilities planes flew from field to field, the drone of their motors never so clear as in this quiet countryside. And more warlike still, an occasional cannon shot echoed from a testing ground in the neighborhood. The little cemetery itself, with its well-aligned rows of white wooden crosses, will some day be as green and fair a God's acre as any in France. It is becoming so as fast as the loving hands of the living can convert it into one. Even in these fresh fall days, the graves are all abloom, and hardy shrubs add a touch of somber beauty to the little corners and round points. —Stars and Stripes, Paris.

EPIGRAPHS PROVE A PUZZLE

Explanation of Hieroglyphics Admittedly Very Old Will Surely Be of the Greatest Interest.

Amateur archeologists of California are endeavoring to interest professional scientists of the East in the epigraphs which abound on the rocks of Round Valley, not far from the city of Bishop, and which are believed to be as old, if not older, than the hieroglyphics of earliest Egypt, to which they bear a strange resemblance.

It is believed by many that the strange markings constituted the names by which ancient tribes marked the source of water supply for the benefit of those of their number who lived roving lives.

These hieroglyphics have never been deciphered, although they are matters of record in the leading museums of the country, it is said. The Indian tribes now living in the vicinity declare they are the work of the Indians of North America and that they antedate all aboriginal lore.

Some who have examined the strange markings in the flinty bowlders say the hieroglyphics closely resemble those of earliest Egypt and may replace the latter as the first written language of humanity.

They are found always in the vicinity of water supplies, the same markings discovered near Bishop appearing also on rocks extending through the Canadian border, down through Washington, Oregon and California to the Mexican line and beyond. This fact, it is argued, indicates that prehistoric tribes marked a highway for their migrating members or for their armies, giving specific directions as to the best water supplies along the way.

BEWARE OF TENDER, INFLAMED GUMS

Pyorrhea, with a premature loss of teeth, is almost inevitable if you do not properly care for your gums. Here is the explanation:

As you age, the body tissues naturally relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums, too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become spongy and inflamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot develop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teeth healthy. Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans them scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 25c and 60c tubes. All Druggists.

Yperite, New Poison Gas.

J. Bandaline and J. de Poliakoff (Bulletin de l'Academie de Medicine) call the reader's attention to the efficiency of hot air in the treatment of burns caused by yperite, a gas used by the Germans in their offensive of March, 1918. These burns, even when very small, cause extremely sharp pain and sleeplessness. A number of cases were rapidly healed by hot air after various treatments had failed.

Stops Stomach Gas Prevents Fermentation Aids Digestion

If fermentation of food in the stomach can be prevented, you go a long way towards stopping the most frequent ailment of the day. Doctors who have studied the formula of Dr. Hamilton's Pills say it would be difficult to find a remedy better adapted to stomach ailments. After once using Dr. Hamilton's Pills the stomach is cleared of the sour, fermenting matter that causes gas, heartburn, indigestion and headaches. You will be pleasantly surprised at the smooth, easy way in which Hamilton's Pills tone up the liver, kidneys and stomach.

It's really wonderful the improvement in appetite, in complexion, in general well-being that results directly from the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They stop dizziness, fulness and swelling of the stomach, they correct costiveness, bad dreams and blotchy skin.

To strengthen the muscular system, to bring a keen edge to the appetite, elasticity to the step and brightness to the eyes, nothing can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold everywhere in 25c boxes.

"There's a Reason"

TALE OF SUPREME DEVOTION

Simple Explanation of Reason Why Romance of Abelard and Heloise Will Never Die.

Romance never dies, for lovers are born each springtime and the heart of the world is always young.

And so it is that to the modern thunder of the guns bombarding Soissons is set the tune of an old, old romance that has spun like a gold-and-scarlet thread through eight changeful centuries, spun and spun, and lost none of its color, none of its appeal. And the story winds about the town of Soissons and ends in a crumbling old tower dropping to its last decay.

And the romance was the tragedy of Abelard and Heloise, lovers who have typified the passion of devotion to all the lovers of the universe. The story itself was not uncommon—the love of a teacher for his beautiful pupil, her winning and her undoing. The tale of Faust has the same harsh note of betrayal. But it is the supreme devotion of Abelard and Heloise that make them types; that, and the setting of the romance which ran through Paris and other towns, and drew to a close in the tower where Abelard was a prisoner of those persecutors who held his writings to be seditious. His marriage to Heloise, his renunciation of her, and the final taking, by both of them, of the vows that sent her to a nunnery and him to a monastery, all of this availed him nothing. There in the town of Soissons, lighted now by the blaze of bursting shells, he was compelled to burn with his own hand his book in which was set forth the "heresy" of which he was accused. What a contrast between the feeble light of that burning manuscript and the flare of the battle we are waging for the liberties of the world!

And yet the burning of that book was a momentous event at the Soissons council of ecclesiastics.

But Abelard had been a great teacher, and all the country had throbbed and thrilled with the serial story of his romance with the beautiful Heloise. And so, in the later years travelers have turned aside from the beaten tracks and sought the old tower on the outskirts of the French town for a glimpse of the prison where he languished. The steps were worn in grooves by the thousands of feet that went as on a pilgrimage to the shrine of a perfect love.

There today the guns roar and the shells take their screaming flight—there at Soissons—but under the curtain of smoke and the hail of lead there spins on and on the gold-and-scarlet thread of the romance that never dies.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Jerusalem Gets Water.

For the first time since the days of Herod, Jerusalem has a good supply of pure water, the British having provided it in the first year of their occupation. The city has relied for its supply on rain water which flowed into underground cisterns at almost every house. These were found in bad repair and most of them needed cleaning. The water from near Solomon's Pool was led by the Romans through an aqueduct, but this was not nearly enough, and under the Turks it was divided to the Mosque of Omar and the city of Bethlehem. The British found some springs and have raised the water from them to the top of a hill, whence it flows by gravity through a new pipeline into the city. Standpipes were placed on the streets, and the cisterns are filled on condition that they are first cleaned and repaired. Water consumption has increased tenfold, cholera has been exterminated and the health of the city is pronounced wonderfully good.

METAL UNIONS DECLINE AID

ADVISE TORONTO UNIONS WHO STRUCK IN SYMPATHY WITH THEM TO RETURN TO WORK.

CITY QUITE NORMAL

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 3.—President R. C. Brown of the Metal Trades Council at 1.30 to-day issued a notice to the workers of various unions who went out on strike in sympathy with the metal trades workers, advising them to return to work at once. President Brown thanked them for their sympathetic action, but said that nothing could be gained by their remaining out longer, and the men of the metal trades preferred to fight their own battle from now on.

JUNE 16TH NEXT DATE.

Street Car Employees May Go Out on That Date—Boot Men, Too.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 3. — Mayor Church and other conciliators to-day continued their efforts to secure a basis of agreement between the striking workers of the metal trades and their employers. The city is still, to all appearances, continuing normal in an industrial way. Eighty per cent. of the population are entirely unaffected by the "general" strike as it has progressed so far. There are no additions reported to-day to the strikers' ranks.

So far as known, none are expected till June 16th, when it is quite possible there will be a strike of the street railway men on their own account. Other unions, particularly the boot and shoe workers, are negotiating with employers for increases, with little prospect at present of settlement being reached.

TORONTO CARPENTERS MAY CONTINUE STRIKE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 3. — Toronto's general strike is practically over. With startling suddenness this afternoon came a declaration from the Metal Trades Council asking all those strikers who had gone out in sympathy with them to return to work. The metal trades have decided to wage the war alone, taking this position, they say, because they do not want to jeopardize the interests of other labour organizations. This leaves about 7,000 metal workers on strike, presuming that the other trades go back to work. There is some doubt as to the action of the carpenters, who have a fight of their own to carry on.

WINNIPEG POLICE ACCEPT NEW TERMS

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 3.—At a mass meeting to-day the Policemen's Union unanimously voted to sign modified terms contained in the ultimatum presented by the Police Commission, providing that the police must not participate in a sympathetic strike. A resolution was passed to support constituted authority at all times in maintaining law and order.

Troops which were ordered to be in readiness yesterday were on duty again this morning. The city was quiet during the night. A statement by the Railroad Brotherhood executives that they had transmitted to the executives of Winnipeg Metal Trades Council an offer for settlement which had been received from the heads of Winnipeg's three leading iron works was an important development.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday's highest temperature was 93 degrees—two degrees warmer than Sunday. To-day's figure will also be something over 90, as the mercury had reached that mark at noon, and still going strong. By way of contrast, frosts were common last night and the previous night in Saskatchewan and some parts of Manitoba. At Swift Current, the temperature was down to 20, at Battleford 24, at Calgary 32, and lighter frosts in other places.—W.P.

Collegiate Boy Makes Fine Rescue at Inverlea Park

EVELYN ROBERTS, DAUGHTER OF A. G. ROBERTS, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, WAS CARRIED OUT INTO THE RIVER WHILE SWIMMING THIS AFTERNOON.

SAVED BY DON FITZGERALD

Swept out into midstream by the strong current at Inverlea Park, Evelyn Roberts, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Roberts, Dennistoun Avenue, was being carried beneath one of the arches of the Smith Street Bridge this afternoon about three o'clock, when Don. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, jumped from the bridge railing, and, quickly swimming to the girl's side, caught her as her strength was giving out, and effected a brilliant rescue.

"I hate to jump from here" was Fitzgerald's hurried comment as he faced the emergency, according to the statement of a youth who was near him, but without a second's hesitation, he threw himself from the height just as the little girl was floating down stream toward him.

A good swimmer herself, Evelyn had been caught by the swollen current, and her tiny strength was of no avail in her efforts to return to the concrete wall at the bathing place. Eye-witnesses of young Fitzgerald's splendid rescue state that he was master of the attending dangers at every stage and made a fine swim to land. He is a son of ex-Reeve Harry G. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, and is a student at the Collegiate Institute.

Shortly after the accident Mrs. Roberts informed the Examiner that her daughter was then reviving under the attentions of a doctor, and it was believed would shortly recover completely from the effects of her experience.

SEWER WORK WILL BE STARTED TO-MORROW

Quite a number of city labourers were disappointed this morning when they discovered that the work was still tied up, contrary to Ald. Phelan's statement last night that work would be resumed to-day. This afternoon Mr. Tooms, acting upon the men's request, interviewed Mayor Duncan, and with His Worship visited City Engineer Parsons. Mr. Parsons stated that the work would be begun to-morrow and that four men would be employed. Others would be hired as fast as the work developed. Mayor Duncan specially requested the Engineer to push along the office preparations in order that the men might be re-engaged at once.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN EASON CASE

Bert Eason, of Lakehurst, P. O., the alleged defaulter, appeared before the Magistrate this morning, and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was represented by Mr. C. R. Widdifield. He substantiated Dr. Fraser's evidence, the medical practitioner in Lakefield, who gave evidence last Saturday. He admitted that he was ordered to report for duty in Oct. 15, 1918, but failed to do so, as he was sick in bed with pleuro-pneumonia, and was not able to get up until the end of November.

The magistrate reserved judgment until June 11th.

TEACHERS WANT INCREASE

OWEN SOUND.—The public school teachers here are asking the Board of Education for higher salaries, saying that the present schedule of salaries is entirely inadequate under the living conditions of to-day. The teachers are requesting an all around increase of $100 each, independent of the usual early increase and also that the maximum salary be raised to $1,000 a year.

FEDERAL POLICE ON A ROUND-UP

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Federal police are busy to-day rounding up suspects in connection with many bomb outrages yesterday at homes of prominent officials who have been active in suppressing anarchistic demonstrations. Five victims have been reported, including three in New York, at the home of Judge Nott, which was blown up early this morning. One of the victims at Judge Nott's place was Wm. Boehner, a private watchman. Parts of his body were found half a block away. Identication was made by clothing and a ring of keys.

BANQUET TO THE WAR VETERANS

FIVE HUNDRED MEN WITH THEIR WIVES AND CHILDREN TOOK PART.

Last evening in connection with the welfare work of the Salvation Army during the period of reconstruction, and in an effort to make the returned men understand that their sacrifices in going over were appreciated, a splendid banquet was given in the Junior Hall of the Salvation Army Temple. It was attended by over 500 men with their wives and children.

In welcoming the heroes, Adjt. Buntin in a short address, expressed the deep feeling of gratitude felt by the people of Peterboro for each man who went overseas.

Sergt.-Major Gandy spoke of the broader meaning the Union Jack has assumed since the war and stated that the flag stands higher to-day than ever before.

The entire entertainment was open to all denominations and was free. The banquet, which was informal, had the right atmosphere of "home" to make everyone feel at ease, and all present agreed that it was one of the most successful occasions they had ever attended. The arrangements for the band were left in the capable hands of Mrs. Bradley, who saw to it that every item was first-class. She was assisted by the songsters of the Salvation Army choir. The repast served upheld all previous records made by the army.

First Bandsman.

A pleasant feature of the entertainment was the presence of Bandmaster and Mrs. Baldwin of Guelph. Bandmaster Balwin was the first bandsman to enlist with the 34th Battalion recruited in Guelph, and went overseas four years ago:

PETROGRAD CAPTURED?

10 A.M. Despatch.

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, June 3.—Esthonian and Finnish forces have taken Petrograd, according to an unconfirmed telegram from Varda received by the National Tidende.

An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen to-day quoted the "Tidende Tegu" as stating that Petrograd had been captured by Esthonian and Finnish troops. The British War Office regards the report as untrue, its latest information indicating the advance on Petrograd has been slowed up.

BATHING PLACE GRANT APPROVED; SITE IS IN DOUBT

Deleting the exact location of the new bathing place, because of the Macdonald's estate letter, through their solicitors Peck, Kerr and McElderry, objecting to the selection of the east end of Lake street, the council last night approved the expenditure of $2500.

To Ald. McIntyre's enquiry Mayor Duncan answered that if the Legal Committee reports against the Lake street site, some location would probably be found in Ashburnham.

The McDonald Estate protest that the tenants of their proprety on either side of the foot of Lake street would be disturbed by the proposed bathing place, and furthermore the water there was stagnant and undesirable for swimming.

CANADA'S CHANCE TO DEVELOP HER TRADE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 3.—That Canada's future trade relations with European countries depends largely on Canada itself was emphasised by Lloyd Harris, of Brantford, in his address to the Board of Trade to-day on "Canada's Trade Development."

Mr. Harris, who was chairman of the Canadian Trade Mission to London, representing the Canadian Government, also stated that if Canada grasped its opportunities it would have great trade relations, not only with Great Britain, but also with other European countries.

He gave a description of conditions in Europe, and told of what Canada had been doing and what it would do in the future.

"It depends on Canada," he said.

Mr. Harris this morning held a private conference with Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, at the home of the latter.

THREE HALIBURTON DESERTERS ARRESTED

J. A. Bowes and W. R. Succee, deserters, were arrested at Highland Grove, Haliburton county, on Friday, May 30th, by Dominion Police Constables Rollo and Butcher, and C. N. MacKay, also of Haliburton, surrendered himself. These men will be tried in Lindsay on Thursday. Inspector Ward stated this afternoon that McKay, who was working on a lumber drive, travelled forty miles to give himself up to the police when he heard they were in Haliburton. The Inspector intends to ask for leniency for this man, at least for some consideration for voluntarily placing himself in the hands of the police. Inspector Ward intends to pursue this policy in all such cases and will make recommendations to the presiding magistrates.

BOMB OUTRAGES THOUGHT TO BE RESULT OF A WIDESPREAD PLOT

THE POLICE HAVE MADE A NUMBER OF ARRESTS—INFERNAL MACHINES LOADED WITH SHRAPNEL BULLETS.

NEW YORK, June 3.—In what may have been a widespread plot, ten bombs were set off in eight cities between eleven o'clock last night and one o'clock this morning. Two were killed—a special policemen in New York and an unidentified man in Washington.

Anarchist literature was discovered near the scenes of the explosions in Washington, Pittsburgh, and Roxbury, Mass. Two men were arrested in Philadelphia. The police are not making known their names. In some instances, the police said, the infernal machines apparently were loaded with shrapnel bullets.

Chief of Post Office Inspectors Cochran, of the New York district, said to-day he did not know enough about the outrages to determine whether they were the work of the gang that sent many bombs through the mails, addressed to prominent men, on May Day. It was believed that while the assassination of public men or big employers may have been intended, the bombs in some instances were planted at the wrong houses.

Washington police inspectors early to-day believed they had identified the man who was blown to pieces last night in an effort to kill Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer with a bomb, as an anarchist of Philadelphia. They also said they were sure a nation-wide plot against the lives of Government officials and prominent business men had been laid in that city.

G.W.V.A. Provincial Secretary Repudiates Official Approval of Parades by War Veterans

TWO HUNDRED PERMANENT POSTAL CLERKS TAKEN ON IN WINNIPEG SINCE A WEEK AGO—PROGRESS OF THE STRIKE.

CRISIS AT HAND

(By W. R. Pleman, Copyright 1919.)

NOYES, Minn., June 3. — More than two hundred permanent postal clerks have been appointed in Winnipeg since a week ago. Deliveries were made yesterday from all sub-stations.

The G.W.V.A. provincial secretary again repudiates official endorsation of parades by Veterans, but points out that the Association is behind collective bargaining. The secretary of the G.W.V.A. says: "I cannot conceive how any soldiers who are aware of what some of the strike agitators did while the Veterans were in France would do anything to further operations of these men. It was these very men who did their level best to prevent conscription and reinforcements being sent to France."

Sympathetic Strikes.

Condemnation of sympathetic strikes as being contrary to the laws of the brotherhood and opposition to any violation of signed agreement and unnecessary suspension of public utilities of the country is declared in a resolution passed by Rainy River Local No. 468 of Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen of America at a special meeting held May 20, which has been forwarded to Re Hewitt, Kamloops, B.C., the general chairman and deputy organizer for Western Canada in Winnipeg.

Waited in Vain.

(By J. J. Conklin, Copyright 1919.)

NOYES, Minn., June 3.— Crowds waited for hours around the City Hall at noon watching for the return of the soldiers' and strikers' parade, but instead of visiting the Council Chamber after calling on Premier Norris, the parade moved across the Red river into St. Boniface, where the City Council has been acting in a threatening way towards the striking employees of that city. The City Hall was first visited, but no response came to their calls. Members of industries where men were still at work, were the next objective of the crowd and an effort made to get the men to leave, with some success. In the meantime the City Council went on with business. No serious attempt is being made to get the street cars out. The City Council is only going on record in making demands on the street railway and does not want a car out at this juncture. To-day is a critical day if the policemen refuse to accept the new offer of the city. If they still decline to be under the supreme authority of the Police Commission and go out, the situation will be so serious that no one can predict what may happen at the finish of the day. Indications are that the police will not accept the new terms. Mayor Gray says he will swear in immediately a new force if such an event happens as there being none of the old men on duty he is going to see that the city is adequately protected.

Drivers Attacked.

There's no denying the fact that the returned men and strikers are getting an ugly temper. Drivers from all parts of the city report they are being attacked by stone throwers. Any men who go back to work are waylaid by pickets at the close of the day and subjected to grave intimidations.

The "Free Press" started in yesterday issuing all its regular editions at former size. Stereotypers and pressmen in sufficient numbers have gone back to their old jobs to allow for the management taking on the responsibility.

Peculiar Alliance.

It is a peculiar alliance between strikers and returned soldiers. The strike leaders are men who bitterly opposed conscription and all active effort to aid the progress of war. This fact is notorious. Not one of the present strike leaders favoured the war. Pickets at all railway shops report hardly one went back to work by noon, the expiring hour of the ultimatum by the management. Fifty letter carriers went into all parts of the city. It was the first delivery to the houses in the suburbs in 10 days. Postal service is getting better. Letters for all outside points are being accepted but no papers.

Medium Board of Trainmen met employers and strikers in joint session to-day, when statements handed in by employers were gone into. To-day the employers will submit a reply.

VANCOUVER FACES A GENERAL STRIKE

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 3.—A general strike of organized labour in Vancouver in sympathy with the Winnipeg strike, effective at 11 a.m. to-day, was called at a mass meeting last night. Exemptions from the strike were made in cases of firemen and police, bakers and bakery salesmen, milk wagon drivers, theatre employees and other essential industries.

JOSEPH CROWE NEW ALDERMAN

COUNCIL APPOINTED LABOURS' NOMINEE LAST NIGHT—VOTE WAS UNANIMOUS.

Mr. Joseph Crowe was appointed an alderman of the city council last night, succeeding ex-Ald. Murray.

When the bylaw was introduced to fill the vacancy, Ald. McIntyre moved seconded by Ald Gainey, that Mr. Crowe be appointed.

Ald. Turner mentioned ex-Ald. Jones and Dobbin, Mr. Eastwood, Mr. Aylmer, James Einnie, Robert Neill, and others, suggesting that anyone of them would be a good alderman. He proposed the names of Mr. Jones and Mr. Dobbin, but failed to get a seconder.

"Haven't you got another, Mr. Turner," Ald. Hamilton laughed, and the audience and Ald. Turner himself caught it up.

"I will give my list to any alderman who wants to use it. If they think they want to propose someone they can have my list," Ald. Turner remarked. Then when the motion was voted on he said, "We might as well make it unianimous, and gave his support to Mr. Crowe, who was welcomed by the mayor and council, after he had signed the usual documents.

"I didn't covet the position,' Mr. Crowe said in a short speech, "but I hope that I prove true to the confidence you have placed in me. I want to do what is fair to everybody. I won't prejudice to anybody more than is right. I gave the Trades and Labor Council to understand that."

Ald. Crowe was recommended by the Trades and Labour Council, and with his appointment the Labor wing is again complete.

SULLIVAN FINED $500

CONCLUSION TO THE KENDRY LIQUOR CASE—STANDARD HOTEL LICENSE CANCELLED.

THE JUDGMENT

Judgment was handed down by Magistrate Dumble in police court this morning in the case of License Inspector J. Stewart against Ray Sullivan. A conviction was made and the accused fined $500 and costs amounting to $522, to be paid at once or in default of payment six months in the County Jail. The fine was paid.

The Judgment.

Joseph Stewart vs. Ray Sullivan charged with having a quantity of liquor (240 bottles) in a place other than a private residence in which he resides contrary to the Ontario Temperance Act.

The defendant is a journeyman barber working at Peterboro for another barber. On the third day of May last he went to Montreal and came back by the night train. With him in the hands of the Dominion Express Company were four cases containing 240 bottles of whiskey directed to the Henry Hope Company of Peterboro, at 6:21 a.m. The boxes were not put off at Peterboro. It appears by the evidence of Mr. Mitchell, the Express messenger that a man on train approached him and arranged to pay the express charges $9 to the messenger. He did so and also paid the messenger $3 as the messenger stated "for himself." The messenger arranges with all the train hands that were necessary for the stoppage at Kendry, 7 miles west of Peterboro. The conductor was the only person that could stop the train. The train was duly stopped at Kendry and from the south door of the express car not on the platform but at the crossing of the road the four cases were put off and received by two or three men who were waiting. As the men received the boxes the License Inspector appeared. Mr. Moore saw two men including the defendant whom Mr. Stewart recognized, jump one on each side, into the automobile that was waiting for them but not before another automobile with a driver and two passengers arrived, one passenger got out from underneath a rug and was recognized as W. J. Hamilton, the Licensed Hotelkeeper of Peterboro, whose license was been cancelled for violation of the law. This automobile immediately turned and fled.

The Express agent at Peterboro next morning received from the train express messenger a certificate stating that the Hope Company's goods had been put off at Kendry by direction of the consignee and the charges of $9.00 was enclosed with the notice to the Peterboro officer. This fo course was untrue as the consignee never ordered the goods or knew anything of them. Their names had been improperly used.

The party whom the inspector recognized at Kendry taking off the goods is the defendent. He was in the train that brought the goods. It was explained by him that he contemplated starting a barber shop and he went to Montreal to buy barber shop fittings but he brought none. He brought nothing of that kind back from Montreal. He is the man that was seen dealing with the goods at Kendry and he must have gone on with the train past Peterboro and he is the man who made the arrangements for putting the goods off at Kendry. The conductor saw him on the train and talked with him. He states that he saw him get off the train at Peterboro but he did not see him on the train afterwards. The engine driver states that he looked

TUESDAY, JUNE 3RD, 1919.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY

Peterboro citizens in common with the people of the British Empire generally will unite in congratulating His Majesty the King, on this his natal day and in hoping that he may be spared "long to reign over us." The events of the past five years have toppled many a monarch from his throne, but the end of the conflict finds King George even more firmly established in the hearts of his subjects than he was five years ago. His bearing throughout the days of the war and the gallant conducts of his sons have doubly endeared him to his people and so it is that the citizens of the Empire can unite in saying "Long live the King!"

ALD. CROWE

His friends, and he has many, will congratulate Mr. Joseph Crowe on his selection by the City Council as successor to ex-Ald. Murray on the Council Board. Ald. Crowe is appointed for the balance of Mr. Murray's term which means the remainder of this and all of next year. Apparently there was no need of last night's demonstration in his favour on the part of the labour interests for outside of Ald. Turner, who mentioned a few possible selections, the aldermen did not seem to have any other citizen in view for the position and his appointment was unanimous. Ald. Crowe is not an apprentice in civic affairs; he had had previous experience as an alderman of the city and so he will start on his duties unhandicapped by lack of knowledge of the proper procedure in transacting public business. That should enable him to be of service to the community from the beginning of his term as alderman.

SUPPORT THE BY-LAW

On Thursday the ratepayers of Peterboro are to express their opinion on the by-law to assist the Stickney Motors Limited, the latest addition to Peterboro's list of industriees. There should be no hesitation in voting "yes" on this measure. The firm is of the calibre that the citizens should be glad to welcome: it will commence business here under most encouraging auspices and with the brightest hopes of a great and speedy expansion. The rate-payers will notice that the Stickney Motors Limited are not asking Peterboro for a free site on a cash bonus; they simply ask for a fixed assessment of $10,000 on their plant for ten years. They guarantee to start with a staff of fifty men but it is expected that the new concern will speedily give employment to many more than the guaranted number. They are launching out on a business that has great possibilities, the manufacture of motor trucks, motor tractors and gasoline engines, an industry that is making vast strides everywhere. There is no reason to doubt that Peterboro new concern will speedily develop into one of the city's leading industries. The concession they ask from the citizens is a very modest one, and the by-law should be carried by a big majority. The rate-payers are reminded that Thursday of this week is polling-day. Citizens who have the interest of Peterboro at heart should discharge their duty by turning out and supporting the Stickney Motors by-law.

A LOSING FIGHT

The change in the spirit of Winnipeg strikers as shown by their rudeness to Premier Norris and the civic authorities and their actions in tearing the Union Jacks from the lapels of citizens is sound evidence that they feel that the sympathetic strike has failed. They may not agree with Senator Robertson's statements that "the promoters of the strike now sit in the ashes of their folly" but they are beginning to realize that their tactics were wrong, that in repudiating the instructions of their own [illegible] and the contracts they had made with their respective emp[illegible] they were following a policy which could not commend itself to many of their fellow citizens. The labour men of the east have been able to profit by the lessons that are already to be learned from the Winnipeg situation and the failure of the different unions to respond in anything like the number expected to, the order of the central strike committe in Toronto shows that the mistake of the Winnipeg strikers in ignoring the rights of the general public altogether has been appreciated by the workers in Ontario. The Toronto firemen have shown their good sense in withdrawing their ultimation to the City Council threatening a strike if their demand for a new wage call was not met. Had they adhered to their original decision and gone on strike the civic authorities of Toronto would have been justified in refusing to take any of them back. There should be a no-strike clause in the contracts made with any employees who are connected with the public service and the developments in Winnipeg have convinced the majority of the people as indicated by the almost unanimous voice of the press throughout the country that no longer can a community be in such a position that it can be left unprotected by reason of the employees who are engaged to protect the citizens, being involved in a sympathetic strike.

HOME RULE IN INDIA

On August 20, 1917, at the very crux of one of the gloomiest periods of British Empire history, the Secretary of State for India made a pronouncement of tremendous significance in the House of Commons at Westminster. These words, which are solemnly portentous and historic, set forth:

"The policy of His Majesty's Government with which the Government of India is in complete accord is that of increasing the association of Indians in every branch of the administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India, as an integral part of the British Empire. . . . . The British Government and the Government of India, on whom the responsibility lies for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples, must be judge of the time and measure of each advance, and they must be guided by the co-operation received from those upon whom opportunities of service will thus be conferred and by the extent to which it is found that confidence can be reposed in their sense of responsibility."

Previous to this announcement no declaration had been made by Great Britain on Indian policy since the proclamation issued by the King-Emperor in 1858. The significance of its import lies in the inclusion of the two words "responsible government," for the first time in any official document dealing with the Indan Empire. For it is not merely self-government which is promised with its corollary of an executive answerable to the higher authority of the British parliament, but the administraton of the country by an executive authority responsible, through an elected legislature, to the people themselves.

Somthing of the magnitude of the task can be guaged by realizing the fact that the first task is the development of such electorates in India. Short of pronouncement of actual separation from Britain no declaration of policy more definite and more far reaching could have been made. Yet the announcement did not rouse a single word of censure or hostile criticism in either of the Houses of Parliament. Perhaps the fact that at the time of its utterance all races, colors and creeds, were fighting for liberty and the principles of self-determination on which the British Empire is founded may have made the pronouncement easier of acceptance.

There is an increased difficulty in the accomplishment of the change in India owing to the fact that in India there is no spontaneous devotion to the British Commonwealth, none of the Imperial patriotism that prevails in Australia and Canada. Oriental imagination is touched by the fact that the King-Emperor is the ruler of a quarter of mankind and there is a deep loyalty among the Indian princes for the person of the king. But there is no love for India as a "patria" such as the Japanese exhibit in their affection for Japan. Moreover, the problem of India is so much vaster than the problem of any other country that has already made the change and is complicated by such problems of race, religion and caste, as can nowhere be matched."

Great Britain has a proud record in India in bringing order out of chaos and showing the people the benefits of orderly government. But the present system cannot be continued much longer without damage to the character of the people. The burden of trusteeship must be transferred piece by piece to the shoulders of those capable of bearing it and their numbers and their powers must be strengthened.

Perhaps the change cannot be made except by suffering but it is only through suffering, often self-inflicted that a people learns the faculty of self-help and until that lesson is learned the electorate is but a meaningless form. The foundations for responsible government in India have well and truly laid. The task of raising the walls and completing the great edifice that will some day stand alone as a monument to British ideals is more difficult in proportion as the reward is far greater.—Montreal Star.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

FOR the farmer who is raising hogs, one of the greatest problems is summer pasture. A new luxuriant growth of green grass is soon eaten off when the dry hot season comes and it is just at this time when the stockman needs some form of succulent feed for his stock. When the stock are running on pasture they are getting back to nature and there is nothing like good green feed as a conditioner for the animals.

As for forage crops in this country alfalfa and rape seem to give the best results, although anything that will produce a good green growth in a dry season is all right. Wherever alfalfa will grow it gives the best kind of permanent pasture for pigs, as there is no danger from bloat as in the case of sheep and cattle. Alfalfa provides pasture for a greater length of time than any of the grasses and is green and succulent even when red clover has become somewhat dried and woody.

Heavy pasturing of alfalfa is not good for it and consequently the number of animals allowed to pasture on it should be restricted and the plants should be allowed to grow up and be cut two or three times a season. Pigs, fed corn alone on alfalfa pasture, make fairly satisfactory gains since the protein in the alfalfa helps to balance up the deficiences in corn, although for best results a little of some nitrogenous concentrates should be fed. Red clover in the country gives very excellent results as a pasture for pigs, for the reason that it can be grown in a great many localities where alfalfa cannot be raised at all and consequently it's great value. At one of the Experimental Stations in the States, red clover was inferior only to alfalfa, while at another it was found that it was surpassed only by alfalfa and rape.

As an annual pasture for swine nothing surpasses rape. It can be sown both early and late in the season and as a consequence forage may be provided for at any time. To get the best results from rape, it should be sown in the spring and allowed to obtain a height of twelve to fourteen inches before turning the animals in. Care should be taken not to allow the plants to be eaten off too closely as the young plants do not get a chance to recuperate. To guard against this it would be wise to provide a second plot where the animals could be turned in for a time. Rape is also grown in conjunction with oats or with oats and field peas, and some authorities sow rape and oats next to alfalfa and red clover for pig pasture.

For young pigs in pasture it is best wise to force them to subsist on what they can get. They should be fed a little grain. Pigs that are being pastured for the purpose of fattening later should have a limited grain ration, as this system of feeding has been found most economical. —J. C. McBeath, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Shall I Rear Dairy Calves In 1919?

In brief, raise all the heifer calves for which there is feed, labor, and stable-room. More and better cows are needed in Ontario. The number of milk-cows in the province has remained stationary at about one million for a good many years. There is no good reason why this number should not be doubled in the next ten years, but it can be done only by rearing or buying. Buying cows is expensive and risky. It is a far better plan to raise cows. This means that all the best heifer calves should be saved for future cows. As it requires from three to four years to change calves into cows, in order to double the cow population in ten years, making allowances for necessary discards, we need to begin right away, in order to attain the desired object.

The average number of cows per 100 acres of farm land in Canada is but two, whereas in Denmark it is fourteen, and in Holland sixteen. We have a long way to go in rearing cows, before we have anywhere near the number which are found in the best European dairy countries. There is but one economical way to attain this result, and that is by raising practically all the heifer calves dropped during the next ten years and as many pure-bred calves of excellent ancestry, as may be required for breeding purposes.

Shall I sell Milk or Cream?

This will be determined to a large extent by the character of the farming operations. If the need for direct, quick cash in largest amount, is great, then selling milk will best fill the bill." On the other hand, if the dairy farmer can afford to wait for the slower returns from cream and live-stock, and particularly if he desires to improve or maintain soil fertility, then selling cream is to be recommended.

Nearness to market is another factor. Where the dairyman is near a small town and has the time to "peddle" milk, he can make more money out of his cows than by any other system. At ten to twelve cents a quart, a good cow will return from $250 to $300 per year for her milk. When this is compared with $100 to $150 per cow, where cream is sold, or milk sent to a cheese factory or condensery, we see what a decided money advantage there is in selling milk to customers direct. — Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

HANGING PICTURES.

The Old Rule and Origin of the Term "On the Line."

People still speak of pictures being hung "on the line" at the Royal Academy, but very few indeed, even among the present members themselves, know the origin of the term. The common belief that it implies a place on the walls on the level with a spectator's eye is more or less correct. But when the exhibitions were held in Somerset House and Trafalgar square the term meant something far more definite. In those days people not only spoke of pictures being hung "on the line," but "above the line" and "below the line." "The line" was then a regular and permanent fixture. It was a horizontal line exactly eight feet from the floor, marked by a projecting ledge that left the surface of the wall below it two inches in advance of that which was above it.

A picture was said to be hung "on the line" when the top of its frame was level with this ledge. "Hung thus," says G. D. Leslie, R. A., in "The Inner Life of the Royal Academy," "the picture, unless a very small one indeed, was exactly at the height to be viewed comfortably by a spectator."

The rule in old times was that all very large pictures, as well as whole length and half length portraits, had to be placed above the line, the bottoms of their frames resting on the ledge which marked the line, but no lower. The line was thus preserved level, no pictures breaking through it either from above or below.

Origin of "Navvy" Workers.

The seventeenth century canals or navigations gave rise to the "navvy," a term very slowly evolved from "navigator." There are many country public houses in England still sporting about their signboards the "Navigators' Arms," which depicts a brawny laborer with a spade in one hand and a foaming pot of beer in the other. But you may search England through and through and you will not find a "Navvy's Arms." Curiously enough, while the navvy who makes our roads now obtained his designation from digging out canals, the canals were all legally classified as roads in a great body of statutes—the "road acts." But what would have been his nickname if railways had come before waterways?—London Globe.

No choice of his successor as Conservative organizer has yet been made.

Freiburg Often Attacked.

During the eight centuries of its existence Freiburg, the ancient cathedral city in Baden, has again and again suffered almost every possible kind of attack. In the wall above the door of the Loretto chapel there is embedded an iron cannon ball which nearly took the life of Louis XV. when he assaulted the city. But the most interesting memorial of an attempt to get Freiburg is the picture on the Schwalben Thor of a peasant with a cart. It commemorates the Freiburgers' habit of jesting at the Swabian peasants. One of them the tale ran, decided to buy Freiburg and brought two sacks of gold and asked, "Was kostet's Stadtle?" ("What does this bit of town cost?") When opened the sacks were found to contain only sand, which the peasant's wife had prudently substituted for fear of accidents.—London Mail.

China's Procession Would Be Endless.

The population of China has never been exactly ascertained. The latest census, taken some years ago, is said to yield a total of 410,000,000. Perhaps 300,000,000 would be a more nearly correct estimate; even that would absorb no less than one-fifth of the human race. From this total it is easy to estimate that if the Chinese people were to march past a given point in single file the procession would never end. Long before the last of the 300,000,000 had passed by a new generation would have sprung up to continue the endless line.—From "Civilization of China," by H. A. Giles.

Crape on the Door.

The custom of placing crape on the door of a house where there has been a recent death had its origin in the ancient English heraldic customs and dates back to the year 1100 A. D. At that period hatchments, or armorial ensigns, were placed in front of houses when the nobility or gentry died. The hatchments were of diamond shape and contained the family arms quartered and covered with sable.

An Ancient Foundry.

One of the most interesting discoveries by Egyptologists throws new light on the relative origin of copper and bronze in the Mediterranean countries. At Ortu Commidne, alongside some ancient copper mines of prehistoric age, a foundry has been uncovered with all the furnaces for smelting and molds for casting, just as it was abandoned thousands of years ago.

Nowenham College, Cambridge England, recently granted women students permission to smoke in the institution.

On one hand Manufacturers are CLAMOURING for Factory Space for Peace Time purposes, and with others there is a corresponding FERMENT to UNLOAD factory space rendered useless by the ending of the War. And so it is with Houses and Rooms, Stores and Storage.

All this means MORE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

Furthermore, there exists a badly balanced condition in the DEMAND and the SUPPLY of LABOUR of ALL kinds. This offers great possibilities for HELP WANTED and SITUATIONS WANTED WANT ADS.

There also exists an ABUNDANCE of WANT AD. business created by the desire to BUY and SELL Businesses, Farm Lands, Real Estates, etc., etc.

Get in on THIS NOW! You LOST MONEY, perhaps, during the War. BUT you can get SOME OF it back if you act promptly.

Raise Pigs Profitably

Mustard Can Be Controlled by Spraying.

Spray Should Be Applied on Calm, Clear Day as Soon as First Few Mustard Plants Show Flowers.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ANIMALS, no matter what kind, always put on weight the most cheaply when they are young and the younger they are the cheaper the gains. As a consequence of this it is essential that the man raising young stock realize this and give a reasonable amount of attention to the young animals he is expecting. A few days before farrowing the sow should be brought into the pen so that she may become accustomed to her surroundings. A close watch should be kept on her during these days in order to ward off constipation, which is the bug-bear of a great many swine breeders. Once this condition occurs very little can be done, so it is a matter of prevention rather than cure. When the animal is taken into the new quarter her feed should be sloppy and of a laxative nature, a liberal supply of roots and a small amount of linseed oil meal helping to bring about this condition. The meal ration for a brood sow may consist of equal parts ground oats and wheat middlings.

At the time of farrowing the sow should be left alone but the attendant should be keeping a watch on her to see that no trouble arises. After farrowing the sow should not be disturbed for ten to twelve hours and her first feed should be little more than a drink of water with a little middlings in it. After this the ration may be increased to full feed, taking eight to ten days to do so. When the young pigs are weaned the ration should be cut down to stop the secretion of milk and, if it is necessary, turn the sow in with the young pigs once a day for a few days.

If, when the pigs are born, they are good and strong and vigorous they should be left alone for a while and as soon as the right time arrives they should be placed to the teat to suck as soon as possible. If the pigs are vigorous and healthy, nothing special need be done for them until they are two or three weeks old, by which time they should have learned to eat a little bit by picking around their mother's trough. At this time, if it is convenient, a small trough, away from the large trough, should be provided and the youngsters should be given skim milk with a little middlings stirred into it. As the pigs grow older more middlings may be stirred into the milk.

Outdoor exercise is very important for young pigs and every means should be used to induce the young pigs to take it, but precautions must be taken to protect the youngsters from cold winds and the hot sun. If the sow is turned out with the pigs she should not be given too much range at first unless the little fellows become unduly tired as a result of travelling too far.

Boar pigs not intended for breeding purposes should be castrated before weaning to get the best results, though there is not much danger in castrating at a latter date provided care is observed in connection with the operation. Clean hands and instruments and disinfectant on the wound will overcome all danger of infection.—J. McBeath, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Spraying With Iron Sulphate to Prevent Mustard From Seeding

Iron sulphate or copperas can be successfully used to prevent Mustard from seeding in standing grain without injury to the crop.

Preparation of Solution.—A 20 per cent. solution should be applied. This can be prepared by dissolving 80 lbs. of iron sulphat in 40 gallons of water. Iron sulphate is dissolved quite readily in cold water. The solution should be strained through a cheese cloth, as it is put into the spray pump tank. This will remove dirt and small particles that are apt to clog the nozzles.

Time to Apply.—Apply on a calm, clear day just as soon as the first few plants in the fields show flowers. It is very important to spray early. If the plants are left too long the treatment is not nearly so effective. If a heavy rain comes within 24 hours after the solution is applied, it will be necessary to spray again.

How to Apply the Solution.—An ordinary hang-pump barrel sprayer, such as is employed to spray fruit trees may be used, or a potato sprayer can be rigged up to do the work. Many of the up-to-date potato sprayers have a special broadcast attachment for spraying weeds. These are excellent for large areas, as they cover a wide strip at each round. Care must be taken to see that every mustard plant is covered with the solution in the form of a fine spray.

Iron sulphate may be obtained at any hardware store or from the Nichols Chemical Co., Toronto. In wholesale lots it is better purchased from this company, who can supply it much cheaper in large quantities than it can be purchased at local hardware stores.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

Selling Cream Pays.

Selling whole milk robs the young things on the farm—often the farmer's own children, of needed milk-supply, hence many farmers are content with less ready cash secured by selling cream in order to farm better and more live-stock, and consequently richer soil, which, after all, is the basis of good farming.—Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

COUNCIL OF FOUR MAY ACCEPT HUNS' OFFER

(Special to the Examiner.)

PARIS, June 3. — Two changes in the German peace terms, one territorial and the other financial, are being considered by the Council of four, it became known to-day. The financial question is the possibility of the acceptance of the German proposal to pay an indemnity of one hundred billion marks which would involve the dissolution of the allied financial commission, to which the Germans strongly object.

It is understood that this proposal has strong support in certain quarters. The second proposal is for a plebiscite in Silesia in order to guarantee to Germany a coal supply from the Silesian mines.

Clogged Nostrils Open Breathing Made Easy, Catarrh Cured!

New Method Very Successful

It is a new method of treatment, that of medicated air, and cannot fail to be beneficial. It goes wherever air can go, thus reaching all the affected parts. It purifies as by fire, simply burning up the disease germs.

Catarrhozone is a non-poisonous and healing agent; it therefore acts upon the mucous tissues of the throat nasal passages, and bronchial tubes, destroying all microbe life, and at the same time heals up all the inflamed parts.

As a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, La Grippe; as a strengthener for the throat, Catarrhozone cannot be equalled.

It is a guaranteed cure, and is highly endorsed by prominent physicians who use Catarrhozone in their practice.

Sufficient Catarrhozone for two months' use, price $1.00; smaller size 50c; at all dealers.

BIG LABOUR DEPUTATION PROTESTS DISCRIMINATION AGAINST STRIKERS

CHARGE THAT CITY OFFICIALS HAVE SINGLED OUT MEN WHO WERE ACTIVE IN CITY LABOURERS' STRIKE AND ARE NOT RE-ENGAGING THEM—CITY ENGINEER SAYS UNION MEN WERE ONLY MEN HIRED.

A NOVEL DEMONSTRATION

Marching behind the Union Jack carried by Harry Coit, and led by union musicians of the 97th Regimental band, three or four hundred workingmen paraded from the Labour Hall to the City Hall last night, and although the principal object of their demonstration had been fulfilled by the Council's action last week in increasing the wages of city labourers and carpenters, the impressive deputation advocated the appointment of Mr. Joseph Crowe as successor to ex-Aldermen Alex. Murray, and lodged certain other complaints that labourers who had taken part in the recent strike were not being re-engaged in civic work, but were being discriminated against to the advantage of men who had not joined them.

Mr. A. J. Bolwell and Mr. Wm. Stevens, president and secretary respectively of the Trades and aLbour Council, and Mr. T. Tooms, business agent of the Labourers' Union, spoke for the men. The Council Chamber was crowded, and only the smaller part of the paraders managed to gain admission. They remained standing to augment the accommodation, and endured the sweltering heat until they had voiced their grievances. Even at the close of the meeting, however, all the benches were occupied and some of the workers were still leaning against the side walls.

Appealed For Labourer.

"This deputation," Mr. Bolwell said, "is here particularly in the interests of the Labourers' Union, to utter a protest against unfair discrimination on the part of city officials, employed by the people to perform the city's business. Mr. Mayor, you settled the hours for city labourers, but you didn't go far enough. Certain officials have assumed a responsibility that is more than their duty."

After a strike, Mr. Bolwell stated, men were re-engaged. They are not discriminated against for those who have been at work. No troubles of that kind exist when everything has been settled.

In regard to the wages, the men had been fighting all along for a minimum of 40c. an hour, but the city officials insisted that it was the other way around, that this price was fixed as the maximum.

"We claim that this shouldn't be the maximum and we request that you will see that justice is done the labourers.

Mr. Stevens added that the men had struck in a just cause. They appreciated the Council's action, but there should be no discrimination against the men who went out. "We ask for British fair play. In this country it did exist that men who took a leading part in strikes were marked by employers, but the Council, Mr. Stevens urged, should not follow that practice.

Mr. Tooms' Remarks.

City officials by discriminating against the striking labourers, were setting at defiance the will of the people, Mr. Tooms declared. They were taking into their hands a dictatorship of their own making. "By what right have the City Engineer or Street Commissioner Evans, who got a raise in salary like yourself, Mr. Mayor, by the aid of the Labour vote, to refuse to adopt the order of this body by refusing to pay the men the rate and starting them to work. If the City Engineer or Commissioner is negligent he should be instantly dismissed as getting too big for the job. It certainly looks as if the City Engineer was being ruled by the minority vote for the applicants for work were offered 40c. and a downward grade, as proposed by Ald. Turner at your last Council meeting."

"Labour looks with hope towards a system which unites humanity," Mr. Tooms continued, "but a certain class of people advocate a system which divides men into employer and employee, into the owners of mansions and the renters of shacks. Ald. Turner when advocating 40c. maximum graded downward, was smoking a long cigar while driving those workmen to starvation at the last Council meeting."

Mr. Tooms urged that justice be done the labourers, that they be replaced at work, and dealt with rightly by the city officials.

Asked For Particulars.

Ald. Turner inquired whether he could name the officials who had discriminated against labourers and who the latter were.

Mr. Tooms replied by reading the following statement from the Labourers' Union:

"On May 20th, 1919, Bros. H. Smith and J. Pritchard approached the Street Commissioner to go to work and the answer they received was, "Have you men come to start work," and they said, "yes," and he then asked us if we expected 45c. per hour, and we said yes. Well he then said that he had orders from the City Engineer that 45c. was the top price to be paid only to the best men and a lower grade for sweepers, and when he refused to pay us the 45c. he said that there was no work for us at that price. He also said the instructions he received from the City Engineer [illegible] that the Union was not recognized and that 45c. would be the top price with the tendency to grade [illegible] and we then refused to [illegible] grade down system.

On May 16th, Bros. [illegible] applied for work on the sewer connections that were being carried on by the city, and the answer he received was ,"I have no work for you at 45c. per hour." This was said by the Street Commissioner and he also said that the City Engineer would not lay any more work out.

May 20th, Bros. Febbo and Temo and Allport applied to J. Thirabeck for work on surface drains and was refused, the answer being given that there was no work for them.

The men that applied for work were as follows: H. Smith, J. Pritchard, O. Aemlo, R. Strange, T. Febbo, T. Timo, G. Allport, J. Fenal S. R. Dancey.

Mr. Parson's Reply.

City Engineer Parsons replied that only six or seven men had been taken on recently.

Ald. Gainey stated that it was understood that 45c. was to be the minimum wage.

Mr. Tooms—That was brought up when Ald. Turner asked how the wages were to be applied and if they were to be graded downward, and Ald. Gainey said that by the fair wage clause 45c. was fixed as the minimum.

Mayor Duncan explained that it was understood with the labour men that the minimum didn't apply to certain old men. "None of the labourers would take their jobs if they were offered them. The city will not see these old men stuck. It was understood that 45c. was to be paid to outside labourers and 37 1-2c. for carpenters. That stands for the Council. The City Engineer and Street Commissioner understand that, and will put men on when they have work ready.

Mr. Parsons—We are rushing considerable work now and will have it ready as soon as possible.

Ald. Phelan—Mr. Evans told me to-day that he had taken on only five or six men and they were all Union men.

Mayor Duncan—We're going to do what's right. Of course there are lazy workers in every line, and if there are certain men who are specially fit for working in quicksand it is understood that the Engineer has the right to give them the preference for such work. The men should feel that they have no grievance, that they will be taken on as soon as needed.

Sewer Work Again.

Mr. Bolwell — I understand that when the men quit the Romaine street sewer was going full tilt. Are you going ahead with it now?

Ald. Phelan—To-morrow.

Mayor Duncan— We were stuck down there. The men quit when we had undermined the tracks, and to protect the city we had to go ahead with the work at that point and would do so again. We had to take the surface drain gang down there.

Mr. Bolwell—Will the same men be taken on?

Ald. Phelan—Mr. Parsons' idea is to employ men as they come along. There is no feeling toward labour. There is none of that so far as I know.

Ald. Turner suggested that if the men were seriously willing to co-operate they could save the $10,000 asked by the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company by working nine hours instead of eight hours on the bridge and thus enabling the Council to let the contract on the company's guaranteed cost.

Mr .Tooms replied that Labour desired to distribute work. "We're not selfish about money. We don't want the extra dollar for ourselves, but we want to spread the work around so that no one will be unemployed. Besides, Ald. Turner only thinks that the $10,000 could be saved, and it is a long think."

Mr. Bolwell—I don't see where five cents would be saved. You have got to pay for the hours whether eight or nine.

Ald. Turner stated that men couldn't do as much work in eight as in nine hours.

"I wouldn't want to try it," remarked Mayor Duncan.

Mr. Tooms— The British Government statistics prove that men do more work in eight hours than in nine hours. I can furnish you with the report to-morrow.

Ald. McIntyre said that as a contractor he couldn't see how Ald. Turner arrived at his saving of $10,000 and in regard to the working day he knew from experience that week in and week out the shorter hours left a man in fresher condition for his work.

Other members of the deputation began to reply to Ald. Turner, but the Mayor declined to hear them, stating that there was other business, and the representatives of the deputation had been heard.

"I think enough has been said," Mr. Bolwell commented, with a final request to the Council to give the labourers the justice they expected and had asked for.

SEAL OF APPROVAL ON THE "OFF CHANCE"

Despite the interest evinced in city a season Most York in Ethel Barry more's portrayal of Camille in Edmond Rostand's version of the classic [illegible] was apparent, for [illegible] Lady of the Camellias" it is very unlikely that these cities will see the performance for some time to come. The Barrymore following placed the seal of its approval so strongly on "The Off Chance," the comedy by R. C. Carton which also formed part of Miss Barrymore's New York repertoire last season, that the actress and the Charles Frohman Company chose it as the vehicle for her present tour. It is not unlikely that on busy nights, when collapsed transportation facilities have improved sufficiently to warrant carrying two large productions, Miss Barrymore may present "The Lady of the Camellias" as special engagements alternating with whatever play she may be presenting regularly at the time. In "The Off Chance," Miss Barrymore is to be seen at the Grand Opera House for one performance Thursday evening, June 5th.

The "Second" Wednesday Annex Building Sale

To-Morrow we are offering the "Second Event" of our series of Five Great Annex Building Sales. Every week the work on our new building is rapidly progressing, and every week the resulting alterations to our present premises are assuming larger proportions and consequently are temporily depriving us of much of our regular floor space. This means tremendous over crowding of stocks, hence this series of Five Annex Building Sales is necessary to take care of the over flow stocks. Our first sale of the series, last Wednesday, gave us the biggest Annex business of the present year, and this week's remarkable values will surely surpass last Wednesday's record. We strongly urge morning buying for best selections. Bargain Annex, Fourth Floor.

REV. CANON DAVIDSON DELIVERED OPENING SERMON AT SYNOD MEETING

URGES THE COUNTRY CLERGY NOT TO BE STRANGE BUT TO OPEN THEIR HEARTS' FEELINGS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 3.—"Heretofore the exclusive atmosphere of business has invaded our assembly like a cold chilly, clammy mist. If it has been so in the past, it is now for us to unite our energies and drive out this atmosphere," said Rev. Canon Davidson, M.A., Rector of St. John's church, Peterborough, who preached the opening sermon at the sixty-seventh Synod meeting of the Diocese of Toronto this morning.

Canon Davidson instanced the gathering of the Apostles described in the sixth chapter of St. Mark. They were gathering apart for a little while to review their work, their successes and their failures. He laid stress upon the spiritual nature of the Synod. "It has been urged to me that there has been a lack of this in the past. The spiritual character of this gathering is a determining factor for the efficiency of the church." Most of the delegates, he pointed out, were clergy from the smaller country churches, which, he emphasized, stand alone as centres for the moral and general welfare of the whole community. He urged the country clergy not to be strange, but to open their hearts freely. "We have lived," he said, thankfully to "see many divisions which in our life time have rent the church, entirely obliterated."

"CHAUTAUQUA" WILL BE HERE WEEK OF JULY 7TH

MANY INQUIRIES HAVE BEEN MADE FOLLOWING ANNOUNCEMENT IN PAPERS YESTERDAY.

Chautauqua Week which proved such a profitable and entertaining one last year has been arranged for this season to commence Monday, July 7th and continue all the week. As announced yesterday arrangements are being rapidly completed for the presentation of the different programs which are said to be, if it was possible, better in a number of respects than those of last year.

Announcements will be made shortly when the season tickets will be on sale and unprecedented demand is expected.

SUM OF MONEY LOST RETURNED TO OWNER

ONE INSERTION OF A LOST ADVERTISEMENT BY THE EXAMINER BRINGS IT BACK.

In these days of high costs when a dollar has not the purchasing power it used to have, to stumble on a roll of bills of $32.00, would be quite an event to the finder but disastrous to the loser. Yesterday's Examiner contained an advertisement of the loss of this sum of money, and to-day the owner has his money back at a cost of 20c for the advertisement in the Examiner.

If you want to buy anything or get rid of anything just advertise it in The Examiner

MR. FRANCIS R. JONES HERE LAST EVENING

IS MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR PERMANENT BRANCH OF OVERSEAS CLUB.

Mr. T. R. Jones, Special Commissioner of the Overseas Club, met a number of Peterboro citizens last evening at the Empress Hotel, with the object of making arrangements for an organization meeting in about two weeks time.

Mr. W. R. Morris and Mr. A. L. Kilhly had dinner with Mr. Jones, and the following men were present at 8 o'clock: Messrs. J. W. Fraser, W. Horace Walkey, Thomas Barrie, A. G. Roberts, W. H. Dunsford, D. Cranfield, R. J. Soden, C. E. Canfield, R. M. Glover, Ryerson Ritchie, Dr. Greer and Vincent Eastwood.

A very interesting discussion touching on matters where the Overseas Club might be of service to Great Britain, the overseas Dominions and to the Allies generally, was indulged in.

Reasons for the loss of Canada's trade, of which Great Britain has less than 30% of the total were brought out. How Canadian trade in Great Britain, in allied countries and in the Dominions of the Empire, were discussed with Mr. Jones, who is exceptionally well informed on the subject.

The outcome of last night's informal meeting was that Mr. Jones would come back to Peterborough in about two weeks time, and will be requested to address a meeting of women in the afternoon and in the evening a meeting for men for the purpose of forming a permanent Peterborough Branch of the Overseas Club here.

AVIATOR LOST WHILE ON FLIGHT

(Canadian Press.)

MINEOLA, N.Y., June 3.—An organized search has been undertaken to-day by aviators and yachtsmen for some trace of Captain Mansell R. James, of Watford, Ont., who disappeared last Thursday while flying from Boston to Atlantic City. It was announced to-day that James had won the Boston trophy, $1,000, the Pan-American trophy for longest flights and the Pulitzer trophy, valued at $5,000.

SULLIVAN FINED $500

back to see what was the cause of the stopping of the train, but he looked along the north side of the train, while the goods were being put off on the south side. He is the man who stopped the train under the conductor's orders. The goods on receipt at Kendry had one bottle broken and one bottle missing.

On the evidence of Mr. Stewart and Mr. Moore, the High Constable, and on all the evidence I am satisfied that the defendant is the man, who caused the whiskey to be put off the car at Kendry, that it was he that imported it from Montreal and that it was in his possession at Kendry.

It is urged that it could not have been the defendant because he was not identified by Mitchell or the conductor at the trial. The fact is that he was not in the court room when the witness looked around for the purpose of identifying men. I am satisfied that the liquor was brought from Montreal by the defendant and that he was at Kendry and received the goods.

Evidence is given that the defendant was seen at Peterboro at about 6:50 a.m. Perhaps he was but he could easily have been back in Peterborough by that time by the auto in which he and his friends fled from Kendry. Kendry is a distance from Peterboro about 7 or 8 miles by road and men wanting to lay foundation for an alibi coul deasily get over that eight miles in 14 or 15 minutes.

It was apparent that a lot of men laid their heads together to defeat the law.

If the defendant was innocent all he had to do was to step into the witness box and give his evidence. This he did not do.

I adjudge that the defendant do pay a fine of $500 and $22.00 costs forthwith and in default of payment that he be imprisoned in the County Jail at Peterborough for six months.

D. W. Dumble.

Mr. Jos. Wearing, M.A., conducted the prosecution, and Mr. G. N. Gordon acted for the defence.

County Constable A. Moore informed the press this morning that another charge had been laid against Sullivan and would open at to-morrow's session of the police court.

NERO

The Roman emperor, was near-sighted, and squinted through a concave emerald, and believed it to be a charmed stone. It was precious to him, not because it was a valuable emerald, but because its rudely concaved surface in a measure corrected the imperfect vision of his eye. Nothing was known in Nero's time of the science of refraction and he believed his concave emerald to be endowed with a superficial power. He did not know that his vision was not normal, but he knew that he could see better by squinting through the emerald, and because of this it was his most valued possession. Doubtless, he would have given a thousand emeralds, or even a kingdom, for the opportunity of having his impaired vision corrected as is possible to-day.

Who can tell that the whole character of the man might have been different had he been able to see normally. But be that as it may, it remains that Nero, ruler of Rome, with all the wealth and power that were his could not obtain that which is to-day within the reach of all whose vision is impaired by refractive errors. In every locality some one may be found at present who specializes in this kind of work and service for which Nero would have given a king's ransom, may now be had by anyone, however modest their means. To-day it is not necessary to squint through a crude glass of any kind. It is possible to possess eye-glasses that are an artistic adornment to the wearer and combine in the broadest sense, utility and beauty. I specialize in the correction of all refractive errors requiring the aid of glasses, and could have no better endorsement of my work than that hundreds in these associated communities are happily wearing my glasses. Just think that your usefulness ends when your eyesight fails, and if you have any reason to suspect that your eyes are wrong they should be given immediate attention.

Voice of the People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—

So Mr. Guise-Bagley, having pleaded for judgment, got it; and evidently in a bigger dose than he intended. Mr. Burnham, in his confidence in his amazing arguments of science and religion, was seemingly sitting in tight assurance that the prohibitionists are somewhat imbecile in intelligence. The comedy chicken and Mr. Bagley to the [illegible] Daniel come to judgment.

I presume Mr. Bagley did not attribute the silence that greets so many of Mr. Burnham's transparent positions to the fact that he is probably just singing his swan's song. Silence is ominous for a politician.

It would be interesting to hear both these gentlemen on some subject really worthy of their pens—say on the composition of the moon, and if they really and truly think it's made of green cheese. Doubtless even this feat (?) would [illegible] However, Mr. Guise-Bagley [illegible] too much element [illegible] was left the interpretation.

[illegible] the polls we shall [illegible] hundred per cent. [illegible] pre-[illegible] with [illegible] and as futile as the efforts of Mrs. Partington, who went sweeping out the Atlantic, but the Atlantic "still kept on."

LET THE LEGISLATURE ACT.

Editor, Examiner,—The statement by A. K. McLean in the Dominion Parliament that that body had not the power to enact an eight hour law, as being within the power only of the Provincial Legislatures to do [illegible] the question of the solution of the [illegible] vexing problem [illegible] just a little [illegible] the field and [illegible] of the complexities [illegible] ing to consider the [illegible] entire [illegible] we have only to [illegible] into [illegible] the interests of industry, or more specifically speaking, the interests of our own community.

As the Peace Conference has acknowledged the justice of the demand for an eight hour day, and have high hopes of soon making it universal, prepared to say thinking individuals that the most progressive step that this province could take would be to adopt the eight hour day and other legislation that would enable every labourer to assume the benefits that are supposed to accompany with the dignity of labour. And there is absolutely no excuse that can be offered why this can not be done, and at once.

Observation has taught that a community whose workmen are the highest paid is the most progressive and contented of communities. Even a few of the larger employers of labour have recognized this and are paying above the normal wage and have shorter working hours than the eight now demanded. These men have profited by observation and experience, but and to [illegible] for Canada they are the exception that proves the rule. The legislators of Ontario being so dilatory there is only one thing for the people to do—get after them with a sharp stick, and the more pointed the better. The members will be quick to see the point. There is nothing that will make an M. P. promise to be good quicker than the signatures of a majority of the constituents in his riding to a resolution demanding that he introduce or support a measure already brought down for the betterment of his constituents. More than likely there will be a petition, (no, a demand) circulated in Peterborough, addressed to the Province of Ontario, under the auspices of the Trades and Labour Council, demanding that a measure be passed embodying an eight hour day, a minimum wage and the abolition of child labour.

There is no voter, man or woman, that can not conscientiously sign such a petition and without violating any religious or political affiliations they may have. Indeed, to the writer it appears to be a solemn and religious duty to assist in any plan that will relieve the present chaotic conditions and bring a just and equitable settlement, and the best and apparently the only plan now feasible is to bring pressure to bear on Parliament to put on the statutes the demanded legislation. Otherwise the unrest and agitation will continue [illegible] and it is known that labour will not rest content with what medium reforms they have so far secured by persistent effort, but that persistency will be augmented until [illegible] is the only solution of the present problem, and in its enactment will make for the betterment of all Canada, the Province of Ontario, in general and Peterborough in particular. BRIDGE TENDERS SENT BACK TO THE BOARD OF WORKS WITH NEW ANGLE TO BE CONSIDERED

CANADIAN ENGINEERING AND CONTRACTING CO. NOW GUARANTEE $286,860 AND ED. CONROY $273,000—CONCRETE CONSTRUCTORS RE-ENTER LIMELIGHT WITH ORIGINAL LOW BID OF $252,000.

TRAVELLING IN A CIRCLE.

Mr. Ed. Conroy's letter to the council last night guaranteeing that the cost of the Hunter street bridge would not exceed $260,000, exclusive of his lump sum fee of $13,000, gave a new turn to this creaking problem, and to clear the air of a mist of doubt that seemed to have settled suddenly upon the tenders in their latest form, the whole question was once again referred back to the Board of Works for "further consideration."

Hitherto, Mr. Conroy has been the lowest tenderer on the guaranteed lump sum basis with a bid of $251,639.35. The Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company had stood by their offer of $276,860, until the council last week definitely established the city's rates of wages for carpenters and laborers at 67½c and 45c an hour respectively.

Following that action, the company announced that they could no longer guarantee their tender, and in a communication last night stated that the difference in wages compelled them to increase their figures by $10,000 to $286,860.

With these revised bids before them, the lump sum bids underwent another of those swift changes that have given a kaleidoscopic effect to the toilsome progress of this problem, for it was remembered that the Concrete Constructors of St. Catharines, had not altered their offer of $252,000.

According, therefore, to the tenders as they stood last night, Concrete Constructors are the lowest. In the latest shuffle, the bids are as follows;

Can. Engin. and Contracting Company	$286,860
Ed. Conroy	273,000
Concrete Constructors	252,000

It was so long since the last firm had been considered that there was some doubt as to whether their price would not also be affected by the recent wage decision. For this and several other reasons the council passed the freshly tangled figures to the Board of Works.

Moved for Lowest Tender.

Ald. McIntyre proposed, seconded by Ald. Garside, that the lowest tender (Mr. Ed. Conroy's) be accepted at his contract price of $251,639.35, but it was pointed out that the lowest tender, as a result of Mr. Conroy's letter, was actually the Concrete Constructors.

Ald. Phelan suggested that Mr. Conroy should be called by the council to explain the situation, receiving the same privilege as was accorded the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company last week, and he moved to that effect, seconded by Ald. Crowe, who explained that he was not as conversant with the details of the tenders as he desired to be.

Ald Edgar moved another amendment, seconded by Ald. Hamilton, that the whole question, in view of its developments, be sent back to the Board of Works.

In the discussion that grew out of these proposals Ald. Crowe finally withdrew his support from Ald. Phelan's amendments, and Ald. Edgar's amendment carried by the following vote:

For—Ald. Edgar, Hamilton, Taylor, Morrison, Turner and Crowe.

Against—Ald. McIntyre, Phelan, Garside and Gainey.

Could Not Change Tender

Ald. McIntyre contended that Mr. Conroy could not change his tender. "We have his cheque and can hold him to it."

Replying to the Mayor, City Solicitor Widdifield gave the opinion that Mr. Conroy could withdraw his $252,000 tender.

Ald. McIntyre—"I don't care what the City Solicitor says."

Mayor Duncan—"If the tender is [illegible]"

Ald. Crowe—"Conroy."

Introduced the Bridge Contract.

Ald. McIntyre introduced the bridge question by asking what action the Council intended to take with the bridge bylaw.

At the special meeting last week, the Board of Works' recommendation that the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company's tender be accepted, was adopted, but the council came to a sudden stop when the bylaw embodying the agreement with the company was in its first reading, and Mr. P. W. Paulin announced that under the new rate of wages his firm could no longer guarantee the cost at $276,860.

Ald. McIntyre moved last night seconded by Ald. Garside, that the bridge bylaw be dealt with, and the motion carried.

Ald. Turner's Arithmetic.

"I made a statement to-night," Ald. Turner said, "that if the workmen would accept the nine hour day, it would so reduce the cost of the bridge that the contractor would probably rescind his letter in which they add $10,000 to their guaranteed cost."

Ald. Turner supposed that 150 men were working eight hours a day. If they were needed for overtime work, for running cement, half an hour extra a day; that would make a total of 75 extra hours a day, or 450 hours a week. If the men were working the nine hour day the overtime would not be needed, and these 450 hours would be saved thereby, and 450 $202.90 a week, and in 75 weeks the total would be $15,187.50.

"If the men can see it as I see it," Ald. Turner continued, "they will put it in the power of the city to let the contract, and I have no hesitation in saying that the Contracting company would accept the contract on their former guaranteed price."

For the Local Man.

Ald. Phelan pointed out that Mr. Conroy guaranteed the work for $260,000. Why should the Council let the contract to a Hamilton firm, he asked, and pay $26,860 more than a Peterboro man offered to perform the work for. Mr. Conroy's financial standing, according to the manager of the Royal Bank, was A1. All things being equal, the local man have the preference.

Mayor Duncan—That is, Ald. Phelan's opinion. For myself, I don't think Mr. Conroy can build the bridge.

Ald. Hamilton—He agrees to build it for $273,000. He allows $13,000 for his fees. Out of that he will have to pay an engineer $6,000; his own salary would be another $6,000; his bond would cost $2,700, clerical help, $3,000, small tools $2,000. Altogether I figure that he would have to pay $32,000. How can he afford to do it for $13,000? All the equipment he told me he had is two cement mixers and a hoisting engine. I feel like the mayor—I haven't enough confidence to give him the contract.

Ald. McIntyre — He guarantees the cost and under Mr. Barber's inspectors he couldn't do the work wrong. It would be up to the engineer and the inspectors to see that it was right.

Ald. Crowe—I'll stand by whoever gives us the best bargain.

A Single Application Will Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty.)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.

Remove the centre of a round piece of toast and fill with creamed peas for an entree.

Petes Meet Cannon Ball Scott in Lindsay To-morrow

The Peterborough Central Ontario League Club will journey to Lindsay to-morrow afternoon to meet Cannon Ball, Ed. Scott, and the Lindsay Greybirds in a League fixture. The game is a twilight affair, starting at six o'clock, and the Petes will leave here in motor cars at 3.30. They are determined to bring home the bacon and secure a firm grip on second place in the League standing.

Just now Lindsay, Port Hope, Oshawa, and Peterborough are all tied for second place, with Belleville one game in front. The Easterners are leading because they have been the only outfit so far to win a game away from home, beating Cobourg in a 14 innings game on the holiday.

The following players have been selected to represent Peterborough at Lindsay to-morrow:

Kirn, Frost, Soden, Bergoine, Long, Hagerman, Cherrett, Cavanah, Heenan, Kenneally, Adams, S. Wade, and Collins and Manager Solomon. They are asked to meet at the Water Street Bowling Alleys sharp at 3.30 to-morrow afternoon; while if there are any players in this list who cannot get away to-morrow, they are asked to report to Manager Solomon to-night.

BIG GAME IN THE CITY LEAGUE

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL AND DE LAVAL WILL MEET TO-NIGHT.

To-night's game in the City Baseball League between Matthews-Blackwell and De Laval promises to be one of the most exciting and interesting of the season.

From now on the games of the City League will go the full nine innings, to-night's being the first full-length twilight game of the season. Both teams will be at full strength tonight, for the game means a lot to each outfit. A win for De Laval will tie them with the Packers for the leadership, so that the Separator gang may be counted upon to battle every inch of the way. Alex. Kay will umpire and the game is called for 6.45 o'clock sharp.

BASEBALL

Following is the line up of the Matthews-Blackwell team for to-night's game with De Laval.

Butcher 3b; Lowe, 1b; Holyman, ss; Hagerman, 2b; Shaughnessy, lf; Jackson, rf; Cunningham cf; Lefave, c; Swanston, c; Frost, p; Close, p; Coursey, utility.

Auburn Woollen Co. handed Cressman's nine their first defeat of the season last night at the Nicholls oval, the final score being 11 to 3. The result was never in doubt, as Smith the youthful hurler of the Auburns, was in rare form and kept the Annex men from the plate after the second.

Gilgour's work for Auburn and a fast triple play by the same team, were features.

Batteries: Smith and Starr, for Auburn; Long and Graham for Cressman's.

CHURCH SENIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE

A battle royal in the Church Senior Baseball League will take place this evening at 6.30 at the Nicholls' oval where the Murray street team fresh from a victory over the St. Paul's aggregation will battle with the nine from St. Luke's church.

The Baptist line up comprises: H. Webber, R. Lowes, M. Cottingham, H. Long, J. Graham, C. Browne, A. Doughty, R. White, R. Doughty and C. Yelland.

JUNIOR CHURCH BASEBALL GAMES

At 3.30 this afternoon the St. Paul baseball team meet St. Luke's team in the first game of the junior series.

At King Edward school grounds St. James' Methodist church nine clash with the aggregation from Knox

BARBERS DESIRE TO CLOSE SHOP AT 7 O'CLOCK NOW

A petition signed by all but four local barbers, requesting the Council to pass a by-law requiring all barber shops to close at 7 p.m. instead of 8 as at present, was referred to the Legal Committee last night to ascertain whether it is properly signed and unambiguous.

Ald. Edgar stated that some of the barbers claimed that under daylight saving they could remain open until 9 p.m.

Ald. Gainey suggested that the by-law could be worked to give the majority of the barbers the early closing they desire.

Suggests a Grant.

A. W. Cartwright, secretary of the Board of Railway Commissioners, wrote that the approval of the Hunter Street Bridge plans was pending an agreement between the several parties concerned in the curvature of spur lines serving the Quaker Oats Company. As soon as these plans are approved the Board is prepared to recommend the grant provided by statute toward part of the cost of the bridge.

Ask for Cheque.

The Russell-Townsend Company's request for the return of their cheque for $10,000 was received.

In crease Their Lump Sum.

The Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company wrote that $10,000 would be added to their guaranteed lump sum tender for the Hunter Street Bridge to cover the increased wages.

For School Site

A by-law was passed providing $11,000 for the purchase of the grounds for the new public school, the plans of which the Board of Education are advancing.

PARK BOARD SHUNS LIABILITY FOR ANY DAMAGE BY BEAR

Mr. Walter Kitney's bear, whose "board" has entered into the weighty deliberations of the council, was mentioned again last night.

Ald. Hamilton stated that Mr. Richard Hall of the Nicholls Park Board, had disapproved of the idea of keeping the bear at the Nicholls oval, but Mr. Kitney had told him there must be some misunderstanding, for Mr. Hall had not objected to him.

Ald. Hamilton explained that he believed the Park Board wished to avoid any liability for damage that might be left in bruin's wake should he escape. The clause in the Property Committee's report granting $10 toward the "keep" of the bear, was sent back to the committee.

At. Ald .Turner's suggestion, the recommendation that the front doors of the bread wagons be locked up, was also sent back for further consideration.

Should Pay for Milk.

Ald. Edgar stated that the Sanitary Inspector in obtaining samples of milk for testing purposes took bottles from the merchants without paying for them. The city should not put any merchant to that loss. If samples of milk had to be taken they should be obtained from the producers and vendors.

Ald. Gainey stated that the city owed Mr. James Middleton 80c for a shovel he had bought at the request of Street Commissioner Evans.

Mr. Parsons explained that he could not hand out money without and order and that Mr. Middleton should have applied to the City Treasurer.

Ald Phelan assured Ald. Gainey that Hunter street in Ashburnham would be oiled as soon as the new car is delivered to the city.

Half Holiday at the City Hall.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Gainey that the employees of the city hall be given the Thursday half holiday during the months of the general half-day closing by the merchants.

Ownership of Park Tools.

The Horticultural Society's offer to sell their park tools for $60 was referred to the Parks Committee.

Ald. Edgar expressed the opinion that the tools should be given to the city since the were bought with the annual grants. Mayor Duncan agreed with this opinion, but Ald. Turner stated that the city's grants were for work that had been well done. The society undoubtedly owned the tools and he suggested that $50 be offered them.

CASE OF SUICIDE NEAR HUNTINGDON

A sad case of suicide took place at the home of Mr. Lorenza Burke, 5th con. of Huntingdon, on Wednesday morning. Mr. Burke arose early, and leaving his wife dressing, went out to milk the cows, and coming in about half an hour later found her lying dead on the kitchen floor, her clothes being all burned off. It would appear that after Mr. Burke left the house she had got the oil can and saturated her clothing, then setting fire to the clothing. Evidence of this was shown by the fact that the oil can was standing on bureau unstopped and a box of matches beside it. A spot was burned on the linoleum on the bedroom floor, and also the side of the door scorched, showing she had set fire to herself there, and had then gone to the kitchen adjoining where she was found dead, some of the clothing underneath her still burning. Coroner Dr. Bissonnette was notified, and after making an examination of the circumstances concluded an inquest was unnecessary. Her mind had been unbalanced for some time. She was about 71 years of age.

REV. A. J. THOMAS WAS THE CHIEF SPEAKER

Formal Opening of New Methodist Church in Pontypool.

Following the dedication of the Pontypool Methodist church, which ceremony was performed by Rev. C. S. Moore, B.D., of Belleville, President of the Conference, on Sunday, A banquet was held last evening in the Pontypool Town Hall for the purpose of raising funds to defray the building expenses. Rev. Wm. Higgs, of Millbrook, occupied the chair and opened the evening's entertainment by a short speech, congratulating the people of the district upon their enterprse in building the splendid new church, and his confidence in the steady growth of the church. He also warmly congratulated the pastor, Rev. A. McLaughlin, upon the general condition of the circuit.

Rev. A. J. Thomas.

In a short address, Rev. A. J. Thomas, Peterborough, after congratulating the people of Pontypool upon their splendid new church, spoke of the elements which contribute to church prosperity.

At the banquet about four hundred persons enjoyed the sumptuous repast provided.

MAY ABANDON FAIR.

WINDSOR, June 3.—Faced with the task of raising from $16,000 to $20,000 to finance this year's exhibition, the directors of the Windsor and North Essex Agricultural Society may decide to abandon the annual fair.

"The committee believes it would be folly to go on in view of the deficit left over from last year," said Chairman Smith.

CONGREGATION OF ST. JAMES TO HONOUR RETURNED MEN

BANQUET AND CONCERT TO BE GIVEN ON MONDAY EVENING NEXT, JUNE 9TH.

The congregation of St. James' Methodist Church, justly proud of the record of enlistments from their congregation overseas, are to honour the men who have so far returned by giving them a banquet and concert in the church and schoolroom on Monday next at 7.45 o'clock, to which the wives and families, and in the case of the unmarried men, the parents and families are invited.

Invitations to the banquet are by card only, but the concert is free to all, and as the concert precedes the banquet, there will no doubt be a large crowd present.

LABOURERS RETURN AT WM. HAMILTON'S SHOPS

The labourers of the Wm. Hamilton Company returned to work this morning. The only point not obtained was that of the eight hour day, but they decided to work nine hours in conjunction with the machinists, who are on the nine-hour basis. Mr. Tooms, business agent for the Labourers' Union, stated to-day that he was glad to say that Mr. P. Westbye, of the Hamilton Company, was the most reasonable and most intelligent employer of labour he had met in Peterborough. He showed an intelligent understanding of labour questions that most employers knew next to nothing about.

ALL LICENSES MUST BE RENEWED AT ONCE

The licenses of scavengers, butchers, milk vendors, laundries, eating houses, plumbers, cigarette licenses, bowling alley auto and cab livery, express livery and motor trucks expired on June 1st. The police sergeant explained this morning that a call from men holding the above licenses was absolutely necessary for the peace of mind of the city treasurer.

MR. PENNEFATHER WAS GUEST OF DIRECTORS

Of the Peterborough Club at Farewell Dinner.

On Saturday evening Mr. E. L. Goodwill entertained the directors of the Peterborough Club at dinner in the Empress Hotel in honour of Mr. C. H. Pennefather, who has been a director of the Club for some time, on the occasion of his leaving to take his new position in Toronto. The directors present at the dinner were Messrs. C. H. Pennefather, W. J. Thompson, Robert Dobie, W. H. Bradburn, W. C. Ackerman, D. Davidson, W. R. Morris, V. Eastwood, E. L. Goodwill and Dr. J. M. McCullough. The absent directors were Mr. John Crane and Mr. A. L. Killaly, who were out of town. Mr. Pennefather left on Sunday to take his new position in Toronto.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

BEER NOT FIT TO DRINK

Toronto, June 2, 1919

Dear Sir:—To put it mildly beer is not fit to be used as a beverage. I am not speaking of the old-fashioned beer made of malted barley and hops. This is not made or sold any more. My authority for that statement is the brewer's themselves before the joint committee on food standards at the Mackinac Island Convention of the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments. They said, "malt beer is extinct in America, so why resurrect it?"

Apart from that we have the records of the importation into Canada of rice, corn, sugar, molasses and so on for the manufacture of beer, And the American society of equity composed of three million farmers says that "many corporations seem to be flagrantly foisting on the public an inferior and actually harmful product composed of cheap grits, and deleterious ingredients, which sells under the name and label of pure barley and hops product."

Beer is properly the product of malted barley and hops, but that now sold is an imitation. It is made from rice, corn starch, glucose, artificially cloored, oged with drugs and preserved by drugs. Corn and rice are active propagators of "fusel oil," the most deadly poison found in beer and whiskey.

One trouble about modern beer is that it is very difficult to keep it from spoiling ,and consequently large quantities of preservatives are used. A brewer was recently compelled to empty hundreds of barrels of spoiled beer into the river, and it killed all the fish. And some years ago a number of people in England were poisoned to death by beer. An analysis of the beer showed that it contained an excess of arsenic, presumably used as a preservative.

Brewers have been known to advise their friends not to drink beer; and it has been said that many brewers would quit business if they were compelled to drink their own beer.

Mark your cross opposite every No on the referendum ballot paper. If you miss one, it will spoil your ballot. The brewers are hard at work. Don't be caught unprepared.

A REPLY TO MR. A. D. HONE

(BY MR. GUISE-BAGLEY)

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—Mr. Hone's latest effusion is so prolix and incoherent, and is so full of misrepresentations that it is not worth answering seriatim, and space will not permit. I therefore offer only a few words by way of rejoinder.

First, I have not thrown Mr. Burnham overboard. I am not bothering with the scientific side of this question, but leave it to those who are better qualified to deal with that point. Mr. Hone should have left the religious side to those better qualified than he!

Second, Mr. Hone misrepresents me by saying I said things I never said and then knocking down arguments I never advanced. His reference to the power of the Holy Spirit to keep us in the hour of temptation is a discreditable misrepresentation. I said all temptations — that was the clear meaning of my words. Why not be honest in debate?

Third, I have fully taken up the "challenge" to produce a statement, etc., approving the use of alcoholic beverages. St. Paul advised Timothy to "use a little wine for his stomach's sake," 1 Timothy, v. 23. Does Mr. Hone say there is not absolute certainty of its meaning, or does he think Timothy was to use the wine as an embrocation? If so, let him read the context, "drink no longer water."

Fourth, He is very hard to please. He said I do not read my Bible so much as I ought, and then when I offer a few sample texts he refuses to read them and calls my arguments "laboured" and my quotations copious and he has not the fairness to admit he was wrong in his estimate of the quality or quantity of my religion, a thing quite irrelevant to the issue.

Fifth, he takes half a column to show my argument correct, that a bishop must be blameless not given to wine, which everybody knows means the abuse and not the use of the article. A man who used wine would not necessarily be "given to" it. It is curious how otherwise clever men can be so stupid when it suits them.

Sixth, The same stupidity is exhibited by him in dealing with the subject of temptation. I never said God tempts man. The controversy as to why God allows evil to exist in the world is too big a subject to discuss here and now. The fact remains God made the world, all that is in it that involves temptation is put there by Him, and we have a free will to be developed, and God gives His Holy Spirit to support us. Prohibitionists would improve on God's plan by removing altogether everything that could become a temptation, just as they tried to stop cigarettes being sent to the soldiers.

Seventh, Mr. Hone gets worse, he pretends to think I interpret, Love thy neighbour as thyself to mean "let him die." This is too much! Mr. Hone is not even honest here. My meaning is so clear that any fourth form boy would understand. He so loves his neighbour that he would prevent him from getting what God has provided to save him from dying. I put a reductio ad absurdum to him, and he pretends not to understand! What weight will be public give to such a man's words?

Eighth, I repeat Mr. Hone and his clique would fine and imprison the Lord Himself if He did here as He did at Cana. Sidestep the question as you will, you cannot get away from it!

Yours truly,
Jas. Guise-Bagley.

ONE WORD MORE

BY J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir:—Just one word in final reply to Mr. Hone. God prohibits nothing. He has no place for any kind of prohibition in any of His laws. It is not God's way. I prefer God's way to Mr. Hone's.

J. H. Burnham.

"THE COOLEST SPOT IN PETERBORO"

FROZEN AIR MAKES LIFE HAPPY FOR PATRONS OF THE GRAND.

Patrons of the Grand Opera House who attended last evening's programme of moving pictures and vaude- who were amply rewarded not only for the excellent screen triumph, "Just For To-Night," starring Tom Moore, one of the brightest in the Goldwyn constellation, but for the delightfully cool and refreshing atmosphere which earns for Mr. Small's playhouse th erank of the "coolest spot in town."

"Just For To-Night" was written by Charles A. Logue, a popular American novelist, who also wrote "The Service Star," a "best seller."

Moore, as seen last night, ranks as high as Madge Kennedy, Mabel Normand and Mae Marsh, the famous screen favourites, also members of the Goldwyn band waggon.

The Vaudeville.

The vaudeville programme was light in parts, with Faber and Taylor in a comedy singing and talking act, entitled "Going North." One of the most unusual and oddest acts ever seen at the Grand is "It's Bound to Algar," by Earl Girdeller and Pat. Archie Nicholson, with a duo-comedy musical offering contributing the third act of the vaudeville.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING OF DUMMER TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

STEPS WILL BE TAKEN TO IMPROVE THE ROAD BETWEEN NORWOOD AND STONEY LAKE

A special meeting of the Council of the Township of Dummer was called by order of the Reeve, on the request of a deputation of non-resident ratepayers from the village of Norwood, and some residents of the Township of Dummer who are interested in the matter, that took, was held in the town hall at Warsaw on April 17th. Present, Chris. J. Darling, the Reeve; and W. D. Robson, J.J.Crowe, George Barr, Ed. Hamblin, councillors.

Mr. W. A. Richardson of Norwood, addressed the council respecting the state of the road on the ninth line of Dummer, between Norwood and Stoney Lake; as how that the road should be made to benefit the number of people who are obliged to travel it, and stating that a grant could be procured by the local representative of this riding from the Provincial Legislature, if the township would make a grant on this road.

Mr. Cuffe of the village of Norwood, in supporting what Mr. Richardson had said, stated that the local representative of this riding intimated to him that a possible grant of $3 to $4 might be made by the government, or $2 to $1, or at least not less than $1.50 by the government to $1 by the township.

The request for a grant was also supported by Messrs. Finlay, Puffer, Duffield, Ackerman and Rork of the village of Norwood; and Messrs. Jos. Grant, John Drain, Wm. Mathews, George Wheatley, J. Humphries, Wm. Batten and H. A. Moore of the township of Dummer.

Mr. H. A. Moore said that he approved the putting on of crushed stone in preference to gravel, claiming that it could be done cheaper than gravelling if the stone had not to be drawn too far.

Good Roads.

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the Council:

Moved by W. D. Robson, seconded by J. J. Crowe, that this council make a grant in the sum of $500 to be expended on the ninth line in the township of Dummer, the same to be expended by putting on crushed stone; provided that our local representative in the Provincial Legislature secures from the government at least an equivalent amount for the same purpose; these sums to be applied and to cover all expenses in the hire or otherwise operation of a stone crusher.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Council of the Township of Dummer for the year 1919 met as a Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll of the Township on Tuesday, 27th May, at 10.30 in the forenoon. Each member of the Council having taken the necessary oath, they were duly qualified and organised in manner following, C. J. Darling, Reeve, chairman, and W. D. Robson, J. J. Crowe, Geo. Barr, Ed. Hamblin, Councillors, members of the said Court. The following appeals were heard and determined:

Warsaw Milling Company, for too high assessment on mill buildings—on motion the assessment on the mill buildings was reduced to $1,850.

W. C. Jones, for too high assessment on Eagle Mount property—on motion assessment confirmed.

U. P. Tarbox, for assessment of statute labour—on motion assessment confirmed.

Charles Reynolds, for too high assessment on Island No. 27, Stoney Lake—on motion assessment was confirmed.

Joseph Gardner, for too high assessment on south half of Lot 16 and north part Lot 15, Con. 10—on motion assessment was confirmed.

John Patterson, for too high assessment on west half of Lot 15, Con. 12, and part of the south part of Lot 15, Con. 10—on motion assessment was confirmed.

Moved by W. D. Robson, seconded by J. J. Crowe, that the Assessment Roll as now revised be confirmed as the Assessment Roll of the Township of Dummer for the year 1919.

The fifth meeting of the Council of the Township of Dummer was held on Tuesday, 27th May, after the adjournment of the Court of Revision. Mr. C. J. Darling, Reeve, was obliged to leave after the adjournment of the Court of Revision, to go to Peterborough to attend a special meeting of the County Council. Mr. J. J. Crowe was appointed to occupy the chair as Reeve pro tem.

On motion, P. Fitzpatrick and T. Cuffe were allowed to perform their statute labour on the Warsaw and Peterborough Road for the present year, at the place known as Lukey's Hill.

Mr. S. W. Tripp, agent for the Sawyer-Massey Company, of Hamilton, waited on the Council and secured the sale of a stone crusher for the Township of Dummer at the price of $2,400.

By-law No. 864, to expend $600 on main and leading roads in the Township of Dummer during the present year, was read a third time and passed, to be forwarded to the Colonisation Roads Department.

The following accounts were passed by the Council for payment:

William Buchanan, for refund of statute labour taxes, $3.00; Oxias de Laplante, refund of money paid by him to the County Clerk re sale of land for taxes, $12.90; George Clements, account for repairing roads and bridges, $5.00; T. L. Payne, salary as assessor for 1919.

Council adjourned, to meet on Friday, 13th June, at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon.

BEAUTIFUL HORSES.

Numerous Highly Trained Equines Are With John Robinson's Big Circus.

Menage horses, or high school horses as they are commonly called, have come to occupy a prominent position on the circus programme of to-day. The John Robinson Circus—which will exhibit in Peterborough on Saturday, 7th June—have the famous Victor and Mme. Bedini troupe of educated horses, and no finer or more complete aggregation of menage horses are available in the circus world. Every horse of the troupe is a star in all that the term implies, minus the profuse adjectives that are so often and recklessly employed in describing the virtues of an attraction in the show world.

Not only do these intelligent equines do everything any similar horses do, but they go out of the beaten path and perform some feats that are but a mite removed from the miraculous. The star of the contingent is that equine wonder, "Jack Morgan," a handsome animal of commanding appearance who really does do "everything but talk."

Mme. Bedini, under whose direction the troupe performs, is generally recognised as the leading horsewoman in the world. She knows horses as indeed few equine authorities know them, and coupled with this great knowledge of her subject, is a delicate but well directed touch and encouragement that seems to add the animal instinct in arriving at a more certain interpretation of requirements at hand. The John Robinson circus management is well justified in claiming the greatest troupe of menage horses ever presented to the public.

In addition to these horses the circus is presenting DeMarce's Monkeys, three herds of performing elephants, Captain Kent's wonder working seals and sea lions and some groups of well-trained ponies for the edification and joy of the little ones.

Among the performers with John Robinson, in addition to some fifty funny clowns are the famous Nelson Family of acrobats, known from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf; Tom Robinson, adopted Japanese daughter of John Robinson, the Second, Fred Ledgett, Cecil Lawanda Clara Masters, the Hodgini's, Marie Bedini Ruby Orton and John Smith, riders.

Growing Sugar Cane Under Paper.

A new and very odd method of growing sugar cane is proving highly successful in the Hawaiian islands. When the cane is beginning to sprout yard-wide strips are laid lengthwise over the rows of little plants and held in place with cane-field trash. The paper is strong enough to keep down and smother the starting weeds, but not to kill the stout and hardy young cane. In five or six weeks the weed seeds beneath the paper have all germinated and been smothered to death, but the cane shoots have either forced their way through or erected themselves sufficiently to make little tent-like elevations. Laborers then pass along the rows and with long knives make slits in the sheets, permitting the shoots to come through. The liberated sheets at first are blanched white, but quickly turn green and lusty. Weeding thereafter is almost wholly needless, because there are very few weeds. There is an increase of ten tons (about 28 per cent) in the yield of cane per acre. Half the labor is saved and the production of actual sugar per acre is augmented by more than a ton. The paper used is made out of "bagasse," which is the residue of the cane after the sugary sap has been squeezed out of it.

"At Attention" Before God.

Paying tribute to the services performed by the British Y. M. C. A., W. Gordon Spriggs, writing in Association Men, the organ of the American "Y," is reminded of the reply made by Field Marshal Sir George White to an inquiry addressed to him at the close of the three months' siege of Ladysmith, South Africa, in the Boer war. Sir George was asked to explain how he maintained his cheerfulness and upheld the spirit and morale of his weary troops amidst so much discomfort, depression and uncertainty. "Because," said the field marshal, "I stand at attention before God every morning so that I may receive my daily marching orders."

Hard On the Ladies.

The would-be woman voter in England must sign a form stating: "I hereby declare that I have attained the age of thirty." She does not have to give her exact age. To settle any age dispute, however, the autorhities may demand a birth certificate.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow. The proper action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

Price 25 cents a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MRS. BALFAME

"What?" She lifted her head and stared up at him. His face was set, but his eyes glowed like blue coals.

"Yes. I can put it over, all right. You remember I went to your house from the Club that day. Nobody saw me go; no one saw me leave. From the moment I left you, until the following morning, no one—no one that I know of—saw me that night, except Dr. Anna. We met out on the road leading to Houston's farm, and she drove me in. She believes I did it. So does Cunmack, and if necessary he will manage to get an affidavit from her—"

Mrs. Balfame had sprung to her feet. "Did you do it? Did you?"

"Aha! I can make even you believe it. No, I did not, but I couldn't prove an alibi if my life depended upon it. I can make the Judge and jury believe—"

"And do you think I would permit—"

"They will believe me. And Dr. Anna—who would doubt her testimony that my appearance and conduct were highly suspicious that night on the marsh road? And what could you disprove? There was a man in the grove, was there not?"

"Yes, but not you; I don't know why, but I could swear to that. I shall—if you do anything so mad—tell the whole truth about myself."

"What good would that do? Balfame was killed with a forty-one revolver. Yours was a thirty-eight."

"How do you know that?"

"I found it the night I spent in your house—the night of your arrest. I know that you never would have gone out to head off a revolver without a revolver—any more than the jury would have believed it. I found the pistol. Never mind the long and many details of the search. It is in my safe. I kept it on the off chance that it might be necessary to procure it after all."

"But I fired at him. I hardly knew that I was firing, until I felt the revolver in my hand go off. Perhaps it was a suggestion from that tense figure so close to me, intent upon murder. Perhaps I merely felt I must—must—I have never been able to analyse what I did feel in those terrible seconds. It doesn't matter. I did. And you? You know I fired with intent to kill. Did you guess at once?"

"Oh, yes. But it doesn't matter. You were not yourself, of course. You had what is called an inhibition—as maddened people have when fighting their way out of a burning theatre. I only wish you had told me. I—that is to say, it is never fair to keep your counsel in the dark."

"You mean you wish I had not lied!" She caught him up with swift intuition. "Well, to-day I would not, but then—well, I was full of pettiness, it seems to me now. But although I am far even yet from being a fine woman,—I know that!—I am not a poor enough creature to let you die for me. Oh, you are far too good for me. I never dreamed that a man would go as far as that for a woman in these days. I thought it was only in books—"

"The veriest trash is inspired by the actual occurrences of life—which is pretty much the same in books as out. And I guess men haven't changed much since the world began, so far as making fools of themselves about a woman is concerned."

As he stood with one hand pressed hard against the table she was far more deeply moved than a few moments since by fear, although outwardly calm. She had climbed far out of her old self within these prison-walls, but she saw steeper heights before her, and she welcomed them.

"Then," she said deliberately, "I must cure you. Before I went out, I had prepared that glass of lemonade and put poison in it. I had planned for several weeks to kill him when a favourable opportunity arrived. I had stolen a secret poison from Anna—out of that chimney cupboard Cassie described. You see that I am a potential murderer,—and a cold-blooded one,—even if by a curious irony of fate some one else committed the deed. Now do you think I am worth giving up you life for —going to the electric chair—"

"Suppose we postpone further argument until the necessity arises—if it ever does. I fully expect you to be triumphantly acquitted. Tell me"—he looked at her curiously, for he divined something of her inner revolutions and hated himself the more that he was interested only as every good lawyer must be in human nature,—"could you do that in cold blood again?"

"No—not that way—never. I might let a pistol go off under the lame provocation—that is bad enough."

"Oh, no. Remove the restraints of a lifetime— or perhaps it is merely a matter of vibration and striking the right key."

"And do you mean that—you still want to marry me?"

"Yes," he answered steadily. "Certainly I do."

"Ah!" Once more she wondered if he still loved her. But she had been too sure of him and of herself to harbour doubt for more than a passing moment. She had come to the conclusion that he had merely taken her at her word, and she knew the specializing instinct of the busy American. She had, indeed, wondered if it were not the strongest instinct he possessed. And in spite of her new humility, she had suffered no loss of confidence in herself as a woman. She vaguely felt that she had lost something of this man's esteem, but trusted to time and her own charm to dim the impression. For she had made up her mind to marry him. Not only would it be the wisest possible move after acquittal,—a decent time after,—but during sleepless hours she had come to the conclusion that she loved this brilliant knightly young man as deeply as it was in her power to love any one. And after this terrible experience and the many changes it had wrought within her, she wanted to be happy.

He had taken up his hat. She crossed the room swiftly and laid her hand on his arm. "I could not stand one word of love-making in jail," she said, smiling up at him gradiously, although her eyes were serious. "But it is only fair to tell you now that if I am acquitted I will marry you."

And stabbed with a pang of bitter regret that he felt not the least impulse to scout her authority and seize her in his arms, he bent over her hand and kissed it with cold lips, but with an air of complete gallantry.

"Thank you," he said, and went out.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Rush slept until two o'clock the next day, after a night passed at the Paradise City oHtel in consultation with two of his future partners; they had spent Saturday in the courtroom at Dobton. He had also discovered that the jury enjoyed themselves in the winter garden after dinner, and by no means in close formation. Although nominally under guard, it would have been a simple matter to pass a note to any one of them. Two he further discovered, had been allowed to telephone and to enter the booth alone. He had been told nothing further of the intention of Cunmack and other friends of his client to "fix" the jury—had, indeed, discouraged such confidences promptly; but he saw that if the enemy desired to employ the methods of corruption they need be no more intricate than those of the men that had so much more to lose if detected.

The night had been devoted to discussion of the case; he even enjoyed a friendly hour with the district attorney, who notably relaxed on Saturdays after five o'clock; and when Rush awoke on the following afternoon he immediately resolved to dismiss the whole affair from his own mind until Monday morning. He would go into the woods and think his own thoughts. They would be dreary thoughts and imbued no doubt with cynicism, himself the target; and they had passed that problematical stage in which the mind, no matter how harrowed, sips lingeringly at the varied banquet of the ego; in fact, Rush's personal problems were almost invariably settled in his subconsciousness, and rose automatically to confront the reasoning faculties without an instant's warning. He was too impatient for self-analysis; and he was the sum of his acts and of the clear mental process of his conscious life.

The bright winter sun struck down through the close tree-tops and upon the brilliant surfaces of a recent fall of snow. The ground was hard and white; the branches of the trees were heavy laden. Not a sound broke the winter stillness but his footsteps on the winter snow. He had put on a heavy white sweater and cap, as he intended to walk for hours, and his nervous hands were in his pockets. He believed he should have the woods to himself, for in winter it was the Country Club and the roadhouses that were patronized on Sundays; and the trolley-car which passed the wood on the line about a quarter of a mile away had, save for himself, been empty.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue, or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

Tradesmen Are Artists.

In the Golden Age of Venice, in the fifteenth century, the chief occupation of the women was the assiduous search after new forms of adornment, either to hide defects of person or to heighten their natural charms by the infinite richness and variety of their robes, their embroideries and laces, and by the graceful cut of their apparel. In relating the customs of that time Pompeo Molmenti says that the mercer and dressmaker ranked as artists. The shops of dressmakers, the mercers, the jewelers—in short, of all those who served the purpose of adornment—became in fact veritable exhibitions of industrial art, which formed the rendezvous of dames and cavaliers and of all who loved fine stuffs and beautiful ornaments.

All the producers of these graceful objects of luxury not only became rich, but refined their taste by contact with the nobility, learned courtly manners and liberal sentiments, built palaces which they filled with works of art, commissioned pictures for churches in which their own portraits figured, and kneeling at the feet of their saint as though to give thanks for all his benefits.

Arabian Skins.

Arabian skins coming into the world markets through Egypt and the Soudan originate exclusively in Jedda and places in the vicinity of Mecca. They embrace cattle hides, sheep skins, goat skins and camel hides are limited in quantity; the quality, however, is excellent.

Summed Up.

A Tommy writing home from France considers the cootie arithmetically, thus: "They add to one's discomfort; they subtract from one's enjoyment; they divide one's attention, and they multiply like the devil."

The young leaves—the tender leaves—those full of flavor and richness—are selected for Red Rose Tea. The strength, flavor and freshness of these choice, delicate leaves is fully preserved for your enjoyment by the sealed Red Rose package which keeps out odors, dust and moisture.

The Red Rose name guarantees satisfaction.

French Live Stock on the Decline.

The United States food administration has called attention to the large decrease in live stock in France since the beginning of the war. In cattle this decrease amounted to 2,500,000 as to December, 1917; in sheep the decrease amounted to 6,238,000 head; in hogs to 2,440,000 head. In the period since owing to the food shortage there has been a still further shrinkage. Figures like these indicate that there will be a large and insistent demand for live stock from this country, for the foreign trade for many years after peace is finally established.

Good American Family.

Thirty years ago a girl came to this country from Russia to marry Louis Flesher, an immigrant from the same country. They settled in Springfield, Mass., and when the United States entered the war they had four sons, the eldest 23. All of them entered the army and the eldest has distinguished himself in battle. He is the young man who, having lost an arm and an eye while carrying ammunition through shell fire, optimistically exclaimed: "I'm the luckiest Jew in the army. Any others would have been killed."—American Israelite.

"Olive" Oil.

Over 500 different types of husked rice or paddy were under examination last year at one of the government agricultural farms in Burma, and over 200 types of sesamum were grown at another. Hitherto much of the sesamum grown in Burma has been exported to Europe, where it is used for the production of the so-called "olive oil" for which France and Italy have long been famed.

A number of New York youths in the fifties threw a number of bad eggs at a pallid and trembling performer. He advanced to the edge of the stage, commanded silence and said:

"Noble sirs, deign to throw me but one good one—just one. I care not if it break over me, I shall manage it. I have eaten naught in two days. Pelt me with good eggs, I beseech you."

The appeal gained him a basket of good eggs by way of the back stage.

A man went to Shakespeare's theater in the day of the great bard to throw bad eggs at an actor he disliked. Some one jostled him unduly, and he punched the jostler. The jostler whipped him, however, and finally sat him down in the bad eggs, which broke. So the would be egg thrower was thrown out because of the odor and called a bad egg in the bargain.—New York Sun.

German Idea of Justice.

"The pigeons in Belgium," says Brand Whitlock in Everybody's for September, "had almost as hard a time of it as the people themselves. At Nivelle a poor man had some carrier pigeons and the Belgian's love for them. But he had no food for them and so was obliged to kill them. His children cut off their heads and ranged them along a window sill, and underneath wrote: 'Died for their country.' The Germans saw the little heads and the inscription and the man was sent for 15 days to the Kommandantur and fined 200 francs."

Conscientious.

Dodson and his friend Jones stood conversing on the corner. Dodson looked up, clutched his companion by the arm and whispered, "Hurry, Jim!" Around the corner they went and made off up the street. Then Jones called Dodson to account. "Creditor of mine," answered Dodson. "It isn't like you to dodge creditors," said Jones. "Are you up against it?" "Well," was the reply, "I have enough in my pocket to pay him, and if he caught me I might do it. HIGHER THAN MERE BRAVERY

Soldier's Decoration Conferred as Reward for Assuaging the Thirst of Emperor Napoleon.

There is a good story of one of Bonaparte's veterans, who, after the distribution of medals of the Legion of Honor, which he expected but did not receive, could contain himself no longer and went to the emperor to demand satisfaction.

"Do you not remember, sire," he asked, "that when we were in Egypt and you were thirsty I, alone, had a melon, which I shared with you?"

The emperor smiled, saying, "I thank you again, my good man, but giving a melon to a thirsty man does not necessarily carry the cross with it."

The soldier broke into furious speech: "And was I not at Arcola, at Marengo, at Austerlitz? Did I not go to Santo Domingo and cover myself with glory in every battle? Yet you cannot remember a melon! Pshaw!"

The emperor smiled again. "Why did you not tell me all that before?" he asked. "Of course you shall have your cross."

"But is it for the battles or for the melon?" the soldier demanded. "Any fool can go into battle, but not every man can give a melon to his general when his general is thirsty."

"Quite true," remarked the emperor, laughing, and, taking the cross from his own breast, he pinned it to that of his old grenadier. "Let it be for the melon," he said.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

Interplanetary Gases.

According to the Scientific American, some of the striking changes that take place in certain comets in their passage through space may be explained by their encountering stray masses of gas. If it is true that such masses of gas exist, comets would be more than likely to encounter them, for the inclinations and the extents of their orbits make them especially good explorers. The planets move in a narrow zone very near the plane of the ecliptic, whereas the inclination of the cometary orbits is sometimes considerable; for the periodic comets it varies from 3 to 162 degrees. Consequently comets attain regions of the solar system that no other bodies penetrate. These gaseous masses, if indeed they exist, are of varying chemical composition and may be considered as fragments of the initial nebula that escaped the combustion from which the members of the solar system arose.

Death by Freezing.

It is not clearly understood how severe cold causes death, remarks the Journal of the American Medical Association. A variety of causes have been assumed to be at work—accumulation of carbonic acid, paralysis of the vasomotor centers, loss of heat, accumulation of blood in the heart, anemia of the brain, destruction of red corpuscles—all of which tends to show that we really do not know anything definite as to the precise cause.

The signs of death caused by exposure to cold are also poorly understood. This is especially unfortunate in view of the fact that in all northern countries cases of death from freezing frequently present themselves for investigation.

Long Sermons.

Long sermons were the rule in the time of the Rev. Thomas Boston, who is on record as having preached one sermon arranged under eighty-six heads and four others of hardly less generous proportions. Such pulpit performances as these brought out the necessity for the long poles with which the old time wardens gave slumbering members of flocks awakening taps on nodding heads.

French Traitors Face Justice

EVEN among a people so gloriously heroic as the French there are bound to be a few spies and traitors, men and women who hate their own country, or who are insensible to feelings of patriotism, and are willing for a few dollars to aid the enemy. A notable nest of these friends of Germany has been dug out at Laon, and some twenty of them must stand trial for their lives. Love of money rather than love of Germany appears to have been the chief incentive of the "denonciateurs de Laon." One of them alleged that she acted as a denouncer of French inhabitants, because had she not done so she would have been put to death by the Germans, and whether her story is true there is evidence in support of the contention that in occupied districts the Germans more than once held the fear of death over certain French inhabitants, whom they thus forced to turn informers. The method saved the Germans themselves from a lot of work and cost them little or nothing.

One of the accused spies at Laon, Emile Lobjois, if what is said against him is true, promises to take a high place among the most infamous villains of history. He is said to have denounced hundreds of his countrymen to the Germans, and then, turning state's evidence, to have denounced and implicated others whose guilt had not been suspected by the French. It will be unfortunate if he should escape or have his punishment mitigated because at the last moment he confessed. The spies served the Germans chiefly by reporting to them those of their neighbors who had not handed over their arms, or those who helped and concealed wounded French prisoners in the neighborhood or endeavored to communicate with the French army or infringed the hundred and one laws the German invaders imposed on them. As a result hundreds of these unfortunates were arrested and imprisoned by the Germans, scores were executed. Some of the spies were known to the French people, but as long as the Germans were in control they had no means of revenging themselves, and, indeed, pretended ignorance of their informers for fear their own lives would suddenly be cut short. But as soon as the French re-occupied the town they hurried to the authorities with their charges and arrests swiftly followed. The prisoners were taken to Paris and there the trials have been going on.

The first to be arrested was Georges Toque, who like several others of his stripe, had arranged to have himself sent to a German prison camp when it became certain that the end of the war was near, and who then returned to France, inviting the people to embrace him after the signing of the armistice. He proved the first link in a considerable chain. The next was Emile Thomas, formerly in the German police force at Strassburg, a master spy in the Kaiser's service, and the keystone of the arch of informers at Laon. He was attached to the Seventh German army, and so distinguished himself for ferocity against his fellow-countrymen that he received the Iron Cross of the First Class. Thomas is accused of being responsible for the execution of fourteen persons. Two of them were Algerian sharpshooters. [illegible] had been left behind when the French retreated from Laon, and found a hiding place in a chimney at Aguilcourt-le-Sart. They remained for fifteen months, fed by the French people in the neighborhood, and, we may presume, accounting for a considerable number of Germans in that time. They were tracked one day by a woman named Aubert, who betrayed their hiding place to Thomas, with the result that they were captured and executed.

This Aubert woman, who appears to have been second only to Thomas, also figured in a charge against a miller named Beauge. It appears that in 1916 a French aviator was forced to land in the neighborhood, and was sheltered and helped by a man named Tassot, one of whose sons is among the accused. The elder Tassot enabled the flier to get away, but he somewhat dimmed his record by joining Aubert in accusing Beauge with the offence, or heroism, of which he himself had been guilty. Beauge was sentenced to death, but escaped to the French lines, where he in turn denounced his denouncers. When the French reentered Laon and proceeded to hunt up Tassot they found that he had been executed by the Germans. Another noted spy was Gabrielle Lambert, nee Verlon, a friend of Thomas. This woman worked openly, and is said to have sat beside the German officers when they were examining the Frenchmen whom she had denounced. She calculated that there was no chance of the French ever being able to bring her to book. Even Lloyds would hesitate to write a life insurance policy for her. The lady is done.

Another trial which has been interesting the [illegible] is that of two absentee Frenchmen, Guilbeaux and Hartmann, charged with treasonable acts in Switzerland. They, it was proved, calculated to bring about in France what Lenin and Trotsky accomplished in Russia. The verdict of the court was against them, and they were sentenced to death, but whether they are hiding in Switzerland or whether the extradition law does not cover their case is not explained by the French papers.

Air-Service Dress.

Air-service officers must wear regulation dress or become subject to disciplinary action.

An order to this effect has been sent from air service headquarters to the various air sections and stations. It has been inspired by the practice adopted by some air service officers of wearing split coats, bellows pockets and roll collars, which may be comfortable but are not regulation.

When a squadron commander recently lined up all his flyers for an unexpected and unheralded inspection, a lot of them looked nice but were not garbed as it is written in the manual.

"M—m-mmm," mused the squadron chief. "You—and you—and you—you—you, too—step forward one pace."

"I don't suppose you can fix the pockets yourselves," continued the major, "And I don't suppose you can fix the collars, either. But you can fix those splits in the back. Go to your quarters and sew them up."—Parisian Red Stripe.

SPIRITUALISM.

Badly Balanced People Often Go Crazy.

The war has given an enormous impetus to spiritualism. Prior to 1914 the number of people who tried to get in touch with the other world through table-turning and so on was limited to the comparatively few; now half London, if not, indeed, half England, are madly bitten with the craze, and this being so, a few hints as to the dangers these would-be "communicators" incur may not be inappropriate.

First of all there is the danger of people who are not absolutely evenly balanced and level-headed becoming so absorbed with the craze that they eventually go off their heads. Those frequently attending table-turning sittings and listening there to real or spurious spirit knockings and creakings, they fancy they hear the same sounds at home, and in the end are pursued by them wherever they go.

The asylums are full of such people, and I could quote at least ten cases within my personal knowledge where suicide has been the result.

People who are naturally very emotional or highly strung, without being necessarily weak-minded, should also abstain from sittings, as the tension and excitement is very injurious to the nervous system, and often leads to attacks of hysterics and chronic insomnia. Epileptics and those inclined to epilepsy should also studiously avoid seances. I have seen several epileptic seizures when I have been at sittings.

There is also decided danger to those suffering with heart disease, as messages that come through are occasionally of a very alarming nature. For example, I was present on one occasion at a seance when a lady, anxious to hear news of her son at the front, was informed by the table that he had just been killed. She instantly fainted, and it was only with the greatest difficulty she could be brought round.

Apart from shocks produced by certain messages, there is the danger of much mischief being caused through the spitefulness of one of the sitters. For instance, if one of the sitters wishes to do anyone an injury, she not infrequently so manipulates the table that it tilts or raps out a message calculated to prejudice people against that person.

As an illustration, I knew a medium who once quarrelled with a particular friend of mine, and one day at a seance at which the medium was presiding, the table delivered a message of a most scandalous nature concerning my friend. Fortunately someone present had observed the medium cheating, otherwise my friend's reputation might have been damaged, and considerable mischief caused. As this sort of thing is without doubt far from uncommon, all messages purporting to come from the spirit world, whether obtained at table-tilting, or from a clairvoyant, or by automatic writing, should be taken with reserve.

Then there is always the possibility of getting into touch with a very undesirable class of spirit, and two facts lead me to believe this happens more frequently than is generally supposed. Firstly, a certain percentage of messages that come through and which cannot be attributed to trickery on the part of any of the sitters, often turn out to be perfectly untrue. This shows the spirits are common or garden liars. And, secondly, one cannot help observing that the moral standard of people who constantly attend seances, or who take up spiritualism professionally often becomes very low; nor is the alteration gradual.

Lastly, there is the very great likelihood of conscious or unconscious fraud on the part of a sitter or sitters. The fraud may take the form of sleight-of-hand, the manipulation of some mechanical device (this has often happened at table-turning seances), or, as in the case of trances clever acting and ventriloquism.—E. O'Donnell in Pearson's.

JAPANESE PROVERBS.

A Large Percentage of Them Condemn Women.

Many foreigners have been pleased to call my country, Japan, the land of proverbs. A large percentage of our proverbs, it is needless to say, concern women, says Saito-Man in the London Mail.

Most of the old, widely known ones have been freely translated or stolen by foreign writers. But we are not worried. New and clever proverbs are fast being created by the new generation of men and women.

I translate below some of the gems which have recently come under my notice. They do not necessarily represent the opinion of the present day Japanese people, but they are, at any rate, a contribution to the abundant world wisdom on the immortal problem:

"'New' women are created to replace good women."

"If you want to love women, begin by loving money."

"Women who remember shop signs and trade marks make good wives."

"Very jealous women are easy to control."

"Pride goes before a fall, especially in beautiful women."

"Women and mountains should be looked on at a distance."

"Women fall in love with their protectors; men with women."

"Men who can neither brag nor flatter need not fear being loved by women."

"Rather than make love in clumsy language, bite your tongue out."

"Plain women bewail their misfortune in proportion to their learning."

"When marriage agents praise any woman for her virtues, you may be certain that it is another way of saying that she is ugly."

"Women who seek liberty too often lose it."

"A wife who does not know how to please her husband makes him commit no end of blunders."

"Men who like to take photos with their wives are henpecked."

"Thin-lipped women tell lies; thick-lipped women are lazy and jealous."

"'Tis women who know they are ugly that powder their faces."

"Women admire women of their own type."

"The secret of winning the woman who jilts you is—perseverance."

"Women understand men: those who understand women are also women.

"Poisonous flies carry shiny wings; bad women pretty faces."

"Men laugh with their hearts; women only with their mouths."

"Women who habitually bite their lips are jealous."

"War makes men strong and women lovely."

Enchanted Gardens.

It has always seemed to me that no child had been quite fairly treated who had not lived with the fairies in an enchanted garden. There must be walls about such a garden to hold in memories and tall trees for mystery and much fragrance—and shadows—and the child must sometimes play alone that his delicate joy may not be marred. What peace this garden will bring in the old, dry years to come, what ineffable tears, what longing!

Pierre Loti found his first touch of romance in a sweet French garden where there were friendly old aunts, much color, perfume and long, idle, still days.

I remember a wonderful haunted wood in Holland which rested at the edge of a queen's garden and was all a soft, translucent green. The trees met overhead and cast down pale green shade, and the little stream that moved so slowly through the woods was like a narrow strip of jade. Even the air was green and heavy with stories, and I knew that there were fairies everywhere, hiding under the leaves, peering at me from the thick fern beds and sailing silver boats down the jade river. —Clara T. MacChesney in Craftsman.

Lavish Display.

"Poor old duffer. He saved all his life and died before he could enjoy his wealth."

"But somebody will enjoy it."

"That's true. His widow has the satisfaction of giving him a funeral that was expensive enough to make the old gentleman turn over in his grave."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Four Reliable Huns.

Only four men in Germany have the confidence of the Allied powers, according to the Berne Zeitung. They are Prof Foerster, Dr. Muehlon, Dr. Grelling and Dr. Schlieben. Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon is, perhaps, the best known of the four men mentioned by the Berne newspaper. He is a former director of the Krupp works. In April, 1918, he published an article in which he charged that the German Imperial Government purposely started the war. He has reiterated his charge a number of times since. Prof. Foerster, of the University of Munich, during the war was dismissed from his post for criticism of the German Government. He was a member of the Provisional Government formed by Bavarian Liberals in Munich on February 24. The Dr. Grelling and the Dr. Schlieben referred to probably are Dr. Richard Grelling and Dr. Fritz Schlieben, a former member of the Reichstag. Both men had been leaders of Liberal thought in Germany.

Municipal Restaurants for Japan.

In Tokio there are restaurants old and new; the old, established generations ago, which specialise in one or other particular dainty; the chief establishments of this character will be found in Hurt-by-Eating Lane, Nihombashi; the new, an endless medley of cheap foreign-food restaurants, beer halls, and saloons. A large part of the commercial population depends for its midday meal on these places. The official population also has to be provided for, and lately a municipal official has suggested the establishment of municipal dining-rooms in all the centres of Tokio. Food would be provided by an officially-established market.

Cause for Thanks.

"I met a real optimist the other day," said the war hospital surgeon, "a fellow to whom I certainly doff my hat. He had lost a leg and when they picked him up the first thing he said was: 'Thank God it was the leg with the rheumatism!'"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Discharging The Editor

By "UNA HARROWE"

(Copyright, 1910, by Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was the third time within two days that Olive Claggett had entered the office of Bennett Stokes, the managing editor, and she was well aware that her resenting feeling of embarrassment was attributable to something more than the fact that she had come on an errand the desired result of which would be most unfavorable to Bennett Stokes.

The "something more" Olive had felt always when in Bennett's presence from the first day she met him. It was this that made her on all occasions go out of her way to avoid him. For Olive Claggett, unversed, herself, in the ways of men, did not the slightest desire to fall under the sway of such fascination as Bennett might exert over her.

Her newly acquired job as business manager of the Morning Banner was far too important to be imperilled by any such distractions. But now she had come entirely in the interests of the Banner—she had been delegated to go by those who she felt had the interests of the Banner most at heart.

She had asked for an interview with Mr. Fordyce, the owner of the Banner. But he was away.

"You told me, you know, that you would be able to tell me something definite by this time," Olive said with distinctness, trying to avoid the pause that crept into Bennett's gray eyes. "If he is not in town and won't be, I will find it worth while to go to him. You ought at least to tell me where he is to be found."

"Yes, quite so," mused Bennett, turning over with a tinge of embarrassment some manuscript that lay half read on his editorial desk. "That would at least seem fair—but the fact is that Fordyce is an odd sort of fellow. Hasn't personally visited the office for I'm sure, I don't know how long. Suppose you write a letter to him and I'll see that it gets to him."

Stokes had already made this suggestion, which had met with Olive's disapproval, but the matter was important. The entire success of the Banner depended on having her proposition before Mr. Fordyce without delay, so with an expression that made it quite apparent to Bennett that she held him personally responsible for the inaccessibility of their chief, she withdrew, promising to have the letter ready before the evening was over.

It was a harder letter to write than even Olive had anticipated, but as business manager of a morning paper she had no previous duties at that time, and while the editorial force and compositors and pressmen were working under the grim concentration necessary to get even an unpretentious paper out as the Morning Banner, she was further deliberately composing the important letter.

She waited until the paper was well in the hands of the composing room before she definitely sought Mr. Stokes in his office. She had thought twice before she had sealed the envelope—and then she had sealed it.

After all, there was no reason why she should leave it open, she was asking Stokes no personal favor in seeing that it was addressed and if he did read it—but something assured her that Mr. Stokes was too honorable for that.

"Won't you wait just two or three minutes—till I get my desk cleared?" he said as she turned to leave the room. "I wish I might walk home with you. It is rather late."

"Thank you, no," Olive said in spite of a desire that was strong within her. "I am going with one of the girls—we are quite used to it, you know."

Bennett waited only till Olive had got halfway down the corridor; then he arose quietly, pushed the door shut, returned to his desk and deliberately broke open the sealed flap of the letter to Mr. Fordyce.

The proposition was clearly put. It was not Olive's proposition, but one that had been formulated by the entire staff of the Banner, save, of course, Mr. Stokes, who had always failed to attend the weekly meetings of the personnel of the paper. Now, as every one knew, the Morning Banner had been especially hard hit by the draft.

Composed as it was almost entirely of young college graduates, who sought this way to receive their newspaper apprenticeship, a dozen or so of the most active men in editorial and business departments had gone off with the first call. Reputa would have been fire-fused and it not been for the women who quickly filled in the places higher up, calling other women to take their recently abandoned subordinate places.

Olive herself had been right-hand "man" to the business manager, but when he enlisted she moved into his swivel chair and had worked with eagerness and complete devotion for the Banner. The editorial staff had been an hard hit that no one regretted but Mr. Stokes; all his reporters and assistants were women.

The constant going off of men in the composing room and pressroom suggested getting women in to do the work. It had been tried successfully by another paper. In fact Olive told Mr. Fordyce in the letter that she had investigated this and would guarantee the entire satisfaction of a feminine composing and pressroom.

Now as matters stood the manageress of the Banner worked a little in disfavor. But it had been determined that if the paper could be made entirely woman-run, the achievement would be so novel that the Banner would immediately become a paper of importance.

The Rest Cure

"HOW are you this morning?"

"I am not very well, and I do not see why I ever came to this place."

"Why, this is a fine place to take the rest cure, and that is what your doctor has prescribed."

"Well, it is no rest for me, for I have too much time to think and to worry. I could not get any sleep last night, and I know I shall never get better here."

"Most people like it here."

"Perhaps they do if there is nothing the matter with them. But if their nerves were in such a condition as mine they would be about as miserable as I am. I wish I had stayed home and used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, that is what some of my friends advised."

"Why not use it here. I know lots of people who have been cured by using it, and the rest will surely help some."

"That sounds to me like a good idea. Now you just get me half a dozen boxes at the drug store and we will try it out. If it will only steady my nerves so I can rest and sleep I am sure that I shall soon be better."

"I know that it will help you, for I have watched so many cases in which it was used and never saw a failure yet."

"And I was told about it often enough before I left home, but thought I had to have more expensive treatment. They will have the joke on me if the Nerve Food cures me, but we will give it a chance, anyway."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

MADE IN CANADA

WOMEN DIPLOMATS.

Mme. Rosika Schwimmer Believes the World Needs Them.

One of the outstanding women in the world is Madame Rosika Schwimmer, of suffragist and feminist fame in Europe, and perhaps better known as the woman who was the inspiration of Henry Ford's peace pilgrimage to Europe.

Mme. Schwimmer, after the collapse of the Ford expedition which was to "bring the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, 1915," went back to Hungary, where she was active in national politics.

When the Hungarian revolution came and the country was proclaimed a republic, Mme. Schwimmer was one of the leaders of the revolution and was selected as a member of the "Council of Twenty" which guided the country through its first days of self-government. Subsequently when the Council of Twenty delegated all administrative power to a coalition Government, headed by Count Karolyi as Prime Minister, the new Government appointed Mme. Schwimmer "Plenipotentiary and Minister Extraordinary" to Switzerland, where for a few weeks she conducted the most unique embassy in the world.

Mme. Schwimmer does not believe that she is going to be "the only woman ambassador in Europe" for long.

"There are more women diplomats coming," she said, "because the character of our diplomatic duties has changed. Diplomacy, prior to August, 1914, had been largely responsible for war. The diplomacy of to-morrow will be to bring about understanding between nations. Women can tend to such duties fully as much as men, and they have the advantage of not having been used up so much as men have been used up by the war. Women suffered in the war, but they have not been killed off by the millions as men have. There is more material to choose from.

"I do not want, however, to give the impression that women will enter political life as women, to further the cause of feminism or to create antagonism between the sexes. That is the last thing we want. It is my belief that woman in diplomacy will exercise her influence not for a division into classes or nations, but for a common humanity."

Interesting News For Working Men

AN ARTICLE WELL WORTH YOUR WHILE TO READ

This nerve-racking age—not a man in an office or behind the counter, striving hard to get on in the world, that does not feel the strain.

If nerves are in order, a man is strong eats and sleeps well. Unstrung nerves means weakness, worry sleeplessness and a general decay of bodily strength.

Most men are careless of their health. They trust to luck and that kind of thing, instead of taking Ferrozone for a few weeks when they feel dull in the morning, or when they sleep poorly or lose appetite.

Ferrozone quickly brightens up the mind. It creates an appetite and improves digestion. Ferrozone makes blood, quiets the nerves, makes muscle like steel and induces refreshing sleep.

Ferrozone is a body builder, thousands have proved it. If you are sick or out of sorts, use Ferrozone and enjoy the splendid health it so surely brings.

A PORTRAIT OF LENINE

LEADER OF BOLSHEVIKI IS AN EXTRAORDINARY MAN.

British Journalist Tells Some Facts About the Russian Who Has Become Master of the Reds and the "Reign of Terror" — Demagogue Is Not an Easy Man to Know or to Understand.

Of articles on Bolshevism there is now no end, but in the labyrinth of conflicting rumors and reports with which he is confronted the impartial reader frequently finds it hard to pick his way. Difficult as it is for him to conjure up before his eyes even the vaguest picture of Bolshevism as a political philosophy, he is completely nonplused when he attempts to form an estimate of the character and personality of the man who is its creator and its chief exponent.

The truth of the matter is that Lenine is by no means an easy man to know. For years he has enveloped himself in a veil of mystery—a policy dictated as much by personal inclination as by political motives, and outside his own small circle of disciples and admirers there are not only very few Russians who may be said to know him intimately, but even comparatively few who have ever seen him. If, therefore, he appears to the average Britisher as a red-shirted, high-booted pirate chief, the fault is chiefly of his own making. His all-absorbing passion is the gospel of world-revolution.

Born at Simbirsk on April 10, 1870, Vladimir Ilitch Ulianoff, alias "Lenine," "Ilitch," "Ilin," "Tylin," is a hereditary noble, and the son of a State Councilor. His mother had a small estate in the Kazan Government, and after her husband's death was in receipt of a state pension. Lenine's two sisters and his brother Dmitri were at one time all under police supervision, while his brother Alexander was executed in 1887 for complicity in a terrorist plot against the life of Alexander III. Brought up in the Orthodox faith, Lenine is one of the few genuine Russians to be found among the Bolshevist leaders. After completing his course at the Simbirsk Gymnasium, in 1887 he entered the Kazan University, only to be expelled and banished from Kazan a few months later for participating in an anti-Government students' riot. In 1891, however, we find him attending the University of Petrograd, where he studied law and economics. In 1895 he made his first journey abroad to Germany, returning in the same year to Petrograd, where he was again arrested on account of his Socialist activities. On this occasion he was exiled for three years to the village of Sushenskoe, in Eastern Siberia, being forbidden on the expiration of his sentence to reside in any of the big cities, factory centres or university towns of Russia. After his release in 1900 he again went abroad. From this period begins his real career as a Socialist leader, and the next seventeen years are a long cycle of Socialist congresses abroad, culminating in the Zimmerwald conferences of 1915 and his dramatic return to Russia in the notorious "sealed" wagon. During this period he visited many countries, including England, and made the acquaintance of all the revolutionary elements in Europe. His favorite residence, however, was at Poronin, in Galicia, from which point of vantage he was able to maintain a close contact with the revolutionary movement in Russia.

Is Lenine a genius? Many Russians have denied it, and certainly there is nothing in his personal appearance to suggest even faintly a resemblance to the super-man. Short of stature, rather plump, with short, thick neck, broad shoulders, round, red face, high, intellectual forehead, bald head, nose slightly turned up, brownish moustache, and short, stubbly beard, he looks at the first glance more like a provincial grocer than a leader of men. And yet, on second thoughts, there is something in those steely grey eyes that arrests the attention, something in that quizzing, half-contemptuous, half-smiling look which speaks of boundless self-confidence and conscious superiority. His knowledge of languages is above the average. He is a proficient scholar, while he writes and speaks English with tolerable accuracy. He is certainly by far the greatest intellectual force which the Russian revolution has yet brought to light.

It is not, however, to his intellectual powers that he owes his predominating position inside his own party. The almost fanatical respect with which he is regarded by the men who are his colleagues and who are at least as jealous of each other as politicians in other countries, is due to other qualities than mere intellectual capacity. Chief of these are his iron courage, his grim, relentless determination, and his complete lack of all self-interest. In his creed of world-revolution he is unscrupulous and uncompromising and in his code of political ethics the end to be attained is a justification for the employment of any weapon. To him capital is the fiend incarnate, and with such an enemy he neither gives nor asks for mercy.

Yet as an individual he is not without certain virtues. In the many attacks, both justified and unjustified, which have been made again him, no breath or scandal has ever touched his private life. He is married—according to all accounts singularly happily married—and, in a country where corruption has now reached its apogee, he stands out head and shoulders above all his colleagues as the one man who is above suspicion. To Lenine the stories of Bolshevist orgies and carousals have no relation. His own worldly needs are more than frugal, and his personal budget is probably the most modest of all the Bolshevist Commissaries. Dishonest, treacherous, guilty of the worst forms of secret diplomacy as the Bolshevists have been in all their public dealings, Lenine himself, on the rare occasions on which he has consented to see a foreign journalist or a foreign official, has always been extraordinarily frank. "Personally, I have nothing against you. Politically, however, you are my enemy, and I must use every weapon I think fit for your destruction. Your Government does the same against me." The individual is only a pawn in the game, and no individual, however dear, however close he may be to Lenine's heart, will ever be allowed to stand in his way. His cruelty, however, is not a question of personal vengeance. Where Trotzky and other Bolshevists have pursued their enemies with a bitter, personal hatred, Lenine in certain cases, where the individual has been of little account, has even been guilty of acts of clemency. But where Trotzky might shrink through fear of the consequences from shooting 10,000 men in cold blood, Lenine, although he is not one of the chief advocates of the terror, would assuredly not hesitate if he thought such an action were essential to the advancement of his cause.

No one who has ever been present at a Bolshevist congress can have any doubts as to the real driving power behind the Bolshevist movement. In the numerous political crises through which the Bolshevists have passed during their eighteen months' tenure of the Russian political stage, Lenine's has been the master mind which time and again has averted the almost inevitable disaster and restored the fallen fortunes of a party that had temporarily lost both its head and its heart. In debate he is an unrivaled dialectician, facing his opponents with an unruffled temper which is provokingly irritating in its serenity. Politicians of many years' experience might well be puzzled by the madly incongruous, peculiarly Russian questions which are put by ignorant delegates at every Bolshevist congress. Lenine, however, is never at a loss. He is as sure of himself as a schoolmaster with a class of small boys. A delegate asks an impossible question about the Brest peace and the doctrine of self-determination. Like a flash comes the reply: "One foolish man can ask more questions in a minute than ten wise men can answer in a day." And, like schoolboys at a conjuring entertainment, the assembly claps its hands and grins with childish delight.

Of course he is a demogogue; has made use of all the demagogue's arts. But behind all the inconsistencies of his policy, the tactics, the manoeuvring, there lies a deep-rooted plan which he has been turning over in his mind for years and which he now thinks is ripe for execution. Demagogues have no constructive program. Lenine, at least, knows exactly what he wishes to achieve and how he means to achieve it. Where other politicians try to adapt their program to the needs and desires of society, Lenine is attempting to fit society to the narrow frames of his rigid, Prussian-like program. A fanatic if you like, but a fanatic who has already made history and who has more genius than most fanatics. Cold, pitiless, devoid of all sentiment, utterly ruthless in his effort to force the narrow tenets of his Marxian dogma upon the whole world, Lenine is not a lovable character. He is, however, the one Bolshevist of whom non-Bolshevist Russians can ever be brought, albeit grudgingly, to speak with respect.

Quite recently the Bolshevists have set up in the streets of Petrograd a statue to Blanqui on which is inscribed Blanqui's famous motto, "Ni Dieu, ni Maitre." To present-day Russia the words are pitifully inappropriate. Bolshevist Russia has a master, and in his secret heart every Bolshevist knows it.—The London Times.

JEWS—HOW MANY?

Some Interesting Figures That Concern Palestine.

Very interesting are the following items of information published in the World Outlook on the subject of Palestine and the form of government to be adopted when the Peace Conference sets its seal on Great Britain's decision to make it a permanent home for the Jews:

"There are now in Palestine 100,000 Jews, or about one-seventh of the whole population. It is hoped that within a generation there will be 1,000,000,000 Jews there. The difficulty is not to get them to go, but to restrict immigration until the land is ready for them. Palestine is an agricultural country, but it needs long care before it can yield the necessities of life for a normal population. American Zionists are raising a million dollars to be spent in developing the resources of the country.

"In all the world there are 14,000,000 Jews, 3,000,000 of whom are in the United States. Already 10 per cent. of the Jewish farmers of that country (the class most needed) have made application to return to Palestine.

"There will be no more kings of Judea. Instead there will be a republican form of government, probably under the trusteeship of Great Britain. It will be a mixture of the oldest and newest governments, for the plans are for a nation based on the principles of the United States; but as far as feasible, laws relative to divorce, relations of parent and child, inheritance and occupancy of the land will be based upon the old Hebrew laws. Specifically the outlines of the government proposed are summed up under the following heads:

"One.—Equality, regardless of race, sex or faith.

"Two.—Public ownership of land, natural resources and public utilities.

"Three.—Individual initiative guaranteed.

"Four.—Co-operative principle the basis of economic organization.

"Five.—No land speculation or financial oppression.

"Six.—Free public education in all its grades.

"Seven.—Hebrew the national language."

French Shipping.

France is planning her first effort in modern times to secure a merchant marine commensurate with her foreign trade. France lost 528 vessels of 907,000 gross tons through enemy action during the war. Her loss constituted about 39 per cent. of her entire merchant fleet at the outbreak of the war.

In connection with the rehabilitation of the French Merchant Marine, M. Bouisson, commissioner for the Mercantile Marine, recently expressed himself as being in favor of recovering all of the French tonnage destroyed by submarines from her associates in the war. This, he thinks, would be only a fair payment for the efforts of France's arsenals, shipyards and naval shops on behalf of her associates.

Great Britain has tentatively agreed to build 500,000 tons of shipping for France when conditions permit, and France expects further to strengthen her merchant fleet by purchases of ships from other shipbuilding nations.

The French Navy League, representing the principal French shipping companies and shipbuilding industries, has appealed to President Wilson to use his influence in enabling France to reconstruct her merchant fleet. France has lost, as a result of the war, 40 per cent. of her tonnage and thousands of her best seamen. All her shipyards have been turned over to producing war material, so that she was unable to replace her losses by new construction.

A SUMMARY OF FARM CONDITIONS

GOOD WEATHER IS HELPING TO DRY UP THE LAND.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The hot, sunny weather of the past week helped to dry up the heavily soaked land, and there has been a rush of sowing of all kinds of delayed spring crops. The intensity of the heat, however, following frequent heavy rans, has had the effect of baking the surface of clay soils, which is stunting the growth of roots and other seeding showing up. On this account some sugar beets have had to be re-seeded in Kent.

Buckwheat and millet will be largely sown on account of the lateness of the season for some of the other spring crops. In Essex and Kent an extended acreage of tobacco is predicted: There will also be more corn and less beans generally sown.

Fall wheat continues to look well, and clover is in fair condition. Alfalfa is making very rapid growth, and looks better than usual.

Fruit was never more generally promising. Winter apples are shy in blooming, but the other varieties will do better. From Lincoln comes a report that peaches which have blossomed well, are suffering from a severe attack of leaf curl, and cherries, also heavy in bloom are being attacked by brown rot. All small fruits are likely to yield generously.

Cattle Scarce.

Milk cattle were never dearer than, and good beef animals are scarce. Some have sold at $18 a cwt, but stocker steers have gone as low as $11 a cwt. Milch cows bring from $100 up. The milk flow is now abundant. Lanark reports cheese as selling at 32 1-2c. a lb. on the local board.

Hogs are going off at $21 to $22.50 a cwt. Little pigs are in great demand at from $15 to $20 a pair. Owners of horses are doing well in Ontario county. Three year old colts are bringing from $160 to $175, and good mature draft horses, from four to six years old, are going at from $220 to $300 ,and are scarce even at that price .

Brant says that most of the sheep will be clipped by the 10th of June, and that a large number of farmers are shipping their wool to Guelph, being pleased with the results there during the last two years.

Farmers' Clubs in various parts of the province are busy shipping live stock.

With live stock on the grass fodders are likely to hold out nicely; but although there is a surplus of grain on hand for supplementary feeding, hay, ensilage and other coarse fodders are scarce. Hay is worth from $30 to $35 a ton.

Peel reports that returned soldiers are relieving the labour situation in that county to some extent.

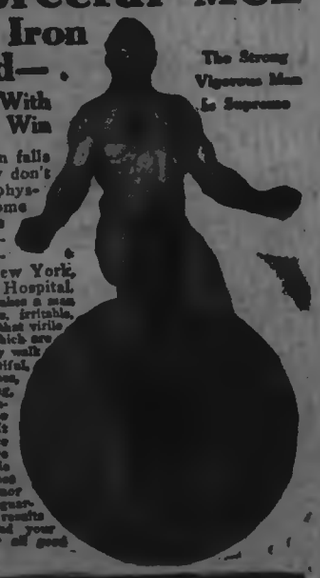
Strong, Forceful Men
With Plenty of Iron In Their Blood—.
These Are The Ones With The Power and Energy To Win



"Many a capable man or woman falls just short of winning because they don't back up their mentality with the physical strength and energy which come from having plenty of iron in the blood," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and fretible. To help make strong, lusty, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron." It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

NUXATED IRON

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

His face remained grim and set until he was deep in the woods, and then it relaxed to a wave of fury and disgust, finally settled into an expression of profound despair. He was but thirty-two, and the prizes of life were for such as he, and a week later he would either be in Sing Sing or bound without hope to a woman for whom his brief sentimental passion was dust.

It was not execution he feared, for any clever lawyer could persuade a jury into a certain degree of leniency, but long years in prison for the sake of a dead ideal. In spite of his hard common sense and severely practical life he would almost have welcomed the exaltation of soul which must accompany a great sacrifice impelled by perfect love. But to turn one's back on life for ever and walk deliberately into a dungeon, change one's name for a number and become a thing, for the sake of barren honour, to drag out his years with a dead soul, to despise himself for a fool, too id and too tired to console himself with a memory of a duty well done,—he felt such a sudden disgust for life and for all that ill-regulated product, human nature, that he struck a heavy blow at a tree and brought a shower of snow about his head.

If he could but have continued to love the woman and accept the grim and bitter fate with joy in his soul! And if only that were the worst! If he could turn his back on life with no regret save for its lost opportunities for power and fame.

He paused in his irregular walk and pushed his cap up from his ear. He half swung on his heel; then, his face settling into its familiar lines, he walked slowly toward a faint crackling that had arrested his attention.

He came presently upon the glade Alys Crumley had painted in its summer mood; the little picture hung facing his bed. The scene was white today; all the lovely shades of green and gold had been rubbed out and replaced with the bright sparkle of snow, and the brook was frozen. But although Rush loved the winter woods and responded to their white appeal as keenly as to their yearly renewal of verdant youth and gorgeous maturity, they left him quite unmoved at this moment. Alys Crumley, as he had half exected, stood in the little dell.

Her face was more like old ivory than ever against the dazzling whiteness of the snow and under her low fur turban. It looked both pinched and nervous, but she kept her hands in her muff. Nor did Rush remove his from his pockets, although his determination not to betray himself was subconscious. At the moment, his mind, conquering a tendency to race, informed itself merely that even in heavy winter clothes, with but a deep pink rose in her stole for colour, she managed to look dainty and alluring. It recalled visions of her on summer nights clad in the soft transparencies of lawn, with ribbons somewhere that always brought out the strange olive tints of her eyes and hair. . . .

"I followed you," she said.

"Did you?"

"When I saw you pass in the trolley, I guessed. The Gifnings had invited me to go out to the Club with them. I asked them to put me down at a path near here."

He made no reply but continued to stare at her, recalling other pictures,—in the studio, in the green living-room,—marvelling at her endless variety, and not only of effect. Yet she was always the same, surcharged with the magnetism of youth and young womanhood.

"I—that is—I had made up my mind I must have a talk with you about certain things. You said you might go out to the Club to-day for an hour or two of hand-ball, and I had hoped to induce you to come home with me for supper. But Jack Battle told me that you had telephoned off—and when I saw you in the trolley, and caught a glimpse of your face, I guessed—"

"Yes?"

"You make it rather hard."

"What does it all matter? You are here, and I am glad that you are."

"Are you? But you intended to avoid me today!"

"I never intended to see you alone again if I could help it."

"I guessed that too. I met Polly Cummack this morning, and she told me she spent last evening at the jail and Mrs. Balfame confided to her that she had just definitely promised to marry you.....that you had proposed to her on the day of her arrest, and although you had faithfully obeyed her orders and not alluded to the subject since she had thought it only kind to put you out of suspense yesterday. She naively added that the subject had not interested her when you first brought it up; but that you had been so wonderful and devoted since.....She means to settle quietly in New York, instead of travelling, so that she can be quite near you, and she will marry you as soon as the case has been forgotten by the public. Of course, Polly could not keep anything so interesting, and no doubt it is all over town by now."

Alys spoke steadily, with a faint ironic inflection, and she held her head very high. But her face grew more pinched, and the delicate pink of her lips faded.

"Yes?" He had turned as white as chalk, but there was neither dismay nor sarcasm in the hard stare of his eyes. His lips were folded so close that the word barely escaped.

"I am going to say everything I have to say, if you never speak to me again. I feel as if I were standing on the point of a high rock and every side led sheer down into an abyss. It doesn't matter in the least down which side I fall. There is a certain satisfaction in that. But you shall listen."

"There is nothing you cannot say to me."

And you'll not run away."

"Oh, no, I'll not run away! I shall never see you again if I can help it, but now that you are here I shall look at you and listen to the sound of your voice."

"And to what I have to say. You hate Mrs. Balfame. You are bored to death with her. You are appalled. You have found her out for what she is. You are too honourable to desert a woman who will always be under a cloud, even if you had it in you to break your word; and because you have a twisted romantic notion about being true to an old if mistaken ideal—one of a set that has flourished like hardy, old-fashioned annuals under the dry soil of hustle and ambition and devotion to your profession. You had fallen in love—or thought you had, which amount to the same thing for the moment—after so many years of dry spiritual celibacy, and it had been a wonderful revelation—and an inner revolution that made you immensely interested in yourself for the first time. You were exalted; you lived for several months at a pitch above the normal automatically registering other impressions but only half cognisant of them. And now—you feel that to the love born in delusion and slain by truth you owe the greatest sacrifice a man can make."

He had stared at the ground during the first part of her speech, and then raised his eyes sharply, his glance changing to amazement and a flush mounting to his hair.

"Oh!" he exclaimed. But he would make no other answer, and once more he dropped his glance to the snow.

"Are you going to marry her?"

"If she is acquitted."

"And if not?" Her voice broke out of its even register.

He made an abrupt movement, and she cried out:

"I knew! I knew! Polly told me—Sam tells her everything. He suspects you. He knows that Broderick does. But you don't intend to wait for his denunciation. Mrs. Balfame told that to Polly too. You intend to say you did it. She said she wouldn't let you—oh, wouldn't she!—but you had told her that you would make up a plausible story and stick to it. And I know that you can't prove an alibi. Tell me," she came closer and her voice was almost threatening,—"do you really intend to take that crime on your shoulders if she is convicted."

"Yes."

"Oh! Oh! Men will be sentimental fools until—well, so long as they are born of fools and women. We are made all wrong! She threw herself on the ground and beat her hands together. Her eyes were blazing. There was a curious red glow in their olive depths. "Well, listen to me: You are not going to do this thing, although I really believe you'd like to do it as a sort of penance. She could not prevent such a monstrous sacrifice if she would, but I can. Just bear that in mind. If you come forward with any such insane proposition, I will make a fool of you before all the world. If Mrs. Balfame is acquitted, well and good; but if she is not, then I'll betray a confidence and run the risk of killing some one myself—but I'll get the truth. Just remember that, and keep off the witness-stand."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I know where to get the truth."

"You mean that Dr. Angas thinks Mrs. Balfame did it—that Mrs. Balfame confessed to her and that you can make the poor woman betray her friend while she is still too weak to resist. Well, you are all wrong. I know that Mrs. Balfame did not kill Balfame. If you want the reason for my knowledge,—and I know I can trust you,—Mrs. Balfame was out that night, and she did take a revolver and use it. I found it in the house on the night following her arrest. It was a thirty-eight. There was one bullet missing. It was found in the tree. Balfame was killed by a forty-one. She did not go out to shoot Balfame, but because she went off accidentally—and she is the best shot out at the Club. But you will readily understand by reasons for suppressing these facts."

Alys had turned her profile and was staring at a tree whose limbs creaked now and again with their weight of snow, sending down a powdery shower. Her thick short lashes were almost together before a gleaming line of olive.

"Oh!: Who was her confederate?"

"She hasn't the least idea as to the identity of the person beside her. It was dark, and she was too much excited. Naturally, she would be very glad to know."

Oh! Such Pain! dizzy—dragged-down? With dull headache, backache,—racking with pain here or there — poor woman, she's one of many. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed, she must still be at the desk or counter, or struggle through the day as best she may with her housework or her family cares. Usually she who feels those dragging-down or dizzy symptoms, and other pains caused by womanly disease, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains. Faded, jaded, tired, overworked, weak, nervous, delicate women are helped to strength and health by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. For Better Preserves use Better Sugar

So many women imagine that "Sugar is Sugar," but we who make sugar, and the grocer who sells it—know otherwise.

There is one brand of sugar that gives you certainty of success in your preserving. To find out how good sugar CAN be, try a 20-pound bag of this better sugar—

DOMINION CRYSTAL SUGAR

Try it this summer for your preserves. It will add richness of flavor to any canned fruit. Dissolving quickly, it releases all its concentrated sweetness; enriches the acid flavor of such fruits as strawberries, raspberries, apples, grapes and currants.

This is the only sugar that may be rightly termed "Canadian from the ground up." We do import the finest of raw cane sugar and refine it—but our pride is in the product we make from Canadian Sugar beets.

A sugar that will give unfailing satisfaction in preserving, in baking, and for table use.

Write us for a copy of our interesting booklet: "Sugar from Beet to Bowl." It is free to any housewife who asks for it.

First Detachable Collars.

This year is the centenary of the collar, considered as a separate and distinct article of wearing apparel.

Up till 1819 collars were made all in one piece with the shirts to which they belonged. In that year the wife of a blacksmith living in Troy, in the state of New York, grew tired of too frequently washing her husband's shirts, due to the fact that the collars "showed the dirt" so quickly and she hit upon the expedient of making a set of detachable collars.

The idea was seized upon by a male resident of Troy, a man named Ebenezer Brown, who thought he saw money in it.

It was not, however, until ten years later, in 1829, that he started in business as the first manufacturer of detachable collars. His wife and daughter made the collars, which were of the standup kind, and were fastened round the neck with strings. Brown peddled them about.—Answers, London.

Storm Stops Hanging.

An eighteenth century execution on Kensington common was stopped for a time owing to a strange cause. On August 19, 1763, two days before the date of the execution, a heavy fog came over London, accompanied by thunder and lightning and torrents of rain.

These conditions lasted for nearly 48 hours, and many people believed that the last day had arrived. When the time fixed for the execution arrived the assembled crowd cried shame on the sheriff for hanging a man when the world was coming to an end.

As he persisted in his preparations, they burst through the barriers and stopped the proceedings, shouting that the culprit might as well wait a few minutes, when the grand summons would come for all.

The sheriff had to obtain the assistance of a force of soldiers before the execution could be carried out.—London Chronicle.

YOUTH WINS THE V.C.

MERE BOY TAKES RANK WITH WAR HEROES.

Sergt. Tommy Holmes Reputed to Be Youngest Soldier Wearing the Victoria Cross In This Country—Late Capt. Doble Wrote Thrilling Account of Exploit of Owen Sound Soldier at Passchendaele.

NOT only is Sergt. Tommy Holmes, the idol of the 4th Mounted Rifles, reputedly the youngest winner of the Victoria Cross in Canada and one of the four youngest in the Empire, but he is also the only one of the famous regiment to possess the highest honor in the power of the sovereign to bestow upon either soldier or sailor. Sergt. Holmes, a private when he won the distinction that placed him in the forefront of Britain's heroes, was the second Owen Sound boy to be so honored—Col W. A. Bishop, the famous aviator, being the first—and by comrades who witnessed the deed it is generally admitted that no more daring exploit was performed on the western front, the claim even being made that his achievement paled into comparative insignificance that which brought fame to the intrepid Mike O'Leary in the first days of the war.

The story of Sergt. Holmes' exploit, by which, it is said, at least three hundred casualties were averted, was told by Capt. J. M. Doble, a member of the staff of the Owen Sound Sun, who was an eye-witness of the occurrence and who has since given his life for the cause, as follows:

"The heroic deeds of the mighty men of old, the stories of which have been handed down to us from time immemorial, do not bring us anything more thrilling than the story of the capture of Passchendaele Ridge by the Canadians in October last. Divisions of Imperial Infantry, Australians and New Zealanders, under fairly favorable weather conditions, had tried and failed. The Canadians tried it and won, but it cost them such men as Jaff. Eaton, Jack Campbell, George Ewens and many others I could mention. Contending against fearful odds—indescribable weather conditions and the most awful instruments of warfare that the mind of the modern man can devise—the lads from our homeland performed deeds of valor that rival the greatest exploits of the heroes of history.

"Outstanding among these was the feat of the young Owen Sound hero—an act of daring, boldness and self-sacrifice which saved the lives of many of his comrades and brought distinction and honor to himself and his regiment, to the Canadian Corps and to good old Canada.

"The morning of the attack the first 'wave,' consisting of two companies of the battalion, had gone forward, had captured their first objective and were consolidating in the captured position. While they were still making their position secure the second 'wave' went through them, moving up the slope to the second objective, which was the crest of the ridge. This wave included A company, in which was Tommy Holmes. Ploughing through the mud and water, plunging from shell hole to shell hole, advancing ever onward swept by a relentless fire from rifle and machine gun, they went forward, but that death-dealing hail of bullets was taking an awful toll. Finally, in order to save themselves from what seemingly was going to be complete annihilation they were forced to take cover in convenient shell holes. Unceasingly the enemy fire raked the ground where they were and over which they had to pass in order to reach the position that had been assigned to them to take.

"It was during this halt that Holmes noticed that the fire which was holding up the company, came from a concrete "pill-box" fort on their right flank. Inside the pill-box the Hun snipers and sharpshooters were keeping up a steady fire from the loopholes, while just beside the "pill-box" two machine-gun crews with their guns, had taken up a position and it was quite apparent that it was the fire from these guns that had temporarily checked A company's advance.

Armed with a Mills bomb and without waiting for an order from anyone, his comrades crouching in the shell holes saw Holmes rush forward through the hail of bullets, and spring into a shell hole some yards ahead of the company. A moment later he appeared and once more rushed again and again he disappeared. He did this several times, each little spurt bringing him closer to the Hun machine guns. The sight of the lad's slight figure making straight for the guns, held the men behind who were watching him, spell bound. "He'll be killed, sure," thought they. "For he cannot possibly get through that terrific fire." Every time he showed himself, the fire grew more intense and the bullets spattered around him and tore up the mud and dirt, but apparently he bore a charmed life.

As Holmes got nearer to the guns, he noticed that occasionally there was a lull of a few seconds in the firing of one or the other of the guns and he knew that each pause indicated that the crews were changing the belts, in other words, reloading their guns. Then suddenly, there came a moment when both guns were reloading at the same instant! It was his opportunity and quick as a flash before the Hun machine gunners could get their guns working, he rushed forward to within about fifteen yards of them, just in time to take cover in a shell hole before the hail of bullets from both guns opened on him again. But he was within bombing distance now, and pulling the pin of the grenade he carried, he hurled it with unerring accuracy into the midst of the Hun machine gunners, then crouching and waited. He had not long to wait. "Ping!" sang the bomb, at the same instant the firing from both guns ceased and the groans and shrieks of the wounded and dying Huns, told of the havoc the bomb had wrought.

"But there was still work to be done for the pill box remained full of Hun riflemen. Without hesitating a moment and again risking his life, back Holmes went towards his company, some of whom were beginning to advance again, from the foremost of his comrades, he secured another bomb, then turned around and ran straight for the pill-box. Through the entrance at the rear he threw the bomb, there was another explosion and those of the Hun garrison that survived — nineteen in number—came out with their hands up terrified, shouting "Mercy, Kamarad" and surrendered to their youthful captor; who was standing outside the pill-box, all alone.

"By this time the company was coming forward, for the Hun resistance in that particular place had been overcome and that part of the ridge was in the hands of the Canadians—thanks to the heroism of the young Owen Sounder. Through the remainder of the attack he carried on in the same gallant manner and when it was over and his recommendation for a decoration was sent in, there was not a more popular award in the battalion, for those who saw what he did unanimously said he deserved the honor a hundred times over."

The Modern Child.

The lawyer was sitting at his desk, absorbed in the preparation of a brief. So intent was he on his work that he did not hear the door as it was pushed gently open, nor see the curly head that was thrust into his office. A little sob attracted his notice, and, turning, he saw a face that was streaked with tears and told plainly that feelings had been hurt. "Well, my little man, did you want to see me?" "Are you a lawyer?" "Yes. What do you want?" "I want" —and there was a resolute ring in his voice—"I want a divorce from my papa and mamma."

New Burlap Substitute.

Manufacturers engaged on government contracts are being offered a substitute for burlap by a large Massachusetts mill which has discovered a material that can successfully be used for baling. Instead of 100 per cent jute, the substitute is made of one strand of Swedish pulp paper and two strands of jute. It is made nine and 12 ounces in weight and 30, 40, and 48 inches deep. A government test of the nine-ounce product shows a tensile strength of 119 pounds, as against 90 pounds for regular eight-ounce burlap. —New Bedford Standard.

SOME OLD-TIME BIG CATTLE

One English Ox, History Shows, Weighed 3,700 Pounds, Another 4,240 Pounds.

With all the modern improvement in breeds of live stock it may be doubted whether there is living today a steer or ox equal in size to some of the fat cattle of olden times.

In 1245 there was disposed of by raffle at Pratt's Old London inn, in Taunton, England, a giant ox of the Devon breed that stood 19 hands high and weighed 3,700 pounds. But this one was not up it with the Durham ox which earned a modest fortune for its owner, John Day, and brought the now famous Shorthorn cattle into high repute a little more than a century ago. A writer in the Mark Lane Express described this extraordinary animal as having weighed when two years old 2,530 pounds, and when slaughtered at eight years old his carcass dressed 2,478 pounds, while his live weight at that time was stated to have been 4,240 pounds. He girthed 11 feet 1 inch just behind the shoulders. His owner exhibited him six years through England and Scotland, having a van for his conveyance about the country. It was in 1807 that Day's ox dislocated his hip and had to be killed.

Favorite, the sire of this bovine wonder, was made famous by the prodigious size and remarkably fine form of the steer. When Charles Colling of Darlington, who is regarded as the founder of the Shorthorn breed, sold all his cattle at auction in 1810, Comet, a six-year-old bull by Favorite, brought $5,000, and six cows by him, some of them eleven years old, made an average of $725, which was unheard of in those days and for many years afterward.

An Army of Occupation.

Both the Allied Army of Occupation and the German people are anxious to know just how long the khaki-clad visitors are to remain. Since no intimation comes from those in authority both of them might recall that one Julius Caesar drove the Teutons out of Flanders, in fact he mentions a victory at Mont Auxois. He, too, followed them right up to the Rhine, built a bridge in ten days, crossed over and took possession of the valley on the "right bank," spread out his legions to police the "treacherous inhabitants." That was in 50 B.C., and the Roman army remained 400 years. All that time flotillas of galleys were cruising up and down the Rhine. The army of occupation put the Germans to building bridges, aqueducts and castles under their direction, the ruins of these great works now can still be seen in the valley of the Moselle. The presence of the Romans was a blessing to the Germans, however, for they pursued a liberal policy toward them, after having collected a tribute of 40,000,000 sesterces or approximately $1,500,000 for their treachery, taught them to read, to take a bath and to shave.

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness, and falling hair who having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomforts. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and it also is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour, stopping hair from falling out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces, Layona de Compose 2 ounces, Menthol Crystals, one half drachm. If you wish it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favourite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this preparation should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.

THE SUPPLY OF BABIES.

What a Procession of Those Born in One Year Would Mean.

It has been computed that about 36,000,000 babies are born into the world each year. The rate of production is, therefore, about seventy per minute, or more than one for every beat of the clock.

With the one-a-second calculation every reader is familiar, but it is not every one who stops to calculate what this means when it comes to a year's supply. It will, therefore, probably startle a good many persons to find, on the authority of a well known statistician, that, could the infants of a year be ranged in a line in cradles, the cradles would extend around the globe.

The same writer looks at the matter in a more picturesque light. He imagines the babies being carried past a given point in their mothers' arms, one by one, and the procession being kept up night and day until the last hour in the twelfth month had passed by. A sufficiently liberal rate is allowed, but even in going past at the rate of twenty a minute, 1,200 an hour, during the entire year, the reviewer at this post would have seen only the sixth part of the infantile host.

In other words, the babe that had to be carried when the tramp began would be able to walk when but a mere fraction of its comrades had reached the reviewer's post, and when the year's supply of babies was drawing to a close there would be a rear guard, not of infants, but of romping six-year-old boys and girls.—London Tit-Bits.

The Rule of the Road.

A change in the rule of the road to bring British Columbia into line with the rest of the North American continent has been approved by the Provincial Legislature. In British Columbia, as in Great Britain, it is the custom to drive to the left. While the Legislature has approved the change being made it is the consensus of opinion that some adequate notice should be given before it becomes operative. Premier Oliver has suggested that legislation fixing the date for the introduction of the practice of driving to the right should be deferred until next session. In the meantime a committee is to be appointed to secure all facts as to what extent a change will affect certain interests now operating in the province, notably the street car company. This committee will be in a position to report to the Legislature prior to the introduction of the bill.

Four New States in Europe

ONE of the tasks of the Peace Conference which has commanded the greatest time and called for the wisest planning has been the erection in Europe of four new nations, and it is not yet completed. To draw the frontiers of even one nation might well occupy the attention of statesmen for weeks, and the difficulty of planning four of them is more than four times as great. Yet the task appears almost to have been done. This is rolling up the map of Europe indeed, and there are still more changes to come. Germany is to divide herself up in some manner not yet known. Austria-Hungary is likely to be further dismembered and there may be two or three republics finally emerge when the Bolshevik earthquake finally subsides in Russia. But these new formations are things that the Allies do not conceive to be their particular concern, unless it might be that they should forbid the uniting of Austria and Germany. They have felt concerned, however, to establish Poland, Roumania, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slavia.

To those who believe that the Allies have been wasting their time on highly idealistic problems in trying to set these four nations upon their feet it may be answered that the interest of the Allies is by no means altruistic. They are impelled if not by wholly selfish motives, at least by the practical consideration of self-defence. For instance, in the late war Germany and Austria were in control of a man-power estimated at 30,000,000, made up of subject races that were no more racially akin to Germany than are the French. These millions were Poles, Czechs and Slavs who had been ruthlessly misgoverned by Germany and Austria for generations. When the opportunity occurred these forced soldiers surrendered in great numbers to their nominal enemies, who were their racial kin, as for instance when the Czecho-Slavs threw down their arms to the Russians and later volunteered for service against Germany in France. The Allies are determined that it shall be taken out of the power of Germany and Austria for all time to come to employ these millions as cannon fodder. The intention is to attach them permanently if informally, to the Allies. They will be the buffer between Germany and Western and Southern Europe.

Poland is re-established as a buffer state between the militarism of Germany and the anarchy of Russia. Poland has a couple of sweet neighbors. As all the world knows, the Poles have never lost their race identity whether under German, Russian or Austrian domination. They formed a solid block of about 20,000,000 people in the heart of Europe. But when the tank came of drawing up the new Polish frontier a grave problem was encountered, and that was the presence of a tier of German nationality along the Baltic. These two and a half millions are the most German of Germans. They, shut off the new state of Poland from a sea outlet on the Baltic and Poland without a sea coast would be in economic slavery to Germany. On the other hand, one of the Wilson fourteen points seemed to forbid the annexation of so great a number of aliens as the Baltic Germans by the Poles. At one time the suggestion was made that Poland should be given a corridor through Germany to the Baltic. The objection to this course was that it would force on Poland two boundary lines that she could not defend against Germany. So now it appears to have been decided that the Baltic Germans will have to become citizens of the Polish state or move out. Poland is to get her Baltic coast and Danzig.

Immediately to the south of Poland forming a barrier between Germany, on the one hand, and Austria and Hungary on the other, is Czecho Slavia. It is composed of Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia and a part of Hungary, with a total population of 12,-850,000, and an area of 43,500 square miles. Here, as with Poland, there was a problem occasioned by the German population along the frontiers, and here again it was determined that in order that Czecho-Slavia should have natural boundaries, these aliens would have to be included. The re-establishing of Roumania was not difficult, since Roumania already existed, and the only task was to define her new frontiers. These had already been indicated by the fact that adjoining Roumania in both Russia and Austria, were large numbers of Roumanians by racial origin. The original Roumania had an area of 53,000 square miles and a population of 7,500,000. Under the new settlement her population and her area will be practically doubled by the addition of Bessarabia, Transylvania, Bukovina and part of Banat.

The greatest problem of the map-makers and negotiators was in the question of Jugo-Slavia, which is to include Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia-Slavonia, Carniola and Dalmatia. The population is homogeneous enough despite the formidable array of names, and is made up of the three branches of the Southern Slav family, namely the Slovenes, the Croats and the Serbs. The difficulty was that while most of the frontiers of the new state were natural and easily determined, Jugo-Slavian and Italian interests and nationalities conflicted in Dalmatia and about Fiume and Trieste. These were accentuated by the fact that when Italy entered the war she was guaranteed by Britain and France the Slav hinterland of Trieste, then Austrian, but now desired by Jugo-Slavia of which our staunch ally, Serbia, is the controlling partner. At one time this clash threatened to be serious, but it is believed to have been amicably settled, Italy giving up all or most of her Dalmatian claims in return for Fiume, which is wholly Italian.

Lots of men try to imagine they have poor health when the only thing the matter with them is laziness.

Shock Left Her Weak and Nerves COULD NOT SLEEP

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened, the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Bunyan, Pilot Butte, Sask., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak, and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over.

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept on until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Change of Boarding Places

By S. R. MACKLEY

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Let's go past Miss Cecil's house for favver, why not?"

Ned Duncan, strolling along quiet, palm-bordered Mirvin street, in the cool dusk, made himself smile at the elf that dragged on his long fair hands, but he turned back before they reached the corner on which was the rented cottage of Cecilia Reeves, the woman he loved.

Cecilia, a young milliner who took four college-girl roomers to help out on her income, bent her yellow head lower over her heliotrope bed as she caught sight of his retreat. She had meant to give them some flowers when they passed. She knew he loved the heliotrope. Had she offended him? she wondered.

While she puzzled, with a hurt heart, Driscoll was saying to himself: "I must keep away—I must not see her any more. The woman I marry must love my child—she must love my little Babs!"

In the fourth year of Barbara's life with him, the baby with the roguish black eyes had come to them. Then the next year Barbara died, and the baby, an active, whimsical, lovable thing, had tumbled up somehow, under his widowed cousin's somewhat grumpy housekeeping and nursing.

Then the old cousin had remarried, and he had shut up the bungalow with its crown of purple blossom-covered bougainvillea, and he and the child had boarded since then, somewhat to Babs' disadvantage, he thought sometimes. Thought had fallen in love with Cecilia Reeves. He had thought she was the "mother kind" of girl (Babs loved her) until lately. Since the evening before, he was certain she was not. Then he had decided he couldn't ask her to marry him. Not that he was certain she would marry him if he did ask her, but he couldn't, anyway.

His landlady of the last month had been Miss Hoover's friend until Driscoll and little Barbara came to her boarding house, and it occurred to her that her quiet boarder, who had something to do with the management of the city waterworks system, would be an ideal second husband. Then after the evening Cecilia came to take dinner with her and her "prize boarder" walked home with her, Mrs. Akers was no longer Cecil's friend.

somehow in the last week she had made the impression on Driscoll that Cecil didn't like children. He had come home a little earlier than usual the evening before, and started to the kitchen.

"I wonder Ned keeps that child since his wife died and he has no one to care for her," he heard Cecil's soft clear voice. "I am going to try to persuade him to let me find a place for her in a home!"

Driscoll felt as though something had struck him. He turned and went upstairs. She—she didn't want him to keep little Babs—she cared so little for his baby she would persuade him to send her to a home!

The child dropped the doll Mrs. Akers had bought her that day and sprang into his arms. He kissed the eager little face over and over.

"Oh, Cecil—girl—did you think that you could persuade me to do a conscienceless thing like that?" He thought as Babs ran downstairs to tell Mrs. Akers "favver" had come.

Mrs. Akers was already aware of the fact. She had heard his step in the back hall; she knew he had heard Cecil's last remark.

"Was Miss Reeves here just now when I came in?" Driscoll asked at dinner. "I thought I heard her voice."

Mrs. Akers' red lips flashed a smile. "Oh, you eavesdropper! I hope we weren't saying anything bad. Oh, yes, we—Cecil was saying something about Babs, wasn't she?"

As Driscoll lifted the child to her chair Mrs. Akers, noting his set lips, felt that she had scored. Who was to tell him that Cecilia had been speaking of old Ned Mount, a destitute cripple who persisted in keeping his tiny orphaned grandchild in dirt and squalor? Not she!

That evening when the little girl asked Driscoll get out that other Barbara's picture, a thing he did not often do—much as he had loved her—since he had come to love Cecilia.

"The house of the heart has many chambers, Barbara, dear," he said to the picture, "and I wanted to put that other girl in the one alongside the one in which you stay, but oh, Barbara—Barbara—I love her! But she doesn't love the child—I daren't ask her to come, Barbara!"

The evening after she saw Driscoll turn away from her gate, Cecilia went to the theater with Lucien Glover, a faithful admirer whom she particularly detested, and sat near Driscoll.

Driscoll, moody and unhappy, pretended interest in the play, but he had but one thought. Glover had no right to buy her her favorite Richmond roses—he himself had done that so long!

Two weeks later came the day of the annual rose carnival. Little Babs, with with excitement, went to see the parade in the arms of Miss Ashley, her teacher. Driscoll, engrossed in the conversation of a gossipy friend, gave the restless child but scant attention.

Seeing Cecil seated above her, the little girl climbed to her and [illegible]

"My baby! My baby! Where are you?" Then she saw the child—her light dress blazing. Somebody had dropped a piece of burning paper. A mist swam before Cecil's eyes, but she shook it away and flung her fur wooden cape around the child.

"It's all out—the little girl isn't hurt!" she heard somebody saying. Then everything grew dark before her.

That evening Cecil, waited on like a queen, by her four college girls, [illegible] trembled a little when the doorbell rang.

"If it's that Lucien Glover," she told them, "tell him I'm asleep, anything—only send him away."

But it was Driscoll that came in. He started to take her hands, but seeing the bandages, turned very white.

Cecil smiled tremulously in his troubled face. "Don't feel bad," she told him, "my hands are only blistered a trifle. The doctor says they'll be healed in just a little while. How is my—how is Babs?"

"I left her asleep," he answered, "She isn't hurt at all. She begged me to bring her to you."

"I suppose," she held up her head, "you told her I didn't like little girls! What have you heard me say, Ned Driscoll, to make you think me that kind of woman?"

He colored hotly, but he told her, and of Mrs. Akers' subsequent remark. With flaming face Cecil explained.

"I'm ashamed," he said presently, standing before her, full of contrition. "Oh, Cecil, I'm ashamed to tell you what is in my heart! Forgive me. I never—"

Her eyes twinkled. "I think you need a change of boarding place!"

"No," he said, "I need to be in my own home with the girl of my heart; but first I think what you must have thought of me these unhappy two weeks, I'm afraid—"

"What's two weeks?" She leaned toward him. "Oh, Ned, what's two weeks out of a lifetime?"

Then very carefully, so as not to [illegible] bandaged hands, he slipped her [illegible] in his arms.

A Bold Defence.

"An enlisted man once put the president of a court martial in a different position," says a writer in an English magazine. "The court martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence—and it took an unusually long time—had been given, the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defence.

"Well, sir," said the man, 'I can't see how this 'ere court can sentence me, for Major Jones 'as been reading a paper under the table the 'ole blessed time, and Captain Smith 'as been making me into a caricature on the blotting pad, and as for Lieutenant Brown, 'e 'asn't 'ad the consideration a year and don't count anyways!"

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backache or Bladder bothers—Most forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regulate kidneys should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Sand Hills of Bergen.

Bergen is so called doubtless from the sand hills which at this point of the coast of Holland are sometimes very spiteful and give the name of "Little Switzerland" to the neighborhood. These dunes are the scene of very interesting experiments in dr planting with a view to keeping them stationary and preserving the cultivable land behind them from sand drift. This slow afforestation at Bergen, on which some thousands of pounds are spent annually, was initiated by a very remarkable private association, the Netherlands Health society, which, starting in a quiet way twenty-five years ago now employs from its headquarters in Utrecht an army of workers and tops over some 680,000 annually in its improvements.—London Standard.

ORIGIN OF "OLIVER TWIST."

Dickens Got His Principal Characters From Cruikshank.

The true story of the origin of "Oliver Twist" is not generally known. It is this:

After the amazing success of the "Pickwick Papers" Dickens was thinking of following it up by a story of London life, with which he was more familiar than with English country life. Just about that time he happened to visit the studio of George Cruikshank and was shown some drawings the latter had made illustrating the career of a London thief. There was a sketch of Fagin's den, with the Artful Dodger and Master Charley Bates, pictures of Bill Sikes and his dog and Nancy Sikes and, lastly, Fagin in the condemned cell.

Dickens was much struck by the power of these character sketches, and the result was that he changed the whole plot of "Oliver Twist." Instead of taking him through spiritless adventures in the country he introduced him into the thieves' den in London, showed up their life of sin, but brought his hero through pure and undefiled.

Thus it will be seen that George Cruikshank, not Charles Dickens, was the originator of the leading characters that appear in "Oliver Twist."—London Saturday Review.

UNREST IN CHINA.

Only Small Section of People Affected by Revolutions.

Amongst the many interesting points brought out by Mr. Liang Chi-Chao, one of the Chinese envoys to the Peace Conference, in a recent interview was that relating to the exaggerated notion entertained by most people as to the extent and significance of what in the newspapers finds description as "unrest in China." "China is so vast," Mr. Liang says, "that most people seem to forget that, even in the internal troubles we have been experiencing, only a relatively small portion of the country is actively involved."

The point is an important one to the just understanding of the Chinese question. China, with an area considerably larger than that of Europe, and a population considerably greater, has, almost always, found its way into the world's news through the action of very small minorities of its population and very small sections of its territory. "China does this" and "China does that" has been accepted by the West, to which China is ever something of an enigma, as the just summing up of the most sectional actions and conditions, whereas the probabilities are that in the vast interior of China, where the people, from time immemorial have, for the most part, managed their own affairs in a peculiarly Chinese, but peculiarly effective way, these actions have not been so much as heard of, whilst the conditions portrayed certainly do not obtain generally. Thus, just before the war, when China stood out prominently as presenting one of the world's biggest problems, it was said by one well-known authority that although the republic was some six years old, there were still hundreds of thousands of people in China who had no idea that it existed, but were living in the utmost assurance that the Son of Heaven was still reigning as ever in Pekin.

The point is specially important because Mr. Liang's whole plea is for the investment of capital in China, and Mr. Liang is well aware that the outlook in China, as it is so largely presented in the West to-day, offers little inducement to the investor. The conditions are, however, Mr. Liang maintains, nothing like as bad as they are painted. As already noted, he insists that the portion of the country involved in the disturbed conditions which have prevailed for so long a time is relatively small, whilst he is firmly of opinion that complete tranquility will very soon be re-established. At the same time it should not be forgotten, he says, that even at the present day commercial exploitation is safe and profitable in most parts of China.

Now, whilst it may not be possible with the comparatively limited news, still all that is available from the Far East, to pass judgement on this last statement, it is possible to draw attention, once again, to the well-known business honesty of the Chinese. Where business is concerned, a Chinaman's word is his bond, and this national characteristic ought to render peculiarly possible that system of development specially advocated by Mr. Liang, namely, co-operation between the Chinese and the foreign investor.

Sky Aprons.

Owing to censorship, details of the invention of the wire sky aprons used so extensively in aerial defence during the latter months of the war were not available. However, we are now informed in Popular Mechanics of the methods employed in this system, which, by the way, is a British invention:

"Balloons were sent up in groups of three or more to different elevations. The apron of wires they supported might be likened to certain Japanese beaded portieres, except, of course, that the individual strands were spaced several yards apart and weighted with plumb bobs.

"One of the most beneficial effects of the scheme was its pronounced influence on the morale of German airmen, who knew not where they might encounter the menacing wires. Striking one of them while flying at high speed might have serious consequences. It might cripple one of the controls, wrap around the propeller, saw through a spar, or, if it happened to be one of the main anchor cables, shear off a wing. The aprons are said to have spelled the doom of a number of night bombers and to have caused others to make forced landings.

"In guarding London, the atmosphere was divided into three defence strata. Between the ground and a certain elevation the aprons gave protection. The artillery barrage formed a curtain of deadliness across the middle area. Above that were the night duty fighting 'planes of the Royal Flying Corps, waiting the chance to attack."

SELF-IGNITING SUBSTANCE.

Minerals Used in the Making of Phosphorus.

Things that set themselves on fire have a certain picturesque interest.

For instance, there is phosphorus, which, as we all know, will do that. Do you know how it is obtained?

It is derived from phosphate of lime, which is heated to an enormously high temperature with silica in the electric furnace. As a result, the phosphorus is set free in the form of a vapor, which is caught and condensed.

Phosphorus has found new uses during the war, most notably for the concealment of ships seeking safety by flight from submarines. Vaporised from contrivances resembling in miniature a steamer's ventilators, on deck, it spreads a whitish cloud, mist-like and impenetrable to vision.

Phosphorus has to be kept in water to prevent it from taking fire of its own accord. But there are three other elements — lithium, sodium and potassium—that are actually set on fire by contact with water.

There are unlimited supplies of lithium in South Dakota, where are found great deposits of spodumene, which is a silicate of aluminum and lithium. This spodumene affords the biggest of known crystals, a single one having been taken out that weighed twenty-nine tons. It was forty feet long, six feet wide and two feet thick!

The spodumene is white and very pure. It is largely used in the manufacture of lithium salts, which find wide medicinal employment. When crystals of this mineral happen to be pink or purple they furnish valuable gem-stones. The beautiful kunzite, pinkish in color, with somewhat of the lustre of the diamond, is one kind. Hiddenite, which rivals the emerald, is green spodumene.

Potassium may be obtained from any potash salts by electrolysis. It has (like lithium) no known usefulness in a pure state, being a mere curiosity of the laboratory.

Sodium is derived by the same means from common salt—which is chloride of sodium. It is used to reduce metals that are hard to separate from the oxygen with which they are found combined. Thus, for example, the only known way to get titnium is to put sodium together with titanium oxide and heat them in a "bomb." At red heat the sodium combines with the oxygen, leaving the titanium by its lonesome self.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off At Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercolized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discoloured scarf-skin to flake off in a minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—likewise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no paint, powder or cream can produce. Mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size package, is applied like cold cream and allowed to remain on over night.

The Nobel Fund.

Alfred B Nobel, a Swedish chemist and physicist, left his fortune of $9,200,000 to found a prize fund, the annual interest of which was to be divided into five equal parts (each amounting to about $40,000, the sum available), to be distributed every year to the persons who, during the year, had done best in (1) physical science; (2) chemistry; (3) psysiology or medicine; (4) idealistic literature; and (5) the advancement of universal peace.

Diamond Cutting.

Diamond cutting is a work which requires great skill and indomitable patience on the part of the workman, and his training is long and severe, for, despite the machinery which is used, much depends upon the deftness of the workman. He must be able to tell from an examination of the rough stone what is the proper treatment with regard to its shape and the number of its facets. An inferior workman can ruin considerable material in short order.

Run-Down People Vinol is What You Need

Weak, run-down nervous men and women need Vinol because it contains the most famous reconstructive tonics in an agreeable and easily digested form:—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates.

We guarantee there is no tonic equal to Vinol.

Detroit, Mich.

"I got into a weak, run-down condition, no appetite, tired all the time and headaches—but had to keep around and do my housework. I read about Vinol and tried it—within two weeks I commenced to improve, and now have a splendid appetite and feel stronger and better in every way."—Mrs. John F. Watson.

Texarkana, Texas.

"I keep house and I was weak, run-down and nervous, back ached a good deal of the time, so it was hard to take care of my chickens and do my work—Vinol has restored my strength, and my nervousness has gone, so can do my work as well as ever. Every run-down woman should take Vinol."—Mrs. Emma Britt.

"JUST WHAT I NEEDED," SAYS J. A. McKEITH

HAS IMPROVED WONDERFULLY EVER SINCE HE BEGAN TAKING TANLAC.

"Tanlac proved to be just what I had been needing for the past five years," said Jas. A. McKeigh, of 1999 Davenport Road, Weston, Near Toronto, Ont.

"Everything I would eat," he continued, "seemed to lodge right in the pit of my stomach and I suffered terribly with indigestion and I felt bloated with gas for three or four hours after every meal. I would just drag myself off to work without eating a bite of breakfast and tried all sorts of medicines without getting any better.

"I have been improving ever since I began taking Tanlac. The indigestion has about left me, and I can eat with more satisfaction than I could before in a long time. Indigestion and gas on my stomach don't bother me now at all and from the way Tanlac has fixed me up I am glad to recommend it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

OUR OWN TOBACCO.

Something About the Outlook of the Industry in Dominion.

The hour has struck for the domestic tobacco industry to assert itself and take a strong position, in Canada at last.

As far as Southern Ontario is concerned there is no doubt that even if the acreage devoted to the production of flue tobacco is much increased it will take many years before the tobacco growers can meet the demand for that type of tobacco. The area of soils especially adapted to that type of leaf is comparatively limited, and as the curing of that tobacco requires special attention it is only gradually that such development will take place.

However, there should be no doubt as to the future of the market, especially if we bear in mind that the demand for Canadian flue-cured tobacco has always been on the increase during the last three years. War conditions may account for this, but it should not be forgotten that the three last crops of flue tobacco have been produced under the most unfavorable weather conditions which have been experienced for years. In a normal season it will be possible to raise a much better type of leaf, as far as the color at least is concerned with probably a little better yield which will compensate for the return to normal trade conditions.

The White Burley crop, though a little larger in 1918 than it was in 1917 and 1916 has not yet reached its normal output.

There is, therefore, room for development in 1919, especially if one takes into account that a large Canadian concern has stepped into the field for the first time last year, and was one of the strongest bidders for White Burley. There is no reason why, if those manufacturers are satisfied with the experiment they have undertaken, they will not bid again for the 1919 crop and thus create an active competition.

It is impossible to foresee what will be the price offered for the Canadian Burley of the 1918 crop. Still, unless there is a considerable increase, which is doubtful owing to the fact that tobacco-growing cannot be developed as rapidly as other crops, as it requires curing barn accommodation and much extra labor, low prices can hardly be expected. The prospects for a large crop of White Burley cannot be better.

In Quebec the situation is not as clear. While the Quebec binders were sought for at 40 cents a pound early last fall it looks as if the Canadian packers were somewhat shy at present to pay even 20 cents a pound for the same grade of tobacco.

As to the possibilities of producing cigar-fillers in Canada, it is true that they have not yet been developed, but we should recognize that their future is not very distant. It would be well worth while if some of the Canadian manufacturers could investigate the possibilities of the Canadian Zimmer Spanish, for instance. So far most of the Canadian fillers offered to the Canadian trade come from the Comestock Spanish. We all know that this is not a real filler tobacco, but we also all know, at least those who have grown tobacco in the best districts of the Province of Quebec, that a first-class grade of filler can be produced in this country.

Objectors Are Released.

Most of the conscientious objectors to military service, who were sent to Portsmouth Penitentiary for terms of from two years to life imprisonment, have been liberated after serving but a few months of their sentences. There were 30 in all who claimed that they were really conscientious objectors and should never have been confined with moral delinquents, as they did not come within the category of criminals as that term is generally understood.

A Soldier First.

"If you don't join us we'll annihilate you." That, in effect, was what the Bolsheviats said to Col. John Ward, M.P., when, in October last, he marched his battalion into a Russian town. Col. Ward promptly arrested the leader, seated his men and guns, and by resolute action saved the battalion from being cut off.

Col. Ward says he would sooner command a battalion than accept a seat in the House of Lords.

HAIR AND VITALITY.

The One Acts, in a Measure, as an Index of the Other.

In the course of its continuous growth the hair records the rise of vitality as it rises and falls in the body. When a hair is held up to the light it may be seen to be smaller at some places than at others. There may be a space of one-eighth of an inch perhaps where the hair is so thin as to appear ready to break off.

Such spots indicate an appreciation of nourishment, a sleepless night or an attack of auto-intoxication. If the hair ceases the process entirely it is interfered with, and the roots of the hair, not being developed are not as strong as others are.

The hair grows until the weight is so great that it can no longer be sustained by the root, and it drops out. That is why hairs are of different lengths. Coarse hair, having strong roots, will grow long. When the vitality is low all over the body the roots are imperfectly developed and the hair is likely to fall out, as in cases of typhoid fever.

Dandruff is a parasitic disease, and the parasites get down around the root of the hair, which becomes diseased. That is another reason why the hair falls out.—Boston Herald.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE.

CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfect health."

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Grey, Faded Hair, Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Overstepped.

"Did some one chase you?" asked Willie's mother. "You're all out of breath."

"No—I'm not—ma," gasped the boy. "I've got—twice as much—bref as I can breave—that's all."

Many of Toronto Strikers Have Returned to Work

MARINE WORKERS WILL RETURN TO WORK TO-MORROW—NOTIFIED EMPLOYERS.

WILL NEGOTIATE

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 4.—Many of the workers who walked out on strike last Friday in sympathy with men of the metal trades, went back to their daily toil to-day. The Marine Federation and Shipbuilding men have notified their employers that they will return to work to-morrow under the old conditions, pending further negotiations in their local grievances. This morning the carpenters are discussing things with their employers, and it is expected that an agreement will be reached shortly and they will go back. The metal manufacturers, in a statement to Mayor Church this morning, said that they would not negotiate further with their men until they returned to work under the old agreement. By to-morrow it is expected that the only strikers on the street will be the metal trades workers, who have been out for some weeks.

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS MEET IN KINGSTON

ONTARIO STATE COUNCIL IS ATTENDED BY 89 DELEGATES AND EXECUTIVE MEMBERS.

KINGSTON, June 4. — Mayor Harry Newman formally welcomed the members of the Ontario State Council of the Knights of Columbus at the opening of their convention at the club house of the local council yesterday afternoon.

In his address the Mayor paid tribute to the work of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Army Hut Association during the war and also through the present period of reconstruction and demobilization.

In his reply State Deputy J. L. Murray said that in their duties to the Empire the Knights of Columbus would always be found steady and true, true Canadians in all that that implied.

The delegates assembled at the club house at 9.30 this morning and marched to St. Mary's Cathedral, where solemn high mass was celebrated by Archbishop Spratt. An impressive sermon was preached by Rev. Father Meehan of Morrisburg.

The opening session was mostly taken up with committee reports. Comptroller Clarence T. Smith of the Catholic Army Hut Association gave a short resume of the work of the association both in Canada and overseas. The auditors verified the report of the treasurer, showing a balance of $1366.21 in the current account, May 15th.

State Deputy J. L. Murray was instructed to send a cablegram to the King conveying birthday congratulations.

There were eighty-nine delegates and members of the executive in attendance. The association now has thirty-nine subordinate Councils throughout Ontario. An active campaign of next year's convention is being carried on by representatives of Fort William, North Bay, Penetanguishene, St. Thomas and Sarnia, the Chamber of Commerce of the latter place having sent a formal application to meet there next year.

Peterboro delegates are Mr. J. J. Duffus and Mr. J. E. Sullivan.

ART EXHIBITION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The annual exhibition of the Art and Drawing work of the Peterboro public school pupils will be held on Thursday and Friday of this week in the kindergarten room of the Central School.

Samples of the pupils' york from each of the grades of all the schools will be shown. This will give a good idea of the work being done throughout the year in the various classes.

The exhibition will be open on both days from 4 to 6 p.m., and from 7 to 10 p.m.

Admission will be free; parents, pupils, and all interested in the work, are cordially invited to attend.

The Woman's Art Association is presenting a medal to the pupil of each grade showing the best work.

WILL BE SHOWN AT THE GRAND

On Friday and Saturday of this week the "Heart of Humanity" will be shown at the Grand. This is a soul-stirring photo drama, with a strong plot. It is a creation of the war. Be sure and see this wonderful picture.

CIVIC DEPUTATION INSPECTED CAR

NEW STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION AND MANY OTHER SIGHTS TAKEN IN.

There is more inspiration gained in a crowded street car, with the possible exception of a barber shop, than in any other place where the public congregate, but one is especially inspired if the crowd happens to include some of the City Fathers, particularly when the City Fathers gather exclusively and in a new street car, trimmed with green, with interior mahogany finishings, large ventilators in the roof which allow what breeze was available yesterday to fan their venerable brows, then, and then only, is the condition de luxe attained.

A Joy Ride.

Various members of the City Council left their cellars or shut off the oscillating fans to take advantage of the invitation offered by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, superintendent of the Street Railway, to take a joy ride around the street car lines in one of the new cars. It was one of those green demons which have been clamouring up and down George Street for the last few days, yet which never seems to be anxious to take passengers aboard. They are somewhat of a puzzle to those not in the know, because you may walk around them half a dozen times without finding a step to the cool wickerwork seats seen through the iron-barred windows. Nor will you find a door open willing to allow you ingress unless the motorman, who is also conductor, thinks fit to turn the handle one notch to the right on the traction air brake, when the door quietly slides open and an accommodating step invites you to mount into the upper regions, but not before you deposit 5 cents in a long, narrow cash box which clings to an iron post beside the conductor. Nor can you slip in a back door, because there is only one door, and that is next the motorman, whose eye you will find is sharp as an eagle's when watching the two lines of metals ahead or the inconspicuous fare box at his side.

Pleasant Trip.

It was a very pleasant little trip, and Mayor G. H. Duncan, Alderman McIntyre, Taylor, Morrison, Edgar, Gainey and Crowe enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

An Even Keel.

The day was certainly auspicious for such an august gathering, and Mr. Ferguson, in his most amiable mood, discussed the fine points and comforts of his two new pet cars, which will be available to the public in a few days. The car has even automatic fenders, which will work as regularly as the City Council when the recommendation of the Board of Works regarding the tender of the new bridge comes before them. The car keeps an even keel and turns the corners easily, something which does not characterise the old yellow frigates, which are the bane of the city dowagers. Also there is another difference. The chief executive of the street car has complete control, and in order to keep the car in motion he must keep his hand pressed down on the handle of the controller. If he raises his arm to mop his perspiring brow the car automatically stops. His only alternative is to sit down and put his foot on a floor device, which acts the same as an accelerator on a motor car, and can be used in lieu of the handle of the controller. A small handle on the controller operates the reverse gear.

When you press the button for a signal to stop, don't expect to hear a gong resembling the People's Chimes, but rather have your ear attuned to hear a buzzer, which will remind you of a hospital ward.

The heating apparatus to keep one warm in the winter time is situated below the seat.

The New Line.

Just as someone started singing "How Dry I Am," the car took the turn at the corner of Charlotte Street and Monaghan Road and took the new street car line which ends up at Patterson Street. It was the christening of the line, because it was the first car over it, and it isn't exactly comfortable—yet. The line was especially interesting to Ald. Edgar, but the labour alderman did not seem to take much interest in it, except Ald. Morrison, whose home on the corner of Bolivar Street and Monaghan Road was pointed out. The site of the new public school came into view, now well sown with mustard, and the sagacity of the Board of Education regarding their new site was discussed until the car stopped at the corner of Charlotte and George Streets, where an adjournment was made to a refreshment booth, where the venerable aldermen imbibed freely of buttermilk, at Mr. Ferguson's expense, in which they drank the success of the extended railway road and the new cars.

It is a sign that your reputation is small or sinking if your tongue must praise you.—Judge Hale.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

SETTLEMENT IS IN PROSPECT IN WINNIPEG—AMMUNITION UNLOADED YESTERDAY.

LATE DESPATCHES

(By J. J. Conklin, Copyright.)

NOYES, Minn., June 4.—Tentative terms looking to a settlement of the metal trades strike in Winnipeg in sympathy with which a general strike was called, were presented to representatives of the metal trades workers at a conference with members of the Mediation Board appointed at the suggestion of the railway running trades. The terms were agreed upon previously by their own master at a meeting with the mediators and if they are satisfactory to the workers, a settlement of the strike which caused the general walk-out, may result. Following a session with the Mediation Board, the Metal Trade Council took the terms under discussion at an independent meeting. Members of the Mediation Board said they were expected to report at once whether they would accept them.

Tension in the strike situation became more centred about the demand for mitigation of terms laid down by the City Council to members of the police force. In a statement issued as a supplement to the declaration from Veterans' Associations, which repudiated and deplored parades held Friday, Saturday and Monday, the War Veterans' Association declares that parades and demonstrations are being taken advantage of by various people with ulterior motives detrimental to Veterans and that parades included many who are not returned soldiers and considerable percentage of aliens. All these officers hold good government jobs.

The strike of the police force in Winnipeg has been averted, the Police Commission backing down on the ultimatum presented to the force a week ago.

A Pleasant Surprise.

This is the third time that the Commission have backed down. The meeting was a protracted one and, was not over until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the executive of the police force was present and presented a resolution passed several days ago to the effect that the force would not take part in the sympathetic strike while the present labour trouble was on. This resolution had never been brought to the attention of the Commission and was a pleasant surprise to the members.

Earlier in the day Mayor Gray announced to reporters standing outside the room where the conference was going on in the City Hall that he would resign and hand the affairs of Winnipeg over to the military if the Commission gave any further concessions to the police.

The conference developed such good feeling between the two sides to the conference, however, that this statement was forgotten.

Chief Macpherson stated that all difficulties with the force had been adjusted. Members of the Police committee said the Police Union would accept conditions arrived at without doubt. Details are in the interest of the force's contention. This means that patience has been rewarded and strike just so much weakened.

Police have done wonderful work during the strike in keeping rebellious spirits in check, as all the strikers realized the police was one of them and would listen to them when anyone else's reproval would have been resented. The police withdrew notice that they would strike and this satisfied the Commission until the labour troubles are adjusted.

All over the city, unions appear to be holding strong and utilities are being operated under great difficulty.

Six men of the power plant went out Monday night and their places were taken by citizens.

Strike Pay.

Going out of the unions in Vancouver cheered up the strikers. Last Monday five dollars strike pay was given all members on strike, the first in two weeks.

A Mediation Board of leading men has received the men's answer to the metal trades employers. It is not an acceptance, but furnishes a basis for settlement which the employers will accept, is the confident prediction. Laymen began yesterday a series of prayer meetings in the Board of Trade building for guidance during the strike. Many union men were present. Several city clergymen are openly favourable of strikers, many of their congregations being those out of work. All employees of the three railways centering here were paid on Monday and there will not, therefore, be another pay until over a month.

PARIS WALKED TO WORK TO-DAY

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 4—Paris walked to work this morning, no subways, tramcars or taxi buses being in operation because of the strike here. The situation is reported unchanged.

TWO ACCIDENTS ON M'DONNEL STREET

STREET CAR NUMBER FOURTEEN HAD A BIG DAY—WAS FINALLY TOWED TO BARNS.

Within two hours is identically the same(place on MacDonnell street about a hundred yards south of the Bonner Worth Factory two serious accidents took place yesterday in each of which the Jackson Park street car No. 14 figured prominently.

At four o'clock while making his rounds with Gilgour's bread waggon Russell Lee the driver, who lives on the utskirts of the city beyond Jackson Park, attempted to cross the road in the place mentioned above and did not notice the street car, which is said to have been coming down the road at an excessive rate, until too late. Realizing that he could not make the crossing in time to avoid the car he attempted to save the horses but the waggon was struck broadsides and badly smashed. Russell Lee was thrown to the ground with terrific force and badly injured internally besides sustaining painful injuries about the head and neck. He was immediately taken to his home and Dr. E. E. Harvey called. It was stated at Gilgour's today that the car never stopped after hitting the cart.

Two Hours Later.

Two hours later Angus Murray, a driver for the Bonner-Worth decided to borrow one of the Company's big trucks to get some wood and with Joe Gray, the little 9 year old son of Mr. Joseph Gray of 500 Gilchrist street as a passenger proceeded out of the Bonner-Worth yard. The road in front of the factory at this place is so narrow, that it is practically, impossible for traffic on both sides so [illegible] wise attempted to cross the track but did not hear the bell of the oncoming street car No. 14 from Jackson Park on account, it is thought, of the noise of the engine and of the hood of the car. The street car unable to stop in time struck the truck broadsides hurling Joe Gray, the little boy ahead from the running board on which he was standing in such a way that the front wheel of the truck passed over his body fracturing his left thigh. Dr. E. E. Harvey was called and the child was taken to Nicholls Hospital.

Traffic Held Up.

The truck was practically unharmed outside of a few scratches but the street car was practically ruined in front and it was about an hour before traffic could be resumed at that particular point of the road. No. 14 was towed to the sheds at 11 o'clock last evening.

THE THURSDAY HALF HOLIDAY

MEETING WAS HELD LAST EVENING

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants' section of the Board of Trade last night, seventy-eight grocers, fruit dealers and flour and feed merchants approached the merchants handling dry goods, boots and shoes, drugs and clothing in an effort to arrange for Thursday half holiday during June, July and August. As these merchants had already arranged to close only during July and August for the half day, it was decided unwise to change for this year.

It is understood that all merchants in the city will close on Thursday afternoons during July and August.

When interviewed, several of the grocers stated they will close during June even if the other lines will not close.

Grocers are asked to take this up with their neighbour grocers and make their own arrangements.

TWO KILLED IN RIOTS AT TOLEDO

Feeling Runs High in Polish District.

(Canadian Press.)

TOLEDO, O., June 4.—Operations at the Willys Overland Automobile Co. were at a standstill to-day as a result of rioting last night, in which two persons were shot to death and seventeen injured. No attempt would be made to operate the plant, which involves thirteen thousand employees pending word from Governor Cox for troops to handle the situation. The feeling in the Polish neighbourhood, where deaths occurred, is running high.

STRIKE IN MONTREAL

DEADLOCK OVER WAGES AND HOURS —SEVERAL THOUSAND OUT.

MEETING TO-DAY

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Que., June 4. — Three thousand employees of the Canadian Vickers Ltd. went on strike this morning as a result of a deadlock over wages and hours. Adding those to the Consolidated Rubber two thousand, the Columbus Rubbers six hundred, and the eight hundred glove workers, two hundred barbers and some smaller trades, there are over seven thousand on strike in this city, or almost as many as were out in Toronto on the much more advertised sympathetic strike. Labour men are afraid that the action of the Vickers men may precipitate an extension of the strike to other industries employing similar trades, as some of the strikers are very influential in their own organizations. The 44 hour week forms the basis of the men's demands, the company's offer being 48 hours, while the company offers increases which the men point out are only from 1 to 5 cents an hour below the scale they ask, and they see no reason why the company should not come up.

Held a Meeting.

Marine Trades Federation held a meeting last night to discuss the Vickers trouble and it looks as if the boiler makers who are not yet involved, will go out. Mass meetings will be held to-day and to-night.

Glass cutters employed by Geo. Phillips Co., and brass workers employed by Jenkins Bros. Ltd., are on strike. A demonstration in favour of the early closing by-law is to be held to-night. The demonstration was arranged for by Nap Bedard, business agent of the retail and wholesale clerks union. All organized labour has been invited to participate, but it is feared that the gathering, which is to assemble on the Champ De Mars at 8 o'clock, may be taken advantage of by the radicals, who will try to make the demonstration a disorderly one. Mr. Bedard exhibited the police permits the organizers of the demonstration will be prepared to see the authorities take a hand.

ETHEL BARRYMORE HERE TO-MORROW

In the casts of Ethel Barrymore successes, the theatregoer almost always encounters the name of Anita Rothe. That clever actress has been identified with the larger number of Miss Barrymore's productions since she created the amusing role of the fussy and romantic ballet mistress in the unforgettable "Captain Jinks." Her most recent appearance here with Miss Barrymore was in "Our Mrs. McChesney," when she portrayed the small town authority on clothes in New York, for new "models." She has an equally amusing and sympathetic role in R. C. Carton's comedy, "The Off Chance," in which Miss Barrymore comes to the Grand Opera House for one performance, Thursday evening, June 5th.

PETROGRAD IS ENCIRCLED SAYS Ppremier LENINE

(Special to The Examiner.)

BASLE, June 4.—The Europe press reported to-day that Premier Lenine had telegraphed that Petrograd was completely surrounded and its quick capture inevitable.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was the warmest day of the present heated spell. Late in the afternoon the thermometer was up to 97 degrees in the shade. This figure will not likely be exceeded this summer. Last year's warmest day was Aug. 13th, with 98 degrees. In 1917, July 21st was the warmest day with 95 degrees. To-day while still very warm, will not give the high figures of yesterday.—W.P.

Everything is in Hair-Trigger Readiness Along Rhine Front

ALLIED ARMIES HAVE TAKEN UP STRATEGIC POSITIONS READY FOR A QUICK ADVANCE INTO GERMANY—STATEMENT EXPECTED TO-DAY.

(By Fred S. Ferguson—United Press.)

PARIS, June 4th. — Neutrals as well as the allies are making preparations to meet the situation that would be created by a refusal of the Germans to sign the peace treaty.

Both Norway and Switzerland have made known their intention to refuse to enter any blockade agreement against Germany in the event the armistice is ended. The decisions of Holland, Sweden and Denmark are expected shortly.

Everything along the line is reported in hair-trigger readiness. The allied armies are understood to have taken up strategic positions, ready for a quick advance into Germany, and to be in possession of full "marching orders."

Interest is now centreing in the degree to which the peace terms will be modified. In French circles it is authoritatively stated that they have received the definite impression from the Americans that there will be no fundamental changes in the treaty.

Premier Lloyd George was expected to issue a formal statement to-day outlining the contemplated changes in the text, as suggested by British, French and American experts.

EMPLOYEE OF AUBURN WOOLLEN MILLS SWEPT OVER THE DAM

J. GALLAGHER HAD A REMARKABLE ESCAPE LAST EVENING—CURRENT WAS VERY STRONG.

LANDED ON ROCK

J. Gallagher, 345 Bethune streeet, a young man employed as night weaver in the Auburn Woollen Co., had a thrilling experience last night. He, together with several other fellow employees, went in for a swim above the Auburn dam during the lunch hour at midnight. They went out to a pier above the dam, and on returning to the starting point, Gallagher was carried down by the force of the current. For a moment he held to the cement work above the fourth slide and called to his companions for help, but the large volume of water carried him over the dam. An alarm was at once raised, but the young man was lost to view in the seething waters below. Search was at once begun and some few minutes after his companions were relieved to see him walking up the track, he having been carried quite a distance below the railway bridge, some 600 yards or more below the dam. The river bed is dotted with large boulders, and his escape from serious injury is remarkable. To add to his discomfort, the place where he managed to land bore a fair crop of thistles and this made none too pleasant walking in bare feet. The only injury the young man received was a slight cut in his left side and on both knees.

ELECTORS ON LAST JANUARY'S LIST MAY VOTE ON THE BY-LAW

Citizens who may vote on the Stickney Motors by-law to-morrow are those whose names appeared in the voters' lists for the municipal elections last January. The polling sub-divisions and booths are the same as New Year's, and electors are again reminded of their duty to-morrow.

The Stickney Motors Limited have proceeded with their factory and machine plans on the expectation that their request for a fixed assessment of $10,000 for ten years, except school and local improvement taxes, would be approved by the people practically to a man.

The drafting department has been at work on drawings of motor trucks and engines preparatory to commencing actual manufacturing. In other words, the plant is being made ready for the activities which are expected to be got under way in a short time, provided, of course, that the by-law is carried to-morrow. And it is believed that the vote will be almost unanimously in favour of granting the company this slight concession.

RECITAL BY MISS L. LOGAN'S CLASS

The regular weekly students' recital was given at the Conservatory Hall on Saturday afternoon, by the pupils of Miss Lora Logan. The programme presented was a most interesting one and was greatly enjoyed by the parents and friends who were present.

Many yof the little ones playing for the first time showed the result of careful training which reflects much credit on the work of their talented teacher, Miss Logan.

A pleasing feature of the programme was a "Sunbeam Dance" given by eight little girls, pupils of Miss Littlefield.

The pupils taking part were Dorothy Fine, Joe Anthony, Carrol Rose, Stuart Widdes, Joe Carter, Henry Rishen, Kenneth Gobeen, Charles Liebers, Doris Dodson, Helen Weatherhead, Elsie Parkes, Alice Brown, Charles McLeish, Donald Morrison, Stuart Hagerman, Winnifred Evans, Fred Morrison, Edith Thorn, Bernard Park, Kathie Taylor, Jean Eastwood, Ruth McLeish, Harold Peace, Dora Brown, Regina Hill.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR HERR LEVINE

WILL INVESTIGATE COST OF LIVING

LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS WILL BE ASKED TO ASSIST.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 4.— The recently appointed Cost of Living committee of the Commons opened the sessions this morning in a heat which caused many dignified M.P.'s to sit through the session in their shirt sleeves. George B. Nicholson of Algoma, was elected chairman. It was decided to ask the Mayors of all towns and cities to form committees of representative men and women of the Board of Trade, G.W.V.A. and Labour organizations to investigate and report on local conditions. The Minister of Finance will be asked for data respecting capital of banks and other financial organizations.

CHARGE WAS DISMISSED.

The charge of passing a standing street car at the corner of Brock and George Streets on 24th May, brought by the police on the information of Mr. W. H. Pretty, East City, against Mr. F. Burnham, of the Burnham Bros. Biscuit Company, was dismissed by the Magistrate this morning.

Mr. Burnham and several witnesses of the incident satisfied Mr. Dumble that the street car had not come to a full stop. Mr. and Mrs. Pretty alleged they had a narrow escape from being run down by the oncoming automobile.

DANGEROUS BATHING.

The narrow escape from drowning of a young girl at Inverlea Park yesterday afternoon should be a warning to parents that under present conditions, bathing either at this place or anywhere in fact along the river, is unsafe except for the best swimmers. The water in the Otonabee just now is unusually high and the current is much stronger than it generally is at this time of the year. At Inverlea the river swirls along at mill-stream speed and it would be advisable to keep the youngsters, who are not strong and experienced swimmers, out of danger by keeping them out of the water for the next few days at least. It is expected that the river will soon fall to its normal level and the current subside to its mid-summer speed. At present, however, the conditions are abnormal and bathers, who are not experts, should not take chances.

The advantage of being able to swim well, enabled Donald Fitzgerald to avert a tragedy yesterday. The fact that he was brought up at Lakefield and has spent his summers at Stoney Lake, was responsible for his ability in the water and that ability alone prevented yesterday's event from terminating in a fatality. His brave deed presents a strong argument for the providing of proper bathing facilities, so that the young people of both sexes can learn to take care of themselves in the water. Had it not been an expert the warning given by the occurrence at Inverlea yesterday would have been more pointed.

THE PREMIER'S MESSAGE.

The House of Commons spent Monday in discussing the industrial unrest, its causes, and possible means of remedying the situation. As usual, there was no lack of words, but when it was all over there was an absolute lack of results, in so far, as legislative action was concerned.

The debate served to reveal even more clearly than before the utter unfitness of the government to deal with the present crisis. From Sir Robert Borden came no suggestion of government activity in alleviating the unrest that exists in Canada. The Premier had nothing to offer the country except words. "Just keep your heads. You are better off than the people of Europe," that in effect is the message that the Premier gives to the Dominion. There was no promise of relief from the carnival of high prices; no hint of any capacity on the part of the Government to grapple vigorously with the situation.

As to the requests of labor for an eight hour day, Sir Robert got rid of them by "passing the buck" to the Provincial governments. "We cannot evade the sphere of provincial jurisdiction," was the expression used by the Premier in dismissing this phase of the situation.

The one thing that stands out as a result of the debate is that the present administration at Ottawa, cannot with any degree of confidence be looked to to solve the problems that are distressing the people of Canada. The Borden government has failed in its duty to the country; it has been caught totally unprepared for the storm that everyone knew was bound to break. It is completely unfit now to deal with the situation. The Premier's remarks were a confession that the government has no plan to try out. It is depending upon the reports of the Mathers' Commission for the solution of labour troubles, and has turned the responsibility for probing the cost of living over to a special committee. That is the limit of government activity in the face of what may be termed a national crisis.

VOTE "YES" TO-MORROW

There are so many potent reasons why the rate-payers of Peterboro should return a favourable [illegible] on the question of providing [illegible] assessment of $10,000 on behalf of Stickney Motors Limited, that the vote on the bylaw is taken tomorrow that it seems almost unnecessary to enumerate them here.

The firm is one that will be a creditable addition to the list of Peterboro industries. It will give employment to fifty men at least from the day it opens and the probabilities are that from the first the staff will be larger than the number named in the agreement between the city and the company. The possibilities before a concern of this kind are great. There is a vast market for motor trucks and tractors, the use of which is constantly increasing. These are among the things to be manufactured by the Stickney firm. The development of motor transportation marvellous as it has been during the past few years promises to be even greater in the near future, and the new concern is therefore beginning operations at a most opportune time. There is every reason to work for the speedy extension of the company's business and to welcome its coming to Peterboro as a fine asset for the city.

The terms upon which this splendid concern has been secured for Peterboro are so reasonable that there should be a big majority rolled up for the by-law to-morrow. The usual indifference of a large number of the rate-payers in measures of this kind, however, makes it necessary that those who appreciate what the establishment of Stickney Motors Limited means to Peterboro should not take any chances but see that their vote is recorded. It has been the history of such by-laws that a certain class of citizens who are against any measure of this kind make it a point to vote, so that friends of progress and those who wish to see Peterboro grow should not be caught napping. Make sure that you do your part by voting "yes" on to-morrow by-law. You cannot do anything else if you are sincere in your desire that your home city shall develop.

SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED

The brave action of Donald Fitzgerald the young Collegiate student who plunged into the Otonabee River from the Smith street bridge yesterday afternoon and saved the life of a young girl, who was being swept away by the strong current and of young Charlie Begley who gallantly assisted in the rescue, should be fittingly recognized. The Royal Humane Society's medal for life-saving in the customary award for heroic feats of this kind and it is the feeling of a number of citizens that the boys' bravery in unhesitatingly going to the rescue yesterday entitles them to official recognition It is to be hoped that the attention of the proper officials will be called to the gallant rescue and that if possible the Humane Society's medal secured for the two who risked their own lives to save another.

COUNCIL SHOULD ACT

It is understood that the Nicholls Park Board have found it impossible to maintain a caretaker at Inverlea Park this season and that unless the city council takes some step to see that some one is appointed to look after the safety of the bathers at this popular swimming place, there will be no protection for the youngsters. Last summer Sergt. T. R. Cooper secured by the Park Board as caretaker attended to his duties in a most satisfactory manner. He was always on th ealert to see that the little folks were kept out of dangerous places, had two life-preservers always ready for accidents and besides rendered first aid in many cases where bathers sustained cuts. If the Park board is unable this year to meet the cost of keeping a caretaker, the civic authorities should take this responsibility upon themselves. It is desirable that an official should be constantly on hand at Inverlea during the bathing season as a measure of precaution.

BULWARKS OF STABILITY

In all parts of the country the returned soldiers through the G.W.V.A. have declared against any attempt on the part of Bolsheviks or any other form of Reds to bring about a social and industrial revolution in Canada. Although they sympathize with the legitimate aspirations of the workers to improve their conditions by constitutional means, they have no wish to see the existing social and industrial system overthrown.

Another powerful bulwark against the tide of revolution is the agricultural interest. The class which it would be most difficult to win over to communistic Socialism is the agricultural class. No Canadians are more individualistic than the farmers. Their isolation, their comparative independence and the nature of their occupation make them so. Owning the land that they till, as most of them do, it will always be hard to convince them that their interests would be promoted by giving up their land to the state or to a commune and submitting to having its produce divided up share and share alike. And yet no Socialistic revolution could be completed without such an arrangement.

It is the settlement of the land question which is the chief obstacle

EXPERIENCE OF UNIONS AGAINST COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

(Financial Post.)

In the present social crisis the way of safety is the way of the old-established Trades Unions. There we find a leadership based on years of experience in the practical business and industrial issues of the day—which understands the problems of the employer and the mutual interests of capital and labor.

The grave menace is that labor—deluded by the cleverly organized underground workers who have for the time being usurped the power of the rightful leaders and have thrown off intelligent control with the idea of organizing the Trotzky form of government for Canada, such as is now being attempted in Winnipeg and Toronto—may be led into a false position. For this situation the attitude of those employers who have opposed trade unionism is largely responsible. It has led workers to seek protection under and heed and believe in the misrepresentations of the scheming organizers for an Anarchist Government.

In the last few weeks there has been a tremendous increase in the membership of old unions and the organization of thousands of non-unionists into new societies. This has all been directed from one enemy centre in Toronto, using English, Irish and Scotch as their mouthpieces, and Toronto gets its orders from Germany via New York. There are a number of different organizations, many of them within other bodies. A few men are controlling and directing the whole Canadian labor situation, aiming to eventually control Canada. They have organized various groups with different memberships, and with slightly varying objects. These parties range from those who want the murder of employers, the nationalization of women, with the Free Love Brethren, all the way down to the great mass of workers who merely desire better understanding and fairer treatment that they may work in amity with their employers. Besides the many new organizations the central group has been getting its rapidly increasing organizers into the old unions, to agitate, to make converts to their plausible theories and eventually secure a majority in each union.

The success in Winnipeg has made the enemy group less secretive. The Toronto centre has its emissaries now working in the smaller places, even among the farmers and the returned soldiers. The latter are the one class they are afraid of. The platform now being adopted by the less extreme sections right across Canada explains the object of the Revolution and shows how these are to be attained, as follows:

OBJECT.

The complete destruction of all political institutions—Cabinet, Senate, Commons, Provincial and Municipal Legislatures—and the substitution therefor of the Workers' and Soldiers' Councils as the governing authority.

HOW ATTAINED.

1. The first act is to be the seizure of present governmental powers working up from municipal to national.
2. The abolition of the military; the seizure of all their arms and munitions, also all forms of arms in the possession of the employer class, and the equipping of the proletariat army.
3. Replace all present courts by our own.
4. Seize all financial institutions, railways and large industries.
5. Seize all farm homes and lands and give them to the laborers and the poor settlers.
6. Seize and occupy all city homes food and other contents in the possession of the owners.
7. Destroy all property used to produce wealth.

UNIONS ABANDONED COLLECTIVE BARGAINING YEARS AGO.

Nominally, we are having a strike for the right of collective agreement. This is what experienced employers want. It is what experienced trades unionists do not want. It was proposed at the suggestion of the Master Printers and Bookbinders' Association in Toronto as far back as 1900. There were seven unions involved. A five year collective agreement was made. At the end of that time the Typographical Union, the most powerful body, said: "No more collective agreements for us. We have been handicapped by them. We have aided other organizations to secure higher pay than they deserved, while we were prevented from getting increases we ourselves were entitled to." To this may be added that the Toronto Master Printers were the first in the world to grant the nine-hour day, and when their chief competitors, the United States publishers and printers, reduce from the 48 to the 44-hour week, they will promptly do the same.

Similar factors for dissatisfaction were emphasized when the Toronto Building Trades were called out a few days ago. Many of the men were reluctant to go, as they have everything to lose and nothing to gain. The Metal Trades are looked on with disfavor by the Building Trades unionists. During the war the Metal Workers had steady work at big wages, while the Building Trades were dead, and many carpenters, brick layers and plumbers were working as porters. Now that the Metal Workers are being put on the same level with the Building Trades, and because they are making a few cents an hour less than they made during the war, they call out the Building Trades who have just begun to get a little work.

The unfairness of this is slowly dawning on the level-headed Union man and when he properly realizes how he has been duped, the unions will be the ones to suffer. The Metal Workers have done well during the war, they have their bank accounts while the man in the building trades has nothing.

Some of the men are saying quite freely that they have been sold by a few Austria-German Bolshevikl, who are in the pay of the I.W.W. and whose aim is the stirring up of a revolution, the overthrow of the present government and the setting up of a workman's council.

THE PROBLEM TO BE FACED.

The situation is well in hand in the United States because real Americanism has asserted itself. Sam Gompers, the great Labor leader, began in time to expose the foreign plots to undermine the workers. He caused a counter-demonstration. The plotters were arrested and not released on newspaper demands. Here, Sir Robert Borden engaged Mr. Calvin, formerly leader of the Nova Scotia Opposition, to handle the situation in Canada, but the foreign influence in our Government—the same influence that caused the release of Trotzky from a Nova Scotia internment camp—removed him immediately the Labor Minister's back was turned.

The great problem of the moment to bring to Trades Unionism a realization of the falseness of many of the doctrines now being preached by leaders who have not the cause of the worker at heart, but who seek political power for themselves—to whom social unrest is in fact a means of livelihood, power and plunder. This has been made perfectly clear by the investigations of Senator Robertson, himself a trade unionist, and an old-time Labor leader.

CITIZENS HAVE A DUTY TO PERFORM.

A feature of the strike at Winnipeg which has not only been responsible for maintaining public service, but has undoubtedly been a factor in the preservation of law and order, has been the spirit displayed by the citizens. Altogether from any feelings they may have, with regard to the outcome of the strike, residents of other cities which may become involved in the strike movement will have to consider their duty to the community as did the citizens of Winnipeg. The assurance of the union leaders that necessary services will not be interfered with has been given in Toronto, but such promises are not to be relied upon. Steps should be taken at once to effect at least the skeleton of an organization which may be called upon in the event of water, milk, bread and other necessary supplies being cut off. Life, health and property cannot be endangered.

to the success of the Bolshevist revolution in Russia. The peasants were eager to act on the suggestion of the Bolshevist leaders to seize the estates of the landed proprietors and divide them up; but when it came to dividing up the produce of their newly acquired plots of land, they would have none of it, and are now in a state of rebellion against the Bolshevist authority.

Bolshevism is a product of city life and industrial conditions. All the leaders are city men—idealists or plain rascals—and ex-jailbirds. They do not understand the muzhik,' and regard him only as provider of supplies. Says Francis Hunt, who has just returned from several months' sojourn in soviet Russia. "These city workers go into the villages and not only demand but take the hoarded grain. They take the rich peasant's horse and order the poor farm laborers to take his grain. If he is poor, they tell him to take the land and property of his richer neighbor; if he has only two horses they take two of them; they ruin his life. Down into his lap [illegible] ped the city 'food detachments' and lecturers of the soviet. He does not want them; but if he revolts he is crushed by the Red army."

In Canada, as in Russia, the "Reds" are city-bred—the product of the big industries. They know little and care less about agriculture and the farmers. No doubt if they were in the saddle they would try to treat the Canadian farmers as the Bolshe-

There Is MONEY in WANT ADS. For You

NOW as never before! The great readjustment of all business following the sudden termination of the War offers you a WIDE OPEN OPPORTUNITY to Sell or to Buy.

There exists in nearly every line a SHORTAGE of MERCHANDISE which creates a big field for WANT AD. ADVERTISING of USED Machinery, SECOND - HAND AUTOMOBILES, HOUSEHOLD GOODS, etc., etc.

The RENTING SITUATION, too, is a complete reversal of WAR CONDITIONS. On one hand Manufacturers are CLAMOURING for Factory Space for Peace Time purposes, and with others there is a corresponding FERMENT to UNLOAD factory space rendered useless by the ending of the War. And so it is with Houses and Rooms, Stores and Storage.

All this means MORE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

Furthermore, there exists a badly balanced condition in the DEMAND and the SUPPLY of LABOUR of ALL Kinds. This offers great possibilities for HELP WANTED and SITUATIONS WANTED WANT ADS.

There also exists an ABUNDANCE of WANT AD. business created by the desire to BUY and SELL Businesses, Farm Lands, Real Estates, etc., etc.

Get in on THIS NOW! You LOST MONEY, perhaps, during the War, BUT you can get SOME OF it back if you act promptly.

CKERS INCREASE LEAD IN CITY LEAGUE RACE

AL BEATEN 4 TO 3 IN MOST EXCITING GAME OF THE SEASON LAST IGHT—RESULT WAS IN DOUBT UNTIL LAST MAN WAS OUT—LOSERS SLOWNESS ON THE BASES LOST THEM A ROYAL CHANCE TO WIN.

Matthews-Blackwell team in- their lead in the City League last night by defeating their rivals, the De Laval outfit, uns to 3 in the most exciting of the season. The Packers ank their speed on the bases eir opponents' slowness in the epartment for the verdict. The ran wild on the base lines, failure to hold them on the giving his catcher no chance the thefts. Third base was to purloin as second, and this ping around the cushions pav- way for three of the four coun- bred by the Packers. De Laval other hand failed to take ad- of their chances. They threw pportunities to advance, and as caught off second at a critic- ge when the Separators had chance to sew up the game. was the third straight City win for Frost, but the Mat- Blackwell pitcher did not have task on this occasion. De La- bed him for ten perfectly good d his team mates contributed splays, which helped to make for him. Frost was steady in ches however, and had perfect feature play of the game was buted by Ernie Legon, the ul left fielder of the De Laval, bbed Adams of what looked sure hit, by galloping well f second and spearing a liner is gloved hand while running at full speed. Frost, who was on first base, was easily doubled on the play.

First Innings.

De Laval.—Dugan flied to Holyman. Bergoine and Rose grounded to Lowe. No runs, hits or errors.

Matthews — Adams walked and stole second and third. Butcher hit to Dugan, who fumbled, Adams scoring on the error. Lowe fanned. Butcher stole second. Hagerman was safe on Barrie's fumble. Holyman forced Hagerman at second on a grounder to Barrie. Prest threw out Shaughnessy. One hit, no runs, two errors.

Second Innings.

De Laval.—Cavanah fanned. Campbell beat out a hit to short and stole second, going to third on a wild pitch. Legon struc kout. Barrie flied out to Adams. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Matthews.— Jackson grounded to Dugan. Swanston struck out. Frost died, Prest to Rose. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

De Laval.—Neary beat out a slow one to Frost, but was forced at second on Prest's roller to Holyman. Dugan bunted to Frost and Prest was out at second. Dugan died stealing on a fast throw from Swanston No runs, one hit, no errors.

Matthews.—Adams singled over second and stole second and third. Butcher fanned. Adams scored on Lowe's scratch hit through the box. Hagerman hit to Barrie, who tried for Lowe at second and everyone was safe. Holyman walked, filling the bases. Shaughnessy struck out and Cavanah grabbed Jackson's fly. One run, two hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

De Laval.—Bergoine fanned. Rose singled to centre. Cavanah singled to left, Rose stopping at second. Campbell rolled to Hagerman. Legon was thrownout by Holyman. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Matthews.—Swanston grounded to Rose. Frost was safe on Barrie's fumble. Legon made a great catch of Adams' liner to left centre and doubled Frost at first. No runs, hits or errors.

Fifth Innings.

De Laval.—Barrie flied to Holyman. Neary missed three. Prest singled to right, but Dugan went out, Hagerman to Lowe. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Matthews — Butcher struck out. Lowe singled to centre and Hagerman singled to right centre. Holyman was called out on strikes and Shaughnessy tapped one to Prest. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

De Laval— Bergoine singled over second. Rose's fly back of second was muffed by Holyman, but Shaughnessy recovered in time to force Bergoine at second. Rose stole second. Cavanah hit to Frost, whose throw to Butcher failed to get Rose. Cavanah stole second. Campbell fanned. Legon rolled to Holyman. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Matthews.—Barrie threw out Jackson. Swanston singled over second. Frost and Adams fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

De Laval.—Barrie singled to centre and went to second on Shaughnessy's high throw to first. Neary sacrificed him to third. He scored on Prest's hunt, Lowe slipping as he fielded the ball. Swanston threw to first to catch Prest off the sack, but Lowe dropped the ball and the runner went to second. Dugan lined into Adams' hands and Prest was doubled on a throw to Hagerman. One run, two hits, one error.

Matthews.—Butcher fanned. Lowe singled to right and stole second and third. Hagerman hit to Cavanah, whose throw to the plate was too late to get Lowe. Hagerman stole second. Holyman fanned and Hagerman was nailed at third trying to score on the third strike. One run, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

De Laval.—Bergoine was safe when Lowe lost Hagerman's throw. Rose singled to centre, Bergoine going to third. Rose stole second. Hagerman dropped Cavanah's fly, Bergoine scoring. Frost picked Rose off second. Campbell flied out to Holyman. Legon fanned. One run, one hit, one error.

Matthews. — Snaughnessy singled over second, went to second on Bergoine's high throw, and to third on a wild pitch, scoring on Jackson's safe bunt. Swanston also bunted safely. Frost fanned. Cunningham hit to Prest, who threw Jackson out at the plate. Barrie nailed Butcher's fly. One run, three hits, one error.

Ninth Innings.

De Laval.—Barrie flied to Shaughnessy. Neary was safe when Butcher lost his grounder, and went to second on Prest's sacrifice. Fitzgerald, batting for Dugan, singled to right, scoring Neary. Bergoine rolled to Frost. One run, one hit, one error.

FIGHTS ARE NOT ALWAYS WON BY MERE BRAWN AND HEIGHT

FIRST MAN TO FIND THE KNOCKOUT SPOT USUALLY WINS—THE DEMPSEY-WILLARD BOUT.

(By H. C. Hamilton, United Press.)

NEW YORK, June 4.—There is no reason why brawn and height, just because it is brawn and height, should be pointed out as a cause for believing Jess Willard will defeat Jack Dempsey.

In the history of pugilism there have been several very large and powerful fighters who have been defeated by smaller men. It isn't necessary to dig very far back to find instances. Dempsey himself furnished the record with an episode of this sort when he stretched Carl Morris unconscious, and again when he plastered the huge and ponderous Fulton in Newark in a single round.

The Knock-Out Blow.

Many fight fans who believe Willard will win, declare he is so adept at using his weight and his hands to shield himself that Dempsey never will be able to reach him with those hammer blows. They thought the same thing when Dempsey met Fulton.

There is no man who can withstand a paralysing blow on the point of the chin. The knock-out spot always is there. It only requires a man to find it. Dempsey hits hard enough to fell anyone. If he hits Willard's chin the giant will fall. The same can be said for Dempsey. If Willard lands on his chin with that hammer-like right, Jack will be licked right there.

"GRAND PARADE" WON HISTORIC DERBY

THIRTEEN HORSES STARTED—A BIG CROWD PRESENT.

Special to Examiner.

LONDON, June 4th. — "Grand Parade" won the historic Derby, the English turf classic to-day. "Buchan" was second, and "Paper Money" third. Thirteen horses started.

"Grande Parade", winner of the Derby is owned by Baron Glanely, "William James Latem" of Cardiff, Wales. Major Waldorf Astor is owner of "Buchan" and Sir Walter Gilbey of "Paper Money". The stake is valued at 6,500 sovereigns "about $31,600 at normal exchange rates", and is for colts and fillies of three years old. The course is about one mile and a half in length. There were 234 entries originally for this year's race.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 4. — Derby day, the world's greatest popular sporting event, has returned after leaving a blank on the British calendar for four years. With the early morning the population began to progress towards the Epsom Downs comparable with the migration of the tribes of Israel.

If to-day's Victory Derby, as it is called, reaches the high watermark there will be 200,000 within sight of the race track.

The people are travelling in trains, buses, four-in-hands, delivery wagons, donkey carts, on horseback, afoot and by airplane. The King and Queen will be there.

The only element lacking is an uncertainty about the big race. There will be fourteen starters. Andrew Black's "Panther" has long been considered a sure thing, although Sil Walter Gilbey's "Whiskey Magnate" will be a strong contender and Major Waldorf Astor's "Buchan" has been rated as a possibility.

There has been much interest in "All Alone" because this racer is owned and has been trained by Lady Torrington.

The King's stables had nothing good enough to start in the classic event.

CAPTURED A BATTERY

ROW SERGT. HERMAN J. GOOD WON THE V. C.

He Dashed Forward Alone Killing Several Men In Charge of Machine Guns and Taking the Others Prisoner — Brave New Brunswick Soldier Was Wounded Three Times.

IN the lumber camps of New Brunswick the story of Britain's fight was told. Strong men gathered around the roaring stove in the evenings after a day in the bush, and some one from somewhere produced a newspaper, with the record of that wonderful struggle for the rights of the world in the early stages of the war. Big fellows they were, with grizzled faces from long exposure, these men who fought all day with the giants of the primeval forest, felled huge kings of the forest, sawed and hewed them into shape for the spring freshet, when the logging teams would drive them down the foaming rivers to the mills. Around the big box stove they sat, heavy boots drawn off and thick socks put up to dry, and they talked of the Great War, the Great Adventure which had called men of their race, the British race, to the help of small peoples and the crushing of brutal force in the world by the greater force of spiritual manhood, set aflame by the God of Liberty. They read of the angels of Mons, and wondered, for they were practical fellows these lumbermen of New Brunswick, but somehow they knew that it was true. It was the Great Adventure that called them, and many of them threw down axe and shouldered a musket, and went out, some of them never to return to the forests of New Brunswick.

Among the men who enlisted from the lumber camps of the Chaleurs basin, was Herman James Good. He was not yet 30 years old, but he had for a number of years been boss on the big lumber drives under the Bathurst Lumber Co. He worked in the forests and on the drives in the winter and spring. The rest of the time he worked his farm, about three miles from Bathurst.

Sergt. Good enlisted June 28, 1915, with the 55th Battalion. After a period of training in Sussex, N.B., and at Valcartier he went to England. He got to France April 12, 1916, just a year after the first heroic stand of the Canadians of which the men in the lumber camps had read and talked the spring before. Sergt. Good has been through all the fighting since, with the exception of a few months in hospital as the result of wounds received on three different occasions.

Just a month after going into the trenches, Sergt. Good received his first wound. Back to the trenches in a short time, he was again sent back, Sept., 1916, for shell shock, when he was in the hospital for six weeks. Two whole years of active service followed without any more wounds or sickness. He received his third stripe for wounds Aug. 17, 1918, when he was gassed, just eight days after he had won the Victoria Cross. After being in hospital for a month and then spending three weeks leave in Edinburgh and Glasgow, he went back to France and was there till fighting stopped.

Sergt. Good is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Good, of Big River, N.B., about four miles from Bathurst, their nearest town. He was born on his parents' farm at Big River, and lived in that vicinity all his life until he set out for France, where he has distinguished himself so signally. Sergt. Good himself owns a farm not far from his father's. After he left school he worked on his father's farm. Then he took charge of a farm of his own, and spent his time between it and the lumber camps. On the field of battle he was made lance corporal, then corporal and after he won the V.C. he was made sergeant.

In the thick of the awful fighting of August, 1918, when the Allies were in the heat of their great advances, when they had staked their all for final victory, Sergt. Good performed the act of valor which won for him the Victoria Cross. He was no sluggard, no quitter. The Canadians were advancing in the face of awful fire. The Germans had three machine guns which were giving them trouble. Those guns were taking many good men. Sergt. Good made up his mind that that sort of thing should stop. Alone he dashed forward, killed several of the men operating the guns and made prisoners of the remainder. He took back his prisoners, but did not stay back long. Into the fight he went again, and this time he encountered a battery of big guns, guns that throw a shell more than five inches in diameter. He was alone.

Did he hesitate? Did the point blank range that the guns had on him frighten him? Did he run, or fall flat on the ground? This is what he did: He called to three men of his section who were near to follow him. The four of them, with Good leading, attacked the big gun crews, and one of the miracles of the Great War was performed. Those four men captured the whole of the gun crews of the three guns of the battery. So was the V. C. won by Sergt. Good.

From the wheat fields and logging camps of New Brunswick to the fields of France; from running the slippery rafts on the rivers of Canada, to the highest honor conferred on British soldiers for personal bravery in the Great War—this is the story of Sergt. Herman James Good, V.C. And the best of this story is that the hero of it is still alive and well, and will return to Canada when the British Empire needs his services no longer in the army. — Carolyn Cornell.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE WILL CUT 24 HOURS OFF THE REGULAR TIME

THE TRANS-CANADA LIMITED WILL BE LARGELY USED BY TOURIST TRAFFIC.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, June 3. — The new Canadian Pacific railway trans-continental train, the Trans-Canada Limited, passed through Winnipeg at nine o'clock this morning en route to Vancouver. The new service, including a daily train each way will cut 24 hours off the regular running time from Montreal to Vancouver. The train which arrived in Winnipeg this morning left Montreal at three o'clock Sunday afternoon and clipped a full half day from the regular run. George Ham and F. W. Fox, Canadian Railway officials, were on the train. Mr. Ham will go to Vancouver and Mr. Fox will leave the train at Calgary. C. E. Macpherson, passenger traffic manager, went west on the train. The new trains are made up of nine coaches. The train to-day carried 160 passengers to Winnipeg. Thirty-five passengers got on the train at Winnipeg en route to points west. The train is due in Vancouver Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The cutting off of 24 hours from the trip from Montreal to Vancouver is accomplished through making fewer stops and running at faster speed. Nearly six million dollars worth of equipment is being used in the new service. Added to this is the wages for the train crew and the army of men connected with operating the train used in the new service on the three thousand mile run. The new service requires 18 train crews and fifteen fully equipped dining cars are required. They are valued at $700,000. The twelve observation cars are valued at $480,000. In addition there are five compartment cars, twelve baggage cars, and twenty-four locomotives. While the new train service will be largely used by tourist traffic, it will be of special value to business men to make trips between Montreal and Vancouver. It will be particularly valuable to Winnipeg business men who will save a full day in making trips to either Vancouver or Montreal. The Vancouver train which left Vancouver at the same time the westbound train left Montreal, arrived in Winnipeg this afternoon. It will reach Montreal at noon Thursday. The connections at Sudbury for Toronto are perfect and a half day is saved in reaching the Queen City.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN CONTROVERSY

(BY A. D. HONE.)

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Referring to Mr. Bagley's recent rejoinder, I accept Mr. Bagley's retraction of the statements "The prohibitionist knows nothing of the power of the Holy Spirit to save a man in the hour of temptation" and "God deliberately placed temptation in the Garden of Eden."

I have dealt with his arguments re temptation in my reply to Mr. Burnham.

I refuse to be drawn into a discussion on the interpretation of certain passages of the Scriptures. I prefer to believe that, to quote Mr. Bagley, St. Paul "was a scholar and said what he meant. When he meant not GIVEN to wine," he said that, and when he meant "not given to MUCH wine," he said that. When he told Timothy to "take a little wine FOR HIS STOMACH'S SAKE," he meant what he said:

Mr. Bagley knows, or should know, that under the licence law a man would be as liable to fine and imprisonment for manufacturing wine without a license as under a prohibitory law. So the "clique" referred to includes all those who favour either of these measures, and both classes will resent his insinuations. I would therefore suggest that his challenge be directed to Mr. Burnham rather than the ministers of the Gospel. A debate on this imaginary situation between two such authorities on the Scriptures and moral distinctions and such "legal luminaries" would be not only suited to the mentality of the debaters, but would also be exceedingly interesting to the general public.

It is useless to continue the debate any further with a man whose mind refuses to focus on any but one side of this question, or who spends half his time saying what he doesn't mean, one-quarter saying the opposite to what he means, and the other quarter denying what he said before.

For the benefit of those who may have an open mind on this question, I would quote what ex-President Taft said on the subject in a recent article:

"All will admit that the state may properly pass laws to preserve the morals of the community by punishing murder, rape, and such crimes.

"The more doubtful question is where the line is to be drawn as to acts not intrinsically vicious and immoral, but having a tendency, if unrestrained, to lead to demoralization in society. The line is more or less a matter of custom. The attitude of the public in respect to it differs radically in different countries and at different times in the same country. THIS SHOWS THE ABSURDITY OF REFERRING TO THE USE OF WINE IN THE NEW TESTAMENT AS AN ARGUMENT FOR THE INALIENABLE RIGHT TO DRINK. . . . . .

"Liberty guaranteed by the constitution is liberty regulated by law. The law which regulates liberty is that which is adopted upon the will of the majority for the general public benefit. In no community where there is any neighbourhood relation between one person or another or between one family and another can there be complete freedom of action. The cave man is really the only man that ever enjoyed that kind of liberty, and his liberty was subject to complete restraint by death from a stronger cave man with a large and heavier club. Liberty regulated by law is that measure of freedom of action which can be accorded to each person without injury to the enjoyment of similar liberty by others or to the general welfare of all. . . . . There are many men, as we know, who might drink liquor and be moderate in its use. But we must recognise that liquor is a very considerable source in stimulating crime. We must recognise that it plays a large part in the production of poverty and suffering not only for the excessive drinker himself, but for those related to him and dependent on him. Such a man in many ways imposes a burden on society at large. The restraint of the liberty of the individual to whom the use of intoxicants is enjoyable and harmless is but a slight restriction on his general freedom of action. IT IS SOMETHING HE MAY WELL BE CALLED UPON TO GIVE UP TO SAVE FOR SOCIETY THOSE WHOM IT DEPRAVES AND DESTROYS.

"The drinking of liquor is a social practice and is increased or minimised in a very large degree by the opportunity and proximity of access for many who would never drink at all unless it was set under their noses by the infesting presence of saloons in their community where the sale of liquor is allowed. . . . The political machine of saloonkeepers and liquor dealers wields, through the ubiquitous saloon, a vicious and pernicious influence upon voters.

"This array of immoral and vicious effects of the free manufacture and sale of liquor upon the community can leave no doubt that the curtailment of personal freedom in effective prohibition is small compared with its benefit to society. This settles its conformity to true principle of personal liberty."

I wish to thank the Examiner for the space given to the expression of my views on prohibition.—Yours sincerely,

Arthur D. Hone.

ETHEL BARRYMORE HERE ON THURSDAY

"THE OFF CHANCE" IS A DRIZ FITTING HER GIRLISH PERSONALITY.

Eva La Gallienne, who so delightfully portrays the young Duchess of Burchester, in "The Off Chance," the new comedy by R. C. Carton in which we are to see Ethel Barrymore at The Grand Opera House for one performance, Thursday evening, June 5th, is a daughter of the poet, Richard Le Gallienne. Like her distinguished father, Miss Le Gallienne has spent much of her life in Paris. She received her education and musical training in that city and came to this country for good only a year or so before the war. Her first success in the United States was with Henry T. Dixey in "Mr. Lazarus." In "The Off Chance," she has a role fitting her girlish and appealing personality splendidly and in it she has met with something of an individual success.

QUEENSLAND LAND SCHEME GENEROUS

EXCEPTIONAL TERMS BEING OFFERED TO SOLDIER SETTLERS—GROUP SETTLEMENT.

SYDNEY, N.S.W. — While other Australian State Governments have been attempting by words to convince the people of their loyalty, the Queensland State Government in Australia has shown its patriotism by putting into operation a practical and liberal scheme of settlement for returned soldiers.

Already some 2,000 soldiers have been settled on the land in Queensland despite the fact that the bulk of the men returned to Australia to date are physically unfit. Whilst the sister state of New South Wales is talking about providing for 5,000 soldiers under its soldier settlement policy during the next two years, the Queensland Labor Government has completed arrangements for dealing with 10,000 men during 1919.

Quite a number of group settlements are in operation in Queensland, while other areas specially set apart for the purpose are in preparation for occupation. The area which has been directly reserved in this way is approximately four million acres, but there are other idle lands with which the Government is preparing to deal. For instance, in the coastal region—the most productive in the whole world—it is estimated that 8,000,000 acres, capable of supporting 50,000 families, are available for settlement.

Leasehold System.

The terms under which land is provided for soldiers are laid down in special legislation passed by the Queensland Parliament—the first of its kind to be passed in the whole of the British Empire, and the most liberal in its provisions. The land is made available under the perpetual leasehold system, the capital value being fixed in all cases before the actual value of the land. During the first three years no rent is collected, and from the fourth to the fifteenth year the soldiers settler is called upon to pay only 1½ per cent., on the capital value, while subsequent to that the rental is to be fixed by the Land Court. A special monetary advance of £500, on exceptional terms, to each soldier, is allowed under the act, whilst further advances up to an additional £700 may be obtained from the State Bank on terms. Thus both land and money are provided.

But the scheme does not end there. Training farms have been inaugurated, supervisors and instructors supplied and all the State Government agricultural experts have been made available for the soldier settlements. Chances of failure are therefore remote. In fact, the fame of the Queensland system has spread, and men have come from all parts of Australia to join the settlements, which have been established, whilst English Tommies and Canadians are also to be found on the settlements.

Thriving Settlement.

The settlement at Beerburrum, 40 miles north of Brisbane, is the oldest of the soldier settlements, and is one of the most fertile spots of Australia. Here farmers make fortunes out of pineapple and citrus fruit growing. The area of 51,000 acres is divided into blocks of from 20 acres upwards, according to the quality of the soil. No man is allowed to take over a block of land until, in the opinion of the supervisor, he has attained a suitable standard of proficiency.

While the men are learning to be farmers, they are paid a wage which enables them to live in comfort.

On each block of land an area sufficient to produce a living for the settler is cleared and planted before occupation; the area is fenced, and a house for the accommodation of the settler and his family is erected. Where two years ago was forest land, to-day the township of Beerburrum, with its population of soldiers, school for children, state butcher shops, state general store, recreation hall, reading room, public library and state savings bank now flourish. And this is only the forerunner of many such township the Queensland Labor Government is setting up for the returned soldier, so that he may become happy and contented in his new life.

The above outline of the Beerburrum settlement will suffice for the other soldier settlements which are in course of development throughout Queensland, such as at Pilydale, 70 miles south-west of Brisbane, Oswald's Track, in the Cairns District, Northern Queensland, Millaa, Kairi, Peeramon, Ravenshoe, all in the Cairns District; Mt. Hutton in the Roma District; Cecil Plains, in the Darling's Downs District and many others.

New Railways.

In addition to this, the Queensland Government is constructing railways to open up new land suitable for the settlement of other soldiers. A new railway about to be built in Northern Queensland will open up no less than 2,284,800 acres for soldier settlements while other lines are on the way to other districts. In fact Queensland is to-day a hive of activity, the work being to try and fit the country to absorb the returning soldiers without having them waiting when they return from the front.

Besides crop, fruit and like growing, another branch of the Queensland repatriation scheme is that of poultry-raising and market gardening. Several such settlements are in progress, and under the watchful eye of experts from the agricultural colleges.

OAK HALL

PRO-FRENCH FEELING IN RHENISH HOUSE

TALK OF BIG ARMY IN SILESIA SCOUTED BY OBSERVER RECENTLY THERE.

MAYENCE.—The people of Rhenish Hesse are not pure German at all in the ethnographic sense of the word. Fundamentally they are Celtic. There are very few real square heads here, and they are imported. They have a good deal of Latin blood and some Gaulish with of course a certain top-dressing of Prussian officialdom.

Before the war they made no bones of their hatred of Prussia and Prussianism; if they did during the war, it was from motives of caution. And now that the war is over and they can say what they like they say it quite loudly. If the people of Mayence were asked to vote today whether they would remain under Prussia or join France, I have no doubt whatever what the answer would be, that is, if the vote had the property qualification.

French officers here do not agree with me, but my impression is that there is a good deal of communistic feeling among the poorer classes, which is being continually stimulated by the arrival of agitators from other parts of Germany. The bourgeoisie, however, are all for the French. The desire of one or two to whom I have spoken seems to be for a Rhenish Republic within the French customs union. Failing in that they would prefer to be altogether French. All sorts of people are taking all sorts of nonsense about the German intentions to refuse the peace conditions and to take arms in defiance of them. I personally do not know whether they will sign or not, but I am quite certain they will not do any more fighting.

I have read one extraordinarily silly article describing how enormous armies have been brought together in Upper Silesia, full equipped with every kind of weapon from pick axes to flammen-werfers, ready to strike as soon as steps are taken to enforce the peace terms. I spent some time in upper Silesia recently and I know something of the facts, and though there may be pickaxes there certainly are no big guns, unless the Germans have discovered means of making something out of nothing in the last few weeks.

I find my opinion happens to coincide with the opinion of French officers whose business it is to form opinions on such subjects, and my opinion is that if the German Government is mad enough to refuse to sign, within twelve hours the French—which implies also the British and American and Belgian Armies—will be in motion. Germany—all Germany—will be occupied, and so far from there being any question of fighting, about half of Germany will welcome them with rejoicing.

The procrastinating man is ever struggling with ruin.—Hesiod.

THE WASH SKIRT

Comes Into Its Own

Wash Skirts Guaranteed Tub-Proof

Here is a special display of distinctive WASH SKIRTS which takes into consideration —

Every Woman and Miss who plans a trip out of town.

The Golf enthusiast, the Tennis player, in fact all who enjoy the outdoor sports and pleasures of summer.

Not forgetting the necessary needs of those who stay at home.

Cotton gabardine, in qualities that will wear well and wash well, is the most [illegible] material used in these skirts. They are spic and span, newly made, in styles that have this season's approval for smartness and trimness. The pockets and belts are fashioned in new and interesting ways. And best of all, they are guaranteed tub proof. They will fit and hang just as well after being in the wash tub as before. We mention here, a very few of the styles. See the window display.

Of lovely quality gabardine, a distinctive model is fashioned. Tiny pin tucking is used, running both lengthwise and around, to form a check pattern all over the skirt. It has plain, patch pockets trimmed with pearl buttons. The price, $9.95.

Smart in every line, is a plain straight white gabardine skirt. It's only trimming, being a bias fold of self material and a few rows of silk fock stitching, also two large pearl buttons on belt and fold. Excellent value at $8.95

If color is desired, a pretty shade of Poilus blue is used for stripes in a stunning gabardine skirt. The stripes are in pairs and run lengthwise. Finished with novelty belt and shaped slit pockets. Priced at $7.95

Then there are skirts of novelty, self patterned gabardines, that are extremely chic. One model is in a stripe pattern. Made very simply with a wide crushed girdle and banded, pearl button trimmed pockets. The price, $8.50

Lingerie Blouses in Summer Modes

The lingerie blouses are very simple and very lovely. Their very simplicity is their charm. For decorativeness they place their dependence wholly upon fine tuckings, touches of hand-work and the daintiest of laces.

Every bright, sunny day makes a woman realize how important it is to have a supply of fine, cool-looking blouses, that a short visit to the wash will always revive to dainty coolness and freshness.

And such are these summer-time blouses, of a loveliness unequalled.

One of those adorable blouses with a pleated frill for collar and cuffs. That's what we all think about, one little model of the finest voile. On both back and front, there are clusters of dainty tucks and then the prettiest of lace edged, pleated frills goes around the neck and cuffs. Priced at $7.75.

A very plain little blouse is fashioned of the finest, sheerest voile procurable. Long pointed collar, smart tailored cuff, and it fastens in front with two large pearl buttons. The price, $6.75.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

GARDEN PARTY WAS A SUCCESS

Brilliantly lighted by scores of red white and blue lights the grounds at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hatton, Monaghan Road, presented the appearance of fairyland last evening and yesterday afternoon, when the Peter Robinson Chapter, I. O. D. E., held one of the most successful garden parties ever given in the city.

During the afternoon bridge was indulged in, Mrs. Fred Roy carrying off the prize—a pair of birds. Miss Dorothy Hill was in charge of this department.

On the lawn, where tastefully decorated booths had been erected, the young ladies in charge of the various departments were most artistic. Miss Edna Richardson, Fish Pond; Miss Helen McLaren, Tea-Room; Mrs. Carl Weber, Candy; Miss Hayshe, Tea; Mrs. Lemay, while Miss Estelle Knox took the tickets.

At the raffle booth, of which Miss Patterson was in charge, Mr. Gordon Matthews won the six pairs of socks—two pair of silk hose donated by Mr. Buther Hickey and four pair of pale hose donated by Mr. A. W. Cressman. Mrs. W. R. Harston held the lucky ticket for the basket of eggs donated by Judge and Mrs. Hayeke; while Mr. Horace Wadley won the box of chocolates donated by Mr. Carl Weber. Mr. Roland Denne donated a bag of flour.

The Music.

Most alluring music was gratuitously provided by the 57th Regimental Band, which kept up a continuous programme until late in the evening. In the Dance Room the music was supplied by Al. Linton, of Toronto.

Those Present.

A very few of those who attended the affair in the afternoon and evening were: Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Kilfaly, Judge and Mrs. Hayeke, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Denne, Mrs. Alex. Elliott, Mrs. W. H. Bradburn, Mrs. James Mallholland, Mrs. W. R. Sanderson, Mrs. Widdifield, Mr. and Mrs. Fordyce Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walsworth, Mr. Chiapazzi, Mrs. Northedge Birks, Miss Phyllis Robertson, Mr. Walter Peaks, Mr. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hinge, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bellegham, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. Cobbs, Miss Grace Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Warne, Mr. Hagerman, Mrs. Stapleton, Miss Rose Mulholland, Mr. Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Patterson, Mr. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Hopwood, Miss Jessie Cressman, Miss Rannie of Toronto, Miss Georgie Stevenson, Mr. Walton Stevenson, Mr. William Eastwood, Miss Hatton, Miss Robina Gordon-Cumming, Miss Jessie Rollins, Mr. Gordon Matthews, Mr. Clancy, Mr. George Logan, Mrs. Gordon Langley, Miss Grace Reinhart, Miss Edgar Collins, Mr. Lennox MacLaren, Miss Dorothy Hill, Miss Jean Hill, Miss Dorothy Aylmer, Mr. David Hatton, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Graham, Miss Madge Graham, Mrs. Harry Thompson, Mr. Harold Morrow, and Dr. Marshall.

Served Tea.

The young ladies who served tea were Misses Gladys Mulholland, D. Hill, N. Hatton, J. Hill, M. Droupe, and Mrs. Lemay.

While the exact results financially are not yet available, they are approximately $750. The greatest credit is due to Miss Helen Stapleton, who, in the absence of Mrs. J. G. Chiapazzi, filled the post of Regent, and was responsible in no small way for the general success of the garden party.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk, Peterboro:

Dear Sir:—Would you kindly furnish through the columns of the press the following information regarding the conditions under which Jimmy Gates is, or is about to start out to capture dogs.

I realize that about two years ago, more or less a bylaw was passed by the city council prohibiting dogs to run at large and that Gates was appointed official dog catcher. I have no doubt about it being the man, for I saw him shoot a lovely big collie dog within a few feet of me on the street. The dog in question was lying harmlessly in the sun. However, we all realize that the bylaw prohibiting the dogs running at large is still in force, and furthermore, we realize that during the past eight or ten months it has neither been observed nor that there been any effort put forward to enforce it. Therefore is there any reason at the present time why the official dog catcher should again start out on his destructive rampage?

Am I right in assuming that all that stands between the dogs of Peterboro and destruction is a question of whether Gates has some other job that is more remunerative or not? Or does the matter of a dog's life or death really rest in the hands of Gates? If such is the case, our City Council must certainly be giving the question serious thought.

If there is no reason why dogs should not have their freedom in Peterboro as in other cities and towns, why not rescind the bylaw, and let the people know where they are at.

The above information will be very much appreciated by, Yours truly,

A Friend of the Dogs.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir—Mr. Hone has said his last word, but a prohibitionist who is afraid to sign his name continues the debate.

In final reply to Mr. Hone, I would say I have not retracted anything. I am glad Mr. Hone agrees with me that St. Paul meant what he said when he recommended Timothy to use wine instead of water as a beverage. And hope he will never have the audacity to flout his challenge for a test again. Let him stick to his science and leave scripture to be dealt with by those able to handle it.

To his paragraph commencing "it is useless to continue this debate," I simply say ta quoque.

As to the long extract from Mr. Taft, it throws no new light on the subject. The antithesis Mr. Hone draws between himself and those who have open minds is interesting. No doubt they will know how to vote when the time comes. The REAL MEN from overseas will have their votes to cast, and they will not forget the action of those who, in their absence, did their worst to deprive them of their personal liberty, whilst they allowed the Pork Barons and profiteers full fling. They will not forget the efforts that the "good" bunch put forth to deprive them of their rum ration, and even their cigarettes, and now their harmless necessary glass of pure malt and hops; and want to poison them with chemical "substitutes."—Yours, etc.,

Jas. Gates Bagley.

948 Water Street, City.

Mr. Editor.

Dear Sir,—I should like, through the "Voice of the People" to give a little warning to those who, like myself, are lovers of dogs. I have just lost a fine fox terrier. Unfortunately he got out on Sunday morning early, against my wish, was later in the day found dead, having been poisoned, whether purposely I know not, so I thought I would like to warn all others who are devoted to these faithful animals that there is a greater menace than the official dog catcher in our midst. So to avoid the misfortune I have sustained I think it would be as well to be on the safe side and keep them chained up and so defy the despicable poisoners and the dog catcher. The latter certainly is more humane than the former.

Yours truly,
GEO. T. MELTON.

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE MEETING

CITY CLERK S. R. ARMSTRONG GAVE AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

The regular meeting of the Women Voters League was held in the Public Library last evening and a very interesting address given by City Clerk Armstrong on the subject of the municipal Government of the City of Peterboro.

The necessary qualifications to enable women to vote were touched upon and the point of voting on property matte clear: viz. that any woman may vote on property in her name or on property the rents which is assessed at $400. or more, and in the case of joint tenancy, if two are owned each may vote on property assessed at $800. or more. The latter is a very important point as a lease signed by both husband and wife enables both to vote as tenants.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

SIR JOHN EATON HAD TO SPRINT TO CATCH TRAIN

TORONTO KNIGHT WAS IN PETERBORO TO-DAY.

Sir John Eaton who payed a visit to the city this morning in his private car 'Eatonia' enroute from Omemee to Toronto demonstrated the fact that even the capitalists have to make a run for the train at times, as during a carless smoke at the far end of the G.T.R. platform, he failed to notice his train had pulled out and was forced to do a marathon down the platform to get the retreating 'Eatonia'.

YOUNGEST PUPILS GET HALF HOLIDAY

The children of the Primer Classes in the Public Schools were excused from attending this afternoon because of the extremely high temperature and oppressive humidity. This half-holiday was granted to the youngest pupils because of signs of distress and uneasiness they showed in their studies. Inspector Mowat said that the weather had affected the work in the schools, but at the Queen Mary and King George Schools the conditions were quite comfortable. In these new schools there are electric fans and excellent ventilation.

Wonderful Remedy Establishes Regularity, Cures Constipation

As you value life itself, never use medicine that racks the system.

Costiveness is bad enough, but violent cathartics are the limit.

When the bowels are constipated and you have stomach trouble and headache, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire secretory apparatus is stimulated to healthy action.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills move the bowels gently.

They tone the liver and kidneys.
They renew the blood.
Digestion is assisted.
Headaches disappear.
Stomach rumblings cease.
Bilious turns are prevented.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more than a bowel medicine, for they act as a system cleaner and general tonic. For those who feel dull, heavy, and morose, for those who suffer frequently from colds, biliousness, and stomach disorders, there is no better medicine.

You risk nothing using Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they are guaranteed to cure.

Made according to the formula of one of the greatest physicians that ever lived. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are bound to give your system just the aid it requires. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box.

A BOUQUET OF WILD LILIES.

Just a bouquet of fragrant lilies,
Pure, white as unsullied snow,
Fresh from the shady woodlands
Where Otonabee's waters flow.

Gold brimming, each tiny chalice
'Mid petals of waxen sheen
Encircled in superb raiment
Of tender leafy green.

Sweet, fragile, beauteous blossoms,
Rejoicing in careless ease;
Yet never earth's mightiest monarch
Was arrayed in pomp like these.

But little the friend who gave me
These tokens of friendship guessed
What thronging, mingled memories
They awoke within my breast.

One breath of their dewy fragrance
Charms Time's swift flight away;
And again, a child, I gather
The sweet, wild flowers of May.

In fancy I hear gay laughter,
And see, as in noonday's gleam,
Merry barefoot children fording
Dear Monaghan's purling stream.

O'er her hills with blithe companions
I rove as in days of yore,
Who now gather bright immortelles
On fair Eden's fadeless shore.

And when I am where bloom lilies
Far fairer than earth can show
Methinks I will still remember these
That by Otonabee grow.

GREER-GARRETT NUPTIALS

At 11 o'clock on Wednesday June 4th in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, the marriage was solemnized of Minnie Isabel, only daughter of R. W. Garrett, M. D., to Major G. Garnet Greer M.C. C.A., M.C. The Bishop of Ontario and the Rev. A. Cecil Whalley Priest Vicar of the Cathedral being the officiating clergy The bride entered the church on her father's arm, a dainty vision of loveliness, in her beautiful wedding gown of white satin with overdress of silver embroidered net, wedding veil falling softly over her fair face, from the crown of orange blossoms resting on her dark hair. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Proceeding her up the aisle to the joyous wedding music peeling from the organ, came her bridesmaids, Miss Marion Kirkpatrick, Ottawa, wearing pink crepe de chine with over dress of figured georgette crepe, tulle butterfly sash, and large black hat and Miss Eleanore Fiskin of Toronto, in a similar frock of yellow crepe de chine. They carried bouquets of mauve sweet peas. The chancel and choir stalls were made beautiful with quantities of ferns and lilac which filled the air with their fragrance, while on the high altar were narcissi and feathery fern the gift of the Cathedral Sanctuary Guild to the bride, who is one of its members. While the bridal party were in th evestry the organist, Mr. R. R. F. Harvey, played softly, the music changing into the glorious chords of Mendelssohn's wedding march, as the bride and groom came down the aisle followed by the bridesmaids and ushers. Major Clyde Scott acted as best man and the ushers were Major T. A. Kidd and Capt. E. B. Smythe of Kingston, Capt. H. D. Davidson, Toronto, and Lieut. Douglas Lawrie of Peterboro. After the ceremony the wedding part drove to the home of the bride's parents, on Johnston street, where Major and Mrs. Greer received the congratulations and hearty good wishes of the large number of guests. The house was gay with lilac and sweet peas. The bride's table with its charming decorations and its wedding cake, which she cut with her husband's sword, being the centre of attraction. When the wedding breakfast was over th ebride slipped away to reappear in her travelling suit of light blue jersey cloth with hat to match and amid a shower of confetti Major and Mrs. Greer left on their wedding tour.

Mrs. R. N. Garrett was in a handsome gown of black lace over mauve silk a black hat with touches of mauve and wore a corsage bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Greer, Peterboro, wore grey charmuese with Carrickmacross lace a large black hat, corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Irons, Chicago. Cream net and lace hat to match.

Among th eout of town guests, Major and Mrs. Medd, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Waddell, Mrs. C. C. Abbott of Peterboro, Mrs. K. F. Segsworth, Toronto, Mrs. S. F. Kirkpatrick, Ottawa, Mrs. A. S. Forman, Montreal

CHARLES BEGLEY SHARES THE CREDIT

SUPPORTED GIRL UNTIL STRONGER SWIMMER ARRIVED.

In connection with the news of the gallant rescue yesterday by Donald Fitzgerald of Evelyn Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Roberts, from the current under the Smith street bridge, equal credit should have been given to the heroic effort of Charlie Begley, 512 Charlotte street, aged 12 years, who came first to the rescue of the little girl and supported her until the stronger swimmer, Don Fitzgerald, took the dive and brought the two to shore. Mr. Roberts, father of the little girl, to-day expressed his keen appreciation for the efforts of the boys and for the prompt answer several doctors made to the summons for help and for the efficiency shown by the Fire Department in their almost instantaneous response to a call for the pulmotor.

LATE STRIKE NEWS

Removed Flags.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 4.— The possibility of trouble between returned soldier factions over the question of approving the general strike became apparent to-day after majority faction, which has condemned recent boisterous parades in which some returned soldiers participated, arranged for a parade to-day. Leaders of minority faction declared they also would march in a separate demonstration. Executives of the Great War Veterans' Association declined to recognize the action of about 700 members who passed the resolutions last night approving the sympathetic strike of the Winnipeg unions. It was pointed out that there are about 10,000 members of the Winnipeg Association and that an overwhelming majority declined to attend the gathering.

A number of returned soldiers were seen on the streets this morning, wearing Canadian flags on their coats. Strike sympathizers who figured in recent parades, objected to the wearing of the Dominion emblem, and forcibly tore the flags from the coats of several of the men.

SWEEPERS NOT YET ENGAGED

THEIR DEMANDS GRANTED THEY DESIRE TO REAP THE BENEFIT NOW.

The street cleaners who went on strike with other city labourers for the eight-hour day and minimum wage of 45 cents were disappointed this morning at further delay in securing their old jobs again.

They had expected to be put back on the pay-roll to-day. They had heard the assurances of Mayor Duncan that there would be no discrimination against the men who went on strike, but the street cleaners do not overlook the presence of other men engaged in street cleaning who will immediately benefit by the Council's conciliatory action.

Hence the erstwhile strikers are wondering when the Council's promises are going to be put into effect. "The Council granted what we asked," said one man coming out of the Labour Hall this morning, where the labourers held a session, "and now they should see that we get it. They have told us we would, but there is no reason for putting us off. It is a simple matter to put the men back in their places."

Sewer Work Under Way.

The Romaine Street sewer was opened up again this morning, and City Engineer Parsons has stated that this work and some street paving will be made available for unemployed labourers as soon as he can rush the office preliminaries to completion. It is generally expected that within a short time everything will be normal again as far as the civic work is concerned, and if the Council can contrive to solve the Hunter Street Bridge contract problem, the deferred activities should begin to assume the liveliness that was looked for six or eight weeks ago.

Prudence is the wing plucked from some past folly.

Machine and Field Guns Ready to Answer the Call In Winnipeg Strike Zone

TRIAL OF STRENGTH BETWEEN TWO FACTIONS OF THE GREAT WAR VETERANS—THE PARADES NEARLY CLASHED.

STRIKE SITUATION

(By J. J. Conklin, Copyright.)

NOYES, Minn., June 5.—What citizens have been predicting would happen sooner or later in the turmoil of the strike in Winnipeg almost did happen yesterday. A clash between two opposing elements. The parade of returned soldiers carrying anti-general strike banners, missed by only one hundred yards mixing up with the soldiers. Strikers parade proceeding methodically and quietly along Main street to Labour Temple at the hour of one o'clock.

Soldiers were dispersing from the rear of the city hall where Mayor Gray had addressed them when just ahead was the strikers, and leaders could scarcely restore the hot heads from breaking ranks and rushing into it, and shouts of "Let's visit the Labour Temple" were heard on all sides, but by aid of a megaphone one leader discontinued the action. He promised, however, another parade for to-day at ten thirty, this morning, "when we will visit the place we have selected."

The Parade.

As the returned soldiers' parade swung into Portage avenue from a visit to Parliament buildings, it had all appearance of contingents on the way to the front line trench. Choruses were sung, "We will never let the old flag fall," "What the hell do we care, the gang's all here," "Maple Leaf and national anthem," were given with gusto, the latter being sung pausing the post office newspaper editors, Hudson's store, and other staffs cheered like wild as the boys stepped lively along. Answering cheers came from dense crowds on the sidewalks and streets. The scene was like the arrival of a relieving force of soldiers into a beleaguered city. Flags were waved from the upper windows, girls cheered and waved handkerchiefs. The entire action of people through which returned men moved towards City Hall shouting and expressing joy of the people that authority would would have the sound backing of ex-soldiers in any orders they might issue. Flags, banners and signs were carried. "Down with Bolshevism," "Clearout the aliens, we're here to do it." "We are returned men ready to carry out law and order. Send us to "C. B" We've game."

Going to the rear of the City Hall Mayor Gray addressed them. His words inflamed their feelings to a terrible pitch. He spoke of the action of the General Strike committee shutting down bread and milk depots. "But with such a grand body of men as you behind me, I can remove mountains.' Calls for Liberal aldermen had no effect. They declined to come out, explaining to friends it would do no good. They were all in the City Hall at the time. The leader called on the soldiers to "beat it" and "meet to-day at 10.30, the same place, to go to some other place we have designated." There were some hot discussions, a few firstcuffs, but nothing serious happened and the dispersal took place at 10.30.

The strikers' parade passed along at this time and there was no jaunty air, but the British flag carried at the head. It seemed to be merely a big body of plodders going home after a hard day's work. The Free Press and Telegram newspaper trucks loaded with papers were raided yesterday morning by a gang of newsies, directed in their operations by men. The papers were littered all over the lanes. No newspapers were delivered to homes or sold on the streets yesterday afternoon. Delegates from the General Strike committee called this morning on operators of all picture theatres and all stage hands and ordered them out on strike. They obeyed and movie houses closed at 11 a.m. In the middle of reels the machines stopped.

Milk Depots Closed.

The Strike committee pulled out all bakers and bakery wagon drivers in the city yesterday, and after yesterday the bread will not be baked. All milk depots are affected in the same way. The strike situation is now developing into a trial of strength between two factions of the G.W.V.A. Yesterday's parade of members of the Association formed up and marched up to the Legislative Buildings to condemn the actions of members who had called on the Premier unofficially.

The Labour members also forming a parade. The Railway carmen have cast off the Winnipeg Trades and La-

HEAVY DEATH TOLL FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

CAR OF BLACK POWDER EXPLODED WITH DISASTROUS RESULTS.

Special to The Examiner:

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 5. — More than 90 men were believed to have been killed to-day in an explosion in the Baltimore tunnel of the Delaware and Hudson Coal Co. near Wilkesbarre. Reports from the mine were that approximately ninety bodies have been removed from the tunnel. Mine officials said they believed 30 other bodies were still under ground. At least sixty persons were injured. They were taken to hospitals in Wilkesbarre. Many of them were not expected to live.

Powder Exploded.

A car of black powder attached to a train of cars on which the men were riding to their chambess in the mine exploded. An electric motor drew the cars, the trolley wire broke and sparks ignited the powder. Men were blown everywhere, but most of the deaths were caused by fire and suffocation.

The accident occurred shortly before seven o'clock. A train of empty cars was sent to the mouth of the tunnel to take the men into the chambers. One hundred men piled into the cars, which were drawn by an electric motor. Near the end of the train was a car of black powder. When two hundred feet in the tunnel, the trolley wire broke and fell. Sparks ignited the powder and instantly there was an explosion that sent the bodies of the men flying in all directions. The force was so terrific that it was heard throughout the greater part of the city. Flames caused the greater loss of life. Many bodies were burned beyond recognition.

GOOD SHOWS NOT APPRECIATED HERE?

TURNOUT FOR FAMOUS STARS SEEMS TO SAY LOCAL PLAY-GOERS DO NOT WANT TO SEE STARS OF PROFESSION.

The people of Peterborough apparently do not want good theatrical attractions judging by the attendance that has greeted Cyril Maude, Elsa Ryan, Margaret Anglin and other well known stars who have appeared recently. The appearance of the famous actress, Miss Ethel Barrymore at the Grand to-night, furnishes the last test of the season as to whether or not local play-goers want to see the leaders in the theatrical profession or if they are satisfied with the chief stock companies It is the last big attraction of the season and one of the most notable dramatic events the Grand has ever staged.

FIFTY NEW POLICEMEN SWORN IN TO-DAY—POSTAL SERVICE APPROACHING NORMAL.

THE BAKERS OUT

(By J. J. Conklin, Copyright.)

NOYES, Minn., June 5.— Edward Parnell of Shiers, Parnell Co., Winnipeg, announced yesterday afternoon that all bakers in the city had been called out again by the Strike committee. Parnell went to the City Hall immediately to confer with Mayor Gray. The latter told him to go ahead and protect his men. Fifty new police were sworn in to-day. Negotiations between metal trades employers and employees through the Mediation Board appointed at the suggestion of the running trades, remained the most hopeful aspect of the strike.

Although the police crisis was avoided Tuesday as a result of another extension of the time limit in the city's "ultimatum" to the members of the force, no active steps towards a general settlement of the strike, other than the activity of the Mediation Board, were apparent.

New Terms.

H. E. Baker, chairman of the Mediation Board, said new terms already agreed to by metal trades employers again had been submitted to representatives of the metal trades employees. Hope for an immediate settlement of the general strike centres largely about the prospects of ending the metal trades strikes and making away with the cause, in sympathy with which the general strike was called.

Alderman Sparling said the policemen do not want a Mediation committee, but have announced that they prefer to deal directly with the police commission through their committee.

Post office authorities say that the postal service is once more approaching normal and that with the addition of more men to the staff the wheel will be turning as smoothly as ever within a few days.

An attempt by pickets to induce men on duty at the post office to leave their jobs by promising them that their wages would be paid them at the Labour Temple until the end of the strike was reported by postal employees.

James A. Duncan, secretary of the Trades aid Labour Council of Seattle, arrived in Winnipeg and addressed a meeting of strikers at Victoria park yesterday afternoon. He is a noted "Red."

BUDGET IS UP TO-DAY

SOMETHING STARTLING IS LOOKED FOR IN GOVERNMENT CIRCLES.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, June 5. — All eyes in Ottawa are turned this afternoon towards the Budget proposals which Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, is expected to make in the Commons this afternoon. Outside the inner circles of the Government, little or nothing is known of the nature of the tariff and other proposed changes which the Budget speech will make public. However, it is well known that provision must be made for raising an immense sum of money necessary to carry on the government of the country for the fiscal year. It is also a fact that the Cabinet has spent many days in reaching the conclusions as to how best to impose taxation in the interests of the majority of the population. The seating capacity of the temporary Commons chamber in the Museum was at capacity when Sir Thomas rose to speak this afternoon.

It is predicted that the Western members will move a low tariff amendment to the motion to adopt the Budget. It will be based on the platform of the Canadian Council of Agriculture. When this amendment is rejected, as it undoubtedly will be, the representatives in the House of the Western Grain Growers and Farmers will move to the cross benches. The Globe is assured that they are united and will take concerted action, which no doubt means that Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture, will resign from the Government.

Black horse-hair hats are trimmed with lace.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

Do you know there are over One Thousand Children in Peterboro who will not have any Vacation this summer, unless the Playgrounds Association can carry on? It will be necessary to have at least Three Supervised Playgrounds, where the kiddies will have a good time and be properly looked after by qualified supervisors.

Will you not forego, say, 50 cents of your vacation money towards this scheme, that will mean so much to such a large number of Peterboro Kiddies, not to speak of the boon it will be to their tired mothers.

The Playgrounds Association is not a fad. It is a proved success in Peterboro, so much so that we have to increase the number this year in order to meet the demand of the public.

We will count on your support, because you haven't forgotten the days when you were a youngster yourself.

Yours for Peterboro Kiddies—the Best in the World.

PETERBORO PLAYGROUNDS ASSOCIATION.

LIGHT VOTE FOR STICKNEY BY-LAW

CIVIC APATHY IS REFLECTED IN RESULT AT THE POLLS.

Voting on the Stickney Motors by-law at the council chamber this morning was so light that the votes could be counted on your fingers.

Mr. T. B. McGrath and Mr. Philip Sturgeon, in charge of this polling sub-division, were busy this morning mopping their perspiring brows.

Three-fifths of the total number of votes polled is required to pass the bylaw but very little opposition is expected. It is expected that most of the votes will be polled close to the closing time, five o'clock.

SYNOPSIS OF BYLAW.

Fixed assessment of $80,000.00 for 10 years.

Minimum employment of 30 hands for 10 years.

Working nine months in each year.

Make early start in manufacture of motor trucks.

Will also turn out gasoline engines and farm implements.

Works must be in full operation by 1st of July, 1920.

Expect to see machinery in motion as soon as possible if this bylaw passes.

MAY CALL OFF THE STRIKE

WAR VETERANS ARE AFTER THE ALIENS IN TRADES COUNCIL.

WINNIPEG, June 5.—It was rumoured that the Central Strike committee was considering the advisability of calling off the sympathetic strike in view of impending action of War Veterans. It was stated at the Board of Trade that hundreds union men were ready to return to work despite contrary orders from the Strike committee, as soon as they were assured adequate protection. The strike situation seemed to be completely reversed. Labour leaders who have publicly and aggressively attempted to combat every Federal and Provincial and Municipal attempt to restore tranquility in Winnipeg, were asked "for protection" it was learned at the City Hall.

After the Aliens.

Mayor Charles F. Gray was informed that a parade of several thousand soldiers intended to march to the Trades and Labour Council today, force entrance if necessary, and demand that all aliens be ousted from Winnipeg unions.

The city to-day took over the distribution of milk and was arranging for bread distribution if necessary. It was reported that strike leaders were preparing to rescind their order of yesterday, ordering all union handlers of foodstuffs to go on strike. Mayor Gray said that milk stations would be opened in all public buildings and that adequate protection would be furnished.

THE WEATHER

Ninety-two degrees was the highest reached yesterday. To-day is somewhat cooler, the breeze blowing having to some extent moderated the extremely high temperature prevailing for some days past. Last night's lowest was 64 degrees, and was the warmest night of the present warm spell. Some thunder storms, and a little cooler weather is likely.—W.P.

AN OBJECTION TO THE BATHING SITE

MATTER DISCUSSED AT SESSION OF LEGAL COMMITTEE.

Two letters from legal representatives of Mrs. A. McDonald, 2 Crescent Street, protesting against the establishing of a public bathing beach at the east end of Lake Street, adjoining her houses. The property on both sides of the proposed site is owned by Mrs. McDonald.

Both letters stated that proceedings would be taken to restrain the city if the project is proceeded with.

Ald. Turner suggested that an artificial graduated depth tank be built in Central Park, but the Mayor said most of the boys would go to the river anyhow. His Worship suggested that the shore along Riverside Park would be an ideal location, with clean water. He was somewhat dubious of the cleanliness of the water in Little Lake.

"There were twenty boys swimming off Lake Street this afternoon," observed the Mayor.

Legal Advice.

The City Solicitor, asked his advice regarding Mrs. McDonald's action, stated that she would have to prove that the bathing beach created a public nuisance. The east end of Dalhousie Street was also mentioned, but was finally discarded when an allusion was made to the attendant dangers of the railway sidings and the switches.

The committee finally decided to have an interview with Mrs. McDonald and point out to her that no rowdyism will be tolerated at the bathing beach. An efficient supervisor will be on hand at all hours, and the boys will not be allowed to run on her property at the rear of her residence as is the case now.

This decision was given to a delegation from the Playgrounds Association, consisting of Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mr. A. G. Roberts, and Mr. J. W. Worth, who asked if the city would go ahead with their original plans whether Mrs. McDonald finally consented or not. A non-committal answer was given.

If Mrs. McDonald finally consents to the establishment of a bathing beach at the east end of Lake Street the Mayor stated that the bathing house would be constructed next week.

THE TURKS WILL BE MERELY WITNESSES TO PEACE TREATY

By Fred S. Ferguson.

(United Press.)

PARIS, June 5. — The Big Four have decided to call in the Turkish peace delegates, according to an unofficial report to-day. The exact date has not been fixed.

From the same source it was learned that the Turks will be considered merely as witnesses, rather than fully accredited plenipotentiaries. This was accepted as indicating that the Turks will be given practically no opportunity for discussion of the terms and will have to accept the conditions exactly as drawn up by the Allies.

The City Gets Another Five Thousand Dollar Contribution to Hunter Street Bridge

BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS APPROVED OF THE PLANS THIS MORNING.

THOSE PRESENT

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, June 5.— The Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners, in session here to-day, approved the plans for the three hundred thousand dollar concrete bridge across the Otonabee river and the C.P.R. tracks on Hunter street, Peterborough. Sir Henry Dayton, chairman of the Board, also announced that the City of Peterborough would receive a five thousand dollar grant from the government for the elimination of grade crossings by the construction of the bridge.

The plans, as approved, provide for double track for the C.P.R., and if the Quaker Oats Company, whose plant is situated near the bridge site, wishes trackage facilities, the firm must take the matter up with the city.

Appearing before the Board were Frank L. Barber, engineer for the work, C. R. Widdifield, City Solicitor, Peterborough, and Ald. Harry Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works committee.

RAILWAY CENTRES ARE CAPTURED

(Canadian Press.)

BERNE, June 5.—Troops of the army of General Simon Pethura, the anti-Bolshevik peasant leader in Ukraine, have captured the railway centres of Proskurov and Berdicheff, in Western Ukraine. Denial of the report that Bolsheviki had captured Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, was made to-day.

BUSINESS GIRLS HELD A CONCERT

PLAYLET WAS ONE OF THE INTERESTING FEATURES OF PROGRAM.

As is customary with anything the Business Girls' Club undertake, the concert given last evening in St. John's Sunday School Hall, was a brilliant success, and in spite of the sultry evening and the threatening skies the affair was well attended.

In opening the programme the chairman, Mr. F. D. Kerr spoke of the splendid work the Business Girls' Club is noted for, and wished them every success in the future.

The Playlet.

One of the principal features of the programme was the playlet entitled "Aunt Matilda's Birthday Party," presented by members of the club. In the play four bachelor girls decide to give an entertainment in their apartment for Aunt Matilda, a maiden lady who is about to celebrate her eightieth birthday. In their absence from their apartment, Mrs. Sparling, who is on the keen outlook for a successor to the departed Mr. Sparling, and who admits forty summers, mistakes the bachelor apartment for one she is to stay in and to her surprise on the return of the bachelor girls, who mistake her for the maiden aunt, they serve her with a sumptuous repast and congratulate the astonished lady on reaching the advanced age of eighty. Her anger reaches the boiling point when one of the girls remarks, "Why Auntie, one would never take you for over sixty-five!" With the arrival of the real Aunt Matilda, the situation is finally cleared up.

The Cast.

Each of the girls handled her part splendidly and made the best of the funny situations arising from the mistaken personality. The cast was as follows—

Margaret, Miss M. Lowrie.
Rose, Miss G. Evans.
Katherine, Miss A. Horsfield.
Mary, Miss M. Eee.
Mrs. Newbold, Miss Emmerson.
Phyllis, Miss M. Eaton.
Mrs. Sparling, Miss Sherlock.
Tiny, Miss Shevlin.
Miss Garland, Miss E. Hall.
Jane, Miss Saunders.

Rainbow dance Misses M. Perry, Edith Price and Thompson, of the Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium Class.

Piano duet, Overture to Tancredi, by Rossini, Misses Dollie and Marjorie Evans.

Vocal solo, "An Open Secret," Miss K. Masterson.

Monologue, "The Stove Pipe Hole" Mr. George Lynch.

Vocal solo, "Friend O'Mine," Miss Helen MacLaren.

Novelty Violin Selection, Mr. Eldred.

Reading, "Sandy McGlashan's Courting," Miss W. Parker.

Vocal solo, "I Fear no Foe," Mr. T. Ward.

Vocal Solo, Douglas Carlisle.

FIVE LOCAL FISH DEALERS APPLY

GOVERNMENT FISH WILL CONTINUE TO COME TO THE CITY C.O.D.

Five local fish dealers appeared before the Legal committee last night and stated that they were quite willing to have government fish come to the city C.O.D. The government at present gives each City Council authority to nominate handlers of government fish, but the Council must back them financially. The committee considered that the Council should not be responsible for any shortcoming of the fish dealers, but that they had no hesitation in saying that all the dealers applying for government fish licenses were perfectly reliable and were also satisfied that the fish should be sent to the city C.O.D.

NO BRAINS IN CANADA?

The present Government at Ottawa is no more entitled to praise for its consistency than it is for its energy or ability. It advocates trading at home, urges the Canadian people to buy Canadian-made goods, and many of its members once went through an election campaign loudly shouting, "No truck or trade with the Yankees." And yet we find that when the work of classifying and organizing the civil services was to be done, the Civil Service Commission shows so little confidence in Canadian ability or Canadian brains that it has employed a Chicago firm to carry out the work. Does the Government hope to convince the people of Canada that there is no one on this side of the line with brains enough to remodel the civil service? There is no question about the necessity of reforms in the civil service, but why go to another country for the services of alleged experts who, besides being paid a comparatively large [illegible] to carry out work that could just as effectively and successfully be done by Canadians?

Members on both sides of the House were amazed to find that this step had been taken by the Commission and their surprise will undoubtedly be echoed by the people generally when they appreciate the fact that the Government had not sufficient confidence in Canadians to entrust them with the task of re-organizing the civil service.

THE BURNHAM PLAN.

Capt. J. H. Burnham's remedy to meet the existing conditions in Canada is a minimum wage of $5.00 a day. The "cure" will have a sweet sound to the ear of the worker, but its efficacy is open to doubt. Raising wages only means raising the the prices of everything the worker has to buy with what he earns. If Capt. Burnham's proposal was to go into effect there would be an immediate increase in the cost of living. It would simply be a case of working in a circle, and the trouble is that the increase in prices generally exceeds the increase in wages, so that the people are no better off in any case. The method proposed by the member for West Peterborough fails to meet the situation. The cost of living must be reduced and profiteering eliminated if the workers' status is to be benefitted. Merely providing more money which automatically means bigger prices, is a plan that is not economically sound, and that would be of little use in the present crisis. It might appease the people for a while until they realized that their increased earnings were not sufficient to purchase any more than under their former wages. Then there would be fresh disturbances, demands for more wages, and the whole circle over again.

PROTECTION FOR BATHERS

A number of citizens have spoken to the Examiner endorsing the suggestion that if it is impossible for the Nicholls Park Board to pay for the services of a caretaker at Inverlea Park the city should see that an official be appointed for the summer. The fact that there was a caretaker on duty last summer was a source of comfort to hundreds of parents whose children were accustomed to bathe at Inverlea. A man in authority can look after the young bathers, by warning them against dangerous spots and seeing that they are compelled to swim where they are comparatively safe. Under the present conditions the youngsters have no one to look after them and can take any chances they desire. The city's bathing house scheme which should have been ready for the beginning of the swimming season is not yet complete and in the meantime the council would do well to consider the advisability of seeing that an official is placed on duty at Inverlea. If it is considered necessary to have policemen do traffic duty on the streets it should be equally necessary to look after the safety of the hundreds of young people who patronize Inverlea Park. The saving of one life would amply recompense all city for the expense of paying a caretaker for the next three or four months.

GERMANY'S DILEMMA.

The text of Count Brockdorff-Rantzau's letter to the Allies containing Germany's attitude toward the terms of the treaty of peace, made public by the State Department, is a wail. The Germans hoped for a "peace of justice," but are aghast at the demands made upon them and the "victorious violence of our enemies." The exactions of the treaty are "more than the German people can bear." With regard to territorial dispositions:—Thus cut to pieces and weakened, Germany must declare herself ready to bear all the war expenses of her enemies, which would exceed many times over the total amount of state and private assets. Objection is raised to the surrender of Germany's ships and colonies and to Germany's loss of "the right of self determination." Germany "must sign the degree for its own proscription, nay, its own death sentence." Sensitive about the "cause of the war," the reply of Germany suggests a commission to settle that disputed point. The reply also asks for "an oral conference" and "open covenants."

Germany evidently repents somewhat, for Count Brockdorff-Rantzau admits that "whenever in this war the victor has spoken to the vanquished, at Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest, the words were but the seeds of future discord." In substance, therefore, Germany says:—"We admit we have done wrong. Our hands were bloody, but we have cleansed them and want to be admitted to the League of Nations. We promise to be good." The Allies reply: — "You have broken faith with the world, committed atrocious crimes, and we do not trust you. You must take the consequences of your wrongdoing and prove your repentance by your deeds."

Germany is in a dilemma, Count Brockdorff-Rantzau either has asked or will ask to be relieved. In Berlin public opinion appears to be divided. The Ebert government, the only semblance of a government, desires to reject the allied treaty, but fears the consequences to itself and to Germany if refusal is persisted in.

Who will sign the treaty if the Ebert government does not? What will the Allies do if the treaty is rejected? The test of the nerve of the allied negotiators is at hand. If they modify the terms of the treaty appreciably they will bring upon themselves the wrath of all the nations who gave up so much to win a victory. Surrender on their part cannot be contemplated, even if the only alternative be—on to Berlin!—New York Herald.

bour Council and affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen of America. It is being freely rumoured that returned soldiers' buttons are being made by thousands in the north end of the city and military authorities have the matter in hand. The fine for wearing one of these buttons by a person who is not entitled to it, is $800. It is also stated on good authority that members of the I.W.W. from the States are in the city on behalf the strikers. "Red" Kennedy from Seattle will speak to-day.

Veterans Meet.

At a meeting held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. in Manitoba Hall, a resolution endorsing the strikers was passed by a large number of those present. The meeting was a particularly noisy one and was filled with Union members who consistently howled down everything that did not apply to labour. Exception was taken to J. O. Newton as chairman, and that position was filled during the greater part of the meeting by G. P. Weir. Speeches by various members of the Associations were not listened to unless they were in favour of the present strike and a large number of members left long before the business of the evening came up. The meeting as held was declared to be unconstitutional by a number of members of the executive, who also stated that they would immediately form a new G.W.V.A. for men who had served in France.

Telegraphers held a meeting yesterday but declined to go back to work. Winnipeg offices are the only ones in Canada not manned. The city is in a state of intense excitement. No one can predict what will happen. Gen. Ketchen has his forces ready. Fifty machine guns, several field guns and 10,000 men are ready to answer the call.

Street Parades.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 5.— Both anti-strike veterans and those who have endorsed the walk-out here, planned to hold parades again to-day. Conciliation offers have been transmitted by both sides through Railway Brotherhood officials, but neither the metal workers nor employers have replied so far as is known. Plans for presenting as strong a show of force as possible to preserve order were agreed on yesterday at a conference here of civic, provincial and military officials, when fears of clashes between rival parades was expressed. Reports from cities farther west which have been affected by the general strike movement indicated that conditions were approaching normal and no further walkouts of importance have occurred. Delegates from Western Canada were to meet at Calgary to-day to plan organization of the "One Big Union," and Victoria despatches said the strike there was marking time, awaiting results of this meeting. Calgary printers voted not to join the sympathetic strike. Public service utilities, newspapers and stores were operating as usual in Vancouver.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner

Sir I am asked questions in a letter in your paper last evening with respect to the Dog Bylaw. I am always pleased to give information pertaining to city business so far as I can to anyone and at any time, but the questions your correspondent asks are for expressions of opinion, and I feel that I should not try to give any opinion as to what the City Council has done or should do.

Yours truly,
S. R. Armstrong.

ORIENTALS VS. VETS TO-NIGHT

GOOD GAME EXPECTED IN THE CITY LEAGUE SERIES.

To-night's game in the City League series between the Great War Veterans and the Orientals promises to be a real battle inasmuch as neither team can afford to drop another game if they want to stay up in the League race. Manager Solomon of the Orientals, will send Kirn, fresh from his triumph over Cannon-ball Scott in Lindsay last night, back at the War Veterans to-night, while Manager Lahare of the Vets, is pinning his faith on Maynard, a left-hander, whose port side heaving is expected to puzzle the Orientals. The game is called for 6.45 o'clock and is scheduled to go nine innings.

TENNIS

The Peterboro Golf and Country Club and the Y.M.C.A. tennis club—will play their first match this season at the country club courts, Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. There will and two mixed doubles and two mixbe six events, two men's singles, two men's doubles, and two mixed doubles. Both teams boast several first class players and a good exhibition of tennis is assured.

The draw for the preliminary round of the men's handicap tennis championship at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club will be made Friday afternoon, June 13th. All entries should be in before that date. Mr. G. A. McDonald has presented a handsome trophy for this competition, and judging by the entries received to date, the competition will be keen. Applications for entry may be made either to Mr. G. O. Cameron or Mr. G. R. Langley.

LONDON CHEERS BEAUTIFUL BRIDE

Democratic Lady Diana Manners Given a Popular Reception.

LONDON, June 5.— Lady Diana Manners, the best known beauty in British society, was married in St. Margaret's, Westminster, yesterday afternoon to Lieutenant Alfred Duff Gordon of the Grenadier Guards.

The ceremony generally considered the 'wedding of the season," attracted tremendous public interest, and special policemen regulated the enormous crowds outside the church.

Thousands—women predominating, waited hours to cheer the popular bride, and to inspect her wedding dress, for Lady Diana has long been recognized as the arbitress of feminine fashions here.

The dress was of Botticelli white and gold tissue, and she wore a coronet of pearls.

Lady Diana is 27 years old, and the youngest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Rutland. Her democratic charm earned her the nickname of "Lady Perfect Manners."

Lieutenant Gordon, who is 29, is a nephew of the late Duke of Fife and cousin of Prince Arthur of Connaught. He won the D.S.O. in France and is taking the diplomatic post in the Foreign Office.

The honeymoon will be spent at Lord Grimthorpe's residence in Naples, the couple returning later to the ducal domain, Belvoir Castle.

Huge pockets continue to appear on the smart coats.

Oval pockets are new adornments for the tailored suit.

Kirn's great pitching and hitting and sensational work at short stop by Cherrett, were the outstanding features of the Central Ontario League game at Lindsay last evening in which the Petes administered a 7-4 trimming to Cannon Ball Ed. Scott, and his Graybirds, and thereby grabbing second place in the League series. It was a great victory for the Petes and all the more creditable because some of the players selected to go were unable to make the trip, and the Solomon crew were short-handed as a result. Catcher Max Swanston of the Matthews-Blackwell team, having to look after an outfield job to complete the line-up.

It was the third time that Kirn and Scott had hooked up and the Petes' twirler got ample revenge for last year's defeats at the hands of the former Hillcrest gunner. Kirn was in great form and out-pitched his much-touted opponent, allowing Lindsay only five singles and refusing to issue a base on balls, while the Petes nicked Scott's offerings for seven blows and in addition the big fellow handed out three complimentaries. Kirn's victory was all the sweeter for him because of the fact that he hammered his rival's slants for three perfectly good hits, driving in the tying run with a timely single in the seventh and sewing up the game by doubling to deep left in the eighth and chasing two more runners over the plate. The Petes' box artist had his curves breaking nicely, and lots of smoke on his fast one, and the Gray birds did not take at all kindly to what he was serving.

Cherrett performed in sensational style at short and even the Lindsay fans had to applaud his work. He started two double plays, scooped up two or three scorching drives on the run with one hand, and threw perfectly. His double-killing in the eighth, which was executed at lightning speed, broke up a decidedly dangerous rally. The first two Lindsay hitters up in that innings singled, and Coombs, the third man up, cracked one through the box for what looked to be a sure hit. Cherrett, however, came over second at top speed, gathered in the fast skipper with his gloved hand stepped on second to retire the base runner, and then nailed the batter at first. It was a beautiful play made in masterly style and pulled off at a critical moment.

Hagerman, who has been playing second for the Petes, was spiked in Tuesday's City League game, and was unable to play, but Collins, the sixteen year old second sacker of the Orientals, stepped into the breach and looked after the middle station like a veteran, fielding steadily and leading the team in run getting. The youngster's performance was a splendid one.

Neither team scored until the fifth when the Petes got the first counter over. They came back with two more in the sixth, but in Lindsay's half the Petes kicked in with a bad innings, three costly errors with a couple of hits sandwiched in giving Lindsay four runs and the lead.

Manager Solomon's team, however, were there with the old fighting spirit. They tied things up in the seventh and walked off with the ball game by registering three times in the eighth—Kirn interjecting a double where it would do the most good.

It was an exciting game all the way and the Scugog gang never stopped trying until Cherrett's double play in the final half of the eighth killed off a rally and drove the last ounce of "pep" out of the losers.

Seven hundred people turned out to see the battle, and you sure have to hand it to the Lindsay fans—they sure can root. They made more noise than the Petes have heard since armistice day and Manager Jake Solomon came in for a good share of what they were saying. There was plenty of entertainment for half way through the game a pair of harness horses settled an argument by trotting a mile on the race track, and in addition the fans had a chance to see Manager Solomon ejected bodily out of an argument with Umpire Dickie Butler of Lindsay, and shoved all the way over to the Peterboro bench. The Peterboro leader was right at that, Butler awarding a Lindsay batter first base when he swung on a third strike, and the ball hit him, but the Umps. was apparently not in good humour and lost his temper altogether when Solomon suggested that his knowledge of the rules was open to correction.

Quite a number of Peterboro fans motored to Lindsay for the game, and they were rewarded by an exciting game and a fine victory for the Petes.

The Lindsay diamond is "skinned" and covered with sand. It has baked hard and fast in the hot weather of the past week, and ground balls are extremely difficult to handle. The work of the Peterboro infield was especially creditable under the circumstances as the conditions are totally different to those at Riverside Park. Here is the story of the game:

First Innings.

Peterboro—Cherrett was thrown out on a bunt. Heenan was safe on Garnett's fumble and stole second. Long fanned and Heenan was doubled at third when he tried to steal. No runs, no hits, one error.

Lindsay — Cherrett threw out Stark. The Pete's short stop also grabbed Hill's bounder and got the runner at first. Carew fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Peterboro—Cavanah got a life when Coombs dropped Scott's throw but was out stealing. Logan to McMahon. Collins died on a roller to Stark, and Garnett got Soden on his tap to second. No runs or hits, one error.

Lindsay — Coombs was safe on Cavanah's high throw on which Long made a neat stop. McMahon popped to Cavanah in trying to sacrifice. Garnett lifted a high one to Kirn. Coombs was out stealing. Soden to Cherrett. No runs or hits, one error.

Third Innings.

Peterboro — Swanston grounded to Garnett, Wade fanned. Kirn singled through short, the first hit of the game. Cherrett missed three. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Lindsay — Long made a nice catch of Langdon's foul. Collins threw out Logan, Cherrett robbed Scott of a hit by grabbing his screaming grounder with one hand on the dead run, and nailing the runner at first. It was a great play. No hits, runs or errors.

Fourth Innings.

Peterboro — Scott tossed Heenan out. Long's best was a hopper to Garnett. Cavanah fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Lindsay — Stark was safe on Cavanah's bad throw. Hill hit into a double, Cherrett grabbing his grounder and nailing Stark at 2nd, while Collins' throw to Long headed off Hill. Carew beat out a slow one to Cavanah, the first hit off Kirn. Coombs, the next batter struck out, the third one he swung at hitting him and Umpire Butler awarded him first base. Manager Solomon put up a vigorous protest and was finally rushed off the field by His Umps., who grabbed the Pete's pilot and shoved him over to the Peterboro bench. When the game got started again, Kirn fanned McMahon. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Peterboro — Collins singled to right. Soden struck out and Logan threw to second too late to get Collins. McMahon pulled a boner by throwing to first to get Soden, who was out anyway. The throw was high and Collins went to third. Swanston in trying to bunt popped to Scott. The latter threw badly to third in trying to double Collins and the base runner scored. Wade was safe on Logan's bad throw to first. Kirn lined into Stark's hands. One run, one hit, three errors.

Lindsay. — Garnett fanned. Wade made a nice catch of Langdon's fly to centre. Collins tossed Logan out at first. No runs, hits or errors.

Sixth Innings.

Peterboro — Cherrett beat out a bunt and stole second. Heenan drew a pass. Cherrett purloined third and Heenan stole the middle station. McMahon threw high to the plate on Long's sacrifice and Cherrett and Heenan scored, Long going to second. He immediately stole third. Cavanah slapped one at Scott, who fumbled but recovered in time to throw Long out at the plate. Cavanah stole second but was stranded as Collins' smash was right at McMahon. The latter also nailed Soden's fly. Two runs, one hit, one error.

Lindsay — Scott singled over second and went to second on a passed ball. Stark hit to Cavanah, and Scott was caught between bases. In the chase that followed Cherrett threw high to Collins and the runner was safe. Hill singled to right, filling the bases with no one out. Carew fanned. Collins fumbled Coombs' grounder, Scott scoring. McMahon hit to Cherrett and Stark and Hill counted when the throw got away from Soden, Coombs going to third, Garnett's tap in front of the plate scored Coombs, the batter being out at first. Langdon rolled to Collins. Four runs, two hits, three errors.

Seventh Innings.

Peterboro — Swanston was safe on Garnett's error and was sent to second on Coombe's interference. Wade touled out to Langdon. Kirn singled to left scoring Swanston with the tying run. Cherrett beat out a bunt. Heenan rolled to Scott. Coombs grabbed Long's foul in good style. One run, two hits, one error.

Lindsay — Logan flied to Collins, Cherrett made another sensational running pick up of Scott's hard smash over second. Collins took good care of Stark's roller. No runs, hits or errors.

Eighth Innings.

Peterboro — Cavanah was safe on McMahon's fumble. Collins hit to Garnett, who threw low to second, and everybody was safe. Soden struck out. Swanston hit to Scott, who nailed Cavanah at third. Wade drew a pass, filling the bases. Collins scored on a passed ball, and then Kirn put the game on ice with a long double over Langdon's head in left, scoring Swanston and Wade. Cherrett worked Scott for a walk. Heenan rolled to second. Three runs, one hit, two errors.

Lindsay — Hill singled to right. Carew hit safely to centre. Coombs smashed one towards second, but Cherrett came over on the run, made a one handed pick up, stepped on second and then shot the ball to Long for a lightning double play. Kirn fanned McMahon for the third out. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Peterboro—Stark threw Long out, Cavanah singled to centre and stole second. Collins lined to McMahon. Soden struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Lindsay — Swanston made a nice catch of Garnett's fly to right. Soden threw Langdon out on his roller in front of the plate. Logan fouled out to Soden in trying to bunt. No runs, hits or errors.

EYE BLINDED BY EGG SHELL SPLINTER WHILE CANDLING AT FLAVELLE'S, GIRL SEEKS $500

THREE ACTIONS AGAINST G.T.R. ENTERED ON COUNTY COURT DOCKET—STANLEY IVISON STRUCK BY TRAIN AT REID STREET CROSSING HAS NOT YET RECOVERED.

SUMMARY OF CLAIMS

Five hundred dollars and costs are claimed from Flavelles Limited of Lindsay by Nellie Mooney of Harvey township for the loss of the sight of her left eye caused by a splinter of an egg shell getting into it while the plaintiff was employed by the company at Lindsay. Gordon and O'Brien are solicitors for the plaintiff and Clarke, Swabey and McLean of Toronto for the defendant company. This case is one of the list set down for the County Court sessions beginning next Tuesday before Judge Huycke. All but one are jury cases.

Howden vs. Hunt

Wm. G. Howden claims $500 and costs from Herbert Hunt of Harvey township, alleging that the defendant who owned a stallion which he represented to be pure bred agreed to sell it for $225 to the plaintiff upon production of its registration. From time to time in 1918, plaintiff demanded the registration and in April, Hunt forwarded a certificate showing that the horse was a grade and not a pure bred stallion. Mr. Hunt in his defence denies misrepresentation. Peck, Kerr & McElderry for plaintiff; Gordon and O'Brien for defense.

Hubbel vs. G T. R.

Ernest Hubbel asks for $500 and costs from the G.T.R. for damages to his automobile resulting from an accident at the Rink street crossing of the Belleville division on Nov. 19th 1918 when a freight train backed into the plaintiff's car.

Mrs. Hubbel is also bringing action for $500 and costs for injuries received in the accident. Gordon and O'Brien for the plaintiffs and W. H. Biggar of Toronto for the G. T. R.

Peterboro Ranching Co. vs. Leahy

Claiming $600 damages from Michael Leahy of Peterboro, the Burleigh Ranching Company state that the defendant agreed on March 1st 1919, to feed and take care of the company's cattle at their ranch in this county. On March 3rd, thirteen cattle were placed in his charge, but owing to alleged failure on Leahy's part to feed and stable the cattle in a proper manner, four of them died and the others were reduced to a poor condition causing the company $300 damage. They also ask for $300 for the four cows that died, and costs. C. R. Widdifield for plaintiffs. Gordon and O'Brien for defendant.

Defendant states that his respon sibility for the care of the cattle terminated with the sale of his farm.

King vs. Lindsay

The only non-jury case in the list is that of Samuel King against H. P. Lindsay.

Both parties carried on an insurance business from Jan. 1st to Aug. 1st 1918, when it was dissolved by mutual consent. Plaintiff says he purchased a motor car and defendant agreed to allow him a reasonable sum as compensation for its use. Plaintiff also states that he advanced $117 to the partnership at defendant's request for the purchase of a horse, paid $30 for its pasture and $4 for shoeing. On the sale of the horse plaintiff received $75, and the balance of money so advanced is still unpaid.

Plaintiff claims an account of the partnership transactions and commissions and to have the affairs of the partnership wound up; reasonable allowance for the use of his car and $76 and costs of the action.

Mr. Lindsay denies having requested plaintiff to advance money to purchase a horse, and presents a statement of the partnership business. Earnings amounted to $976.57 and expenses to $546.03 Plaintiff's share, the statement sets out, of the net earnings of the partnership is $273.01 and he disbursed $157.60 making a total of $430.61 and plaintiff received from the partnership $363.15 leaving a balance of $67.46. There is $107.50 outstanding to the credit of the partnership. The defendant pays the $67.46 into court A. T. Medd for plaintiff and J. F. Strickland for defendant.

Burnham vs. Ackerman

Edgar Burnham's suit for $1000 against Mrs. C. H. Ackerman for damages to his automobile following a collision on Park street was transferred from the December sessions.

Ivison vs. G. T. R.

Stanley Ivison was struck by the noon G.T.R. train from Toronto at the Reid street crossing on the very day he began his apprenticeship. His leg was seriously scraped and bruised on that day November 25th 1918 and the boy has since been unable to return to work for any time. His father has been put to heavy expense and has lost the help he would have received from the boy. The boy claims $500 damages and costs from the company. Gordon and O'Brien are solicitors for the plaintiff and W. H. Biggar are defending the company.

Stenson vs Fontaine

Alleged reckless driving on the part of a servant of the defendant A. F. Stenson, a farmer in North Monaghan has made out a long claim for damages against Joseph Fontaine. liiu..

Fontaine. Stenson says that his horse was injured, the harness and buggy damaged and he also suffered from the shaking up. His bill is as follows: $8 paid to Dr. T. J. Johnston $75 for depreciation in the value of the horse, $24 repairs to buggy, $5 repairs to plaintiff's coat, $2.90 repairs to the harness, $25 to assuage his personal pain and suffering, also $1 a day for the loss of the services of the horse from Dec. 21st to date, and costs.

The defendant replies that Mr. Stenson was negligent in his driving and enters a counter claim of $344.00 for damages to the automobile. Moore and Wearing for the plaintiff. Gordon and O'Brien for the defendant.

AEROPLANE WAS BURNT TO ASHES

Secrets of the Studio on "The Heart of Humanity" at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

The film was over eleven months in preparation.

The actual cost of production amounted to about $335,000.

Sergeant Sidney Flowers of the Canadian army and Eric von Stroheim of the Austrian army gave Director Holubar technical military assistance.

Over 200,000 feet of film were used to obtain the eight reels comprising the feature as it is at present.

Over 80,000 feet of battle scenes were taken.

The actual cost of one fifteen-foot scene from the photoplay was $12,852, averaging close to $857 per second or per foot of film. This is perhaps the most expensive scene ever filmed This particular scene was three days in the making.

One thousand and forty-seven extras, many men having to be used because re-inforcements were needed frequently

A squadron of tanks was called into service.

A squadron of airplanes was used in the production.

Two cameras were destroyed by explosions which proved to be more powerful than estimated.

Eleven players were injured and were treated in Universal City hospital for a total of sixteen days.

Seventeen completely built houses were destroyed to produce some of the required effects.

A standard, brand new airplane was burnt to ashes after falling from an elevation of 4,000 feet.

Six miles of battle trenches were constructed in a field of 150 acres.

From first to last 452 horses were used. Other animals included were cows, goats and dogs.

During the process of production on the Universal stages, the largest in the world, the interior settings occupied an area of 120,000 square feet—the largest area ever devoted to a single production in the history of the cinema.

Enthusiasm and superstition are the weaknesses of human reason.—Burton.

PETITION LACKED SUFFICIENT NAMES

BARBERS ARE NOT UNANIMOUS ON SHORTER HOURS.

The petition of the local barbers embodying shorter hours for the tonsorial artists which was read at the last meeting of the City Council came before the Legal Committee last night, but it was found that it was one signature short to make it valid. Two barbers have in the interim withdrawn their names from the petition, Twenty barbers attend to the city's needs but only fourteen names appeared on the petition, one short of the necessary three-quarters

Ald. Gainey questioned whether the names could be withdrawn after once entered on the petition but Mr. Widdifield thought they could and further stated that the closing at seven o'clock would not be binding as they could stay open until seven o'clock standard time and thus defeat the object of the petition. The city could not force the barbers to advance their clocks to Daylight Saving time.

The mayor suggested that the barbers make another attempt to get a sufficient number of names to make the petition active and a test case could be entered if a barber changed back to the old time.

Remove Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of To-day)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface, and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin, and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.

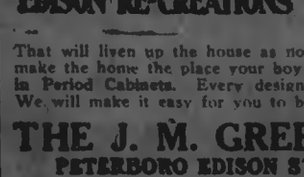
HELP YOUR BOY ADJUST HIMSELF TO PEACE



EDISON RE-CREATIONS

Suppose you'd spent the past one, two, or three years in hurdling machine gun nests—or potting submarines—or swooping over the German lines in an airplane—wouldn't the old home seem a little quiet, almost dull, after you'd been back a few days? Quite a problem to adjust yourself to the hum-drum life of peace after gambling with death daily for many months. And that's the problem which faces your boy. You can help solve it. Give him

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

That will liven up the house as nothing else will. Bring your boy's friends in to enjoy it with him, and make the home the place your boy wants to stay. Drop in to-morrow and see our exhibit of New Edisons in Period Cabinets. Every design is now a Period Cabinet, no matter what the price.

We will make it easy for you to buy your New Edison if money stands in the way.

PETITION FOR 44-HOUR WEEK IS SPONSORED BY LABOUR COUNCIL

WILL BE FORWARDED TO PREMIER HEARST AND COPIES DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT THE PROVINCE SEEKING THE CO-OPERATION OF ALL LABOUR BODIES—A MODIFICATION OF THE 8-HOUR DAY.

STREET SWEEPERS' CASE

A resolution adopted by the Trades and Labour Council last night petitioning Premier Hearst to establish a 44-hour week for all labour in Ontario, exeepting agricultural workers, was strongly approved. Copies of this resolution will be sent to all the Labour Councils in the Province for their consideration and advocacy. The original motion proposed the 8-hour day for all workers, but it was pointed out that this movement was actually reactionary, that many groups were demanding the 8-hour day, with Saturday afternoon off.

Labourers Grateful.

Mr. T. Tooms, speaking on behalf of the Labourers' Union, thanked the Trades and Labour Council for their support during the recent strike, and especially for the concert, which had yielded the sum of $175, to be divided among the labourers, who had received no assistance from their general Union. Although the men had been pinched by their strike, they had stood together without the least sign of going back until their demands had been granted.

"They are the best bunch of chaps I ever met," Mr. Tooms stated. "The labourers are the basis of all other Unions, and when you get them on a good living basis it will be easier for skilled workers to advance themselves."

Mr. Tooms, stated that there was some misunderstanding at the City Hall about the wages of the street sweepers. City Engineer Parsons had told him that he had received no instructions to re-employ the sweepers at the 45 cent an hour wage, and, as a result, on this seeming difference of interpretation the Board of Works at their next meeting will be asked for a definite decision.

Mr. Tooms added that he had understood from the City Council's motion and Mayor Duncan's explanation that all outside labourers employed by the city were to be paid 45 cents an hour, and that the street sweepers were included. The only exceptions were three old men who were satisfied, with the concurrence of the Union, to accept a smaller wage.

The Romaine Street Sewer.

A little hitch had occurred in the recommencement of the Romaine Street sewer work, Mr. Tooms reported. The stationary engineers had gone on strike in sympathy with the labourers, and the engineer of the steam pile driver, used in driving the steel sheeting, had not been instructed by his Local to return to work. As a result, the labourers were unable to proceed without the sheeting, which is used to support the walls of the trench and facilitate the pumping of the water from the bottom. Mr. Tooms said he hoped this obstacle would soon be removed.

A delegate expressed the opinion that Mayor Duncan was at fault in failing to convey to the department heads the orders passed by the City Council. He should have carried out that detail as quickly as possible after the Council meeting in order that unnecessary delay might be avoided, and also to prevent any misinterpretation of the Council's decision regarding the employment and payment of labourers.

Instruct Labour Aldermen.

One suggestion advanced was that the Labour aldermen should be requested to meet the Trades Council and be instructed to insist that the City Engineer re-engage the men who had gone on strike, and also to demand the rigid enforcement of the by-law that requires all employees of the city to live within its boundaries.

The Firemen's Assistance.

A delegate from the Firemen's Union reported that when the driver of the Board of Works' horse went on strike with the rest of the labourers, a man living in Smith Township, just outside the city, was appointed in his place. The firemen had previously taken care of the horse, but when the "scab" appeared they decided that he would have to do all the work of stabling and feeding.

"We didn't speak to him at all," said the delegate of the Firemen, "and we left the care of the horse to him."

A resolution was passed calling the attention of the City Council to the by-law regarding the employment of only residents of the city on local work.

Support Stickney By-law.

A letter from Mr. G. N. Gordon, soliciting the support of Labour for the Stickney By-law, which is before the electors to-day, was heartily approved, and a resolution of endorsation was passed.

Committee Discharged.

The special committee, appointed to investigate an allegation that the contract for the painting and decorating of the Public Library had been let to Mayor Duncan and performed by his employees, reported that they had failed to obtain any definite information.

The committee was relieved of further duty, and the inquiry was closed.

It had been stated at a previous meeting that Mr. J. A. Fife held two positions as electrician for the Quaker Oats Company and also as electric inspector for Peterborough. The Council decided last night to ask Mr. Fife to explain the situation to them, and it was intimated that his explanation was expected to be entirely satisfactory.

Union Labels.

Mr. Howard Matthews presented the Council with a score of placards which he obtained from Washington, D.C., bearing facsimiles of all Union labels. They will be distributed locally in order that all workers may familiarise themselves with the labels of Union-made goods. It is understood that this is a preliminary step in a movement to inspire a Label Committee with the benefits that will accrue to Union workers from an active and insistent demand for the products of Union shops and Union workers.

Further developments in this direction are contemplated by the Council.

NEW STREET CAR SERVICE OPEN ON CHARLOTTE STREET MONDAY

TWO GREEN CARS WILL BE USED AND THE ACCOMMODATION IN THE WEST END SHOULD BE APPRECIABLY IMPROVED—WILL RUN FROM BOLIVAR TO HUNTER ST.

TROLLEY WIRE BROKE

The two new street cars will be launched on the Charlotte street service on Monday. Their route is from Bolivar street to Hunter street by way of the Monaghan road. Coming from the west these cars will precede the C.G.E. cars, and turning up George street will trail the white-barred ones. The two green cars will pass each other on the double tracks at the Park street corner, where the Jackson Park car will pick up transfers. Thus there will be connectoin at this point for the Jackson park line from both the east and west ends of the new service. The present inconvenience of going up to the boundary and back to make a connection to Jackson Park will be eliminated, and it is believed that the new arrangements will be thoroughly satisfactory.

The green cars are running as extras on the George street line these days, takjng a few fares as a matter of practice. On Saturday they will help carry the circus crowds, and will be put to a real test. On Monday, however, they will be introduced to the west end citizens, and with all their last minute features should get a good reception.

Trolley Wire Broke.

A trolley wire on the C.G.E. line snapped last night at eight o'clock in the block between Sherbrooke and Bolivar streets. The whole system was immediately brought to a standstill when the power was automatically cut off by the "ground wire." It is customary for the operatives at the power station to let the system remain broken until he is notified that all repairs have been made and that no workmen are engaged on the wires. The system was tied up for an hour.

The Motormen Conductors.

The four men who have been chosen to operate the new cars in the dual position of motorman and conductor are Messrs. Guthrie, Weart, Young and Foster. They are all experienced employees and if the one-man plan is practicable on this run it is felt that they should make a success of it.

SHERWOOD CO.'S TENDER $283,000

SUBMITTED OWN DESIGN FOR A BRIDGE OF FULL LENGTH AND WIDTH—SEEK ANOTHER HEARING

The Sherwood Construction Company's tender of $283,300 for the construction of the Hunter street bridge on alternative plans of their own design was recalled today by E. R. Clarke, B.A. Sc., an engineer with this company, who stated that he had returned to Peterboro in the expectation that the Council in its present deadlock would seriously consider the Sherwood tender. The design shows a succession of open spandrels and a single arch over the river. The price of $283,300 was for the bridge in its original dimensions. It is of full length and width, providing for double street car tracks.

Mr. Clarke stated the company had proferred an alternative design because of its splendid appearance and other features that would be advantageous to the city. With its acceptance there would be a saving of engineering fees which will have to be paid to Mr. Barber under the present arrangement. If the Council desires to reduce the bridge in length and width the Sherwood Construction company would make proportionate reductions in their tender. Furthermore, while the plans had not been submitted to the Railway Board the company were so confident of their correctness that they were prepared to begin work at once and should any alterations be required they would make them without any cost to the city.

In the present unsettled conditions surrounding the bridge contract Mr. Clarke stated that he intended requesting the Council or a committee to give him a hearing. Their price for the original bridge is approximately on the same level as the prices of other contractors after all the eliminations sanctioned by the Council have been made. Mr. Clarke emphasized the point that his company was prepared to build the bridge as outlined in the first place for the sum of $283,300, and in view of the changes that have been proposed since the tenders were first opened the Sherwood Construction is of the opinion that it should receive a more favorable hearing than formerly when the Council decided to consider only the Barber plans. There has been or no progress since that time. The only question about the Sherwood plans is the approval of the Railway Board, but Mr. Clarke states that he is willing to guarantee that there will be no difficulty from that direction.

ART EXHIBIT DEMONSTRATES THE ABILITY OF PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS

EXHIBIT OPEN FOR INSPECTION TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW—"WHAT FATHER DOES."

Bearing witness of the talented instruction they have received from their teachers under the efficient supervision of the Art Supervisor Miss J. C. McRae, the art exhibit of the children of the city schools at the Central School today and tomorrow tells a silent story of the talent and the originality of the pupils of the city schools.

The exhibition is so graded that the work of the tiniest tot of six years of age stands first and the visitor is shown the gradual development of the pupils ideas and ability as he is shown the work of the different classes up to the senior fourth where some remarkably fine samples of art are on view. The first department of art under Miss McRae's instruction consists of charcoal work of the six year olds who are at liberty to illustrate ideas of their own. The little one's ventures to depict "Going to School on a Rainy Day", a cat chasing a mouse etc., are very amusing and show no small measure of originalty. In the next stage of art the pupil is taught in the primer free hand drawing and is instructed how to draw the sky and earth line and develop a picture as he likes. In developing the picture some of the children have worked out an illustration of "What my Father Does" and judging by the pictures some fathers are line men, others canoe builders and some farmers. With the first book and on up to the higher the children are taught to illustrate their own thoughts and the gradual development of free hand drawing shows some remarkably fine results. The water color sketches done without the help of pencils is praiseworthy and the colors are all developed from the three basic colors, red, yellow and blue.

One thing Miss McRae never allows is the copying of a picture. Everything is done from the imagination, with the suggestion from a poem or quotation or from the object itself. In the latter department bunnies are at times brought to school and while the rabbit is kept busy eating the children make some lifelike pictures. Squirrles, apples, flowers and fruit are also utilized.

Conventional Work.

The conventional work by pupils in the more advanced grades is a revelationo of the ability of the pupils to work out designs of their own from suggestion from some object and the result of their efforts are surprising.

The judging of the exhibition which will be done by Miss Lenore Sanderson and Miss Rush will be completed this afternoon.

ALD. TURNER TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

MAYOR DUNCAN AND OTHER CITIZENS URGING HIM TO RECONSIDER RETIRING.

Ald. J. J. Turner has handed his resignation to Mayor Duncan. The Mayor reluctantly admitted the truth of the rumor to this effect which had gained considerable circulation this morning.

"I wish you wouldn't say anything about it," said the Mayor. "I have been trying to persuade Ald. Turner to withdraw it, and other citizens have also been pressing him not to resign."

The announcement will be a great surprise to the citizens who have doubtless failed to observe any compelling reason why Ald. Turner should forsake the Council in mid-year. For his opinions on the question of wages for workmen who may be employed on the Hunter street bridge, if it ever materializes, he has been criticised by labor men, and after last Monday nights meeting the labour men paid him a compliment in the statement that "Ald. Turner is the cleverest man in the council."

It may be that Ald. Turner feels that in his views of how the city business should be conducted he has been unconsciously arousing opposition which he could very easily avoid by relinquishing his position on the council.

The death occurred yesterday at her home in Keene of Mrs. Katherine Knox, aged 74 years and 10 months. She leaves two sons, William and Andrew, and one daughter, Mrs. Walter Hope, all of Keene.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, Keene, at 2.30 p.m., standard time, to-morrow to Keene Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

SAWYER--TAYLOR.

Quietly at the George Street Methodist Parsonage this morning, at 11 o'clock, the wedding was solemnized of Ben Sawyer of Rama and Caroline Taylor of Curve Lake. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Thomas.

CROUGH—HEADLE

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, June 3rd in St Leo's church by Rev. Father Meade of Miss Anna Crough, formerly of Peterboro, and Mr. Charles Headle foreman of the Continental Motor Co. Detroit Mich. The bride was attired in a travelling suit of blue with white hat. She was attended by Miss Cecilia Hebich while John Rapp acted as best man.

After the ceremony the party motored to the home of the bride's brother Philip Crough, 645 28th street where a reception was held. Afterwards they left on the 2:20 train for Columbus, Ohio, the home of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Headle will reside at 729 Manistique Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

MOSCROP—HAUN.

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place at All Saints' church at 6 o'clock last evening, when Arthur Moscrop, returned from overseas, was married to Miss Louisa Haun, by the Rev. R. B. Grobb.

The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. William Gatfield, a long friend of the family, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Flowers, organist of All Saints' Church. The bride looked very charming in a white Georgette crepe dress and wearing the usual bridal veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of carnations and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Matilda Haun, wearing white silk, with overdress of net, and carried carnations; while her little flower girl, Ella Gatfield, wore white silk, with touches of pale pink and carrying a basket of lily of the valley. Sergt. Fred Gant acted as best man.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to their new home on George street where a dainty supper was awaiting them.

The young couple left on the 9.19 G.T.R. train for a short honeymoon to Belleville, Kingston and points east, the bride travelling in a pearl grey suit with white hat, and wearing a large white fur.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond pendant; to the bridesmaid a gold bar pin set with amethyst and pearls; to the best man a tie pin.

The bride received many useful and costly gifts, showing the high esteem in which she was held.

THE CONGREGATIONAL MEETING WAS HELD

GEORGE STREET CHURCH HAD A VERY SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

At the annual congregational meeting of the George Street Methodist Church, the members of the congregation elected to the Quarterly Official Board for the year were Mrs. Stubbs, Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, Messrs. T. W. Robinson, C. E. Smith, S. A. Oke, G. C. Staples, N. Routley, B. Shortly, and Dr. E. E. Harvey.

In opening the meeting which was very largely attended, the pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas, who occupied the chair, in a short address welcomed the assembly, and spoke of the encouraging results of the year's work shown in the reports.

The Reports.

The reports from all the departments of the church work showed appreciable advance in each department. The report of church membership showed a total membership of 1,093, an increase of 53. A total of $14,475 was raised by the church for all purposes.

Miss Elson, in her report of the Senior Epworth League, showed total receipts of $373. In her report of the Junior League, Miss Leggott showed a membership of 60 and total receipts of $60.

The report of the Benevolent Fund presented by Mr. G. W. Powell showed a good balance.

Mrs. Shortly, in her report of the Ladies' Aid Society, showed $748 raised.

In the report of the Mission Circle and the Woman's Mission Auxiliary, read by Miss Smith and Miss Wood, a total contribution of $479 was shown.

The report of the General Missionary Fund of the Church showed $3,081 had been raised, which makes from the total missionary giving of the Church through the General Fund, the Woman's Missionary Society, and the Victory Bonds of the Sunday School, a total of $3,810.

Mr. J. H. Renwick read an encouraging report from the choir.

The Grace Sunday School report showed a total membership of 99, with an average attendance of 70, and a total of $131 raised during the year.

The report of the George Street Sunday School showed a total membership of 822, with an average attendance of 409. A total of $1,205 was raised by the School, of which $622 was for Missions.

Mr. Felix Bronscombe, treasurer of the church, reported for the Trustee Board.

Mr. G. C. Carruthers, recording steward, reported for the Quarterly Official Board.

Resolution of Appreciation.

A resolution of appreciation, moved by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, and supported by Mr. B. Shortly and Dr. Harvey, was passed for Mr. T. W. Robinson, Envelope Secretary, who, on account of ill-health, has been forced to resign his position.

At the close of the evening's business, light refreshments were served and a solo by Mrs. Renwick was much appreciated.

PRIVATE E. R. HATTON HAS ARRIVED HOME

Private Edwin R. Hatton son of Mr. G. W. Hatton, crown attorney returned home this morning after several years overseas. Pte Hatton is one of three sons who enlisted and went overseas. About a month before the armistice was signed Pte. Hatton had his horse shot from under him. This incident left Pte. Hatton with a badly shattered left arm from which he has not fully recovered.

IN MEMORIAM.

In true and loving memory to my lad, Jack Watkiss, who was drowned at the Locks a year ago to-day (June 5th, 1918).

It was in a cottage by the sea,
Just after a shower of rain,
The birds were twittering in the trees,
That a new born baby came.

His hair was soft and his eyes were brown,
The most beautiful eyes you could wish to see;
He was one of the dearest to be found,
The bravest and kindest to me.

The years swiftly went, and I looked with content
At the boy that grew up, with pride;
But now he has gone to our Father's home,
He has forever left my side.

He was a lad like this, with an open mind,
Always ready to help, and ever be kind,
But there is one thing death cannot sever,
A mother's love, it will last forever.

Good-bye my Jack, I shall never forget,
I shall patiently wait God's will and time,
When I hope to clasp you once again
Without a sigh of grief or pain.

Please God be kind to the other mothers
Who have lost their boys in the fight;
May they find peace and comfort, as they journey along
To the end, where there is no strife.

—From Mother.

THE MAKING OF A 50-POUND COW

The Breeding and the Feeding of Rolo Mercena DeKol—By F. E. Ellis in Farm and Dairy

Truth is oftentimes stranger than fiction and the romance of business is something more wonderful than the product of an author's imagination. Hear this story of an Oxford county farm. One year ago last month J. B. Hanmer, of Norwich, took over his father's farm. At the dispersion sale of Hanmer, Senior, the boy, for he was only 22 years old, invested a few hundred dollars in some of his father's best cows. On his start as a farmer he found himself with a hundred acres of sandy loam soil, hardly a fair equipment of buildings, and, like most young men just starting in, a heavy load of debt. But he had his cows and with these he had entire confidence in the future. For several years he had been studying Holstein history. Feeding problems were his chief interest. The first spring he tested with fair success. This winter and spring he has tested again and made a record for successful official test work that has probably never before been equalled on any farm in Canada and perhaps in America. In the past four months this young farmer in his very early twenties has made, with a small herd of registered Holsteins, four new world's records and six Canadian records. The seven head he has tested,—two junior two-year-olds, three senior three-year-olds and two mature cows—have an average production as a result of his work of 30.81 lbs. of butter in seven days. His greatest achievement is the developing of the world's record 50 pound cow and now holder of all world's records for butterfat production from one day to 30. As a result of this remarkable testing, J. B. Hanmer, now finds himself known the continent over in Holstein circles, and with cattle that, in the sales ring, will realize him enough to buy half a dozen good one hundred acre farms.

The Cow and Her Records.

We went out to the barn to see the cow, Rolo Mercena DeKol. In a box stall in a quiet corner of the cow barn we found the most valuable cow in the world. I had been pleased with her records as was every other Canadian live stock man. I was just as pleased with the cow. As an individual she is excellent. The illustration herewith speaks for her. The new champion is not a large cow; just a fair size. But she has quality written in large type all over her; a beautiful feminine head, true dairy conformation coming more closely to the ideal wedge type than any other world's champion of my acquaintance; a hide that handles like a glove and a perfect udder. She had been taken out to be photographed in the cold, raw weather of the previous Saturday and had contracted a cold so I did not see her at her best. But even as she was she looked the kind of a cow to do great things in the right hands. In some ways she reminded us of a previous world's champion Canadian cow but in the yearly division, Countess DeKol, G. A. Brethen's great three-year-old. Here are the records that make Rolo Mercena DeKol several times a world's champion:

Best day	8.57 lbs. butter
Seven days	51.93 lbs. butter
Thirty days	200.34 lbs. butter
Sixty days	337.49 lbs. butter

The first three records are for all ages, all breeds. The sixty day production leads the world in the mature class, but is exceeded by that of Ormsby Jane Segis Aaggie with 361 lbs. of fat in the four-year-old division. This cow was tested again as a mature cow and although she raised her seven-day record from 44 lbs. of butter to 46.33 she did not stand the pace for sixty days as well as she had done in her four-year-old form. The nearest production to that of Rolo Mercena DeKol in the 30 day division is Fairview Korndyke Mata with 185.37 lbs. of butter, leaving the Canadian cow a lead of 15 lbs. The cow whom she supersedes in the seven day division is Segis Fayne Johanna with 50.68 lbs. of butter, her one day production being 7.75. This record, too was made in a scientifically constructed test barn with every aid to production that money could purchase, while Rolo Mercena DeKol made her record in an ordinary farm box stall and attended by a young farmer who, for weeks at a time, had no regular help with his farm work and, through illness and lack of help in the house, did the house work as well during a part of the test. Another remarkable feature is that the Canadian cow started at 28½ lbs. of butter for her first seven days and gained steadily making her greatest record in the last week of her test three months after calving. Such a persistent increase in production is a tribute to both the producing ability and constitution of the cow and the skill of her feader.

In milk production Rolo Mercena DeKol has gone high, but not sensationally so. In her best day she made 125.8 lbs. of milk and during her 51.93 pound test her best daily production was 114 lbs. In 30 days she made 2,920.5 lbs. of milk and in sixty days 5,795.1 lbs. It was a combination of high milk production and a high test that made her great records. The previous year, without any special attention, she produced 17,127 lbs. of milk in 11 months.

Her Breeding.

And now the question arises, where did this cow get her great producing ability? If there are not strong blood lines in her pedigree she must be a freak and, therefore, of doubtful value as a breeding proposition. At first it was reported that such was the case. It was this point particularly that I went to Norwich to investigate. Perhaps the whole story may be of interest to Farm and Dairy readers. I will tell it anyway.

In the year 1912 young Hanmer and his father were doing some work several miles from home. In passing through a pasture field a young cow attracted their attention. "There is a likely looking cow, dad," remarked the lad of sixteen. "Perhaps we can buy her." Well, the cow had met with an accident earlier in the year which had depreciated her value. In her owner's eyes, likewise she was not bred at the time. As a result of this combination of circumstances this cow became the property of the Hanmers, registration papers and all, for a consideration of $25.50. This was the dam of the 50-lb. cow, the most fortunate buy a breeder ever made. Evidently the cow herself did not appreciate her good fortune for a couple of days later she disappeared and was finally located 13 miles away and just two miles from an Indian reserve. Had she ever crossed that intervening two miles she would have been branded, sure as fate, and Flora DeKol Pietertje would never have been heard of again.

The dam of Winnie R's DeKol was Winnie R, a cow that Geo. Rice purchased in Michigan. Her sire is reported to have been Homestead Albino DeKol, a bull that Geo. Rice used extensively about that time, but without sufficient herd books at hand I have not yet been able to verify this ancestry. Flora DeKol Pietertje is still owned in Mr. Hanmer's herd. She was one of the ones that he purchased from his father. One of the best known Holstein authorities of the United States recently pronounced her just as fine in conformation as Duchess Skylark Ormsby, the great Minnisota cow. And she was purchased for $25.50!

Tragedies of the Breeding World.

She was bred immediately to Sir Rolo Banks Mercena. This bull, then not quite a year old, was purchased in dam by Mr. Hanmer, Sr., the cow costing him $75 at 16 years old. The calf resulting was the 50-pound cow. And it is here that we find the richest blood behind the new champion. He was by the same sire as Alta Posch and Mercena 3rd, bred by Jas Rettie of Norwich. Alta Posch had a two-year-old record of 27.06 lbs. of butter in seven days, a world's record when made. Mercena 3rd made 27.63 lbs. butter in seven days and 113 lbs. in 30 days. These two cows were sold for $3,000 to the Fields of Massachusetts, a record price at that time. It is interesting to note here, too, that Ormsby Korndyke Lad, owned by Julius Smith, Montgomery, N.Y., with 32 tested daughters, 16 of which have crossed the 30 pound mark, traces directly to Alta Posch.

And here we come to two tragedies of the breeding world. Abbekerk Prince 2nd had only four daughters when he went to the butcher for beef without his merit being known. One of these was Alta Posch, another Mercena 3rd and the greatness of a third daughter now comes to light in the performance of her granddaughter, Rolo Mercena DeKol. What value would we put on such a bull as this were he alive today? The fate of Sir Rolo Banks Mercena, his grandson and sire of the 50-pound cow is just as regrettable. He was a fine individual. Mr. Hanmer says his present champion is the female counterpart of her sire. But he was mated with only two pure-bred cows and was sold as a yearling for beef before a heifer calf was born by him. Another great bull lost to the breed!

Records of Near Relatives.

And now what of the producing ability of the living and near relatives of the 50-pound cow? Let us follow along with the old cow first, the dam of Rolo Mercena DeKol. She dropped her first calf on the Hanmer farm on July 2, 1913, heifer and the first champion. Enough said. The following two were males, one of which went to the butcher for beef and the other was used in a grade herd and then went to the block. The next calf was a female. She is now on test and as a junior two-year-old has nearly 18 lbs. of butter in seven days.

The following calf was a male. And here is where some man may make some money if he recognize himself in the incident. The cow freshened in the pasture. Young Hanmer was on hand to see what kind of a calf it was. Another bull. A man drove up to the fence in an open buggy drawn by a fine black roadster. "I never saw such an udder on a cow," he exclaimed. "What will you take for the calf?" Mr. Hanmer replied that, seeing that it was a bull, he would take $10. "Sold," said the man. The calf was delivered into the buggy, the unknown purchaser drove away, and the chances are that today a valuable bull is being used in a grand herd.

The last calf, of Flora DeKol Pietertje was also a male, dropped in September, 1918. By this time Mr. Hanmer had come to believe that he had a great producing strain through the old cow and his regret was great when the mother stepped on a leg of the promising calf, so injuring him that he had to be sold for veal. In all, this cow has five living daughters. After the cow had been milked all winter the Hanmers were so pleased with her that they went back and bought three of her daughters and two of her grand-daughters for $600. Up to March 15, 1918, when Mr. Hanmer, Sr., had his closing-out sale, he had realised $1,200 on stock sold from this line of breeding and realized another $3,010 on his foundation cow and her progeny in sale. His son got the most of it, buying the old cow for $100 and $325 for the champion. Her oldest daughter, which led the pure breds in the Guelph Dairy test the previous fall with 218.9 lbs. of 3.4% milk in the three days, went to W. C. Houck, Black Creek, for $215.

Mr. Hanmer has also some progeny of his 50-pound cow. Her first calf, unfortunately, died at birth, smothered. Her second daughter, born December 10, 1916, was sired by Butter Baron Posch A., a son of Butter Baron, and whose daughter was a dam of Cornelius Posch. This heifer won sixth money in the two-year-old class at Guelph last fall as a jr., yearling, competing in a class in which were heifers up to 40 months old. She is bred for Guelph next year, where she will complete in the heifer class. Her third daughter was purchased by W. C. Houck for $115 when four months old. Her fourth calf is also a female and is now four months old and a promising calf.

The Feeding of the Champion.

Mr. Hanmer feeds according to the taste of the individual cow. Of the eight cows and heifers he has had on test this spring no two have had the same ration. This young feeder has no secrets, however, and he gladly gave me all the details in the feeding of his champion. Perhaps I cannot do better than tell the story in his own words. He said:

"I have had to take into consideration the sensitive nature of this cow, and I believe I have done just as well with her as anyone could have done. I will illustrate. Last spring we had her on test as a four-year-old. I smashed my finger and the tester did the milking. She dropped immediately to 7.8 pounds of milking, testing just 1.8%. Nor did she come back in the next two milkings. In spite of this she made 23.1 lbs. of butter that week and had freshened without being dry. This time I dried her off 2½ months before she freshened, and it took four weeks of careful work to get her dry.

"She was fed just good ordinary feed from mid November to Dec. 1st. Then I began to feed her 60 lbs. of mangels and 12 lbs. of a mixture of two parts oats, two parts bran, and one part oil cake. I went to the Winter Fair and got a bad attack of "the flu." I don't know just exactly what was fed during the remainder of the month. I wasn't around to see though it was not to exceed eight pounds of grain, 50 lbs. of mangels and all the clover hay she would eat.

"On Jan. 2nd. I began to feed three times a day and moved her to a box stall. I began feeding her 90 lbs. of mangels and 15 lbs. of grain, with hay just twice a day. From the 1st of December she got half a bushel of silage daily as well. I increased the grain until the day before she freshened, when she was eating 26 lbs. of the afore mentioned mixture.

Feed After Freshening.

"She freshened on January 17th. I cut the grain down to 10 pounds. We fed her twice a day and she was milked twice a day. Her feed was increased until it totalled about what she had been getting on three feeds. On Feb. 3rd the tester arrived and she was milked dry at 6 p.m., and began her test. From the time of calving up to now she had averaged 70 lbs. of milk a day on two milkings.

"She started her test on 3 lbs. of grain, 25 lbs. of mangels, and four pounds of silage four times a day, with a nice little forkful of clover hay morning and night. The mangels all through the test were peeled. By the end of the first seven days I had increased the grain to 18 lbs. a day, the roughage remaining the same. She made about 28½ lbs. of butter.

"Then I changed the ration to one part each of bran, oat chop and distillers' dried grain with half part cottonseed and one and a half parts oil meal. I fed 20 lbs. of this and jumped it to 28 lbs. by the third day. We then added one half part of gluten meal and increased the cottonseed as we saw fit, possibly to three-quarter parts. We cut the grain a little on the 28th day and she made 40.58

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Well, suppose we dismiss that part of it. We should never get anywhere. Only—don't take the stand and make a dramatic confession."

"Dramatic?" Once more the red tide rose. His blue eyes snapped.

"Melodramatic would perhaps be the better word. Sarah and I are hot on the trail of the right word. But tell me honestly—shouldn't you feel rather a fool? It is such a very theatric—stagey—thing to do."

"Oh!" He wheeled about and kicked a fallen log. "Do you suppose I have given a thought to that aspect of it?"

"No, more is the pity, but as you have a good sense of humour, I rather wonder at it. However—these are not the only things I followed you into the woods to say."

"You had it in your mind, then, to find out if what Mrs. Balfame told Mrs. Cummack was true — that I purposed to free her one way or another?"

"Yes. I merely waited for the lead. I told you in the beginning that I did not care what I might confess to, or how angry I made you. What does it matter?"

"You cannot make me angry, although there are some things I cannot discuss with you."

"Of course not. Let us ignore Possible Sacrifice Number Two, and assume that Mrs. Balfame is acquitted,—which no doubt will be the case; few are worrying; and further assume that you will marry her; that she will marry you is the way she put it, not being an artist in words. Once more we will dismiss both subjects. Yes?"

She was stooping to recover her muff, and he noticed that her hands were shaking and that the dusky pink was in her cheeks for the first time.

"I am only too ready. But—there is little else for us to talk about!"

"Yes, there is! When people are on their deathbeds they can afford to be truthful, and you have dug your grave and mine."

She was erect once more and she looked at him steadily like blue steel. They were flashing, and a curious wave of mobility passed over his face.

"I mean that you love me now. I think you always loved me—when we spent so many hours together in perfect companionship — when you found so much in me that responded to so many of your own needs. But for the time being this was only a surface impression. It was unable to strike down to — to your soul, because between your outer and inner vision was the delusion. You had cherished some sort of ideal since boyhood, and when for the first time in your busy life you met a woman who seemed to materialise it — you never once had a half-hour's conversation with her!—you automatically rose to the opportunity to discharge a youthful obligation. Isn't that true?"

He would not answer, and she continued:

"You passed me over because you had to be rid of the delusion first, bag and baggage. There is only one way to get rid of an old delusion like that, and unconsciously you took it! The pity of it is, in our case, that you compromised yourself so promptly, instead of waiting—well, for ten weeks!"

"I had already asked Mrs. Balfame to get a divorce and marry me."

"Oh! That night you walked home with her from Dr. Anna's cottage?"

"You saw us? Yes, that was the time."

"The first time you had ever talked alone with her? I know that you dined there often, but didn't Dave usually do the talking?"

"Yes."

"And Mrs. Balfame smiled like St. Cecilia and attended to your wants."

"Oh!"

"It was like you to think you couldn't go back on even an Elsinore Avenue flirtation. But once more—it is a terrible pity that you did not delay your formal offer for ten weeks. Then you would have buried the last and the supreme folly of your youth—with a sigh perhaps, but you would have buried it. Isn't that true?"

"It is true that something incredibly youthful seems to have persisted in me beyond its proper limits, and then to have died abruptly. God knows I have no youth in me to-day."

"That may well be, but it need not have been. Youth does not die with the earlier illusions. If all had gone well, you would have been reborn into a saner and more conscious youth. Tell me—" Her voice trembled, but she moved forward resolutely and laid her muff against his chest; he could feel the working of her hands, and eyes and cheeks betrayed the excitement that pride still suppressed. "Tell me,—if you had waited, if you could have decently buried that old illusion and forgotten —and—and married me,—should you have felt very old?"

"I should have felt immortal."

He caught her hands from her muff and flung them about his neck and lifted her from the ground and kissed her as if they both stood on the pinnacle and had but a moment before plunging down to mortal death.

When he released her a trifle, his face was illuminated. It no longer looked preternaturally strong; neither did it look as young as she had seen it look in moments of mental relaxation.

"Ah!" she whispered. "This is the fusing, not when that old illusion died."

The deep flush ebbed out of his face, leaving it grey, but he did not relax the hard pressure of his arms. "Of what use," he asked bitterly, "when we have only to-day?"

"It is something to realise all of oneself if only for an hour. And you have given me my supreme hour. That was my right, for I went down into such depths as you have no knowledge of; and if I struggled out of them alone, and always in terror of surrender and demoralisation at the last moment, I have my claim on your help now, for the future is something I have never dared to face. I guessed before Polly told me—why I guessed! I knew you so well. In dreams, perhaps, — who knows? — our minds may have become one. When I came up out of —got past the worst, it seemed to me that I came into an extraordinary understanding of you. I can bear anything now. In a way, you will always be mine. The life of the imagination must have its satisfactions. There are worse things than living alone."

She drew down his head, but this time she put her lips to his ear.

"Now I am going to tell you a terrible secret," she said.

CHAPTER XXXV.

THERE had been a crowd on the day of Frida's and young Kraus' testimony, but on Monday morning there was a mob. The road as well as the open space before the Courthouse was as solid a mass of automobiles as the police could permit, and within, even the wide staircase was packed with people, many from New York City, waving cards and demanding entrance to the Courtroom, or at least the freedom to breathe.

The sheriff and his assistants, soon after the doors were opened, succeeded in forming a lane, and dragged the women reporters to the upper landings. They found the young men at their tables, cool, imperturbable, having entered through the library at the back of the Court-room. All doors were closed before ten o'clock, and the crowd without, save only the few that were fortunate enough to have come early and obtain a vantage point against the glass, gradually dwindled away, to renew the assault after luncheon. It was not only the brilliant winter day that had enticed the curious over from New York, but the rumour that Mrs. Balfame would take the stand.

Making Saving Attractive

Perhaps you have never been strong on saving.

You COULD save a little, but——

If you knew you could get 4½% on every $4.00 you saved, wouldn't that tempt you?

Well, then—that is what War Savings Stamps will enable you to do.

If you find it hard to save $4.00 at a time because the quarters slip away unawares, Thrift Stamps will help you.

You can buy a Thrift Stamp for 25 cents, and when you have sixteen, you can exchange them for a War Savings Stamp, for which you will be paid back $5.00 in 1924.

By doing this you will have become an investor! And you can go on building up that investment every time you save another $4.00. The odd cents pay the accrued interest.

BIOL PHOSPHATE
FOR THE ANAEMIC

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION Cured By Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mr. Joseph Coughlan appealed against his assessment as being too high.

Moved by Mr. Chapman, seconded by Mr. Doxsee, that Joseph Coughlan's assessment be reduced.

Moved by Mr. Chapman, seconded by Dr. Wilson, That this Court adjourn until Friday, 6th June, at 8 p.m., and the assessor be empowered to add whatever names are entitled to be on the voters' list.

Wedding of Interest.

A wedding of interest locally was solemnized at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, when Miss Ethel Wilmot Sinclair, youngest daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. R. E. Kent, became the bride of Lieut.-Col. Francis Everett Birdsall, son of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. R. E. Birdsall, of Birdsall.

The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, assisted by Rev. Cecil Whaley, Priest-Vicar, in the presence of a large number of the immediate relatives as well as friends of both parties: also the officers of the groom's unit and his former comrades in arms.

The bride was tastily dressed in a beautiful gown of white satin, with lace and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and among the guests were Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Birdsall, the groom's parents. After luncheon was served, the happy couple left via G. T. R. for their honeymoon trip, when they will visit some United States cities.

GUM TENDERNESS —A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-shrinkage, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhea. Women, particularly after the baby comes, are peculiarly subject to Pyorrhea. At such time they cannot be too careful about their teeth.

Pyorrhea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink. The teeth become exposed to decay at the base and tiny openings in the gums become the breeding places of disease germs which infect the joints—or tonsils—or cause other ailments.

Beware of that first gum tenderness! Try Forhan's for the gums. It positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No ordinary tooth paste will do this.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All druggists.

Varsity's Great War Record

VARSITY MAGAZINE'S fourth supplement completes the series that forms a record of the work of the University of Toronto in the Great War. It is an admirable production, and a credit to the young ladies and gentlemen who are responsible for it. As in its forerunners, and as is eminently fit, pride of place is given to the Honor Roll, the unreturning brave who as graduates or undergraduates heard the call and answered it, paying the "last full measure of devotion" to their Alma Mater, and all it represented. This section contains no fewer than 590 photographs and the inscribed names of 74 whose photographs could not be secured. The total honor roll of Varsity is now 604, and the fact that it was only 346 when the last special number was issued a year ago is testimony of the ferocity of the struggle in the closing months of the war, beginning with the last great German drive in March, 1918. The issue is printed on the finest of paper, is handsomely illustrated, and will be proudly cherished in the thousands of homes from which the students have gone forth.

The editor, in a preface, says that while it is difficult to give precise figures it has been estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 graduates, undergraduates and prospective students of Canadian universities enlisted in the war. Probably no class in the community has such a high percentage of voluntary enlistments as the schools and universities. The Military Service Act applied to few of them, in English-speaking Canada, particularly. Of this numbers 5,400 were graduates or undergraduates of the University of Toronto, and if one were to add the prospective students, the figures might indicate that nearly one-half of the numbers to the credit of the universities of Canada should be placed under the colors of the old blue and white. This is not surprising, and would be only in keeping with the general war record of the city of Toronto and the Province of Ontario, and it was equally characteristic of the students as a class all over the Empire that they should be among the first to grasp the situation and hasten to the defence of their country.

The idea was beautifully expressed by Winnifred Letts, one of whose verses is reproduced in the Supplement:

God rest you happy, gentlemen,
Who laid your good lives down,
Who took the khaki and the gun
Instead of Cap and Gown.

In addition to the sacrifice of life Varsity has been active in other phases of war work, and through the Students' Administrative Council more than $31,000 has been distributed among various patriotic and relief societies. The list of honors won by graduates and undergraduates is fully in keeping with the number of enlistments. Indeed, its average is probably unusually high. We notice one V.C., that of Major T. W. MacDowell, and no fewer than twenty-three C.M.G.'s, half a dozen C.B.'s, and sixty-nine D.S.O.'s, as well as three with a bar to the D.S.O., while those who won the M.C. or the M.M. number hundreds. It is a glorious company, indeed, that one is presented to in this fourth supplement.

The reading matter consists of articles by Sir Robert Falconer, Sir Edmund Walker, Roland G. Usher, of Washington University, St. Louis, one of the chief American authorities on history; Dr. Alex. Hill, of Southampton University College, and various other well-known Canadian, American and British educationists. An article we are particularly pleased to see is that of Prof. D. R. Keys, M.A., on Commencement Day, 1915. On this occasion, it will be recalled, Lord Reading and Honorable Elihu Root were given honorary degrees, and the speech made then by Mr. Root was, in the opinion of many, the best delivered in Canada in the course of the war. It is well that it is reproduced in such a form that is likely to be preserved. One might quote many fine things from this address, so full of eloquence that A Quarrel.

Even the school children suffer from it. A teacher in one of the Toronto schools looked up from her desk the other day to find a little girl standing before her bathed in tears and sobbing away as if all the sorrows of the world had descended upon her. "Why, Gladys, what's the matter?" she asked. "I—I want my seat changed," wailed the youngster, and she pointed at the mischievous urchin who sat beside her, "he called me a bad name!" The teacher began an investigation. "Aw, he didn't call her nothin'," volunteered another of the male species. "He just told her she was a Bolshevik!"

THE LYONS FAIR.

Showing of Canada at the Historic Exhibition.

The British Dominions have earned particular credit at the Lyons Fair, and so successful has been the effect of their enterprise that we may expect their regular appearance in the future. There is, of course, every reason why Canada should be especially welcome. It was the intrepid French explorers, Jacques Cartier, Frontenac and Champlain, who, in the 16th century, first settled in Canada, and the bonds of custom, language and history form an additional tie. Canada's participation is largely due to the active co-operation and help of Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce; the Hon. Mr. Doherty, Minister of Finance, and the Hon. Mr. Sifton—all of whom are now in France as members of the British Fedco Delegation. The Dominion exhibits — including those of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways—occupy 72 stands covering the manufactures or industries of sixty firms. Agricultural machinery forms a prominent display in this section.

The Canadian manufacturers have set themselves the task of capturing German trade. In the case of spelter, the principal supply of which had previously been acquired by the Germans, the Canadians have established plants at Trail, B.C.; tungsten, necessary for the hardening of metals, another German monopoly, has been found in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the Yukon. The display of commercial minerals covers 367 varieties, and includes several specimens of asbestos. Canada now furnishes 70 per cent. of the world's supplies of this commodity. The largest output of nickel comes from Ontario. The Provinces of British Columbia will soon house the immense shipbuilding yards of Yarrow (Ltd.), of Newcastle-on-Tyne, who are moving to Canada mainly to avail themselves of the unlimited supply of timber there, and also, no doubt, on account of labor troubles at home.

Considering that this is the first time that Canada has participated in the Lyons Fair, the Dominion's display is altogether commendable. Much of the success is unquestionably due to the energy shown in the undertaking by the Export Association of Canada, of British Columbia House, Regent street, London. Another asset has been the presence of the Canadian Trade Commissioner, Mr. Wendell McL. Clarke, as superintendent. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to secure a really good display — and has succeeded. The Canadians have had more advertising in France than any other foreign nation, and it has been due to the efforts of the General Publicity Agent of the Canadian Pacific and the Western Lines Railways, Sergeant Rankin.

The Canadian exhibits range from condensed milk, shown in attractive form by the Laing Produce & Storage Co., Ltd., of Brockville, and canned vegetables and fruits and the macaroni of the Dominion Canners Co., of Hamilton, to the massive engineering plant of the Frost & Wood Co., Ltd., of Smith's Falls, and the railway cars and brake beams of the Canadian Car & Foundry Co., Ltd., of Montreal. Some remarkably good specimens of agricultural machinery are in view from the workshops of Marwells, Ltd., of St. Mary's; the Frost & Wood Co., Ltd., of Smith's Falls; Tudhope, Anderson & Co., Ltd., of Orillia; and the Massey-Harris Co., Ltd. Iron and steel manufactures are shown by E. T. Wright & Co., Ltd., of Hamilton; the McClary Manufacturing Co., of London, Ont.; electrical supplies by the Duncan Electrical Co., Ltd., of Montreal; axes, edged tools, saws, and farming implements by the Welland Vale Manufacturing Co., Ltd., of St. Catharines; iron and steel products by the Steel Co. of Canada; white lead and lead products by both Brandram-Henderson, Ltd., of Montreal, and the Pacific White Lead Co., Ltd., while the textile trades are represented by the Montreal Cottons, Ltd., and the Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., also of Montreal.

Some very beautiful and remarkably low-priced wall papers are displayed by the firm of Staunton's, Ltd., of Toronto; if these could be introduced into the United Kingdom there would be a great demand for them. It is understood, however, that in the present condition of the trade the entry of these beautiful Canadian productions is impossible.

The ready-made houses shown by W. H. White, of Montreal, are extremely well designed, and there should be a large demand for them by settlers in Canada. They would also be welcome in France.

Deaf Mutes Not Good Flyers.

Contrary to a report which has been widely scattered, deaf mutes do not make good airmen, as has been shown by recent tests made by the war department, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. This branch of the government is endeavoring to ascertain the source of the false report, which has led many young men to seek enlistment as flyers. In examining a number of deaf mutes it has been found that they are lacking in an adequate sense of equilibrium.

Judge's Misgivings.

A serious case of highway robbery, tried some years ago before Chief Baron Green on the last day of the Ennis assizes, resulted in an acquittal. The chief baron, addressing the sheriff, said, "Mr. Sheriff, is there any other indictment against this innocent man?"

"No, my lord," was the reply.

"Then you'll greatly oblige me if you don't let him out until I have half an hour's start of him on my way to Limerick!"—London Mail.

MAD UNIQUE HONOR.

Toronto Officer Led Way Into Sea of Marmora.

The first unit of the British navy to pass up to ports on the Sea of Marmora after the declaration of the armistice was a motor patrol launch, which was in command of a Canadian officer—Lieut. Lawrence Goad, of the Royal Motor Boat Patrol, who comes from Toronto.

As the launch landed its crew, the Greek women of the district strewed the way with flowers, and an old Greek priest came and paid homage. Evidences of the Turkish abominations were to be seen on the passage through the Dardanelles, the bodies of Anzacs and Imperial troops, who had fallen in the glorious attempt at Gallipoli, having been dug up merely for the clothing which was upon them.

At the time the armistice was signed Lieut. Goad was patrolling the Bulgarian coast. A great attack had been planned, and preliminary preparations were being made, but the cessation of hostilities frustrated this. For over three years Lieut. Goad had been on this patrol work in the Aegean Sea. At Mudros he frequently came in contact with the Canadian hospitals, one of which came from Toronto. In addition to keeping a constant vigilance for mines and submarines, he carried British spies, landed them, and then picked them up again when they had spent a week or two on shore. He was busy on mine sweeping after peace was declared, and said there were probably about ten thousand mines strewn in these seas.

This record is more interesting when the circumstances surrounding his joining the navy are known. A Toronto friend in London, Mr. Lachlan Gibb — approached the Admiralty and enquired whether Mr. Goad could enter the Royal Moterboat Patrol. The latter had had considerable yachting experience. A verbal assurance was given, and Mr. Goad reached London, and went with confidence, to the Admiralty. But there was a rebuff; there was no room, it was said, and he could not be accepted.

The sympathy of the late Earl Grey was enlisted, and through the medium of his nephew, Capt. Rex Benson, Whitehall red tape was finally vanquished. Lieut. Goad was put in charge of a patrol. It was only a converted collier. At Malta they were told three U-boats were waiting. These "got" two of the colliers, but Lieut. Goad's was the lucky third, though he had that trying experience of seeing his companions hit while, acting under Admiralty orders, they were obliged to get themselves out of danger.

With him was also A. C. Turner, of Toronto, but although they were both accepted, their ways parted after the initial stages. After three years of such active service without a leave, Lieut. Goad has returned to be demobilized.

HUN CHILDREN DECEIVED.

What Their Geographies Taught About Canada.

Germany has captured all the United States and a part of Canada, startlingly announces the Rocky Mountain News. The conquest took place ten years ago, all on the quiet and unknown to the inhabitants. The Kaiser at the time admitted the occupation and subjection of this territory and issued maps for the edification of the little Huns in the public schools of the fatherland, whose gullibility left them believing that the select and rich parts of the world belonged "by divine right" to the German people, and all the rest was inhabited by swine and heathen.

But America has at last come to the full knowledge of its predicament by reference to page 55 map No. 1, of the Volkashul-Atlas von C. Diercke (public school atlas), used in the schools of Germany ten years ago.

As the youthful Hun struggled through his geography lesson he became "enlightened" about the world. He knew Germany, for he had seen the great pompous dignity of its emperor reviewing the imperial troops. Germany was a reality to the child. But about the rest of the world, Bah! They were heathen and "low brows."

And then the teacher came to page 5 of the lesson and then to map No. 1. It is titled "Vertelling der Menschenrassen," or the division of the human race. In great, stirring red ink the pupil was at once attracted to a vast area covering the whole of the United States and almost half of Canada.

And across the whole was written "Germanen," meaning Germans. To the north was a strip of green designating that there was the home of the "Noramericanische Indianer," meaning the North American Indians.

But the skillful art of lying, even in the face of an untruth, because they thought they could get away with it, led the authorities of Germany to step farther, and, behold, the race that "lives to Germany" the first knowledge of telephones and telegraphs, the submarine and airplane, through American inventions, was transformed into "Teuthen."

Map No. 2 on page 5 shows the western hemisphere in another light—that of the division of religions. Here the miracle of miracles is being worked, for in a heathen country German missionaries are battling the elements and savagery of a hideous race to plant the imperial and holy flag of Germany upon its soil and to bring "Christian" enlightenment to their unholy souls.

Across the face of the United States and Canada dark shaded places are shown, with a footnote reading Gebiet deutscher Heidenmissionad," meaning spheres of influence of German missionaries to the heathed.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Extra Feature

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure News paper Syndicate.)

For a quarter hour only the cricket had broken the silence in the Compton orchard, where old Tobias and Jemima and Minerva, their granddaughter, assorted some mighty mounds of fallen winesaps. Then Minerva spoke.

"Zack wants me to run off and marry him, grandpappy, after fodder strippin's ever."

"Lord, Nervy, don't ye!" old Tobias' faded eyes were piteously beseeching. "Stay by us, honey. Nobody feels for us old ones like you do, Nervy!"

Minerva smiled faintly. "I told Zack, grandpappy, I couldn't marry him if ma wasn't willin'. She'd drive me off and surely mistreat you and grandmammy if I married against her will."

"Was Zachariah fretted?" the grandmother asked anxiously. Minerva crimsoned. They must not know how much Zack was "fretted!"

"He—he said he'd stay away until I sent for him. I—there's ma!"

In southern Appalachia it is customary for the aged father and mother to live with the [illegible] zone. But old Tobias' log dwelling was an unusually large one—a most desirable home, and Eliza, the wife of the eldest son, by skillful machinations contrived to get Charley, the youngest son, and his wife, Phoebe, away and to get her own family installed.

Lazy herself, she depended almost entirely on her young daughter, her only child, to do the work of the house, and to keep her services she had determined Minerva should not marry any but some young man she could take into her house and rule, as she did Joshua, the girl's henpecked father.

By her orders, Zachariah Burden, who was not the "humble sort" she desired for a son-in-law, stayed away from the Compton house, but Zack was resourceful and managed often to see the gentle little creature who was like a guardian angel to the old ones.

"Cryin', Jemimy?" old Tobias, sitting smoking on their bedroom hearth that evening, asked uneasily. Jemima wiped her eyes.

"I got to studyin' about Minervy a waitin' on her happiness on account of us and it worried me some, Bias!" she confessed.

After Jemima slept, Bias still sat on the hearth. Minerva was delicate, like their little Hettie who had died sixteen years before, three months after the soldier sweetheart they had not been willing for her to marry had been laid under Cuban palms.

"Little Hettie! Little Hettie!" he murmured. "Lord, if I'd let her had her way about Jess Duty, she might not have piped away! Jess, he wasn't a bad boy—I wish I hadn't stood in her way—I do wish it, Lord!"

His pipe clattered on the hearth His heavy groans awakened Jemima.

"The pain Doc Higgins said was from my heart, it's pinchin' a little!" he labored out, his hand clutching his chair rungs, his rugged old face chalky.

Jemima trembled as she measured out the drops the young doctor had left for him. The doctor had warned her all worry must be kept from Tobias, and he had worried because he had caught her crying about Minerva!

"You reckon you worked too hard at the apples, Bias?" she asked him when at last she got him between the bed covers.

"No. I got to thinkin' about our little Hettie. I was wishin' I could go back them sixteen years and tell the little, lovin' thing her and Jess might marry before he went to the fightin'. Then the pain struck me."

She patted his hands in gentle soothing. "Hettie and Jess wasn't long separated, Bias, honey! The Lord saw to that! Now try to go to sleep."

But it was long before he closed his eyes.

"They could come and live with us and things would be all right," Jemima heard him murmuring over and over in his fitful sleep. "If Eliza was willin'!" Then once he cried out:

"She's a-goin' like Hettie, Jemimy—like Hettie! Can't you see it?"

When he was quiet again, Jemima arose and dressed herself. If he worried himself much more he might bring on another attack, and Joel Higgins had said two attacks close together might kill him.

"I can find my way to Aaron Burden's," she said to herself, "some way, dark as it is, I'm bound to see Zack!"

Two hours later she stood breathless in the Burdens' yard on the top of the mountain. The dog slept, but fear of him set her knees shaking. With a trembling hand she tapped on the window of Zack's bedroom.

Near the dawn, when Zack helped her off the gentle mule he had led down the mountainside, her old face was shining like the eastern star.

A few days later when Eliza came home from Miranda Mulliken's "quilting," she was consumed with wrath. Naomi Rouse, whom she hated of all women, had bragged to Eliza that her daughter, Magnolia, had taken Zack Burden "away" from Eliza Compton's Minerva! Long before the "fodder-pulling" was done, officious neighbors began to predict Zack's early marriage to Magnolia.

Minerva drooped visibly. Her grandfather fretted.

"Jemimy, ain't she takin' it to heart too much? Lemme give her a hint; it's just play-actin'!"

Jemima shook her head smiling. "Don't worry about Nervy. She'll come out all right. Zack don't want her told until the show day, and that ain't long off, Bias!"

The circus coming to Caneyville had advertised a prize of $10 in gold to be given to the young woman not afraid and willing to be married on an elephant's back in their ring, which advertisement doubled and tripled the size of the attending crowd on the "show day."

Early that morning Zack Burden's two mules passed the Compton wagon, en route to Caneyville. Zack rode one mule, Magnolia Rouse the other. Eliza could not restrain a look of displeasure.

"Them two are the pair that's to be married on the elephant's back!" old Bias volunteered cheerfully. "Zack's done arranged with the show folks."

This news was the last straw. Eliza turned to her daughter, her face white with wrath.

"Nervy Compton, before I'd let everybody in the county see that low-down Rouse girl take my feller right before my eyes, I'd jump in Caney river!"

Minerva smiled. "Their weddin' won't discredit me, ma. Zack's not my feller now, and all the folks know he wanted to marry me and you wouldn't let him!"

At the close of the circus performance, the largest and gentlest elephant, with a howdah on his back, was brought into the ring.

"Will the gentleman who wishes to be married please present himself?" the ringmaster called out.

Zack arose and, took Magnolia's arm, but she pulled back, screeching foolishly. "I'm afraid of the elephant! I'm afraid to get close to the thing!"

"Will the gentleman try to persuade another lady then? We're bound to have a wedding!" The biggest clown rolled over in a gale of merriment, but it was tragedy to Eliza.

Zack looked about him. "I see one lady I know is not afraid of the elephant that would maybe marry me, but she's afraid of her ma!"

Eliza sprang to her feet.

"If you mean Minerva, Zack Burden," she shouted, "she needn't be afraid of me objectin'! I've concluded I'm perfectly agreeable to her marrying a young man as industrious and well-behaved as you are!"

Tears of triumph were in Eliza's eyes when, twenty minutes later, she saw Zack lift his bride to the ground.

"Where's your gold piece, Nervy?" happy old Bias whispered that evening.

"Magnolia's got that one," she whispered back, "but I've got another one just like it the show folks gave Zack for what they called the 'extry feature!'"

Quotations.

"Do you approve of quotations in speeches?"

"Decidedly. Most speeches would be improved by introducing more quotations and leaving out all the original material."

Hope is the principle of activity. Without holding out hope, to desire one to advance is absurd and senseless.—Edmund Burke.

The Lesson.

"Winser put on his wife's spats this morning."

"Why, the old fib must be growing polite."

"You don't get me. He wore 'em. He wanted his wife to see how ridiculous they looked."

"Well!"

"The first man he met said, 'By Jove, Winser, I never saw you so well dressed.' And the second man said, 'Why, old chap, you're looking positively disgraceful!'"

"What did the old guy say?"

"He said, 'This will be a good lesson to my wife. It's going to teach her that these extremes in fashion are meant only for the favored few.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Key to the Dutch Seas.

In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries the fame of Middleburg and Flushing, in Holland, extended all over Europe. The latter especially was so important that it was called "the key to the Dutch seas." The Emperor Charles V. visited the city and spent some days in the small adjoining town of Zuythuez. It was there that in September, 1555, he dated his act of abdication before sailing from Flushing to Spain and retiring to the monastery of St. Juste.

A Case For Test.

"There are ladies on the jury."

"They ought to favor a lady defendant."

"We shall have to be exceedingly careful. I don't think it would be good policy for our fair client to dress better than they do."—Kansas City Journal.

Disappointing.

The young postmistress, says Everybody's Magazine, was reading a postal card from the morning mail. Finally she turned it over to the address.

"Huh," she said in a disappointed tone, "this card is for me!"

The Blizzard of Klim
A Modern Miracle

THE process of making Klim is simple. Anyone can understand from the above diagram how the water is evaporated from liquid separated milk by the "spray process" leaving the solids in a fine dry powder.

If you were to see the drying process in one of our plants, you would immediately think of whirling, fine, clean snow piling up in drifts. You would look through a little window and see the liquid change to dry powder—Klim—before your eyes.

Liquid separated milk is forced by cylinders through tiny pinholes by great pressure, coming out in the form of a cloud or mist, just as from a huge atomizer. This fine spray enters a large square room through which are blowing strong currents of filtered warm air. The spray of liquid is whirled about the room just as you have seen the wind blow snow or fog.

The warm air immediately absorbs the moisture from the spray and the solids settle to the floor in white drifts of Klim. The moisture-laden air passes out through screens which prevent any of the Klim from escaping.

The drying rooms are opened to remove the Klim, which is then packed into the handy blue and white striped tins which you find in Canadian grocery stores.

Klim is just what you need for your camps, or for your trips. For your home, include a one-pound tin in your next grocery order.

CATTLE MARKET

There is a good inquiry in the local market for oats, rye and barley, but it is difficult to get any of these grains. Cash quotations are firm, at the present high levels, but these fail to bring anything out in quantity. There Is MONEY In WANT ADS. For You

NOW as never before! The great readjustment of all business following the sudden termination of the War offers you a WIDE OPEN OPPORTUNITY to Sell or to Buy.

There exists in nearly every line a SHORTAGE of MERCHANDISE which creates a big field for WANT AD. ADVERTISING of USED Machinery, SECOND - HAND AUTOMOBILES, HOUSEHOLD GOODS, etc., etc.

The RENTING SITUATION, too, is a complete reversal of WAR CONDITIONS. On one hand Manufacturers are CLAMOURING for Factory Space for Peace Time purposes, and with others there is a corresponding FERMENT to UNLOAD factory space rendered useless by the ending of the War. And so it is with Houses and Rooms, Stores and Storage.

All this means MORE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

Furthermore, there exists a badly balanced condition in the DEMAND and the SUPPLY of LABOUR of ALL kinds. This offers great possibilities for HELP WANTED and SITUATIONS WANTED WANT ADS.

There also exists an ABUNDANCE of WANT AD. business created by the desire to BUY and SELL Businesses, Farm Lands, Real Estates, etc., etc.

Get in on THIS NOW! You LOST MONEY, perhaps, during the War, BUT you can get SOME OF it back if you act promptly.

The deceased has resided in the village for the past nine years. Prior to that he resided in Smith Township. Funeral announcements later.

AMERICAN COLONEL GIVES FREE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

SAYS IT'S SHEER FOLLY FOR ANYONE TO SUFFER THESE DAYS.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down.

You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.

Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the Uric Acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.

Col. H. M. Russ, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"Suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain, and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well to-day. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago."

Be sensible about your case. If your present medicine is useless give it up.

Don't experiment again. Ferrozone is known on all sides to be a cure that does cure. Why not get a supply to-day. The sooner you begin Ferrozone the quicker you'll get well. Price 50c per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Venice of Borneo.

Brunei, Borneo, is one of the strangest cities in the world. Once the headquarters of the Borneo pirates, it is a kind of eastern Venice, being built entirely over the water. This remarkable city is the capital of the state of Brunei, Borneo. All the houses are built over the Limbang river, constructed on slender piles made from the Nibong palm, a wood that resists the action of water for many years. The inhabitants of Brunei are Malays, Kadayans, Orang-Bunsits and a few Muruts. They earn their living mostly by trading with other tribes in the interior of Sarawak and British North Borneo. Some of them are very skillful brass workers, and the Brunei women make beautiful cloth, interwoven and embroidered with gold thread. Sago is grown in the valleys near by, and a small quantity of rice is also raised. In the early part of the nineteenth century Brunei was the rendezvous of the dread Borneo pirates and a market for the slave trade.—Wide World Magazine.

Your Height and Foot.

The height of the human figure is six times the length of the human foot. Whether the form is slender or plump, the rule holds good on the average; any deviation from the rule is a departure from the beauty of proportion. It is claimed that the Greeks made all their statues according to this rule.

GRAIN MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, 1,007 cattle, 214 calves, 668 hogs, and 54 sheep and lambs.

Cattle trade still comparatively quiet, with light receipts, but prices were on the whole steadier, holding at the decline since last week-end market of about $1 per cwt. on practically all grades of butcher cattle. Although hot weather conditions now prevailing are against any very keen demand for butcher cattle just at present, still the fact that all the big packers were operating in the market gave a little better tone to trade generally. Even at the decline recorded in all the markets both sides of the line this week, prices are still high, and may possibly have to come down lower yet before conditions become stable and normal.

Calves were slightly firmer.

Sheep and lambs easy.

The hog market seems to have settled at the dollar lower price as quoted by the packers for this week. Transactions yesterday were mostly on the basis of $20.25 f.o.b.

THE MAKING OF A 50-POUND COW

lbs. of butter from 688 lbs. of milk and became Canada's third 40-pound cow.

"At the point the weather became disagreeable and she backed up a little. We brought the grain back but did not exceed 30 lbs. a day until March 30th, when she completed 187.63 lbs. of butter for 30 days, a world's record—her first world's record.

The 50-Pound Record Made.

"I then ran her up as high as 34 lbs. of grain a day. She began at the midnight milking of March 31st and completed with the six o'clock milking on April 7th, her 50-pound record; almost three months after calving. In this week the official supervisor was changed at three days and one milking so that we had two supervisors during the making of the record. During this period my mother died and I was so confused with many worries that I really did not know that I had the world's record cow, although I felt certain that we had gone over 49 lbs. Here is her production for her best seven days:

		Milkings.	Lbs. Milk.	Lbs. Fat
March	31	1	26.7	1,502
April	1	4	99.4	5,392
"	2	4	108.3	6,392
"	3	4	98.5	4,961
		Supervisor changed.
"	4	4	97.3	5,578
"	5	4	112.2	6,238
"	6	4	105.4	6,409
"	7	3	90.9	5,025

I had better mention that the old foundation cow has never freshened at a convenient time to test. She is due to freshen next in November this year, and with all winter to attend to her, Mr. Hanmer expects to make a record with her in spite of her fourteen years.

Another Great Record.

This spring Mr. Hanmer had made great records with another cow of another strain. Last fall, I think it was, he purchased Alva Spofford for $170. This spring he tested her as a three-year-old, making a record of 37.91 lbs. of butter from 519.9 lbs. milk, a new Canadian record for the age, and 142.99 lbs. of butter from 2,210.1 lbs. of milk in 30 days, which is also a Canadian record and the second highest of the age in the world, being exceeded only by Woodcrest Ina DeKol 4th with 143.88 lbs. butter and 2,599.5 lbs. milk.

Immediately Mr. Hanmer had this heifer over 30 pounds he purchased her dam, Alva Lassie, and her two months' old heifer calf. Without any preparation whatever, he put her on test and made 31.67 lbs. of butter and 628.7 lbs. of milk in seven days, and 59.58 lbs. of butter and 1,333.6 lbs. of milk in fourteen days. In her best day she made 101.9 lbs. of milk. With her calf she cost Mr. Hanmer $280.

Champions at Auction.

Already a consignment has been arranged for from this herd to the great Moyer sale in Philadelphia next June; one of the greatest consignments ever sent to any sale. It will include the fifty pound cow and her heifer calf, the 37.91 pound three-year-old and her calf and her dam and heifer calf. It is impossible to forecast just what these animals will bring in the sale ring. Last year, at the Moyer sale, a Canadian bull calf headed the sale at $106,000. It is not to be expected that Hanmer's cow will approach this figure, but already many men want her, and one United States millionaire breeder has hinted at his willingness to pay $25,000, or more if need be. In any case the amount will be great; such riches as the most of us will not be able to realize from a lifetime of service.

It was Not a Chance.

And it was no chance verdict. I have never talked with a man so young who has made a closer study of his breed, or who had figured more carefully on breeding and care. The records he has made are the result of intelligent work with good cows. A neighbor remarked to me, "That boy hasn't talked or thought anything much but cows for the past five years." His father told me of how, years ago, when they had only one old pure-bred cow in the herd, his son tried to test her, going to the pasture at noon with a little extra feed and a milk pail to give the three milkings a day. His samples he took to the local cheese factory to be tested. True, the test didn't amount to much, but it indicated the way "the twig was bent." His wonderful work this spring is a consummation of years of work and study.

And we have not yet heard the end of it. In the herd he is retaining, Mr. J. B. Hanmer has the dam and several half-sisters of the champion. One of these is particularly promising. If present plans are carried out, model stables will be built on the old farm and "Glen Otter Farm" may become one of the great breeding centres of Canada. Who can tell?

WILLIAMS

NEW SCALE PIANO

THE pure and responsive tone that is so delightful a characteristic of the Williams New Scale is due wholly to the construction of the instrument. The Harmonic Tone Prolonging Bridge is one out of many distinctive features of Williams New Scale Construction which combines to give a perfectly graded scale of full, resonant tones. Flawless material throughout, with painstaking workmanship and faultless case design, make the Williams a piano that will last more than a lifetime.

AN ANCIENT VENTURE IN MUNICIPAL HOUSEKEEPING

TWENTY BY-LAWS AND RULES OF ORDER REGULATED THE TOWN AND ITS CITIZENS—SERIOUS PENALTIES TO REPRESS PRACTICES—THE PUBLIC POUND A PROVOKER OF HOSTILITY—THE FIRE BY-LAW LOOMED LARGE.

INCORPORATION OF TOWN OF PETERBORO

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

When the people of any given locality reach in numbers a state of importance, the proposition that the locality be presently incorporated as a village or town is broached. And depending on the importance, population and resources, both visible and in prospect, the necessary steps are taken and a new spot is placed on the map. This means that a venture in municipal housekeeping has been set in motion, for the activities of any place must move if progress is to be made. Taking to itself a name, if one has not been approved by circumstances, the locality is ready to do business in accordance with the statutes in such cases made and provided. It accepts responsibility, through its local village or town council, and is answerable for its liabilities so incurred.

That things may go forward decently and in order certain regulations and provisions must be made and met. These include rules of order, governing civic procedure at all official meetings. Enactments are provided under specified by-laws, based on the legal status that has come to the young municipality, as for instance, the power to borrow money, to collect moneys by rates and taxes raised on the assessment of the village or town. All this has to be considered and set in order else confusion come and trouble intervene. The statute says so and so, and it is well to pay attention.

Town of Peterborough.

When the newly incorporated town of Peterborough was brought into existence in the month of January, 1850, twelve councillors were elected at an election held previously, the ratepayers voting under the Ward system, as it is termed. The following members of the new Council took office, and at the very first meeting made the very same protestations of eternal vigilance and rigid economy that each and every batch of Councillors or aldermen have made in successive years since. That each member would distinctly vie with his fellows in doing the very best he could for the municipality, that he would burn the midnight oil and use private shoe-leather in public service. Just as succeeding Councils have done and will do until men realise that pre-election pledges are as naught for the very good and sufficient reason that no matter how much inclined the other fellow won't let one do it. And are we not to-day drifting from our moorings, and parry with responsibilities, and where we promised to be mighty economical we substitute "a broad and comprehensive policy of conservation." But to get back to the matter of the newly inducted Council of the newly-born town.

The First Elected Council.

The town was divided into four wards, all west of the river, for east of the river was a part of the Township of Otonabee. Following is the list of members:

North Ward—W. S. Conger, Jas. Harvey, D. McDonald.

South Ward—C. Hudson, E. Chamberlen, P. Ryan.

Centre Ward—R. Ridley, W. Eastland, James Hall.

East Ward—John Hall, Thos. Harper, Thos. Benson.

And it was rightly required that certain people be selected to do and to direct the doing of certain things, and as at that time the Mayor was selected by the members of Council from amongst their number, a choice was made. There was competition for the honored chair. Thomas Benson and Chas. Hudson developed rivalry and the honors went to Mr. Benson. And thereby hangs a tale, which may further on be told as showing how Mr. Hudson when his turn came, which was the year following, celebrated his election and his acts and which brought to the populace a grevious disappointment in a gustatory way.

And the First Town Officials.

That is may be a matter of public view the list of first officials for the first year of civic life and patronage is given below:

Mayor—Thomas Benson.
Clerk of Council—W. H. Vizard.
Treasurer—Robert Nichills.
Chief Constable—William Cumming
Inspector of Weights and Measures—John English.
Fire Inspector—John Davis.
Chief Engineer (Fire Brigade) — W. S. Conger.
Asst.-Engineer—John R. Benson.
Assessor (Acting) — Daniel Hopkins.
Supt. of Schools—Daniel Griffiths.
Inspector of Licenses—John Haggart.
Street Surveyors — Robt. Harper, James Lince.
Town Surveyor—John Reid.
Pound Keepers—William McBurney, Robt. Sharpe.

All were men good and true. Relatively, each in his way of importance in the town in which he lived and carried on his occupation, craft or business. The salaries where paid were trifling, and only as a matter of recognition. It will be observed that two men were appointed as poundkeepers, but of their office and function, more will be noted further on.

Twenty By-Laws and Rules.

That all public acts of the Council might have due authority a set of Rules of Order and sundry By-Laws were devised and enacted. These had been prepared and being submitted for approval, were adopted at the first meeting. Twenty by-laws and rules of order, containing immediate provision for government of the municipality. These are contained in a small and venerable pamphlet, the only copy that has been preserved outside of the original documents held in the city archives. The book is a tattered, brown-covered brochure, faded with age and it was the personal copy in use by Mr. Ivan O'Bierne, who was the second incumbent in office as town clerk. The pages are scrawled with notes and comment, the signature of several of the Council and observations on matters that came up for discussion. It bears the ear-marks of having been the copy used in Council session, was printed at the office of the Peterborough Despatch and numbers thirty-two pages.

In general the Rules or Order are in substance as we have them today and such as used in all well regulated public meetings and assemblies, providing for Standing Committees and governance of the Deliberations of Council. It is stipulated that "no Councillor shall speak disrespectfully of the Queen, or any of the Royal family, or of the Governor of this Province", and that all are to respect the amenities of debates and not hurl words of doubtful meaning at one another. Sometimes this provision has been deplorably neglected.

Plainly Stated Orders.

Wise thought seems to have been taken in devising the several stipulations and regulations and the language used is precise, concise and understandable. All legal verblage seems to be eliminated and the sentences convey plain matter-of-fact orders in a plain matter-of-fact way. The whole gamut of order and discipline is freely covered, but in addition there are many stipulations that applied at the time indicated to a form of municipal life much less complex than we now have it. So our present interest lies in selecting divers provisions that appear odd and primitive, that we may contrast such with many as we have them today. For the fifty or sixty years, we have discarded practices and observances and complete which were at one time somewhat critical to the young community. All this concerns the twenty By-Laws.

Apparently the profiteer was abroad in the land and had to be headed off, for it is expressly provided (the practice having grown obnoxious) that if any person bring in and offer for sale any wood, tanbark, or wood fuel less that full four feet in length from "calf to point" whatever that means, the load should be confiscated and the wrongdoer fined two and six pence. It was decried that any one should do sharp work in the packing of shingles for it is specified that "bunches of shingles of less dimensions than forty inches in length and containing fifty double tiers of shingles" the person so offering shall be fined three and six pence, current money. The baker was looked after with an exceedingly sharp stick, for it is ordered that if he commingle with his bread anything but the purest of wheat flour, he shall be fined in current coin. The pioneer loaf had to be in weight four solid pounds, within twenty-fours of the baking, half-loaf two pounds and quarter loaf one pound, and all to hold to weight. The penalty was placed at five shillings.

The gentleman who constructed these by-laws seems to have had a fertile mind and been of rare accomplishment. As his field was the world he scoured the ground thoroughly. The condition that might arise, he could have or what happened, he provided for. If anyone left carts, wheelbarrows, sleighs, ladders, or other implements on the public streets, hang went another sixpence. When undertaking to build a house people had contracted the habit of dumping all the material on the street to the great inconvenience of the travelling and meandering public. All this must be stopped, except under permission and regulation. People were warned of the pernicious habit, (it was affirmed that it had become a scandal in the community) of going fishing on Sunday, and fearful penalties were exacted for such offence. It may be remarked that at that time Peterborough was as dull on a Sunday as Toronto now is.

To Keep Down Fire Loss.

One eminently reasonable provision obtrudes itself. The Volunteer Fire Brigade proposed that when it went out to do business that business was to be done and no fooling. That the usual false alarm would not be tolerated. That chimney fires were things that could and should be prevented. So the clause of the enactment dealing with such matters was fairly drastic. It had to be for the one thing dreaded above all others was fire. In a community in which the dwellings were almost entirely of wood and protection only a feeble thing after all, fires communicated from one edifice to another practically wrecked the neighbourhood. The roster of such burnings shows in past years most serious destruction and the protection or solace of insurance was not available as it is to-day. So the brigade decided that it was no fun to drag the hand engine all over the streets to irrigate at a plain chimney fire. It was specified that stovepipes should be shoved just so far into chimneys. That chimneys should be properly swept at least once in eight weeks between the periods of November the first and April the thirtieth, in each year. In the case of hotels once every two months. With penalties of two and six pence for each offence.

Not only that, but if a chimney caught fire the occupant of the house was at once summarily fined five shillings, with the result that it was really cheaper to sweep than to pay fines. And if the burning chimney caused anxiety to persons adjoining there was a further fine of ten shillings, clapped on as warning to others. When a real fire occured, which was pretty often, everybody turned out to lend a hand and extinguish the proceedings. Careful persons who had an antipathy to doing real hard work, even for a spell, kept at a discreet distance for the presiding officer at the fire, the Mayor or Chief Engineer had authority to press into service so many as would in number handle the brakes of the fire engine, or to climb on ladders, pass pails of water and do other service. To refuse or to neglect the summons was to be fined five shillings and six pence. And it was further provided that each householder should keep on hand in his domicile at least two perfectly good wooden pails, and on alarm of fire fetch both the pails and himself to the scene of action and diligently do all he could to extinguish the flames, all under

COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX IN VICTORIA COUNTY IS SAID TO BE A FARCE

SOME MUNICIPALITIES AND ASSESSORS ARE FALLING DOWN ON THE JOB IS THE CLAIM—SCHOOL TEACHERS PAY TO THE HILT.

Interesting and enlightening was the discussion which took place at the meeting of the Committee on Equalization of the Lindsay County Council Wednesday afternoon, when Deputy-Reeve O'Reilly, of Lindsay, opened up the question of income assessment. Coun. O'Reilly maintained that some municipalities were forcing and urging their assessors to get after the income tax, while other municipalities and assessors were "falling down on the job." Consequently it was not fair. He maintained that the farmers, especially, were not paying their income tax.

Clerk McNeillie produced several tax rolls when facts were revealed that were a revelation to the Clerk and Councillors. It was shown that assessors throughout the county are either woefully neglectful of their duties, or do not understand the nature of the tax. It was shown conclusively that the assessors are getting after the teachers in the county, who are paying their income taxes, and also a large number of business men and gentlemen, with a few farmers, but that the teachers are bearing the brunt of the tax. In other words that the collection of income tax in the county is practically a farce.

Emily Lower.

Emily Township assessment being lower, Chairman Wilson was asked for an explanation. He claimed that the assessor was working as usual, had been assessor for four years, but there were no police courts.

Bobcaygeon Complains.

Coun. Brock said that Bobcaygeon paid $17,000 income tax, and the assessor was urged to collect the same, while other municipalities let the assessor miss many taxable.

Coun. O'Reilly—"The Act is unfair, because one municipality lets the matter slide, and the other collects."

Coun. O'Reilly — "In Lindsay we collect it from young men and married men, and we collect a large sum, but the farming communities are escaping."

Emily Township.

Clerk McNeillie—"The better way would be to make municipalities responsible. Every farmer may safely be assessed for Victory Bonds, mortgages. The income from the farm is not assessable, but his produce is assessable for the Government but not for municipal assessment. A wife is assessable on Victory Bonds, but I am not sure of a child. If a person in the town has over $600 of income from all sources then he is liable to be assessed. In the country, a teacher is liable to taxation on an income of $400. In the case of married men they are assessable on an income of $1,200."

Coun. Wilson said that there were 16 teachers in Emily Township liable to taxation for income, whereupon Clerk McNeillie said that from this statement Emily teachers paid the whole of the income assessment. What about the farmers?

The searchlight was then turned on Emily first, when it was shown that Messrs. I. H. Fee, Harrington, and Lucas were the only three farmers assessed for income tax, while the teachers all paid.

Coun. Wilson—"There are not many more farmers assessable."

Clerk McNeillie—"Oh, my yes. Some one remarked that Victory Bonds would not be assessable, but what about the money?"

In Verulam it was shown that one farmer was taxed for income, but teachers all paid up. The farmer, Mr. Thurston, of Bobcaygeon, paid on $62.

Reeve Southwell—"I think the assessor tried his best."

Clerk McNeillie—"The assessors are not doing their duty."

In Mariposa Township it was shown that not a farmer was taxed on income, but teachers and a number of gentlemen were taxed.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

He dwelt at length upon the degree called manslaughter, as if the idea had occurred to him that Mrs. Balfame, justly indignant, had run out when she heard her husband's voice raised in song, and had fired from the grove by way of administering a rebuke to an erring and inconsiderate man. The second bullet had been made much of by Rush, as indicating that two people, possibly gunmen, had shot at once, but the district attorney held no such possibly gun-men, had shot at once, but the district attorney held no such theory and had ignored the bullet found in the tree. It was apparent, however, that the Judge had given to this second bullet a certain amount of judicial consideration.

The jury filed out, not to their luxurious quarters in the Paradise City Hotel, a mile away, but to a stark and ugly room in the Court-house where they must remain in acute discomfort until they arrived at a verdict. The Judge had his dinner brought to him in a private room adjoining theirs, and even the reporters and spectators snatched a hasty meal at the Dobton hostelry, so sure were they all that the jury would return within the hour. Mrs. Balfame did not take off her hat with its heavy veil, but sat in her quarters at the jail with several of her friends, outwardly calm, but with her mind on the rack and unable to share the dinner sent over from the Inn by Mr. Cummack for herself and her guests.

The hours passed, however, and the jury did not return. Once the head of the foreman emerged, and the sheriff, misunderstanding his surly demand for a pitcher of ice water, rushed over for Mrs Balfame, the Judge, was summoned, and the reporters, men and women, raced one another up the Court-house stairs. Mrs. Balfame, schooled to the awful ordeal of hearing herself pronounced a murderess in one form or other, but bidden by her friends to augur an acquittal from a mere three hour's deliberation, walked in with her usual quiet remoteness and took her seat. She was sent back at once.

Rush paced the road in front of the Court-house. He had little hope. He had studied their faces day by day and believed that several at least, were persuaded of Mrs. Balfame's guilt. Mrs. Battle, Mrs. Gifning and Mrs. Cummack sat with Mrs. Balfame who found the effort to maintain the high equilibrium demanded by her admiring friends as rasping an ordeal to her nerves as waiting for that final summons whose menace grew with every hour the jury wrangled. Finally she took off her hat and suggested that they knit, and needles clicked through the desultory conversation until, after midnight, they all attempted to sleep.

The Judge extended himself on a sofa in the private room devoted to his use; he dared not leave the Court-house. He told the district attorney (who told it to the sheriff, who told it to the reporters) that the jury quarrelled so persistently and so violently that he found it impossible to sleep, and that the language they used was appalling.

Midnight came and passed. The sob-sisters, worn out, went home. Miss Sarah Austin and Miss Alys Crumley had not returned to the Court-house after dinner. The sheriff appeared at the entrance of the court-room and announced that the last trolley would leave for Elsinore and neighbouring towns withing five minutes. Most of the spectators filed sleepily out. A few of Mrs. Balfame's less intimate but equally devoted friends remained in their seats near her empty chair, and shortly after midnight the warden's wife brought them over hot coffee and sandwiches.

The reporters, having long since consumed all the chocolate and peanuts on sale below, strolled back and forth between the Court-house and the bar of the Dobton Inn. They were bored and indignant and sought the only consolation available. They returned periodically to the court-room, glowing, as the hours passed, more formal, polite, silent. One lost his way in the jury-box and was steered by a court official to the sympathetic haven of his brothers.

The room itself, its floor littered with tinfoil, peanut-shells, and newspapers, its tables and chairs out of place, looked like a Coney Island excursion boat. Finally two reporters laid their heads down on a table and went to sleep, but the rest continued to address one another at long intervals, in distant tones, obeying the laws of etiquette, but with a secret and scornful reluctance.

Broderick, who was reasonably sober, had wandered in and out many times. Occasionally he walked the road with Rush and more than once he had endeavoured to get Miss Crumley on the telephone. He had even telephoned to the hospital to ascertain if she were there. A week ago only he had accidentally discovered that Dr. Anna had been summoned by Mrs. Balfame shortly after the murder and had passed many hours alone with her; "it being the deuce and all to extract any information from that closed corporation of Mrs. Balfame's friends." Broderick had surprised it out of a group at the Elk's Club in the course of conversation and then had set his phenomenal memory to work, with the result that he was convinced Alys Crumley held the key to the whole situation. He had gone to her house and pleaded with her to take him out to the hospital and obtain a statement from the sick woman before it was too late, representing in powerful and picturesque language the awful peril of Rush.

I've reason to know," he had concluded, " that Cummack and two or three others have their suspicions, and there isn't a question that if the jury brings in a verdict of guilty in any degree—and they're a pig-headed lot—Rush will be arrested at once. These devoted friends of Mrs. Balfame have accumulated enough evidence to begin on. He may have gone to Brooklyn that night, but he was seen to get off the train at Elsinore about a quarter of an hour before the shooting. They've been doing a lot of quiet sleuthing, but if Mrs. Balfame is acquitted they'll let him off. They don't want any more scandal, and they like him, anyhow. But I have a hunch she won't be acquitted; and then, innocent or guilty, there'd be no saving him. So for heaven's sake, stir yourself."

But Alys had replied: "I have besought my aunt, and she will not permit Mr. Anna to be disturbed. She says her only chance for life is a tranquil mind, and that the shock of hearing that Enid Balfame was on trial for murder would kill her—let alone asking her to do her best to send her to the chair. I've done my best, but it seems hopeless."

This conversation had taken place on Thursday. To-day was Tuesday. They were very reticent at the hospital, but he had reason to believe that Dr. Anna had taken a turn for the worse. Could Alys Crumley be out there, and could she have taken that minx Sarah Austin with her? It would be just like a girl to go back on a good pal like himself and hand a signal triumph over to another girl, who would get out of the game the minute some fellow with money enough offered to marry her. He ground his teeth.

He was standing near the doors of the court-room and staring at the clock whose hands pointed to a quarter to one. Suddenly he heard his name called from below. He sauntered out and leaned over the balustrade. A weary page was ascending when he caught sight of the star reporter.

"Brabant Hospital wants you on the 'phone," he announced, with supreme indifference.

Broderick leaped down the winding stair and into the booth. It seemed to him that his very ears were quivering as he listened to Alys Crumley's faint agitated voice. "Come out quickly and bring a stenographer," it said. "And suppose you ask Mr. Rush to come too. Just tell the sheriff—to—to postpone things a bit if the jury should be ready to come in before you return. Hurry, Jim, hurry."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

It was two o'clock and ten minutes. The eleven remaining spectators, one of them a woman in evening dress, were sound asleep. The sheriff was pacing up and down with his hands behind his back, his perturbed glance ranging between the clock and the door leading into the jury-room. Occasionally he slipped on a bit of the debris and kicked it aside. The reporters slumbered at their tables or stared moodily ahead One gnawed his pencil; another tore leaves of copy paper into morsels and laboriously built something that looked like a child's house of blocks. Outside it was deathly still. The snow was falling softly. It was too early for a cock-crow. Occasionally some one snored. The footfalls of the sheriff made no noise.

Suddenly every reporter present sat up with the scent of blood in his nostrils. Their ears twitched. The fumes blew out of their highly organised brains like mist before a bracing wind. An automobile was dashing down the road, its horn shrieking a series of brief peremptory notes, which sounded like "Wait! Wait! Wait!"

It came to an abrupt halt before the Court-house door, and almost simultaneously Wagstff, who had wandered forth once more, ran up the stairs and got into the court-oom.

"There's something in the wind, boys," he cried, smoothing his hair and steering carefully for his chair. "Rush, Broderick, three other men, Sarah Austin and Alys Crumley, were in that car. They're all gone straight to the Judge. Something big is going to break, as sure as death."

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

Perfection to Which the Mechanical Arm Has Been Brought.

They are making artificial limbs with such perfection today that a technical observer who is also an enthusiastic baseball "fan" declares that he would not be surprised to see in the not far distant future some wooden armed pitcher making a good record. What is known as "glass arm" would be effectively superseded by "wooden arm."

Though this is a daring leap of the imagination, which, however, need not worry the perfectly good armed pitchers of the big leagues, still some of the things that can be done with artificial arms are simply amazing. Here you see a man lighting a cigar and with a naturalness of action and pose which would deceive the casual observer.

The mechanism is controlled by certain motions of the stump of the flesh and blood arm, and no little knack is necessary to the successful working of the artificial member, and yet withal it is not very difficult to acquire.

It is said that the man who is lighting his big cigar can pick a pin from the floor without difficulty, but it is not on record that he can give the "pep" to a ball so that it will speed by the batter like a projectile from a high powered gun. As a matter of fact, he is thoroughly satisfied with the many very necessary things that can be done with the mechanical arm without venturing afar into the luxuries and excitement of outdoor sport.—Buffalo News.

WOMEN OF EUROPE.

An Italian Critic Says Those of Spain Are the Most Beautiful.

A celebrated Italian writer of Florence has been favoring the world with his opinion of some of the women of Europe. He considers only four nations, and of these he selects Spain as most worthy of the crown for feminine beauty. He says:

"The Spanish woman is bewitchingly beautiful. She has small hands and feet and large eyes like the open windows of a sunburnt marble palace, a figure full of grace and life and long, dark, wavy hair. She is very religious, very ignorant, very jealous, very sensitive and very proud."

Of the British woman he says: "Her hair is like gold. She has heavenly eyes, a peachlike complexion, a delicately formed nose and good teeth. She is reserved, very active and generally a slave to etiquette."

As to the Frenchwoman he is less complimentary. It is thus that he describes her: "She is a cat and a serpent, a palm and a violet, and when she is not pretty she is charming. She is amiable, a dreadful coquette and generally false."

His summary of the Russian woman is that she is "of an oriental type which had been prematurely transported into Europe. In her are combined the extraordinary charms of a savage and the civilized woman."—Pearson's.

Vicissitudes of Warsaw.

No city in Europe has known so many changes of masters as Warsaw. Founded about the year 850, it was capital of the independent dukedom of Mazovia until the fifteenth century, when it was annexed by Poland. In the seventeenth century its possession was contended for by Sweden, Russia, Austria and Brandenburg, until, in 1764 Russia practically annexed it. In 1795 the city was handed over to Prussia, but Napoleon occupied it in 1806, and at the peace of Tilsit Warsaw was proclaimed an independent duchy. In 1809 the Austrians seized the city, but lost it again, and after another brief spell of independence the city passed finally to Russia in 1813.—London Chronicle.

Some Valuable Pearls.

Of all the articles of luxury known to the Romans pearls were most valued. They were worn by all classes. The famous pearl earrings which belonged to Cleopatra are said to have been worth $800,000, and Julius Caesar presented the mother of Brutus with a pearl for which he paid $240,000. It has been said that one of the reasons why Julius Caesar invaded Britain was the wish to become master of the pearls which were supposed to abound there, a surmise incorrect, for few pearls of value have been found in Great Britain.

Will Broaden Education

Some Points Suggested by Hon. Dr. Cody.

Although education is one of those subjects which, in Canada, have been discussed "right through the war," still, now that the fighting is over, discussion on this all-important question tends to become more practical and immediate. As Walter Bagehot used to insist so emphatically, it is one thing to criticise and propose when one is under no obligation to act on any criticism or proposal, and quite another thing to do so when one is under immediate obligation to translate one's words into acts. During the war every education proposal was launched with at least one postponing clause attached. But to-day any proposal may be practical politics. It is for this reason, amongst others, that the statement recently made by the Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education for Ontario, is specially important. Dr. Cody's statement would at any time have been an interesting contribution to the consideration of a great subject, but as a preliminary statement of actual policy it has, of course, an interest all its own.

Dr. Cody covered a wide field, but it was welcome to find the Ontario Education Minister placing in the very forefront of his statement the question of the more general extension of education beyond the limits of the elementary school. There had come, he insisted, a far more general realization of the fact that education does not stop "with the boy and girl age," and that a further compulsory period should be introduced. Important and essential everywhere, such a provision is unquestionably specially important in Canada, with its very large foreign-born population. If the ideals of Canadian citizenship are to be really and effectively inculcated, much more is called for than the primary education of the boy and the girl. As Dr. Cody well pointed out, it is absolutely necessary that the foreign-born elements shall receive a "real education in British ideals and citizenship."

Then Dr. Cody was emphatic also on the position which women should now be called upon to fill in education. Women, he declared, had won their right to take their share in the counsels and government of their country, and in no national activity could they lend their aid with more certain effect than in the matter of education. He hoped to see women everywhere accorded places on school boards and boards of education, and thus enabled to place at the service of their country a special ability which they undoubtedly possessed.

Perhaps the most important of all the points touched upon by Dr. Cody was the question of the payment of teachers. Those who really appreciate the unique national importance of education must have recourse, again and again, to this subject, and to the insistence that if the educational profession is to have the standing and attract to its ranks the men and women it most needs and ought to demand, the standard of payment must be very much higher everywhere than it is at the present time. The key to all the problems is indeed the teacher. It is the teacher that counts, and without good teachers the most perfect system of education must be of little avail. "The time is ripe," Dr. Cody declared, "and the people both in city and in country are ready to pay better salaries, and are realising that it is very much worth while to spend money for the securing of better conditions under which to develop their children." Those who have been following with any care the recent history of education in Canada and other countries cannot fail to agree with Dr. Cody here. The time has already passed, or is, at any rate, rapidly passing, when any salary may be thought good enough for the school teacher, and it can scarcely be questioned that an education body courageous enough to pay its teachers adequately, today, can count upon a very wide and sincere popular support.

The Hun Spirit.

A series of trenches in front of Passchendaele in Flanders, were notorious among the boys for the quantity of slimy mud which always gathered there. One day after a heavy rain, a poor fellow sank into the sticky mixture up to his armpits and was fixed there for three days and nights, while the Hun snipers from a point of vantage kept up a constant fire on any who attempted to feed him or try to rescue him, although they, themselves, with true Hun cruelty, took good care not to hit him, preferring to see him suffer.

The poor chap begged his comrades to shoot him and put him out of his misery. At length the sergeant in charge telephoned to his colonel and asked permission to do this, but the colonel said: "Make one more desperate attempt to get him out." So that night, which fortunately happened to be a very dark one, the sergeant got a dozen volunteers with a bit of rope and quietly, inch by inch, they pulled him out and the stretcher-bearers, on the double, got him to the nearest dressing station.

Curing Influenza.

A doctor was called to attend an Irishman and his wife. Both were suffering with severe colds, and, fearing they would develop influenza, the medical man ordered "two grains of quinine and a swallow of whisky every three hours." Calling the next day, he found the man up and about, but the wife was still in bed. "Did you follow my instructions?" said the doctor. "To the letter, sorr!" replied the husband. "How much quinine have you left?" "Sure, Oi t'ink she have taken the whole av' it!" said the Irishman. "And did you take it, too?" he was asked. "Nivir a bit!" was the reply. "Begorra, it kept me busy takin' the whisky every toime she took a pill, an' sure she's in bed an' Oi'm up!"

MADE IN CANADA

New Textile Material.

Textilit, said to be used in 23 of the largest German factories, is a substitute material that is predicted to outlast the war as a permanent addition to the textile industry. It consists of a paper thread and a fiber thread twisted together and, though the percentage of long fiber is very small, it is claimed to have yielded products that the uninitiated cannot distinguish from the former linen and jute fabrics. The fiber gives a firmness that paper fabrics do not possess. The material is made into weaving and sewing yarns and webs of all kinds.

HELD UP POST-OFFICE

BELLEVILLE, June 5.—Two young men, named Smith and Hodgett, are in the County Jail here awaiting trial on a charge of theft. It is alleged that the accused, Friday last, Millbridge, Hastings County, visited the store and post-office kept by Miss Ellie Hogan and her sister, Mrs. Daniel Kirby, and, at the point of a revolver, took the money from the cash drawer; also some goods which they had ordered done up. They had a preliminary trial before Mr. Casement, J. P., of Madoc, who committed them for trial.

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

How Everyone Can Help

THE Government has developed a liberal and broad plan to help soldiers settle on farms. It is securing land. It is granting substantial loans. It is obtaining advantageous prices on equipment, implements, building materials and live stock. It is providing agricultural training and farming supervision.

That is as much as the Government itself can do.

But the plan needs more. It needs a community spirit of co-operation.

Already Provincial Governments, Universities, Farmers' Associations, and Veterans' Associations are giving valuable assistance. Many manufacturers and sellers of farm supplies have agreed to allow the soldier settlers special prices. Many successful farmers have willingly worked on Qualification Committees which have to pass on the applicants. Men who have had experience in lending money on farm property are serving on Advisory Loan Committees, judging land values.

"It is at once a privilege and an obligation to render service to those men who have rendered service to us greater than can ever be repaid."
—Grain Growers' Guide.

But even such practical assistance is not enough. In each community farmers can be of real service to the soldier settler. They can give him advice about local conditions. They can lend him an extra horse or plough, give him a day's help at seeding or harvest time, and extend to him that friendly, neighborly, respectful spirit which he deserves.

In this way Canada is performing a double duty. It is discharging, as far as possible, the debt we owe to our soldiers; and it is adding to the country's chief industry a body of competent, willing producers.

Full information about lands and loans for soldiers will be sent on request to the Provincial Superintendent, Soldier Settlement Board, 32 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, Ont.

"The distribution of soldier settlers in settled rural communities will be of material assistance to the less experienced settlers in that they can get advice and assistance from their neighbors."

Among the Lovely Laurentians

When the Canadian Pacific constructed the railway line—150 miles long—leading through the Laurentian Mountains from Montreal to Mount Laurier they gave to lovers of nature the key to a most romantic and picturesque region. The district in which these mountains are located lies to the northwest of Montreal, and covers a vast extent of country, some of which is yet but little known. None of the mountains are very lofty; some slope gently to a round summit, while others stand up boldly and wear on their heads a cap of craggy boulders. Nearly all are coated with trees from base to summit, tiny pines growing out of the fissures in the rocks, even where one would think they could not find sufficient soil to sustain them.

The valleys that lie between the elevations were once forests, but now the trees are cut away and their places are taken by daisy-dotted meadows, pasture land, or fields from which the reaper gathers a harvest of golden grain in the autumn. Most of the farm [illegible] of wood and painted white on the outside. They have a quaint look of neatness. Practically all the natives of the Laurentian Mountains are [illegible] who speak the French language, but many of them possess a good knowledge of English.

Lakes and streams are plentiful among the mountains. Often the lakes are formed into a chain by the connecting link of a river; and many of them are adorned with picturesque islands, which, in the bright sunlight, seem like great bouquets cast on huge plates of silver.

People from all parts of the American continent, and from Europe who have journeyed through this locality have expressed their appreciation of the beauties of the Laurentians. The climate is healthy, the skies being cloudless, and the breezes freshening. A few weeks there will restore health to the nervous and overworked, and amidst the invigorating atmosphere of these haunts, invalids are often given a new lease of life.

There is a convenient train service through the Laurentian Mountains. Sometimes the train climbs to a height of about 1,400 feet above the sea level, and, looking from the windows one might imagine that the ascent was made to allow a good view of the valley below. Now and then the track winds around a beautiful lake as if to embrace it. Often the journey is by the side of the river whose waters occasionally break away from the lines of steel, and after having raced in a semi-circular route for some distance they return again to flow along the track.

The banks of the lakes among the mountains are ideal sites for summer homes. There are hundreds of summer houses built there already. Lots can be easily purchased and the cost of construction is not great, for the building material is always close at hand. Many of the best Montreal families spend July, August and September in their Laurentian summer residences. Amongst these mountains—away from all thoughts of business, from the noise of the street cars, the dust of the streets, and the ring of the telephone bell, one thinks of nothing save happiness.

Excellent fishing is to be had in most of the Laurentian lakes and rivers.

Speckled, red, grey and salmon trout are caught in abundance, and so are pickerel and the various species of bass. That the lakes and rivers adjacent to the railway tracks do not now yield so plentiful a harvest for the fisherman's bag as they did a few years ago, consequently those who are specially out for this sport like to go into the hearts of the lonely districts where the tick of the fishing tackle has been but little heard. Often the wielder of the hook and line catches several dozen victims in a day.

There is a good golf course at St. Margaret, and at the principal resorts facilities for bathing, canoeing, and boating are unrivalled.

The Man Who Banished Corns

Blue-jay was invented by a scientist of distinction. By a man whose lifetime has been spent in the study of surgical dressings.

This is a master's method—correct, complete and efficient. And the millions of people who know it, never think of enduring a corn.

All in One

The first step is to stop the pain. This is done by removing all pressure—by the soft protecting ring marked A.

The next step is to gently cause the corn to disappear.

This is done by the remarkable B & B Wax, which no corn can resist.

This bit of wax—marked B—is centered on the corn. It cannot spread. So, unlike old-time methods, it acts on the corn alone.

C is rubber-coated adhesive. This snugly wraps the application, protecting everything.

You apply this Blue-jay in a jiffy. The corn pain stops at once. The wrapping is comfortable and you forget it.

In two days you remove it and the corn can be lifted out. Only rare corns need a second application.

This is the scientific way, the easy, sure and right way to end corns. You will never return to any wrong method when you try a Blue-jay once.

Try it tonight.

PROFIT IN GOLDEN SEAL.

A Woodland Crop That May Be Cultivated With Little Trouble.

Speaking of plants that may be cultivated with little trouble and with profit to the grower, a writer in Green's Fruit Grower advises those who have a bit of unused woodland or underbrush to plant golden seal. He considers it one of the most remunerative of plants to raise and says that it requires very little care.

The roots of this plant sold fifteen years ago at 30 cents a pound. The price has steadily advanced. The root is now worth $5.50 a pound, and the dry leaves and stems now sell for 25 cents a pound. It is one of the most widely used drugs known to the modern pharmacopoeia.

At the end of three years you can sort out the mature roots from the young ones and wash and dry them for sale, while you put the young roots back in the ground. At the end of the three years the grower has a yearly crop of roots, and, beginning with the first year, he has a yearly crop of leaves and stems. This is one of the crops on which there is an absolute certainty of a market that will run after you as soon as any golden seal buyer knows you have the goods to sell. Go and ask your druggist or your doctor about the value of golden seal.

WHISTLER AND HIS GROCER.

An Overdue Bill, a Threat and a Payment Not in Cash.

Whistler's financial affairs were the mingled joy and terror of his friends, and the Pennells, in their "Life of Whistler," give a most amusing glimpse into this side of his life. On one occasion he had actually run up a bill of £600 with a Chelsea greengrocer, who at last called to insist upon payment. Whistler came out strong on that occasion:

"How—what—why—why, of course, you have sent these things—most excellent things—and they have been eaten, you know, by most excellent people. Think what a splendid advertisement! And sometimes, you know, the salads are not quite up to the mark—the fruit, you know, not quite fresh. And if you go into these unseemly discussions about the bill—well, you know, I shall have to go into discussion about all this, and think how it would hurt your reputation with all these extraordinary people. I think the best thing is not to refer to the past—I'll let it go. And in the future we'll have a weekly account—wiser, you know!"

The greengrocer left without his money, but received in payment two nocturnes, one the blue upright Valparaiso.

A Calamity.

Five-year-old Tot's mother was telling the youngster the story of herself and her twin sister.

"One morning when we were a week old the nurse was bathing us, and she took the blue ribbon off Della's wrist and the pink ribbon off Stella's wrist. When she was ready to put them on again she could not remember which one of us was Della and which was Stella, so she took us in to mother, but mother could not tell either, and no one ever did know whether or not we had our right names. Then when we were seven years old one of us died, and nobody knows whether it was Della or Stella."

Little Tot burst into an agony of tears and sobbed out, "I just know it was my own mother that died when she was seven years old!"—Youth's Companion.

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carousal. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously poisoned a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

A Different Reason.

"What bright eyes you have!" said the visitor to five-year-old Tommy. "You must get plenty of sleep."

"Yes'm," he answered. "My mamma makes me go to bed every night at 8 o'clock."

"That's to keep you healthy," said the visitor.

"No, it ain't," replied the youngster. "It's so she can mend my clothes."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

CZAR REED'S EARLY DAYS.

His Life in the Navy and His Tribute to its Officers.

It is not generally known that Thomas Brackett Reed served in the United States navy, but he told in a speech his own story of his naval experience and his photograph as a young man in naval costume taken in 1864 is one of the priceless relics of the family:

"The navy means to me far different things from what it does to many here. To the distinguished admiral (Steedman) who sits beside me and to the distinguished admiral (Jenkins) who sits opposite it means the shriek of shot and shell, the horrors of the blockade. To me it meant no roaring wind, no shriek of shot and shell, but level water and the most delightful time of my life, for I was on a gunboat on the Mississippi river after the valor and courage of you gentlemen had driven the enemy off. * * * You see, I kept a grocery store for the government and well remember how I was tumbled aboard ship the first day with the provisions and small wares and a set of books, and the boat steamed up the magnificent defiles of the Tennessee. * * * But I also suffered for my country. How well I remember the fatal day when I drew $5,000 from the bank. The first time I counted the bills there was only $4,800. The next time it came out $5,200. I sweltered over it in the bank that hot August day, but it never would come out two times alike. Then in utter despair I bundled it up, took it aboard, locked myself in my office and there in grim despair wrestled with it alone. And, lo and behold, there was just $5,000—just what the bank clerk told me there was!

"It was a delightful life—thirteen hundred dollars a year and one ration and nothing to do. My sad heart hath often panted for it since. However, I learned that my country could support me, and I am bound to say it has faithfully done so ever since. What a charming life that was, that dear old life in the navy! I knew all the regulations, and the rest of them didn't. I had all my rights and most of theirs. * * *

"Do you wonder that I stand up for the navy? I want it increased, and I have solid reason for it. It means something to me.

"Mr. Commander and companions, I have made this speech to you in the lightest vein because I have no right to use any other. The brave faces that I see before me have been bared to the shock of battle and storm. You have seen on a hundred battlefields the living and the dead. It would be a shame for me to talk seriously of service to men like you. This button insignia of the order, you wear because you honor it. I wear it because it honors me."—National Magazine.

THE THIRD MACKENZIE.

Temporary Leader of Liberal Party Has Never Been Defeated.

Daniel D. Mackenzie, the new temporary leader of the Liberal party at Ottawa, is described by Parliamentary observers as a "two-fisted, fighting man," a dour and capable Scot.

One may imagine the trusty and faithful type of the man from the fact that in twenty-five years of public life he has never been defeated in any election.

He is the third Mackenzie in the line of Liberal leadership in Canada, and it is just a century since the first, William Lyon Mackenzie, landed in Canada. That first Mackenzie was not a Liberal leader in the party meaning of the word, but stood for liberty and the free institutions in Canada. The second Mackenzie was Alexander, who was Liberal Premier of Canada for five years shortly after Confederation.

This latest Mackenzie has had a distinguished public career. He is now sixty years of age, having been born at Lake Ainslie, Cape Breton, in 1859. He entered the profession of law and served as mayor of North Sydney and Commissioner of Schools for Cape Breton County for five consecutive years. In 1900 he was elected to the Nova Scotia Legislature and to the House of Commons in 1904, in which he has remained ever since. From 1906 to 1908 he was judge of the County Court District No. 7 of Nova Scotia. As his name would indicate, he is a Presbyterian.

While a very aggressive fighter, Mr. Mackenzie has till the present, remained out of the limelight. In the Parliamentary debates in the first year of the war, when the Government was attacked on several points, Mr. Mackenzie took a prominent part. Sir Wilfrid Laurier thought so highly of Mr. Mackenzie that he chose him to sit as his deskmate in the Commons during the last season of Parliament.

Will Inspect Grazing Lands.

Prof. W. J. Rutherford, dean of the Faculty of Agriculture, Provincial University, Saskatoon, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee to examine the lands now held under grazing leases in Southern Alberta, to ascertain what areas will be suitable for mixed farming in connection with the campaign now being carried on by the Soldier Settlement Board.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, sour breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

JAPANESE BAIT DIGGERS.

As Many Women as Men Work at the Disease Breeding Trade.

An extraordinary occupation that many of the very poor follow in Japan is that of the esatori, or bait catcher, who spends his days gathering angleworms. We say "his," continues the account in the Japan Magazine, but the bait diggers are as often women as men. The Japanese angleworm is not taken from the soil, as is the case in occidental countries, but from the black mud of the rivers and canals.

Tokyo is a great place for this calling. The city has numerous streams and canals connected with tidewater, and as soon as the tide begins to ebb you can see women with their baskets and their mud forks climbing down the stone facings of the canals, plunging their legs into the deep mud and picking up the wriggling red angleworms that they dig out of the mud.

These worms are a somewhat different species from the earthworm. They are slightly stouter, with jointed bodies and peculiar mustached mouths. The receptacles for the captured worms are baskets or tubs with covers that contain small square openings through which the women drop the worms as they pick them up. As soon as the bait baskets or tubs are full the women take them to the shop and sell them. The bait shop deals in bait only, and from these establishments the fishermen buy worms for their hooks.

The amount that the angleworm catchers can make daily is very small, not more than 40 sen for each worker, but it helps out in the household expenses. In the summer weather the work is not hard, although it is certainly hot, with the sun beating down on the stooping form and reflected from the wet mud and water. In the colder weather, however, it is more trying, for the bait catcher has to stand for hours in the freezing mud.

Diseases that are the result of their calling are frequent among the bait women, especially beriberi and dropsy. The Japanese regard bait digging as the most miserable way of getting a living known to mortal man.

Spoiled Cakes Cost Money

Flour, eggs, milk, butter and sugar are high in price. A spoiled cake or batch of biscuits costs money.

To make sure of baking success use pure, strong, double-acting

EGG-O Baking Powder

The heavy Government Standard flours need the strength of Egg-O to make a light baking. Egg-O has two actions. It rises in the mixing bowl when cold water or milk is added and continues to rise in the heat of the oven, thus making a light cake doubly certain.

You can use sweet milk, sour milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O—a different and better baking powder.

Value of Great Jewels.

Although the blue and white diamond weighing 388½ carats, recently discovered in the Jagersfontein mine, is an extraordinary jewel, it has broken no records. The present discovery, in fact, is small in comparison with famous gems such as the Cullinan, Koh-i-noor, Excelsior, and Regent.

More, however, depends for value on color than on size; and the latest stone, being described as of soft blue and white, is likely to rank high as a valuable find.

As an instance may be mentioned the Porter-Rhodes gem, found in 1880, which was valued at £200,000, though it weighed only 150 carats—less than half the weight of this one.

The weights of some famous diamonds are here given for comparison: Cullinan, 3,032 carats; Excelsior, 980 carats; Koh-i-noor, 800 carats; Regent, 410 carats.

The Cullinan diamond was cut into two—one weighing 516½ carats and the other 300 carats—the gems being presented to the King and are now among the crown jewels.—Tit-Bits.

MIGHT CALL IT ABOUT EVEN

City Brother Had Not a Great Deal the Best of His Relative in the Country.

Dr. Samuel Schwab claims that the oldest good story is the one about the boy who left the farm and got a job in the city. He wrote a letter to his brother who had elected to stick by the farm telling of the joys of city life, in which he said:

"Thursday we auto'd out to the country club and we golfed until dark. Then we trolleyed back to town and danced until dawn. Then we motored to the beach and Fridayed there." The brother on the farm wrote back:

"Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all afternoon. Then we went to Ned's and pokered till morning. Today we muled out to the cornfield and gee-hawed till sundown. Then we suppered and then we piped for awhile. After that we staircased up to our room and bedsteaded until the clock fived.

Very Possible.

A Kansas City business woman the day before Thanksgiving received a box of chrysanthemums, which she proudly set upon her desk for the delectation of her fellow workers. The mums really came from a rival business concern, but when the other girls wanted to know who sent them she only smiled and said, "the florist," in her most mysterious manner.

"Come, come," they said. "Tell us who."

"I shall not," she bantered. "I'm married and it wouldn't do to tell the truth about it."

"But," interjected the office anthologist, "perhaps the truth would make you free."

ONTARIO CREEDS.

What the Boys and Girls of This Province Are Thinking.

After talking with thousands of boys and girls in rural districts of Ontario, Dr. Creelman has drawn up a fair representation of what is in their minds, which he has embodied in the following Ontario boys' and girls' creeds:

Boys' Creed.

1. I believe that life in the country can be made just as pleasant and profitable as life in the city.

2. I believe that father and I can form a partnership that will suit both of us.

3. I believe that if I kill every weed on my father's farm we shall be well paid by the increased crop alone, to say nothing of the benefit to our neighbors.

4. I believe that by careful selection of our chickens I can double the output of the flock.

5. I believe that by introducing alfalfa on our farm that we can keep twice as many domestic animals as at present.

6. I believe that by keeping twice as many animals we will be able to grow much larger crops of alfalfa and other things.

7. I believe that by planting shade trees, growing flowers, shrubs, and keeping a tidy homestead that we will be better contented and happier in every way, and our farm will increase in value.

8. I believe not in luck, but in pluck.

9. I believe that farming is a most honorable calling, and having decided to stay on the farm, it is my duty to make the best use of my time, now in school, that I may be the better farmer in the days that are to come.

10. I believe in working when I work and playing when I play, and in giving and receiving a square deal in every act of life.

Girls' Creed.

1. I believe that I have a right to be happy every day.

2. I believe that God's blue sky and God's green earth are a part of my inheritance.

3. I believe that I have a right to have little chickens and ducks and lambs and puppies as well as dolls and ribbons.

5. I believe I would love to keep house better than anything else, and I only wish they taught housework at school.

6. I believe that keeping a garden all my own would be great fun, and I believe that I could be happy in giving away flowers and in cooking the vegetables that I raised myself.

7. I believe that I could study real hard at my grammar and geography and arithmetic and spelling if I could do cooking or sewing with the other girls in the afternoon.

8. I don't want to go to town and leave my father and mother and my brothers and sisters behind while I live in the city, for I know I will miss them all, and the trees and the creek and the green grass and the old woods and everything, but, oh! I don't want to stay at home and do nothing but wash dishes and carry water and do the chores, and grow old like auntie. I want to laugh and love and live.

9. I believe I can learn to sew and cook and do laundry work, and do them well, and I want to learn them, and I want to do them well.

10. I believe in the square deal for girls as well as boys, and I want everybody to be happy all the time—the old as well as the young.

Exceptionally Rare.

In a Restaurant.

First Soldier (in restaurant)—How's your egg, Bill?

Second Soldier—I'll match you to see who goes back for the gas masks.

The Ingenious Hollanders.

In some parts of Holland the farmers have taken a hint from nature, and as a result have their own gas plants. On the drained marshy land, below the sea level, natural gas is plentiful, and plants have been installed to put it to practical use. The installation comprises a well, into which water from the soil filters, with a gas-generator placed therein, thus extracting the gaseous properties from the water and conducting them to a reservoir containing a supply for the house. The gas thus obtained provides all the wants for cooking, heating, and lighting in the house or any other part of the farmyard. After the plant is once installed, which can be done at a small expense, the cost is nothing, and the quality of the gas is said to be particularly good. —Family Herald.

A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to help her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is specially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Ex-Crown Prince and the War

WHAT responsibility must be borne by the ex-Crown Prince for beginning the war? There is more difference of opinion as regards William the younger compared with William the elder. Everybody knows that if the Kaiser did not plot the war, he had it in his power to keep out of it, and that if he had stood aside there would have been no war. The case for hanging William Hohenzollern senior is conclusive. But about the former Crown Prince there is more doubt. Is he a fire-eater, a man delighting in slaughter, a sinister figure who aimed to make himself popular in Germany by great military triumphs, and who drove his father into war by trying to outbid him for the regard of the German army and the German aristocracy? Or is he a rather empty-minded young man, more interested in sports and dissipation than in conquest, who knew little that was happening at the German Foreign Office, who cared less, who has no military ability, and is good-natured and weak rather than powerful and malevolent?

It is the latter picture that is drawn for us by Karl Wiegand, an American correspondent who was in Germany in the early years of the war, and who is probably the only journalist who had an interview with the former Crown Prince while the war was raging. Mr. Wiegand had the interview, which was extended over several days, at the headquarters of the Fifth German Army, at Stenay, France, in the winter of 1914. He had to exercise considerable ingenuity to meet the Crown Prince, for when he made known his desire through the usual channels he was told that the Crown Prince was wanted to fight and not to talk, and it was plain enough that the Foreign Office dreaded what William might say to an American journalist. Whether the interview was reported by Mr. Wiegand at the time we do not know, but it is recalled by him now in the New York Sun in order to prove that the former Crown Prince is rather an object of ridicule or of sympathy than of detestation.

He spoke excellent English, with what appeared to the fascinated correspondent to be an English accent, and expressed the greatest admiration for the English people and their institutions, openly confessing the doubt that German diplomats and statesmen would ever approach the British standard. At the same time he admitted that for initiative the French soldier was much superior to the individual German. Hanging from the chandelier in the dining-room at the Crown Prince's headquarters was a number of little effigies or mannikins representing soldiers of the nations then at war with Germany, and once in the course of conversation somebody expressed curiosity as to the nationality of the next soldier that would have to be thus suspended. A general answered that certainly it would not be American. The Crown Prince was curious, much to the astonishment of the other diners, for at that time the idea of the United States entering the war was certainly not entertained by a handful of Germans. But the Crown Prince insisted that it was more than a possibility, owing to the stupidity of the German diplomats.

He also declared that his father was surrounded by men who permitted him to know only what would serve their own interests, that he was never favored with an honest opinion that might conflict with his own views or desires. He admitted that the Kaiser was partly to blame for this, since he did not always want to hear the truth, especially if it happened to be unpleasant. "If I may anything I am represented as trying to interfere and told to keep my mouth shut," he said. Speaking of the origin of the war he insisted that Germany was obliged to fight in her own defence, but he confessed that the blunders of German diplomacy had made this inevitable. He spoke only of blunders, never of a deep-laid plot. His detestation of the Foreign Office was heartily reciprocated. There he was suspected of a desire to "butt in," and it was well recognised that as soon as he succeeded his father he would make a clean sweep of the statesmen then in control, with the single exception of Zimmermann.

Mr. Wiegand says that the idea that the Crown Prince directed the Fifth German Army, that of Verdun fame, is an illusion. He commanded the army in the same sense that King George rules the British Empire. Nor is it reasonable to suppose that such a tremendous task as the proposed capture of Verdun would have been entrusted to the least experienced of the German field leaders and by many years the youngest of them. The Verdun plan was worked out by von Falkenhayn, and the general who was supposed to realise it was Gen. Knobelsdorff, attached to the Crown Prince as chief of staff. Of course the idea was that the Crown Prince should reap the glory of the achievement, and it may be that the attempt on Verdun was prompted by dynastic as well as by military considerations. Some great military victory was necessary for the Crown Prince's prestige, for according to the correspondent he wholly lacks the strong personality of his father, and has not the ex-Kaiser's gift of making an imposing figure in the limelight. On the contrary there is something sheepish and even stinking about him. It remains for the League of Nations to consider his case and pass judgment upon him.

GOOD POINTS IN AMERICANS

Mexican Recognizes Attributes He Believes Latins Might Copy to Their Advantage.

Let us recognize this: The poetry of the American character is shown in four devotions—to women, to children, to trees and to birds. These men, whom many people unjustly suppose to be rude; these men, who make millions; these men, who maintain the rails through immense deserts; who build up formidable industries, have in their spirit these four devotions, which honor them vastly and which not a few of us Latins would like to have for the better honor and embellishment of our common existence.

There are in compensation many children and flocks of birds. Children are the kings of the parks. Everything there is for them. They rule over all and you may see them, as I did, in Rock Creek park (Washington), with their naked legs wading in the many small streams and shouting charmingly while splashing in the crystal of the water. Notwithstanding they are smaller than the children, the birds are little kings as well. Little kings that are respected not only in the air but on the ground. Sparrows I have found on the sidewalks among the hurrying throngs of people, jumping and hopping about.—Carlos Dublanes Pena, in Universal Illustrated, Mexico City.

You May Be Skeptical

About What Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Will Do for You, But Here Is the Evidence.

When the blood gets thin and watery, when the nerves become weak and exhausted, when your vitality is run down and you feel weak and tired it is because nourishment is lacking.

You may be eating as usual but your digestive system fails to obtain from the food you eat the elements from which new blood and nerve force is created.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies this element to the blood and nerves it is the most successful of restoratives.

While personal experience with a medical treatment is the only absolute proof that it will benefit you, still we are all similarly constituted and what will help one will help another under similar conditions.

This is why it is so interesting to read the experience of other people, and many will find in this letter their own conditions described.

Mrs. Thomas Williamson, Picton, Ont., writes: "For the last twenty years I have had trouble with my nerves. I suffered from sleeplessness, and, of course, my system was often in a run-down condition from nervousness. At different times when I would have severe attacks, I was under the doctor's care, but this only gave me temporary relief. Twice I was to a sanitarium in Toronto, where I secured some relief at the time. This past summer I suffered from another nervous breakdown, and it was then that I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I took a treatment of this medicine and can now get up in the morning and do my work, which was something I could not do previously, because I used to get strangely confused. My appetite is good, and I can sleep well, too. Generally speaking, I am so much better that I am proud of my improvement. I cannot speak too highly of the splendid results I have secured through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

After-Effects of Mustard Gas.

At a meeting of the Academie de Medicine, Dr. Ch. Achard, professor of pathology and general therapeutics in the Paris medical faculty, spoke of the sequels of gas poisoning. It is remarkable that in the mustard gas cases the most serious sequels are seen. The most important of these late symptoms (they may appear as late as forty months after the gassing) are manifested by the lungs. They are chronic bronchitis and a condition simulating tuberculosis without tubercle bacilli in the sputum.

Nevertheless, tuberculosis may supervene as a secondary complication, but much less frequently than is believed to be the case. In addition to these pulmonary lesions there may be lesions of the larynx, eyes, skin, stomach, heart and, exceptionally, of the liver and kidneys. Nervous disorders may develop or disturbances of the general health of the injured person.

NATURE OF THE OPEN.

War Is Expected to Cause Increase of Vagabondage.

The lure of the open has been sung by many poets, but to the average civilised man it is a pleasant myth. Now and then, to be sure, says the Medical Record editorially, the city man camps out for a week or so to the accompaniment of aching muscles, mosquitoes, poor coffee and general ennui. Later on he looks back on the adventure as rare sport and recalls with his friends the night they sat and played penny ante with their umbrellas up because the roof of the tent leaked, but down in his heart of hearts he knows how well he likes the comforts of city life.

But the great war has just put a new aspect on the thing. These same men have been taken out into the open and made to live there. They have not been allowed to quit. And from loathing it they have come to like it. And now comes demobilization.

It is a fact well known to students of sociology that following every great war of the past there has been an increase of vagabondage in the warring nations, nor is this one expected to be an exception.

How many, with the roaming spirit are thrown into fore-ordained paths, take the line of least resistance and follow the career mapped out for them. If they ever contemplate the delicious freedom it is only with a passing sigh. The iron bonds of custom are too strong and they go down to the grave highly respected citizens. But the war has given them physical health, self-reliance and a taste of freedom. The Wanderlust grips them, the open road of Bliss Carman, the long trail of Kipling, the little voices sung by service are calling them and they go forth into the open spaces. So we shall doubtless see as one of the many by products of the war a rebellion against convention and civilization and an increase of society's lahmaels.

What Causes Wrinkles? What's The Remedy?

Stop to consider what produces wrinkles and sagginess of the skin. Premature aging, mal-nutrition, etc., cause the flesh to shrink, lose its youthful plumpness and firmness. The skin then is too large for the flesh underneath; doesn't fit tightly and snugly as it used to—it wrinkles or sags.

It must be plain that to tighten the skin, make it fit the face perfectly in every place will effectually remove the hateful wrinkles and sagginess. This is easily and harmlessly accomplished by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and using the solution as a face wash. The ingredients you can get at any drug store. The results are surprising. The skin immediately tightens up, becoming firm and fresh as in youth. Every wrinkle and sag are affected at once.

CAPRONI'S AIRSHIP.

Constructed to Carry Hundred Passengers Per Voyage.

Signor Caproni, inventor of the Caproni plane and Italy's foremost maker of flying apparatus, announces he has nearly completed a triplane of the Caproni model capable of accommodating 100 passengers for a long trip.

This big passenger plane will be equipped with cabins, berths, appliances for preparing and serving food, etc. It is the first of a series of similar planes that will be used for commercial transportation.

Signor Caproni points out that the shape of Italy makes a trip between its northern and southern ends a time-consuming effort and transportation between Italy and its island and African possessions very much more so.

By these big passenger planes a trip from Rome to Naples would take an hour and a half, from Naples to Messina or Palermo, Sicily, two hours, and from Palermo, Sicily, two hours, and from Palermo to Tunis, Africa, less than two hours and a half.

Besides passengers these planes will carry mail, newspapers and compact express merchandise. Signor Caproni is assured in advance of business enough to carry the expense of the service and he anticipates a good profit.

To guard against disabling accidents the planes will have two reserve engines, capable of sustaining flight, and there will be also a reserve pilot always on duty against any human failure at the controls.

All this, remember, is not a dream or a vision of the future. The first of these 100-passenger triplanes is nearly ready for its first flight and the construction of others is financed.

Italy's progressive transportation interests are taking up commercial airplane use promptly and in no timid way.

The Dope.

A writer in the London Sketch discourses upon the influenza in a vein of gentle satire:

"Dr. Bjoserness, I read, has invented a new process for the treatment of influenza. You take him your back, and he proceeds to expose it to a strong electric heat and light appliance, followed by the application of heat developing compresses, whereby an intense perspiration is induced.'

"This, on the face of it, sounds good; and you imagine that the learned doctor can cure you, so to speak, on the way to business. But he does not claim that power. He has cured all his patients, he says, but the process takes from two to five days.

"My own process is somewhat similar, but less expensive. You take your back and put it in a warm bed. At the foot of the bed place a hot-water bottle, and on the bed lay a large number of thick blankets. Then drink hot whisky and water, or hot soup, or hot anything, smoke your pipe, read something cheerful, and remain in bed until the perspiration has passed off and you feel yourself again.

"This process, like the doctor's, takes two to five days — generally two. It is just a matter of taste—and financial means—which you decide to try."

The Bulldog.

As to the derivation of the word bulldog, it is only necessary to state that at one time this species was exclusively used in bull baiting, and from that circumstance arose the name by which it is universally known.

Don't Hawk, Blow Sneeze, or Cough Use "Catarrhozone"

When germs attack the lining of the nose, make you sneeze and gag—when later on they infest the bronchial tubes—how can you follow them with a cough syrup?

You can't do it—that's all. Cough syrups go to the stomach—that's why they fail.

But Catarrhozone goes everywhere—gets right after the germs—kills them—heals the soreness—cures the inflammation—makes Catarrh disappear. Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essential antiseptic that simply means death to catarrh. Large size costs $1.00 and contains two months' treatment; smaller sizes 25c and 50c, all druggists and storekeepers.

Just as a man is about to hit the sidewalk after falling from the roof of a thirteen-story building nothing so thoroughly satisfies him as a sudden awakening to the fact that he is safe at home in bed.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

Some Women Never Learn.

"You never put anything where it belongs," he complained.

"Why are you scolding me again, George?" she replied. "What have I done now that is wrong?"

To Be Determined.

"What are you going to do when you get home?"

"I don't know yet," replied Senator Sorghum. "I've got to wait and see whether my reception by the town folks is in the nature of an ovation or the third degree."—Washington Star.

IF KIDNEY AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts to flush out your Kidneys and neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Feed Chicks Right

They develop twice as fast.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Chick Feed will develop chicks into broilers for market faster and bring them to the egg-laying period much earlier than ordinary feed. Purina Feeds are adapted to young chicks, and give perfect development.

PURINA CHICKEN CHOWDER and CHICK FEED

Grain feed supplies an excess of heat and energy, but is deficient in elements that make blood, bone, nerve, lean meat and feathers. Purina Chicken Chowder contains an abundance of the very elements which grain feed lacks. The Chowder and Chick Feed should be fed in about equal quantities.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Scratch Feed are guaranteed to make hens lay more eggs.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Bread—An' Butter —An'—Apple Butter

By BARBARA KERR

(Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

She was a little brown wisp of a thing, sitting in a big chair propped upon a box to make her just the right height to stir the apple butter. She could rest the long handle of the stirrer on the arm of the chair so it would not be so heavy, then she could keep the paddle moving over the bottom of the great copper kettle. To help keep the rich butter from sticking to the bottom of the kettle her mother had thrown in a number of bright, new copper cents thoroughly cleansed with hot vinegar and salt. If the apple butter was not scorched, Sarah Jane was to have all the pennies for her own, besides, of course, all of the good bread and butter and apple butter that she could eat all winter.

It was an ideal October day. Along the fence was a riot of color, with now and then a sumach, like an immense bunch of scarlet geraniums or a clump of goldenrod. The pokeberries with their purple inkwells mingled with the browns, russets and greens of summer weeds and a great profusion of wild grapevines. And Sarah Jane approved. The air was spicy with the fragrance of cooking apples and cider. The great copper kettle hung over a slow outdoor fire near the springhouse, and the long stirrer moved rhythmically over the bottom, pushing the pennies about ceaselessly.

Sarah Jane was droning an improvised little song which she attuned to the swish of the pennies and the gurgle of the apple butter as it surged through the holes in the wooden paddle of the stirrer:

'Peter—pitter—patter—putter—
Bread—an'—butter—an' — apple butter—
Too much hard cider will make you stutter—"

"Well, hello, little poet! How do you know? Tried it? I've brought the rest of your cider from the mill, but it's not hard. Where's your mother?"

Ashamed that anyone, especially Milo Ward, the idol of her childish heart, should have heard her silly little song, Sarah Jane hung her head in mortification. She would have run away, but she was mindful that Duncan farm was famous for its apple butter, which had never been burned. She tried to pull her little brown bare feet up under her skirts and almost upset her precarious perch.

"Look out for the throne!" cried Milo, as he caught the chair and righted it on the box. Then, seeing her embarrassment, he took the stirrer from her hands, saying gently: "Don't mind me, little Say-Jane. Let me give the stirrer a few whirls while you find your mother for me."

Sarah Jane needed no second bidding. She found her mother, but would not return to her post till Milo had delivered the cider and gone. She heard him say to her mother as he was leaving: "I guess I teased Say-Jane, Mrs. Duncan; tell her I'll have better manners next time, for I'm going away to college."

October came and went in the valley. Other children, sons and daughters of the farmers, went to college. Many of them, after finishing, returned no more, but took up their lives in various ways in other places. One who did not return was Milo Ward, for his family had moved away and the Ward farm was sold. But Sarah Jane could not remain away; the old folks at home needed her. She and her mother still made apple butter, but not in the big copper kettle, for there were so few now to eat it.

Then war broke out, and Sarah Jane, patriotic and sweet and wholesome as her own valley, wanted to do her bit. She would make apple butter for the soldiers. She brought forth the copper kettle, and as she sat patiently stirring her thoughts reverted to that other October day when she was so mortified, and she and her mother laughed over the memory.

When the apple butter was done and set away to cool in great stone jars, Sarah Jane made a market basket full of apple butter sandwiches and took them in to the station, for she had been warned that a troop train was coming.

She delivered the delicious sandwiches into eager hands thrust through the windows till she had just one left, when she saw a soldier hurrying to meet her. Thinking that he was coming for the treat she held it out to him, crying out her wares in her musical contralto: "Just one of my famous apple butter sandwiches left. Warranted pure cider, fresh from the Duncan farm."

"Bread—an'—butter—an'—apple butter!" mimicked the soldier. "And it's little Say-Jane, too. Don't you tell me you don't remember me!" and he took the sandwich and the hand, too.

"I remember that you promised you'd have better manners next time, and now you've reminded me of that awful moment—"

"When the queen's throne toppled—and when I tried to fix it she abdicated—"

"It looks as if you were intent on scaring some one else into abdicating," remarked Sarah Jane with a sweep of her basket toward the train—"the way you go flying through the country, not even stopping to see the old home place."

"Who says so?" bantered Milo. "I have a 26-hour stopover. I was going out to your place, hoping you'd invite me to stay, and then take me around to see the old places. Besides one apple butter sandwich is only tantalizing when you haven't tasted the Duncan brand for so long."

Sarah Jane for a moment was tongue-tied with a rush of her old childish diffidence. "Oh, have a heart!" he pleaded, as he took her basket from her arm. "I'm sure your mother would bid me welcome."

"Yes," assented Sarah Jane demurely, "mother is such a good patriot, she'd do anything for a soldier."

"I've a great mind to make you apologize right now for that remark to an old schoolmate, little Say-Jane," he threatened as he helped her into the roadster. "We are going to cut out all the hero stuff. I'm not making an international appeal. In fact, it is a sort of domestic matter. I've bought the old farm and I'm going to talk business to you—"

"Be careful!" warned Sarah Jane in a panic. "I'm not a good driver—it just about takes my mind—"

"Oh, in a case like that, I'll take the wheel, or else we'll stop at the old hedge, under that big hedge apple tree, and I'll tell you why I did not come sooner."

As he drove through the sweet-scented lanes he set about giving, as he termed it, a strict account of himself. And it must have been quite satisfactory to all concerned, for while 26 hours' leave is all too short, it was still long enough to convince Sarah Jane of his sincerity. Of her love for him she had been convinced years ago. So when he left for the front it was with the understanding that when he returned the old Ward farm was to be again occupied by Wards, and if the old copper kettle was not needed for ammunition it was to have a place in the Ward granary between seasons of apple butter making, when there was any to be put up for winter use.

"Bread—an'—butter—an'—apple butter."

HEIGHT THAT FEW ATTAIN

Not Many People Can Boast Their Complete Quittlessness of the "Seven Deadly Sins."

The "seven deadly sins" are pride, envy, lust, avarice, anger, sloth and gluttony.

The fathers, the sages, the wise men of the world, handing down from one generation to another through the centuries what they had observed and learned, at last agreed that all our spiritual and mental miseries, as well as most of our physical sufferings, come from an indulgence in the thoughts and actions included in the above-mentioned list of sins.

Old-fashioned people used to keep this list constantly before them, and their spiritual and physical health progressed or declined in the measure that they were able or unable to control their thoughts and appetites.

In these modern days we are still supposed to learn that the list of seven deadly sins was ever even made, and we are more surprised to know that it is a list which really covers the whole moral scheme of existence.

The man who can finally subdue himself into a state in which he does not break any of the laws for which the seven deadly sins stand as infringements, may well congratulate himself. He is what we would call a pretty good man, and we would like to have him as a neighbor. Not to be proud, not to be envious, not to be lustful, never to be avaricious or angry, nor to be a lazy man nor a glutton, means that you need fear no man or devil, and that you certainly shall not be afflicted with gout.

"Be good and you will be happy." There's many a saying, but there is none better than that.

The Last of the Aurochs.

The aurochs, which formerly roamed over the forests of Northern Europe, is extinct. Walter Winans, the well-known big game hunter, has shot the last, a bull with the record head. The Bolsheviats have exterminated the aurochs as the American buffalo was exterminated by the skin hunters.

At the time Mr. Winans shot this aurochs, in 1913, there were a few still living in the great forests of Pilavin, Russian Poland, and he took care to shoot only one which was expelled by the herd. Such a bull kills the young bulls so it had to be shot. Mr. Winans has, therefore, shot the last living wild aurochs in the world. The bull weighed 2,001 pounds and stood nearly seven feet high at the shoulders.

Mr. Winans has the unique distinction of having shot a specimen of each of the wild buffalo, American bison or buffalo, aurochs, Chillingham bull and Chartely bull (the last two English wild cattle). He has shot more than three thousand head of big game and was one of the men selected to shoot deer for the "Venison Committee" during the war.

The aurochs resembles the North American buffalo, but was higher in front, had no hump and was a redder color. It was very savage.

BERLIN STOPS ARMY CIRCULAR

Repudiates Document on People's Action if Fighting is Resumed.

BERLIN— A semi-official statement issued to-day says that the Government disapproves the circular issued by the Supreme Army Command regarding the attitude to be adopted by the population should fighting be resumed. Distribution of the circular has been stopped.

The statement adds that the Government is obliged to try to obtain a correct view of the situation in order to calm hotheads and to be able to meet with convincing proofs the "attacks of public opinion which are certainly to be expected shortly." The statement says:

"The National Government puts its trust in the intrinsic justice and convincing character of its counter-proposals, not in a renewal of the armed struggle by Germany, but will continually endeavour in no way to permit the safety of the Eastern provinces to be neglected."

An increase in salary—
But are you better off ?

"The more I make the more I spend," has been a young man's cry for generations.

When many a man's salary is $15 a week he lives up to every cent of it, putting off the time to start a savings account until his wages are increased to $20.

But when the $5 a week increase comes, does it go into the bank? Not very often.

Make that salary increase do something for you if it is to be of any benefit. Deposit it in The Bank of Toronto each week.

With the interest it earns, you will find at the end of the year that you have a lump sum with which you can do material things.

severe penalties. Indeed for many years it was the custom that all shingled roofs had wooden ladders laid thereon, to give access to each chimney, and beside the chimney, on a plank affixed to the ridge of the roof, two or more pails were placed and filled with water.

The Puzzle of the Public Pound.

It was remarked in an earlier paragraph that two citizens had been appointed as poundkeepers. Both were men of mature years and large experience, with good commonsense and balance. For the office of poundkeeper was no helter-skelter job, if the expression may be allowed. No gay young thing with crude ideas of function and justice was permitted to take office. It was a serious and solemn responsibility. Domestic animals roamed at large, and nearly all dwellings had fences about the premises. In spite of such animals would break in and damage was done. And the irate owner would get him a rope, affix it to the animal and hale it to the pound, and as ill news travels fast an exceedingly irate owner would follow and raise the very mischief. The public pound, for a time was a fenced in enclosure on the market square, and would often contain a miscellaneous assortment of incipient cattle in the shape of calves, sticking their wet noses through the pickets and pleading to be taken home to mother: playful colts impetuously kicking the slates off the barrier in an excess of resentment at confinement: predatory pigs tunnelling under the two-by-fours of the bottom rail and crawling through with a section of the fence attached to them. Then again facetious citizens who liked a joke, of a kind, would expose a weak place in the barrier and presently a general goal delivery would take place and the whole caboodle, the entire menagerie, would protrude and amble off up street in a body.

Eventually the public pound became a revenue producer. The fines were strictly accounted for, varying in amount from two shillings down to two pence, depending on the proclivities of the animal, or fowl, and its propensity to do damage. Then the release of the animal cost something. So it grew to be a habit and offending citizens—that is their belongings offended by proxy—would endeavor to head off the confinement and used coaxings, pleadings, friendly intervention, pursuasion and, it is regretfully chronicled, in cases unblushing bribery. If a boy were fetching along the animal he would fall victim to the seductive influence of a sixpence. So the committee met, and gravely considered the matter, saw that results were in jeopardy and amended the by-law to read "that any person who shall rescue, or attempt to rescue any Hores, Oxen, Cattle, Sheep or Swine shall be liable to a penalty of not less than two and six pence for each and every offence". Now, will you be good.

A Local Disturbance.

This measure was looked on as a distinct interference on vested rights and brought on a civic ruction that while immensely more furious that we have now over the Hunter Street Bridge, was not quite as bad as the trouble in Winnipeg. Citizens took sides, and the woes, hardships, and deprivation incurred by the "poor man's cow" were pictured in a way that actually brought tears to the eyes of councillors when a ferocious minded deputation waited on that body and protested. Indeed in after years the celebrated John McNaughton, on a memorable occasion and sitting in Council rose to his feet, and being a man with sporting blood in his veins, offered to have the question, this same question out with any member who would respect Marquis of Queensbury rules in personal debate. So the vagaries of the public pound made a fine stir in the community and proved to be a matter that years of experience and hours of talk could not entirely eliminate.

Careful People, These.

At the time mentioned gunpowder was sold and served just as was sugar or any other commodity. Scooped out of the container and parcelled up in paper. Several minor explosions having occurred, forthwith the clause of the by-law was amended so that "any person or persons in the said Town who shall sell or permit Gunpowder to be sold at night in their shops, outhouses or dwellings, shall on conviction thereof incur a penalty of forty shillings for the first offence and sixty shillings for subsequent offences". Which in money of the period, and considering its commercial value, were both whacking good fines, and showed that the common council of those days knew its business. It may be remarked that the common and usual illuminant at that time was the domestic made candle, for coal oil did not come into use for ten years afterwards.

The Value of Money.

Touching the matter of these fines. Relatively they were rather severe. Meant so to be as a deterrant against practices. Five shillings, for instance, should be considered in its relation to what it would buy, for the purchasing power of money, then, was as much as fully five times as large as it now is. Indeed in the matter of meats, beef for instance, the value of money was easily ten times as we have it at present. Four shillings was the maximum wage in all occupations, so a fine of five shillings meant nearly a day-and-a-half of work, a thing not to be sneezed at. A forty shilling fine meant that ten days work went into the public coffer.

All through the pages are scattered quaint expressions and trite observations on matters public. The council was both mentor and censor. Two good attributes if wisely directed. Public morals were considered, and sentences applying rather sharp reprimand worked into the text. Much of reproof and admonition and text. Much of reproof and admonition and a general attempt to regulate a whole lot of things that wouldn't be regulated otherwise. The welfare of the community was undoubtedly kept well in sight, and the greatest good for the greatest number protrudes itself all through the pages. In no sentence or paragraph is there the slightest suggestion of class legislation, no one section of the people to be benefitted at the expense of another. It was not a manifestation of paternalism, but a distinct fatherly anxiety and intention that what was needed was to head off things detrimental and carry on along lines that would at least condnce to maintain the civic machinery with as little friction as possible and with acceptance to the people at large. And so mote it ever be.

COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX IN VICTORIA COUNTY

Ops Township showed that several farmers were assessed as well as teachers.

Eldon Township also showed a retlemen and a number of farmers. Also one labourer at $200. Eldon list was a splendid one compared with other municipalities.

Council. Mark—"I am prouder than ever of my township."

Clerk McNeillie—"Practically the whole of the income tax is coming from the teachers."

Fenelon township was also gone into, the list assessable for income tax being small.

Coun. Brock—"I don't believe there is $1,000 income in Bobcaygeon we haven't assessed. The Boyd and Orr estate is principally on property. When it came to buying Victory Bonds the farmers could buy them, but we beat them on income tax. How do you account for it?"

Coun. Jenkins suggested that the assessors be called together and instructed.

Coun. Babcock—"Suppose you appoint an assessor out of some other than his own municipality."

On motion the assessors will be requested to interview the County Clerk to receive specific instructions. —Lindsay Warder.

NEXT BRITISH ENVOY MAY BE SMUTS OR DEVONSHIRE.

PARIS, June 6.—The names of the Duke of Devonshire and General Jan Christian Smuts are among those mentioned as possible appointees as British Ambassador to Washington.

The Duke of Devonshire was born May 31, 1868, and is the eldest son of the late Lord Edward Cavendish. He was educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge, later entering politics. He was the member of Parliament for Derbyshire West from 1891 to 1908, serving as financial secretary to the Treasury from 1903 to 1905. He is one of the largest land holders in England.

General Jan Christian Smuts has for many years been one of the leading figures in the political life of South Africa. He was born in 1870 and, after receiving his education at Victoria College, Stellenbosch, and at Christ's College, Cambridge, he practised law at Johannesburg. He served in the Boer war and in 1907 became Colonial Secretary for the Transvaal.

MY OLD BIBLE.

Though the cover is torn and the pages worn,
And though places bear traces of tears,
Yet more precious than gold is the Book, worn and old,
That can shatter and scatter my fears.

When I prayerfully look in the precious old Book,
Many pleasures and treasures I see;
Many tokens of love from the Father above,
Who is nearest and dearest to me.

This old Book is my guide, 'tis a friend by my side,
It will lighten and brighten your way;
And each promise, I find, soothes and gladdens my mind
As I read it and heed it to-day.

To this Book I will cling, of its worth I will sing,
Though great losses and crosses be mine;
For I cannot despair, though surrounded by care,
While possessing this blessing divine.

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.

THOUSANDS DYING OF STARVATION.

LONDON, June 6.—The Riga correspondent of the Mail reported today that 120,000 persons are starving in that portion of Russia.

He adds the country is without drugs and that thousands are dying daily of smallpox and spotted fever.

BETRAYER TO BE TRIED

FRENCH SOCIALIST TURNED TRAITOR, ENTERED SERVICE OF THE GERMANS AS A SPY AND OBTAINED EMPLOYMENT AT NURSES' HOSPITAL.

SIXTY WITNESSES

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, June 9.—Gaston Quien, a Socialist known as Lue, who, it is believed, played a prominent part in the betrayal of Miss Edith Cavell, who was executed by the Germans at Brussels in October, 1915, will be placed on trial next month.

A long preliminary inquiry, conducted by Captain Grebault, of the Sixth Military Court, established that Quien was serving a sentence in the jail at St. Quentin in 1914, and was liberated when the Germans first took the town.

It is said he entered the German service as a spy and got employment in Miss Cavell's hospital at Brussels. Soon after he began to work there, it is said, Miss Cavell was arrested and executed. Quien was afterwards sent to Switzerland as an invalid.

Sixty witnesses have been called to testify in the trial. They include Princess Maria of Croy, who also was denounced to the Germans by Quien and Madame Bovard, who was tried at the same time as Miss Cavell.

CO-OPERATIVES ARE PROVING SUCCESS

NEW GLASGOW, N.S.—The successful operation of a farmers' co-operative association and a method of extending its benefits to working class people as a means of offsetting the high cost of goods was described to the Industrial Relations Commission here to-day by [illegible]. He said that at present the purchasing of the [illegible] was confined to marketing the produce of its members, and the purchasing of their supplies.

An offer was made to union men in the nearby towns to join the association and to make it a co-operative medium for the purchase of all lines of goods needed. So far an agreement, as to the representation in the organization for the unions had not yet been agreed upon.

Saves 12 1-2 Per Cent.

The association, Mr. Murray said, saved its members 12 1-2 per cent. on purchases. It bought farmers' supplies and machinery from the manufacturers. It sold to the farmers at the wholesale prices, retaining the 5 per cent. it received for buying for cash and adding overhead expenses. It had 1,000 members and last year did a business of $80,000. The farmers' delivered their produce to the organization and took what price the association paid for it. Last year $1 a bushel was obtained for potatoes.

Mr. Murray said his organization was formed to eliminate the expense of traveller and middleman who with transportation, added so greatly to the cost of goods and caused the high cost of living problem. He said 6,000 commercial travellers were chasing all over Canada and he believed they did not sell an ounce of stuff more than would be taken up in an ordinary operation of the law of demand and supply.

Mr. Murray said $35 a month and board was demanded locally for farm help, principally because to-day the farmer had to be a mechanic because so much machinery was used. The returned soldier did not like farming because he was used to lots of life and society. He complained that the education curriculum in force in the schools trained children away from agriculture.

A WONDERFUL NEW "PLAYER" PIANO

A new $1000.00 Nordheimer Player Piano has just been placed in the store of Mr. James Haggis, 382½ George street. This sale was made through Mr. Frank Whitehouse, the district representative of the Nordheimer Piano Co., of 118 Hunter Street. This instrument possesses a remarkable action and is a marvellous development of tonal richness. The Norheimer Co., writing to Mr. Whitehouse respecting the sale of this instrument, has this to say:

"The Player we are shipping you to-day contains our new compensating action. As this is the first of this type we have shipped in the style '12' we are glad it is going to yourself because with your practical experience, you can take particular interest in watching it, and letting us know whether you can see any difference in this type of construction over the all-metal action that we were formerly using.'

Manufacturers Quotations Show Substantial Decrease

STAPLE CLOTHING PRICES SHOULD DECLINE IN CANADA—COST OF LIVING COMMISSIONER SAYS MODERATION OF RETAILERS' PROFITS WOULD ALLOW IMMEDIATE DROP.

(Associated Press.)

OTTAWA, June 9.—The Cost of Living Commissioner is laying a report before the Minister of Labour, which shows that the prices of textiles and staple articles of clothing should decline in the near future.

The ordinary story of the salesman of such goods is that prices are going higher than ever before. In view of such alarming statements, preliminary investigations have been made into the matter. Information collected from the leading manufacturers shows conclusively that in so far as the price of the goods at the mill affects the situation, these statements are utterly misleading.

Glut of Raw Materials.

The situation regarding woollens and worsteds is that Canada is more heavily supplied with the raw material than ever in her history, and the price for the same is very much lower than last fall, the finished cloth is now coming on the market more freely than when the looms were engaged in weaving khaki cloth, and the cloth sold this spring by the manufacturer, which should reach the wearer this fall, was sold at lower prices than the material sold last season. In many instances Canadian cloth for suitings and overcoatings is going forward for sale at an 8 to 10 per cent. decrease. Apparently the middlemen are loaded with old stocks of the higher-priced materials which they desire to sell to the public at the old prices. It is particularly unfortunate that returned soldiers should be stampeded into buying by such false rumours, when by waiting a little time for part of their outfit, they should be able to buy at better advantage. These tales are causing an artificial and unhealthy demand upon the market, which in turn causes inflated prices.

In the case of cottons, the manufacturers' prices have also declined since last fall, and the stocks coming ahead for retail sale have cost the middleman decidedly less than earlier stocks. The retail price of such commodities should be reduced.

Middleman Extortionate.

Evidence at hand so far indicates that a moderation of profits should allow an immediate drop in prices. In addition to large and increasing manufacturers' profits the middlemen have added a very heavy percentage of profit to the manufacturers' prices. Evidence given in the report shows that in many cases the retail price is more than double the manufacturers' price; the margin taken by the middleman is greater than the whole amount that went to farmer, manufacturer and labourer. There are even cases of this shown where the goods were purchased direct from the manufacturer by the retailer.

This preliminary report will be tabled before the House Committee on the High Cost of Living. Further reports on these commodities will be made later to the Minister of Labour.

FOLLOWING A BRIEF PERIOD OF PROBATION GERMANY WILL BE ADMITTED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

DATE FIXED FOR FINAL ANSWER TO PEACE TREATY—THE GERMAN [illegible]

(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

PARIS, June 9. — A speeding up process similar to that adopted for completing the German treaty, is now being applied to the counter-proposals. It is predicted to-day that the treaty would be signed by June 20th, allowing five days to a week between the time the reply is placed in the Germans' hands and the date to be fixed for a final answer. The allied experts were reported to have reached an agreement whereby the specific amount of reparations will be put in the treaty, but France and Belgium will accelerate the establishment of a definte sum of their claims, so Germany will learn the total indemnities she is to pay within two or three months after the treaty is signed, instead of having to wait two years, as was at first planned.

The League of Nations Commission was understood to have reached an agreement on the reply to the Germans' demand for immediate admission to the League. While the agreement is yet to be ratified by the Big Four it was said to provide that Germany shall be admitted after a brief period of probation, although she will be excluded from the executive council.

The Territorial Committee, it was reported, has recommended the rejection of Germany's demands for mandatories over certain of her former colonies. This decision was said to have been reached despite the opinion of the American experts that she be given administration of her former territories in East Africa.

Foreign Minister Brockdorff-Rantzau returned to Versailles yesterday from a conference with German Government officials in Cologne.

ABBEY BELLS GIVEN BY AMERICAN GIRLS

LONDON, June 9.— The two new bells which complete the octave of Westminster Abbey were presented by American women, daughters of the late J. G. Moore, of New York. The one, Lady Ruth Lee, wife of Colonel Sir Arthur Lee, and the other, Miss Faith Moore, of Berkeley Square. The bells will be engraved with their donors' first names.

The donors inherited a large fortune jointly from their father, who died in 1909.

RECOVERED BODY MISSING AVIATOR

GRANT A. GOODERHAM HAS BEEN MISSING FOR FIVE WEEKS.

TORONTO, June 9.—Missing five weeks, the body of Grant A. Gooderham, a returned aviator of the R.A.F., and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gooderham, of 40 Madison avenue, was found floating in the eastern gap early to-day. Some men of the Canadian Stewart Co. who were working on the new special channel, noticed the body in the water and summoned the life saving crew, who recovered the body in their launch and brought it to the city, where it was removed to the morgue. Lieut. Gooderham left his home on Madison avenue on May 2 at noon and had not been seen alive since. He was suffering from the loss of memory. His disappearance was widely advertised.

BIG FRAUD DISCOVERED

GRANT HUGH BROWNE INDICTED WITH OTHERS AT DETROIT CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD GOVERNMENT

(Associated Press.)

DETROIT, Mich., June 9.—An alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government of $30,000,000 worth of munition supplies, has been uncovered by Department of Justice agents here, it became known yesterday.

Indictments charging conspiracy have been returned by the United States Grand Jury against Captain S. Nicholson, of Washington, connected with the Ordnance Department; Grant Hugh Browne, a millionaire sportsman; Fred G. Collins, vice-Consul of Greece, and a president of a local realty company, and a United States Army officer now in France, according to Arthur L. Barkey, chief of the Detroit Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

FAMOUS BAND HERE ON DOMINION DAY

THE ANGLO-CANADIAN LEATHER COMPANY OF HUNTSVILLE, THE BEST IN CANADA.

The band of the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company of Huntsville has been engaged by the Exhibition Board as a special attraction for Peterborough's celebration of Dominion Day. There will be afternoon and evening events, with this famous band appearing at both, giving a grand concert at night. Citizens who do not follow closely musical affairs in Canada have probably overlooked the place the Huntsville band has attained during the past year, particularly the spontaneous and [illegible] Toronto Exhibition last summer. They are undoubtedly the best band in Canada, and there are few in America that excell them. Creatore himself, whose celebrated band was the musical feature of the Toronto exhibition last year, gave the Anglo-American Leather Company's musicians a fine compliment, the directors of the big Fair were more than delighted, and the Toronto papers added their congratulations in column reviews of their programmes.

Mr. Herbert L. Clarke, the premier cornet soloist of the world, and formerly soloist with Sousa, is the conductor of the Anglo-American Leather Company's organization, which includes six or seven musicians who formerly played under Sousa's baton. With fifty-five instruments at his command Mr. Clarke has been gradually developing his band, until to-day it is unequalled by any other concert band in Canada. Nor do any of the military bands approach it.

Huntsville is a little town of three or four thousand people, at the gateway of the Muskoka Lakes district. Its leading industry is the Anglo-American Leather Company, which has also a factory at Bracebridge and offices in Toronto, Montreal and other cities. Mr. Charles O. Shaw, the general manager of the company, is a musician himself, a cornet soloist, and his son, Charles G. Shaw, is a saxaphone soloist. The story of how Mr. Shaw became interested in the formation of a band is a little obscure, but what is known about its genesis is too long, though decidedly interesting, for recital. Two-thirds of his musicians are Huntsville boys who, under his special tuition and practice in recent years, have been advanced to the stage of playing with the best soloists on the continent. They have now twelve complete programmes, without the repetition of any number, and the repertory covers an extensive range of standard overtures, operatic selections, descriptive pieces, rhapsodies, concert waltzes and so on. Mr. James G. Reid, who plays the tympani under Mr. Clarke, met the Fair directors at the Empress on Saturday and completed arrangements for their trip to Peterborough.

The Anglo-Canadian Leather Company band will play one number and an encore in the afternoon, the 57th Regimental band providing the rest of the music for the attractions, and the visitors will give a complete programme in the evening, the admission to be only 25 cents. All the musicians except the leader are working in the factory. Mr. Read was with the Strand Theatre orchestra, Toronto, for six years before going to Huntsville and has been all over America, and also in Europe with musical organizations. He had no thought of going with Mr. Shaw, in fact only a faint conception of the musicianship of the Huntsville organization and of the splendid band that had already been developed. Shortly before the Exhibition the band needed a set of tympani and to abbreviate the story, Mr. Read thus came into contact with Mr. Shaw, and played during the Toronto engagement. So impressed was he with the spirit of the band and its excellence that in later conversations he was invited by Mr. Shaw to visit Huntsville and "look over the situation." As a result Mr. Read resigned from the Strand orchestra and is delighted with the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company and his band. He works in the office but attends the practices which fill [illegible] Shaw has worked out to an easier system. But that is another story.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY WILL MEET IN BERLIN—HAS POWER TO ACCEPT OR REJECT TREATY.

FINAL DECISION

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press.)

BERLIN, June 9.—The National Assembly has been called to meet here the last of this week "to consider Peace questions," while the Cabinet, or even the Peace Commission of the Assembly, has the power to accept or reject the treaty.

It is believed, in view of this latest development, that the final decision will rest with the Assembly.

PREPARING TERMS.

NEW YORK June 9.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following:

"Plans for casting terms upon which Germany will be admitted to the League of Nations are under consideration by the Peace Conference heads. If she shows that she possesses a stable government, signs the Peace Treaty, and loyally executes it, she will be admitted, according to the proposed plans."

FIGHTING MUST CEASE.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 9.—Premier Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference has telegraphed the Hungarian Government that attacks by Hungarian troops on Czecho-Slovak forces must cease, a despatch from Vienna to-day says.

In case of non-compliance, the Allied and associated Governments have decided to use extreme measures to constrain Hungary to cease hostilities, the Premier's message adds.

FINAL DRAFT.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 9.—The final draft of the political clauses of the Austrian Treaty, it is understood, is being [illegible] ising the opportunities of undesirables in the part of the Tyrol to be annexed to Italy.

This demand is meeting with considerable opposition.

BUY YOUR WOOD NOW AND SAVE MONEY

Buying Direct from the Scow helps to keep down the Cost.

Don't forget that we have a scowload of wood at the Wolfe street wharf and we are receiving many orders for delivery direct from the scow to the purchaser.

It costs money to haul wood to a woodyard and re-sell it out again. You can save this cost by buying direct from the scow at the following prices:

Hardwood, in four foot lengths, nine dollars a cord.

Mixed wood in four foot lengths, six dollars and fifty cents a cord.

This wood can be cut at the wharf for one dollar per cord extra.

Order direct from the scow tomorrow or telephone your needs to the Peterboro Planing Mills wood yard, opposite the Braund Building, Charlotte street. Telephone 24. 2d

SEWING CLASS

The sewing class conducted by the Home and School Association of Queen Mary School held their closing party on Friday afternoon last. The prizes awarded to those doing the best work were presented after which an impromptu programme was listened too, the weather being too warm for games, and ice-cream and cake were served.

In the senior class Beada Shurety was successful, in winning the prize for the finest and neatest stitches, although Abbada White was a close second and Wilma Davis and Ruth Mallood's work were also worthy of special mention.

In the junior class the prize went to Vernabel Harper with Winnifred Cadd doing almost as good work and Edna Mealey and Margaret Johnston also doing splendid work. The latter class is composed of girls only nine and ten years of age.

Prospects For An Early Settlement of Winnipeg Strike Show Little Improvement

WESTERN METROPOLIS HAS BEEN SET BACK A YEAR INDUSTRIALLY —TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS IN BUILDING GONE BEYOND RECALL.

STRIKE NEWS

(By J. J. Conklin—Copyright, 1919.)

WINNIPEG, June 9.—Prospects for an early ending of the general strike have not improved, although the Trainmen's Mediation Board have won over the metal employers to their way of thinking. The announcement officially of the metal employers' acceptance of this plan is held back at the earnest request of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, who think such a move would weaken the larger fight they are waging against the strike, which it is their intention, if possible, to crush, if it takes all summer.

This committee realises that Winnipeg has been set back at least a year industrially by this strike, and that twenty million dollars in building has gone past recall. The only satisfaction in sight for all the trouble and expense the city and Province and this committee have been put to is the squelching of this movement by every means at their command, including military. No one but those in touch realise the determination of this committee to carry out their plan.

All private business given up by hundreds of leading citizens and all energeis and money are being devoted to this one object. They will not brook any outside interference with their scheme. They are in daily communication through long conferences with local and Provincial authorities, including the military.

Civic Help Ignored.

Civic help is ignored, except it affords some assistance in fighting their cause. Provincial and Federal departments are not co-operating. Postal, telephone, and telegraph facilities are ignored. Only one thing counts, and that is the annihilation of the Trades and Labour Council of Winnipeg, as at present constituted, for all time. The City Council is left to work out certain minor details, such as food supplies and local police protection.

At a meeting yesterday, the General Strike Committee completed plans to continue the strike if necessary for another two weeks. Funds are ample and are flowing in from many sources. Minneapolis Trades Council sent word of their interest and sympathy and to call on them for any financial assistance needed.

This is the common style of aid that is received daily from many organizations.

The Police Force.

The Police Force Strike Committee states that it will not sign the city ultimatum, and the Strikers' Council is preparing to take over today their services as was the case in Seattle, when the members are dismissed by the Police Commission, as is the general prediction will happen.

A further tightening of the Union ranks will take place on Monday. Members claim that the daily press are not reporting correctly the number of unions that have come out in sympathy in the chief centres, and state that the tie-up is worse in Toronto, Calgary, and Vancouver than will be admitted in the local press. The strikers claim that the railways are worse affected in their shops than they will admit, and that rolling

TRYING TO LOCATE HER RELATIVES

LETTER ADDRESSED TO CHIEF OF POLICE THOMPSON.

Chief Thompson received the following letter from Turbine, Ontario:

Turbine, Ont., May 28, 1919.

City Clerk,

Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,— My mother was born near Cavan, Ontario. Her maiden name was Ada or Adelaide Lang. Her sisters' names were Maria, Eliza, Caroline, Isabella, Laura and Lottie, and her brother's names were Robert, Wesley, Henry and James. I would like to know when and on what date she was born, as I was a small child when she died 31 years ago, May 28. I am the oldest child and have two brothers. I am married now and have three children, my youngest being born in Canada about four months ago. Any information you could give me of her and of her family would be welcome, as I know absolutely nothing about them since my mother's death.

WALK AFTER SUPPER

MRS. T. S. OLDHAM LEFT HOME SEEMINGLY IN GOOD HEALTH FOR A SHORT WALK ON SUNDAY EVENING.

With tragic suddenness death overtook Mrs. Thomas S. Oldham on Sunday evening about six o'clock while she was walking on Park Street near the corner of Albert Street. Telling her husband that she was going for a short walk, she left her home 247 Simcoe Street, shortly after supper, apparently in her usual good health. Near R. C. Braund's home she was noticed by Mrs. Adjutant Watkinson, who was visiting the local corps of the Salvation Army and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Braund. Mrs. Watkinson observed that Mrs. Oldham acted as if she was in distress, but by the time she reached her, Mrs. Oldham had collapsed on the sidewalk. First-aid relief was of no avail, and when Dr. Cameron arrived life was practically extinct.

Dr. Cameron stated that death was due to heart failure.

Mrs. Oldham was sixty years old and was born in Otonabee. She was married thirty years ago, and is survived by her husband and also two stepdaughters and a stepson, to whom she had been as dutifully attentive as a mother from their early childhood.

The funeral arrangements had not been completed this afternoon.

HELP THE CHILDREN.

The response to the appeal on behalf of the Peterboro Playgrounds Association for funds to carry on the Supervised Playgrounds in the city during the summer months, has so far been good, but it is necessary that in the next few days there shall be a more general participation in the duty of seeing that this splendid movement is successfully carried out. The Playgrounds will open as soon as the schools close and so any financial assistance that is to be given should be offered at once. There are subscription lists at the newspaper offices and your donation will be gladly received. Once again the public should note that large sums have not been asked for; what is needed is a large number of small subscriptions from the people generally. The cause is a splendid one; it should appeal to every citizen as a movement that is worthy of the aid of the citizens of Peterboro. Drop in to-morrow and leave your donation at the Examiner office.

PASSING THE BUCK.

There is a very pretty little game of shuttlecock going on just now between the Dominion government and the Provincial administration over the labour difficulties. The eagerness with which both of these ruling bodies disclaim any jurisdiction in the matter would be amusing if the situation were not so serious. Sir Robert Borden stoutly declares that the Federal Parliament has no power to pass laws providing for the recognition of collective bargaining and the eight hour day. The Premier maintains that such such questions as these affect civil rights and, therefore, come within the purvey of the Provincial authorities.

Sir William Hearst is just as anxious to evade the issue. These matters affect trade and commerce, he contends, and therefore the question would fall within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government. The Province, he asserts, has no power to act.

They cannot both be right. Surely one body or the other has the necsary power and their quibbling over rights and jurisdiction is of little help in the present crisis.

HON. MR. CRERAR'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar the Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government, has caused no surprise. It was expected that the bringing down of the Budget would remove the last hold Mr. Crerar could maintain on the office; in fact he has been utterly at variance with the Government's tariff policy, and his remaining in office could only be justified by the contention that he had a right to hold his position until the Government's attitude on the tariff question was publicly made known. The chief interest in connection with Mr. Crerar's resignation is just what effect his example will have on other western members and upon the political situation generally. Some of the Unionists from the grain-growing provinces have not much difficulty in approving the Budget in so far as they are personally concerned, but their difficulty is in making their constituents see the matter as they do. That all of them will not succeed in doing this seems certain, and the result will probably be the defection from the Government side of a number of members who have so far supported the administration.

Indications points to an early end to Union Government. Even papers like the Kingston Standard, which has strongly endorsed the Government, are expressing the opinion that its dyas are numbered. Says the Standard: "It begins to look as if Union Government was at the parting of the ways, and as if very shortly there would be a new realignment of parties and groups on the issue of protection and Tariff reform. And perhaps after all this will not be a bad thing for the country. Union Government, as it is to-day, is largely nothing time."

THE NEW BATHING PLACE.

In connection with the bathing beach question, there is considerable discussion over the best site for the swimming place, that is some day or other to be operated by the city. The matter has been before the council since the beginning of the year and the question of the proper location of the bathing place might reasonably have been expected to have been settled before this late date, when for the last ten days or more the youngsters of the city have been taking a cooling plunge in the waters of the Otonabee.

Jackson Park has been mentioned as a desirable site. A few years ago there was a bathing place there and the dressing room is still standing. It might be possible to renovate this structure and to make use of the old swimming place, but at best the pool that could beformed by damming the stream would only afford accomodation for the little folks. Older swimmers prefer deeper water than could be provided in the Jackson Park stream and would probably prefer to undergo the present inconvenience of swimming in the river than to make use of a bathing place at the park. The people of the North End have Inverlea Park which in spite of the occurrence of last week seems a safe place for bathing during the summer months. The high water and swift current that prevailed at Inverlea until the last day or two were abnormal, rarely found there as late as the present month and under normal conditions there is no reason to condemn Inverlea as a swimming place.

The logical place for the new swimming place would seem to be in the south end of the city and the site at the end of Lake Street, if the objections of the property owners can be overcome, seems to be a good location. It has been used by swimmers for years and the argument that the water is stagnant there, does not carry much weight, inasmuch as generations of Peterboro children have bathed at this point without any apparent injuries to their health.

The question should be settled without delay if the citizens are to receive any benefit this year.

EDUCATION AS A REMEDY.

There is an opinion abroad that the best way to combat extreme radicalism which aims to undermine the foundations of the social structure is to educate the "proletariat." One of the measures before the U.S. Congress is a bill "to make safe and enduring the American republic." And it is proposed to accomplish this salutary purpose by means of popular education.

To quote an American contemporary, "This bill recognize the fact that education is essential in the life of a nation. It recognizes that social disorders thrive on ignorance and that the welfare and perpetuity of the nation depend on all possible encouragement in the development through education of a citizenship physically and intellectually sound and imbued with the spirit and ideals of the foufiders of this nation. So it calls for large appropriations to encourage and assist the states in the removal of illiteracy and the Americanization of that part of the population that has been left to the Socialists."

The general purpose of the bill is excellent. But whether it be a practical measure one cannot judge until the details of it are revealed. How is the wholesome education of the "proletariat" in the essentials of good citizenship to be imparted? His radical notions and his partiality for red as a political and social color have been absorbed from the harangues of soap-box spellbinders. Is it proposed that rival spellbinders be employed to go into the highways and byways and preach patriotism and sensible economies to the "proletariat?" Also to prepare and circulate appropriate literature to kill the effect of the Red literature which aims to popularize the idea that the first duty of man is to promote and participate in social and political revolution?

Much good might be done by these means. And it must be confessed that if there are to be rival educational campaigns conducted by the Reds and Uncle Sam, the advantage would be with the latter, for he has much the longer purse.

But is it true that ignorance is the most prolific cause of dangerous radicalism? Are the most extreme radicals ignorant men? By no means. They could, many of them, easily corner and put to confusion in a discussion some very superior and highly cultured persons with conservative views. Even many of the rank and file of the revolutionists are more as more mechanical support. The ... pressure retards blood circu... thus robbing the weakened ... of that which they need most ...ishment.

... science has found a way, and ... truss sufferer in the land is in... to make a FREE test right in ... privacy of their own home. The ...AO method is unquestionably ...ost scientific, logical and suc...

SCHOOL TEACHERS' PICNIC SATURDAY

Representatives of Local Schools Enjoyed Outing at Gore's Landing.

The school teachers' picnic was held on Saturday under ideal weather conditions. Teachers from the Normal schaal, from the Collegiate Institute, the Public schools, and May's school, were present to the number of 80 and enjoyed themselves to the utmost at Gore's Landing, Rice Lake. The Stoney Lake returned with the picnic at 9 p.m., and the teachers voted the occasion, one of the most delightful and enjoyable events of the season.

LINDSAY CHEESE BOARD SELL TO FLAVELLES LTD.

The factories on the Lindsay cheese board decided this morning to sell their output to Flavelles Limited this season at the prices prevailing on the Peterboro board. This action practically dispenses with their board for the summer. Mr. G. A. Gillespie of this city attended the meeting.

TOO RISKY.

"How would you like to live always on a farm and do chores and milk the cows, and everything?" mother asked little Emily.

"Oh, wonderful," was the quick response, "but I'm quite sure I could not get enough courage to sit under a bossy and milk, they have so many legs and their tails are so restless."—Hoard's Dairyman.

HE CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE RACE IS CLOSE

tral Ontario League is tighten- p in great shape and Cobourg is ly team which does not appear to a chance in the race. The Belle- team suffered their first defeat aturday when they broked with Oshawa gang in the latter's town were beaten 5 to 1. Alex Kay terboro umpired the game. Pat- the Oshawa pitcher only allow- e visitors two hits while Boyer, Belleville south paw also showed e brand of twirling. The close- of the race is indicated by the ling:

	Won	Lost
terboro	2	1
hawa	2	1
lleville	2	1
rt Hope	2	1
dsay	1	2
bourg	0	3

rt Hope visited Coburg on Saturday and beat Dick Turpin and company by 9 to 2.

There are two games this week that will have a big effect on the league's standing. On Wednesday, Oshawa will clash with Lindsay in Lindsay and there will be a great battle between Scott the Lindsay pitching ace and Patton. On Saturday, the Peterboro journey to Belleville for a game with the crack easterners. If Lindsay beats Oshawa on Wednesday and the Peterboros win in Belleville, they will come home from the Bay of Quinte town, out in front of the procession. On the other hand if Oshawa wins in Lindsay, they will be tied with the winner of the Belleville-Peterboro game for the leadership with Port Hope over half a game behind. It is a great old race and the fans in the different towns can look forward to some rather good baseball.

RIENTALS AND DE LAVALS CLASH TO-MORROW NIGHT

e game tomorrow night between Laval and Orientals in the City ue series is a very important one much as the winner will go into d place in the league race. ger Solomon of the Oriental, ires that his team is over their lump and from now on will have watched all the way to the City ue honours. On the other hand Laval have their eyes on the pennant themselves. They have the heaviest hitting team in the league and the fact that the Orientals have Kirn, their twirling ace all ready for tomorrow night's battle, is not worrying the separator gang very much. Prest will be on the rubber for the De Lavals. He has one victory over the Orientals to his credit and is out for another tomorrow night.

CROP PROSPECTS NEVER BETTER

C. P. R. PRESIDENT RETURNS TO WINNIPEG FROM THE WEST.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 8. — W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived in Winnipeg today from the west, where he has been on an inspection trip said, he was optimistic in regard to the future crop in western Canada, he says crop prospects in the west were never better. A bumper crop will restore the peoples confidence, that is the best cure for the present industrial unrest, he said in an interview: "this industrial unrest is nothing more than mental trouble, due to the war, if we get a good crop and prospects were never better, then things will right themselves, conditions in the west are such that there is nothing to prevent every man from being an optimist." All agree that there is something wrong with the cost of living, he said in reply to a query, "the government should at once undertake a through investigation to discover how this was brought about. The investigation should be scientific, if it finds there are too many handling the products of the soils it should increase production, and thus create a greater market for soil products." Commenting on the strike situation in Winnipeg, Mr. Beatty said, no movement that has for its purpose the strangling of constituted socially can hope to succeed in any abiding country such as Canada. The general public will not stand for it, he said referring to a sympathetic strike and this being so, "it will not get the strikers very far." Mr. Beatty added, "that there was a good deal of uncertainty as to what would ultimately be done as far as the strike was concerned in Vancouver." With regard to his company's development in Alberta the president stated, "that plans were at present before the railway board for the construction of the Empress Acme branch and also a line to Melbrum. It was expected that these would be approved at an early date when this work would be proceeded without delay. The company he said, had also under consideration a line running north from Empress through Coronation and Whitford Lake. Mr. Beatty looks for considerable immigration from the old country and from the northern part of Europe. This applies particularly to agriculturists, he asserts.

RUPTURE KILLS 7,000 ANNUALLY

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name to-day to PLAPAO CO., Block 1788, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.

MORE POWER TO THE CRITICS

(BY JOSEPH WEARING.)

To Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I noticed in Saturday's issue that ex-Alderman Dobbin deprecates the criticism which is constantly leveled at the heads of the members of the Council and also recommends as a panacea for the ills of municipal government a commission of some kind.

My own opinion is that instead of lessening the criticism we ought to increase it, that is to say we ought to see to it that the criticism comes from every quarter and is directed more generally in the Council. As far as I can judge a large majority of the citizens do not take sufficient interest in civic affairs to do any criticizing at all and as a result a number of the councillors practically escape criticism altogether. The Labour men take a keen interest in civic affairs and when an alderman takes a stand which they feel is inimical to their interests they are not afraid to let him know it. The rest of us are apparently satisfied to allow our interests to be jeopardized time and again without registering any dissatisfaction whatever. I have heard it said that Labour expects to control the Council next year. My comment is that if they take sufficient interest in civic government to fill the aldermanic chairs they have every right to rule the city.

As to a Commission instead of a Council it is a mistake to suppose that it would necessarily be an improvement and I say this without opposing is introduction as an experiment. The danger of a Commission is that it tends to develop into a permanent autocracy which may not be one bit more satisfactory than the present form of government and is likely to be very much less democratic. Human nature is the same whether in Councils or Commissions and Councils are much easier to change on polling day. What we need is a more general interest in the work of the Council coupled with a willingness to go out and vote on New Year's Day.

With regard to Mr. Turner's reputed resignation I am loathe to believe that the son of his father would quit when the job is less than half done. Those of us who supported him at the time of his election did so upon the assumption that if elected he would be right on the job of civic government until his term expired unless prevented by causes beyond his control. We pinned our faith to him to the extent of placing him near the top of the poll and I for one do not believe he will desert us. Nor do I believe that the Labour men wish to see him resign. They readily admit both his ability and honesty even when they disagreed with his opinions.

The Hunter street bridge is a good deal of a "bete noir" both to the Council and the general public but one good result of the continued discussion and delay is the fact that most of us are beginning to appreciate to some extent our requirements. Now that we are commencing to understand something about the bridge we shall expect the Council to give us a square deal. I heartily advocate a full measure of criticism, especially on election day.

Yours truly.

LANGUAGE IS A MYSTERY.

We Can Only Imagine How It Got Its Start in the World.

Language is one of the world's great mysteries—perhaps its greatest. It is the distinguishing characteristic of the human family. The manner of its use is a social stratification. Animals have means of communicating with each other, but they remain unchanged through the ages. Man is continually varying and increasing his vocabulary and is able to express the finest shades and gradations of meaning through the use of words, his language signs. We can only imagine how language began, and surmise the beginnings of grammar, its science. It has been asserted that the perfection of the Sanskrit grammar—said to be finer than either Roman or Grecian—argues a prehistoric golden age of which it is the survival.

In our own experience, new inventions and discoveries have necessitated new words which have been incorporated in our language. Modification of words through substitution and conditioning has been greatly stimulated by the war, which not only gave us new words but gave new meanings to the familiar. How many—outside the legal fraternity—had known there was such a word as moratorium, until we heard of it through conditions arising out of the war? "Offensive" and "objective" have been forced into duty as nouns, and "shell" has become a verb. Because of Zeppelins and airplanes, flies," now we say "it flees," because once we should have said "the fleet flies," now we say "it uees," because flying seems to refer to motion above the earth. The pilot, who used to belong entirely to the sea, now guides the airplane, and we understand a Briton when he refers to gasoline as petrol. Primitive man fought with darts; moderns drop them as missiles from aircraft, though they had been retired from war for centuries.

Since we are really so well supplied with words it seems passing strange that we limit ourselves to a few, which we consistently overwork. This is probably a matter of habit, due to our tendency to get—and stay—in a verbal rut; a matter of sheer indolence. We have "catchwords" which save thought. "Efficiency" was a shibboleth until it became a synonym for "bunk." Everything was a "proposition" for a time; "reform" was talked to death. "Sumptuous" so naturally suggests hotel furniture of the superlatively showy type that it has fallen into disrepute. To the missy, a sunset, a cake, and a young man resemble each other in being "splendid." There are occasions on which silence is the height of discretion, words all-revealing. One who stood mute, overcome by the grandeur of a panorama of lake, mountain heights, and sky, came to earth again under the comment of a bystander, who remarked: "It's real pretty, isn't it?" Better be inarticulate than banal.

It is no mean achievement, and something well worth the effort, to be able to express one's emotions in well-chosen phrases which convey exact shades of meaning.—Detroit Free Press.

GERMANS SMUGGLE WEALTH ABROAD

FRANKFORT.—Quite a number of people are ready to pay quite handsomely to have their valuables taken out of Germany just now. There are various reasons.

Of course, some merely wish to escape the inevitable heavy taxation which must shortly be expected. Others have made their money in ways which they might find it awkward to explain.

Others, again, and I am told, that they are in the majority, are quite honest merchants who are out to make quite honest if rather exorbitant profits. They are buying large supplies of food and luxuries in neutral countries. Neutral merchants demand cash and the Government will not allow cash to be sent out of the country, so the merchants smuggle their marks abroad and sell them at a large reduction, thereby still further reducing the value of the mark, and use the proceeds to pay for the goods.

These goods are then sent to occupied districts, and from these districts are smuggled into Germany, where they are sold at profits so fabulous as to cover all expenses.

Frankfort is full of war profiteers. It may be as well to add that the Frankfort smugglers are extremely dissatisfied, which is to say that the French sentries are unpleasantly severe.

I suppose it is really a natural sequel to the war that what we call courage should cease to exist anywhere in what used to be the Central Empires. That certainly is the impression that has been forced upon me by some three months of wandering from Berlin to Budapest and back again. The Burgoisie are most horribly afraid of the Spartacides, but I doubt if they are more afraid than are the Spartacides of them and they appear to be ready to run until they drop at the mere sight of an entente soldier.

The Bourgeoise of Germany are ready to pay 20 per cent.—that, at least, is the percentage I have been offered—to any one who will take their war profits out of Germany. Mr. Bela Kun and his colleagues are ready to pay even more.

Each party, and I believe sincerely, regards the other as ready to go to any length in the way of bloodshed and each accuses the other of unimaginable crimes. In Munich, for instance, if you believed all you were told, the Spartacides first killed every Bourgeois in the town and the Hoffmann troops retaliated by killing every Spartacide.

I know I have the whole world's press against me when I say that I do not believe there were 200 people killed altogether in the fighting. As a matter of fact the main railway station was rather badly damaged, but to any one who has seen Bapaume or even Cambrai the thing is a joke!

Figures published by the Government show that the total deaths in the German Army during the war were more than 2,000,000 and that the total casualties were not very far short of 7,000,000. One must suppose that they included all the brave men of Germany or that those who were left have had all the fight knocked out of them by four years of famine and anxiety. At least, as you wander about Germany to-day, you can find yourself continually wondering whether these can be the same people who stood up against us so stoutly in Flanders and on the Somme.

They are not, of course. The brave Germans are all in their graves or in hospitals or are still prisoners abroad and it becomes mildly amusing to read that there are still people in England and America who believe that Germany is meditating yet further military adventures. We are still too close to the war and its memories to realize the completeness of the tragedy of the destruction of what was once a great nation.

TEACHERS RUSH TO UNION.

Year Shows Great Growth of Labour Organisation in Schools.

"A minimum salary of $1,000 for the school year for all teachers, enactment of adequate retirement laws, recognition of the right of teachers to organise and affiliate their organisations with union labour and the guarantee of full educational opportunities for all children," is the platform laid down by the American Federation of Labour. That the teachers of America are taking kindly to the idea of joining a labour union in an effort to better their condition and prospects is amply evidenced by the rapidity with which they are joining the American Federation of Teachers, which is a branch of the Federation of Labour.

On 1st July, 1918, there were only twenty-three federation branches in the country. On 30th April last there were seventy-two. That the growth is gaining rapidly is indicated by the fact that in April a new union was organised for every day of the month. In a number of cities recently organised, the unions represent a 100 per cent. membership of the teachers. —New York Times.

There Is MONEY In WANT ADS. For You

NOW as never before! The great readjustment of all business following the sudden termination of the War offers you a WIDE OPEN OPPORTUNITY to Sell or to Buy.

There exists in nearly every line a SHORTAGE of MERCHANDISE, which creates a big field for WANT AD. ADVERTISING of USED Machinery, SECOND-HAND AUTOMOBILES, HOUSEHOLD GOODS, etc., etc.

The RENTING SITUATION, too, is a complete reversal of WAR CONDITIONS. On one hand Manufacturers are CLAMOURING for Factory Space for Peace Time purposes, and with others there is a corresponding FERMENT to UNLOAD factory space rendered useless by the ending of the War. And so it is with Houses and Rooms, Stores and Storage.

All this means MORE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

Furthermore, there exists a badly balanced condition in the DEMAND and the SUPPLY of LABOUR of ALL kinds. This offers great possibilities for HELP WANTED and SITUATIONS WANTED WANT ADS.

There also exists an ABUNDANCE of WANT AD. business created by the desire to BUY and SELL Businesses, Farm Lands, Real Estates, etc., etc.

Get in on THIS NOW! You LOST MONEY, perhaps, during the War, BUT you can get SOME OF it back if you act promptly.

LOW PRICED LAUNCH WITH DISAPPEARING PROPELLER ON SHOW

THE LAST WORD IN CONVENIENCE IS NEW CRAFT AT RYE'S BOAT HOUSE—HAS MANY FEATURES.

A disappearing propellor motor launch on exhibition at H. B. Rye's boat house is proving an attraction for all the citizens interested in the pleasures of boating, who have already seen it in action this summer. Mr. Rye has secured the agency for this launch, which is manufactured by the Disappearing Propeller Boat Company Limited ,of Port Carling.

Stoutly built and of skiff design, it is made in three models, has a speed of nine miles an hour, and comfortably accommodates from six to eight persons. Its main feature is the disappearing propellor, which, when not in use rests in a water tight compartment similar to the centre board of a yacht. The wheel is protected by a skeg, and when in motion any obstruction such as submerged logs, rocks, sandbars, etc., are struck the skeg automatically raises the probeller and shat into the compartment, thus making a continuous keelson, and at the same time throttling the engine from racing. This provision gives the launch the general adaptability of a skiff. The propeller can be mechanically raised into its housing box and drawn up on shore or on a wharf. In fact the boat is thus simply transformed into a skiff, and can be propelled by oars if necessary. Another obvious advantage is its use in shallow water or in weedy places. The steel skeg protecting the propeller and also automatically raising it when any obstacle is struck, is a guarantee of safety and a safeguard against trouble.

The John Bull model is 16½ feet in length with a beam of 4 feet 11 inches and a depth of 1 foot 8 inches. It is particularly convenient for fishermen and hunters. The cushions for the four seats are covered with plush, leatherette, etc., as desired, and are filled with Kapoc, which is a life preserver.

The Uncle Sam model's dimensions are 18½ feet, 4 feet 8 inches, and 1 foot 11 inches; and the Water Ford's are 16½ feet, 4 feet 1 inch and 1 foot 7 1-2 inch.

The launch is so strongly built, so rigid, that the vibration of the engine is entirely eliminated. The motor is set toward the bow, and the propeller is located slightly toward the stern, beyond the centre of the keel. The whole method of operation is so simple that previous motor experience is practically unnecessary.

Cypress, cedar, white oak, butternut, are used in all the models, which are also equipped with built-on splash boards, bulkheads, oar locks and oars, row boat rudder, which can be steered from any part of the boat and necessary fixtures. Alternate strip-docking with a varnish finish gives the launch a pleasing appearance; the seats are comfortable and roomy and the price is attractive. It is perfectly safe, and its big feature of providing a clear keelson with one pull of the control lever, gives it an extensive use on these waters that should appeal not only to persons living in the city, and having no other launch, as also to campers and cottagers who may use it; but also to others who have bigger launches and require such a boat as this for general purposes about their resorts.

PETERBORO COUNTY TO PAY A SHARE

Want a New Bridge to Replace the Pigeon Creek Bridge.

LINDSAY June 9.—A deputation from Emily Township waited on the County Council Committee on Roads and Bridges and asked that the Council petition the Government, asking them to build a new bridge.

On motion of Reeves Brock and Parsons the Council was instructed to petition the Government regarding this bridge and if the Warden thinks it necessary he may appoint a deputation to go to Ottawa to lay the case before the appropriate authorities.

The total cost of this bridge will be $75,000. Peterboro City will pay seven-twentieths, Peterboro County seven-twentieths, and Victoria County six-twentieths of the costs.

GROCERIES.

Tea and Coffee Prices to Go Higher —Sugar Plentiful—Spices Higher.

"Canadian Grocer" says:—There have been few marked changes during the week, the majority of commodities are holding firm, with tendencies upward. Teas and coffees are both in the ascendancy and indications point to higher quotations on both. It is expected in most quarters that the Dominion Government will place another tax on foreign teas, in the forthcoming budget, and all reports point to stronger prices for Japanese teas, the crop in that country being very poor this year. Exchange on Ceylon is also affecting the market for Indian teas. The fact that stocks of tea among Toronto dealers have been very heavy is the only reason that prices have been as low as they are. These stocks are now becoming depleted, and new buying will be at higher levels. Coffees are also advancing and the heavy demand for coffees for European consumption is likely to hold prices at strong figures for some time to come. Demand for sugar is brisk, but supplies appear to be ample for all needs. There is no likelihood of a shortage, but prices are remaining firm. All dried fruits are pretty well cleaned up and canned goods, too, are in small supply. There is a better movement of salmon, but the high grade qualities are scarce. Spices show higher prices in some instances this week. Both black and white pepper are marked up a few cents and cloves are from five to ten cents higher. Rice is very firm at last week's advance. Canadian beans are quoted higher, and there is a good active movement of Canadian hand-picked beans.

WITH THREE ALL-STAR VAUDEVILLE ACTS

Brilliant Players Surround Famous Wit in Goldwyn's "Laughing Bill Hyde"

Rex Beach, always noted for his choice of brilliant players to portray the remarkable types he creates in the Goldwyn picturization of his famous stories, fairly outdid himself in the selection of a cast for his latest Goldwyn production, "Laughing Bill Hyde."

Certain that no man on the stage or screen was better fitted to play the name role that Will Rogers of the "Follies," the author and Goldwyn coaxed the celebrated lariat-throwing wit to make his debut before the camera in the role of Laughing Bill Hyde. Rogers is undoubtedly one of the best known performers of the stage to-day. His impromptu, sparkling wit has made him a great favourite in every section of the country. Rex Beach and Goldwyn are certain his performances in "Laughing Bill Hyde" will make Rogers as popular on the screen as he is on the speaking stage.

Anna Lehr, identified with several successful screen productions, has the role of Ponotah, a half-breed, in "Laughing Bill Hyde." Before her advent in motion picture work Miss Lehr was a popular favorite in Broadway dramatic productions, always in important parts.

John Sainpolis, an actor of polish and finesse and well known in Goldwyn Pictures, is also well cast. Sainpolis' work with Mae Marsh in "Money Mad" and "All Woman" contributed not a little to the success of both Goldwyn productions. Sainpolis has been seen in support of the screens' most popular stars. Mabel Ballin, another Goldwyn Pictures favourite, has a lovable role.

Another important role is entrusted to Clarence Oliver, prominent screen and stage player, who was seen to good advantage opposite Madge Kennedy in "The Service Star." Joseph Herbert, also a favourite in pictures, gives a splendid performance in "Laughing Bill Hyde." Dan Mason a veteran of the screen and stage, has a part worthy of his talents. His best work on the screen has been done in "The Scarlet Letter," "The Slave" and "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

Robert Conville, who has frequently been seen in Goldwyn Pictures, completes the capital cast of "Laughing Bill Hyde."

And the most expensive vaudeville acts ever presented in this city — Smith and Troy in a Breeze from the Phillipines; Harry and Etta Carley in a comedy skit, At the Old Cross Roads, and Frank Morrell, the California boy.

ROBINSON'S CIRCUS ENJOYED A BIG DAY

RECORD CROWDS AT BOTH PERFORMANCES—A GOOD SHOW.

Many a youngster and many that are beyond the 'teen age missed a night's sleep to see the John Robinson circus arrive in town on Saturday. More than one daddy lay awake awaiting the first peep of daylight so that they could be up and on the lookout with Ted and Bill for the "elefants" and yellow waggons and everything."

Bigger than ever before and with features that are new and novel the circus this year brought in a record attendance and it kept ordinary human beings busy to watch three places at once but it was managed somehow and the monkey riding a bicycle would just have claimed your attention when your next neighbour sitting on the lonely all-wood seats plucked your coat to draw your attention to the Japs, foot artists, or the swinging and hanging acrobats making things lively at the top of the big tent. The elephants claimed a lot of attention from the youngsters and their performance was one of the best parts of the performance. The Lavery family was the premier act of the whole performance and more than one person averred that he could hear their bones crack as they defied the law of gravity. There were clowns in abundance, Charly Chaplin's, Buster Brown's, Lady Duff-Gordon's resplendant in the latest Parisian models, with fly netting, as handkerchiefs and Peck's bad boys whole pecks of 'em.

There was the usual run of pink lemonade and Coney Island red hots. The camels were the only shy and retiring objects in the whole show. The big show concluded with a varied panorama of horse racing with foot riders galore with Grecian races and tandem races until one shifted his gaze or shifted his place. One's perspective became dimmed as the outside of the tent was reached after the evening performance because like Nebuchadnezzar and his army the side-shows, with all their glittering array of show fronts had disappeared and were already on their way to the cars at the station in charge of a motor lorry which pulled a dozen waggons at a time. Fifteen minutes after the big performance had concluded the stake, waggon had done its duty and at twelve o'clock the big top was down and folded and on its way to the station and nothing remained behind at the grounds to tell that a circus had stood only a hour day but a multi-number of stake holes and a well-flattened sward.

STOP LOSS ORDERS

If Thursday's setback will help in readjusting the psychology of the market, it should help also in readjusting its fiscal condition. The favorite device of the speculator who enters the market at such a stage is the stop-loss order. He buys a Studebaker at 122 and puts in an order to sell if ever it reaches 120. When the stock does fall to 120 there are so many orders like this that they break the market on each other. His order is in reality an order to sell at "120 or worse," though it may not read just that way. The broker may not be able to sell his stock at anything better than 117, if at that. On Tuesday came great declines of 20 points in Studebaker and American Woolen. Yesterday the latter stock advanced in a few sales from 116 to 126 and moved back just as quickly to 116. The market had become honeycombed with stop-loss orders. Reaction has done much to clean them out. One would think that a stock worth buying at 122 would be an even greater bargain at 120, but the man who places stop-loss orders is beyond such logic. He is not buying stock. He is trying to buy his hopes and sell his disappointments.—New Tribune.

The System Is Poisoned

BY FAILURE OF THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS TO PURIFY THE BLOOD RELIEF OBTAINED BY USE OF DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Too much eating of heavy, highly-seasoned foods and too little outdoor exercise are the most frequent causes. The liver is upset, becomes torpid and inactive, the bowels are constipated, the kidneys are overworked in an effort to get rid of the accumulating poisons and breakdown. Headache, backache, aching limbs sound a warning note, and when this is not heeded the natural development is rheumatism, lumbago, and painful and fatal forms of kidney disease.

To best overcome this condition Dr. Chase worked out in his private practice a prescription which has come to be known as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their combined action on these filtering organs. No treatment has ever proven so successful in awakening the action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, and thereby cleansing the system of all impurities. For this reason Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a world-wide reputation as the most thorough cure for rheumatism, lumbago, chronic indigestion, and constipation.

Mrs. Alex. Gordon, Walkerton, Ont., writes: "A few years ago I suffered from kidney and liver trouble with pains in my back. I had heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills being good for this, so I commenced taking them. I had only taken a couple of boxes when the trouble was all removed."

Mrs. M. Nickels, 102 Milton Street, Sarnia, writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy. I suffered considerably with kidney trouble and backache, but after I had taken five boxes of the Kidney-Liver Pills they gave me relief. Since then, which was about five years ago, I keep them on hand, and use them whenever I feel the need of them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint. Insist on getting what you ask for.

REPLY TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY NEXT

Council of Four held a Special Session this Morning.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 9. — It has been decided by the allied and associated governments that the reply to the Geramn counter proposals will not be delivered before Friday, June 13th.

The reply will give the Germans a period of five days in which to accept or reject the treaty.

The Council of Four spent this morning considering the various reports submitted by the commissions which had been dealing with this feature of the answer to the German proposals.

TOO MANY LOVES AT 80:

Wealthy Kansas Ranch Owner Now Has to Pay Alimony.

CINCINNATI, O.—As a result of the decision of the court of domestic relations of this county in favor of the girl-wife, Mrs. Lucy A. Smith, now of this city, against her aged husband, Joseph C. Smith, reputed one of Kansas's wealthiest ranch owners, having property of great value in Wichita, Wellington, Oakloosa and Kansas City, Kas., Minneapolis, Minn., Cincinnati and various other cities, will at once be served with notice of attachment of all his wealth to pay his wife alimony and the costs of her lawyers' services. The aged millionaire Kansas rancher, according to his girl-wife's story, after a whirlwind courtship married her at Oaklaoosa, Kas., and spent their honeymoon at Kansas City and Wichita, later traveling nation-wide to many cities and health resorts where the wife in her sworn testimony alleged the aged man spent much of his time with various female charmers, often mere girls.

Smith is at present, according to his wife's petition, a patient at the Rochester, Minn., sanitarium of the Mayo Brothers and legal process will be served upon him there.

The testimony taken here shows Smith owns at least a thirteen thousand-acre ranch at Wellington, Kas., $10,000 in Wellington city bonds, declared in the hands of a son at Wellington, and various properties in Minneapolis, Kansas City, Kas., and Wichita, Kas., a house and lot here and $3,000 in cash in Kansas banks. The court of domestic relations granted $125 weekly until Kansas City testimony could be obtained showing the cash wealth of the aged husband, declared to be 80 years old and an invalid and three times married and twice divorced.

TOUR THE WORLD IN PLANE?

English Comedians Plan to Give Performances in Both Hemispheres.

An arrangement has been made between Mr. Albert de Courville, Mr. Harry Tate and Mr. Handley Page by which Mr. Tate and his company of comedians will tour the world in a Handley Page airplane, says the London Times.

The company will consist of eight people, and they will carry with them all the necessary scenery and equipment for Motoring and other sketches. A start will be made from Cricklewood in September. If the tour proceeds according to plan, the first halt will be at Gibralta where two evening performances are to be given. At Malta there will be a halt for two days, and then the machine will fly to Colombo, where the company will remain for a week before the journey to India is resumed. All the principal centres of India will be visited by air.

The next stage will be to China and Japan, and finally the chief cities of the United States will be visited, beginning with San Francisco and ending with New York, and then home.

GARNER FOUND APE THAT TALKED TO HIM

NEW YORK.— Professor R. L. Garner, naturalist and student of monkeys, returned on the steamship Chicago with four tons of specimens for the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, and a description of an animal, a cross between a gorilla and a chimpanzee, which, he avers, was of such huge intelligence, it could talk to a limited degree to natives in the French Congo. He said he brought with him two bodies of the strange animals, after unsuccessfully trying to capture one alive.

The naturalist said he had spent two years and seven months in the French Congo in the interests of the Smithsonian Institution, and had collected more than 3,000 specimens of bird and animal life.

"In all my travels through the jungles, I have never come across such a strange animal as the talking gorilla," he said. "I first heard of the beast from natives in the Congo, who said that a certain region was infested with the animals, with which they had learned to talk after a fashion.

Professor Garner said he induced four natives to accompany him to the habitat of the animals. He said he found they had told the truth, and he himself set about to learn to talk to the monkeys, which, in the dark, could be taken for natives, because of their uncanny resemblance to man.

One night, several of the man apes approached the edge of the village and uttered a strange call which sounded like "Wha-hoos," Professor Garner said. This, he discovered, was the call of the male for its mate. Interpreted it meant: "Where are you? The answering call, given usually by a female, is "Ahoo-ahoo," meaning, as Professor Garner said, "Here I am."

Professor Garner said he spent weeks perfecting himself in imitating the call of the female. Then one night he answered the call of a male ape, and, to his surprise, the animal bounded friskly over the ground to where he stood, with his rifle in his hand. He said he shot the animal and brought its body back with him. The ape, he said, was more than six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds.

SEES WANT'S CLOUD OVER ALL EUROPE

NEW YORK.—Among those who arrived yesterday on the Cunard liner Carmania was Lieut.-Col. Homer Folks, former Commissioner of Charities, who went abroad nearly two years ago to organize and direct the civil affairs of the American Red Cross in France. He remained in that country until Armistice Day, when, with a number of officials of the organization, he started on a trip through Italy, Serbia, Greece and Belgium. After a careful survey of the needs of the people he said he found the want as acute as it had been during the war.

Everybody is exhausted, he said, and the condition of transportation is so deranged that the food and fuel situation is increasingly distressing. The situation, according to Mr. Folks, is further complicated by the thousands of refugees who started back to their old homes.

"These things make getting back to America like getting out from under a dark cloud which never lifts," said Colonel Folks. "I am not thinking of the danger from Prussia, but of the sense of tremendous and irreparable loss and of vague impending danger which weighs upon every thinking mind in Europe. It is almost impossible for us to realize the situation in France, for instance, where the loss has been about one-fifth of its men from 18 to 50 years of age. To gain some idea of France's sacrifice for civilization we may try to imagine our condition if we had lost in proportion and were mourning not 50,000 men, but 5,000,000. No great country has ever faced the future with such a loss of its man power.

"But is, the allied countries further east—Poland, Roumania, Serbia, and others—that need our help most urgently now. War has brought different evils upon different countries but Serbia has had to meet them all. The net result of her suffering has been the loss of about 20 per cent. of her entire population, plus the sacrifice of the normal increase. If we had lost in proportion we would have lost 22,000,000 people. It is a country with a devastated population and no remedial agencies. It is a country almost without doctors, no medicine, no hospitals, except such as the Red Cross and other allied friends provide. I speak of Serbia especially, because I saw it fully, but ever more distressing conditions exist in Poland and other eastern countries, never forgetting Armenia.

Calls Effort Paralyzed.

"Add to these things another factor —psychological, but important—while the war lasted everybody was keyed up to a high pitch of emotion. Now everybody is disappointed and disillusioned. Everybody sees enormous losses, which cannot be repaired, but must be written off as a dead loss. No reparation, now or later, can undo suffering undergone nor bring the dead to life. Profound discouragement holds Europe in its grasp, and Asia also. It paralyzes effort.

"Our allies still need food, clothing, doctors, nurses, medicines, shelter, and perhaps above all need to continue to feel sure that rich America, the land of the free, still cares for them, and will continue to bind up the wounds caused by the war. Hunger and disease are not yet demobilized.

"It is not a question of reconstruction, in the sense of rebuilding cities and villages. Nobody has had time to think about that yet. It is entirely a question of food, clothing, care of the sick, sanitary precaution, and of getting some kind of temporary shelter which will keep out the rain."

CATTLE PRICES TAKE BIG DROP

DEALERS SAY BOTTOM HAS FALLEN OUT OF MARKET.

TORONTO, June 9. — The dealers say that the bottom has fallen out of the cattle market. All prices are one dollar or so lower and weakening at that. Small meats steady; hogs are steady; receipts fair. Choice export $12 to $12.50; choice butchers' cattle, $10.75 to $11.75; medium butcher cows, $9 to $10; ewes $12.50 to $14; lambs, $18 to $19.50; hogs, fed and watered $21.25; calves, $16 to $17.50.

KINMOUNT BRIDGE MATTER DISCUSSED

Claims Built of Traffic Comes From Peterborough County.

LINDSAY, June 9. — After many years of suspense and persistent determination, entailing much expense and unstinted energies, Warden Morrison has been responsible in having the Kinmount bridge assumed by the county. This bridge was under discussion some 25 years ago, and the case was thrashed out in court at a great expense. Now it is assumed by the county. A delegation visited Ottawa, laid the proposition before the proper authorities, and have ultimately succeeded. Warden Morrison explained that Peterborough County should pay 5 per cent. of the cost of maintenance of the Kinmount bridge and Victoria County 95 per cent. For every 11 vehicles to cross from Victoria County there are 41 from Peterborough County. Messrs. Tompkins, Jenkins, Warden Morrison, Wilson and Brock were appointed a committee to negotiate with Peterborough County deputation and settle the matter as to percentage of costs borne by each.

Warden Morrison then explained that the spring floods had swept away a 40-foot gap in the Nicholls bridge, a county bridge near Kinmount. "I am not asking for a grant to help defray expenses in the negotiations re the Kinmount bridge, gentlemen, but I would like a little grant on this bridge," said Warden Morrison.

On motion of Reeves McGaffey and Thompson the sum of $800 was granted to Warden Morrison to use on the repairing of this bridge.

TWO YOUNG BANDITS HOLD UP POST OFFICE IN HASTINGS CO.

BOYS WERE FIRST DISCOVERED STEALING A RIDE ON A CAR OF LOGS.

MILLBRIDGE, June 9.—On Friday morning as the train from Coe Hill was coming into Millbridge Station two boys were noticed stealing a ride behind a car of logs. The section foreman drew the conductor's attention to them just as the train was starting away, whereupon Conductor Derbyshire stopped the train and told the young fellows to go back in the coach as it was no place for them to ride. They got off and hung around the station for an hour or so, making inquiries about what time the next train would be going south, and also asked the agent twice where the school was. After being asked why they wanted to know where the school was, finally an answer that they just wanted to know, and soon left the station towards Millbridge, about a mile and a half away. It seems that they were into at least one of the stores there and made some purchases, but not without taking the goods of "paying for them. About ten o'clock they came back to the station and hung around until the Maynooth train had gone north.

Hands Up!

Shortly after this they went up to the Hogan post office, near Millbridge Station, which is kept by Miss Ellie Hogan. Miss Hogan's sister, Mrs. Daniel Kirby, waited on them, and put up a parcel of boots and socks, as well as some provisions. They kept Mrs. Kirby occupied in one way and another until the customers had all gone away and Mrs. Kirby was alone to wait on them. Then the bigger one of the two, a tall fellow of about nineteen years, drew an old-fashioned pistol and ordered Mrs. Kirby to open up the cash drawer, and then called the younger fellow in and commanded him to put his hand in the till and get the money.

Mrs. Kirby demurred and was not inclined to give the money. Her sister, Miss Hogan, who was in the next room, stepped to the door to see what the trouble was and was immediately confronted with the pistol. She thought the best way out of it was to give the money up, and accordingly opened the cash drawer and let them get it. The boys took the money and the goods that were done up and told Mrs. Kirby to say nothing about it, or they would kill her, and backed away and went into the woods nearby.

Robbers Held Up.

The women immediately raised an alarm, and their two brothers, Bevan and Leo Hogan, hitched up and started for Bannockburn, Leo taking a gun with him. About a mile north of Bannockburn, near what is known as the old iron bridge, Leo Hogan got out of the buggy and ambushed himself and awaited developments.

After a while he was rewarded by seeing the highway boys coming along the road, seemingly trying to discover if anyone was in sight. After satisfying themselves the coast was clear they came along. Mr. Hogan, who was well secreted, kept hidden until they got past him. Then he stepped out just behind them with his gun ready, and ordered them to put their hands up, which command was promptly obeyed.

The captor made the younger one go ahead of the bigger one while he searched him for his weapons. He found a pair of field or opera glasses, the pistol, and some money, while one of them had the stolen boots on his feet. Mr. Hogan marched them back to Bannockburn Station and had the constable from Madoc come and get them.

On Saturday Mrs. Kirby and Miss Hogan went to Madoc for the trial, when the boys were committed to Belleville for trial.

STILL SHOOTING ONE ANOTHER IN IRELAND

YANK DELEGATES MAKE A REPORT TO WOODROW.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 9. — Guerilla warfare of a character which usually precedes a major conflict, is now going on in Ireland, it is declared by Frank P. Walsh and Edward F. Dunne, in a supplementary report which they have forwarded to President Wilson, regarding conditions in Ireland.

Messrs. Walsh and Dunne, delegates of the Irish Societies in the United States, affirm in this addition to their report, submitted to President Wilson last week, that clashes between the Irish volunteers and the army forces in Ireland, in which men on both sides were killed, are of daily occurrence.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 9.—The London newspapers, as a whole, are not excited over the resolution adopted by the United States Senate asking the American Peace delegates to secure a hearing before the Peace Conference for Ireland's delegates.

The "Daily Chronicle" expresses surprise that Americans "are so extraordinarily misinformed on the Irish question."

It adds: "Truths which are commonplace here are entirely overlooked or unknown in America, where it is not realised that the Home Rule question is not an issue between England and Ireland, but between Irishmen and Irishmen."

A PLATE GLASS WINDOW WRECKED

Last evening the large plate glass window of Judy's grocery store on Charlotte street was broken. About the time of the crash a gang of young men were heard talking outside of the store. The crash followed and the men disappeared. It is thought that one of them fell through the window. Those interested in the broken window deplore the action of the police in permitting young men to loaf around store entrances and store windows on Sunday evening for the object of ogling the girls as they pass. Some attempt is made by the police to shoo them away but they soon return. A few arrests would dampen their enthusiasm for this form of Sunday evening pastime.

Voice of The People

Peterborough, June 8th, 1919.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Over a year ago journalism and the people were called upon to suffer a great loss in the death of Mr. Yokome. It was suggested at the time that something should be done to perpetuate his memory.

Each recurring spring will recall to the minds of many this grand old man who was such an ardent admirer of Nature. No doubt his great love of Nature oftimes helped to keep unsullied his noble character, for we all know that in the business that he followed there are many trials and temptations. He was often called a dreamer, but, to those who knew him best, he was passionately in earnest and always stood up and faced the responsibility of his actions.

As a neighbour and a friend he was all one would wish for and many will miss his wise counsel. As a public man, it can truthfully be claimed that this world would not be suffering from its own folly, as it is to-day, if we had more men with the culture and true democratic spirit that was so characteristic in the makeup of this grand old man.

We will not find many taking an active part in public affairs whose life will furnish as good an example as that of Mr. Yokome for our youth to follow. Let us do something to keep his memory alive, and as a suggestion I would change Central Park to "Yokome Park," for I believe, when you do anything of this kind, you should do it well.

Yours,
(Signed) Joseph Begley.

TO HANG THIS WEEK.

This Question Agitates Toronto and Province.

TORONTO, June 9.—Will Frank McCullough, convicted murderer, pay the death penalty for his crime? This is the question being raised in police and domestic circles all over the country. The date of the execution has been set for June 16, exactly four days from today, and no authentic word has been received. The petitions circulated by the counsel, T. C. Robinette, K.C., are all in the hands of the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Acting Minister of Justice.

Entombed in the death cell is the grim Don Bastille, the murderer is calmly awaiting his impending doom. Henry Addy, the chief turnkey, is personnally supervising his death watch, assisted by three guards.

"Since being brought back," said the turnkey, "he has dropped all pretence of gayety, and has turned moody and self-contained. He is a man whom it is impossible to gauge, and he will sit for hours at a time, with his eyes fixed on the wall, apparently in an introspective mood."

Rev. R. B. Nelles, his spiritual adviser, visits him every few days, but not with same regularity as before the escape.

COURT CHEMONG AND SHERWOOD FOREST CAMP PARADE TO CHURCH

INSPIRING ADDRESS BY THE REV. J. C. DAVIDSON—THE AFTER MEETING.

Court Chemong, No. 880, I. O. F., and Sherwood Forest Camp No. 80, W.O.W., paraded to St. John's Anglican church yesterday, Whit Sunday, the birthday of the Christian church. The Salvation Army band, under the leadership of Bro. F. J. Gandy, of the I.O.F., led the long parade.

Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson formally welcomed the visiting brethren. This was followed by a most interesting sermon taken from 1st Peter, 3rd chapter, 8th verse;

"Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous."

After referring to the gift of love as having come through the Holy Sprit, given to the church on Whit Sunday, which festival the brethren were keeping, the speaker dealt with the threefold command of St. Peter. Through the power of the Holy Spirit the principles enunciated by the Saviour of mankind applied to the life and circumstances of the different ages and power was given to carry into action the example of his beautiful life. Taking the three points referred to by St. Peter, the speaker reminded the congregation of the importance of courtesy, which enriched and beautified the social, commercial and home life. The ritual of the lodge room was one effective means for training in principles of courtesy, with its careful directions as to external behaviour and dignified words and actions in which the outward always signified an inward meaning. St. Peter's next admonition to be pitiful and tender hearted was also well exemplified in the charitable work of the different orders.

Brotherhood and Fellowship.

Thirdly, brotherhood and fellowship was the object aimed at. The church is the divine society for fellowship and as the Orders are also carrying out the work they should aim at a broader fellowship, which not only includes the lodge room but the street and other places where they can come into contact with men. The wounds of war have to be healed and the divisions which come in its wake had to be mended and it was a time for all patriotic citizens to help unify the community. They should refuse antagonism of race, religion or politics which are actually fostered by the devil, but the interests of citizens should be united to overcome these as well as the rifts between labour and capital. The right was generally conceded to men to meet together in the lodge room or union room to discuss interests which they had in common, but they should look further than their own interests and consider the interests of others, and especially those of the country, which so largely depended on united co-operation.

The After Meeting.

At a meeting of the two lodges after church, held in the lodge room, a vote of thanks was extended to Canon Davidson for the excellent sermon and to the choir for the appropriate music and to the management of St. John's church for the kindly reception. Sovereign R. Waram moved the vote of thanks, seconded by Brother H. C. Wilson. A vote of thanks moved by Sovereign F. Sutcliffe and seconded by Brother J. Gray was extended to the Salvation Army band.

Brother H. J. Morrison addressed the meeting and expressed his pleasure at being present with the brethren.

Sovereign Fred Sutcliffe and Brother J. W. Buyers also spoke, and Sovereign Sutcliffe referred to the progress of the Order which he represented. Bro. Buyers spoke of the pleasure of attending St. John's church and thought every honour was due Major Davidson for his patriotic effort during the war. He also referred to the honour roll of the I.O.F., with 25 names, including that of Major (Canon) Davidson. About an equal number of each order enlisted.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Bro. J. W. Buyers and seconded by Sovereign W. G. Fredenburg to the marshals, namely, Sovereign R. Waram and Brother H. C. Wilson, for the able manner in which they performed their duties, was unanimously carried.

The Addresses.

The addresses at the meeting after the church services were brief. Bro. G. W. Powell referred to the cordial relations of the two lodges. Bro. Powell made a very capable chairman for the occasion.

Sovereign C. C. Graham, C.C.C., of the Woodmen, gave a short address covering the activities of the order.

Bro. J. H. Morrison expressed his pleasure at being present with the brethren.

Sovereign Sutcliffe referred briefly to the progress of the Order which he represented.

Bro. J. W. Buyers said it was a pleasure for him to have the opportunity of attending St. John's church. Bro. Buyers thought that every honour was due Canon J. C. Davidson and his patriotic efforts during the war. He referred to the honour roll of the I.O.F., which contains twenty-five names, including that of Canon Davidson. About the same number of names are on the honour roll of Sherwood Forest Camp.

ONLY 21 MONARCHIES REMAIN SINCE THE WAR

Before the war the number of republics and monarchies in the world was about the same, but it is now computed that only 21 monarchies remain, compared with 29 republics. Germany, Austria and Russia have been included among the latter. China is the largest republic with 400,000,000 inhabitants; San Marino comes last with only 11,000. The number of republics will probably soon be increased still more by the formation of new states.

TOWN HOUSES DISCARDED BY OWNERS IN ENGLAND

For hundreds of years members of England's wealthy class have maintained their splendid town houses in London. But to-day, with the perfecting of the automobile and the increased convenience of apartment and hotel, there is a growing tendency to break with tradition and maintain only the country home. This fashionable back-to-the-land movement is expected to have royal sanction, too, as the King and Queen will use beautiful old Windsor Castle, 23 miles from London, this season, much more than Buckingham Palace, in the city.

ROYAL GEORGE SAILS WITH CANADIAN TROOPS

LONDON, June 9. — The Royal George sailed from Liverpool Saturday and carried the corps of Mechanical Transport, 14th Field Ambulance from Kinmel Camp for Taplow; 600 men from Buxton, with other odd units, totalling 62 officers and 1,617 men.

PROSPECTS FOR AN EARLY SETTLEMENT OF WINNIPEG STRIKE

stock and locomotives are in a serious shape, and that locomotives are coming in from all parts of various systems to handle Western busine. The railway deny this. Clerical help, it is stated, is working in the railway roundhouses.

President Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, made a close study of the situation before leaving for Montreal on Sunday afternoon.

A Bitter Fight.

One thing is certain—the outside world can settle down to watch the bitterest fight waged against Union labour that has been carried on in many years on this continent, and it will not end until a complete victory is secured by one side or the other. There will be no recurrence of this issue next year or the next either.

The health of the community is unusually good considering. No scavenging, except by private enterprise, has been done in nearly four weeks. No ice deliveries in that period, and no bread or milk deliveries have been made for four days, and will not be for some time.

SENT OUT APPEAL.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 9.—The strike leaders sent out an appeal to all union men this morning not to do anything about returning to work until Tuesday.

The leaders intimated that the Railway Brotherhoods might do something within the next twenty-four hours that would have a bearing on the strike.

A number of Brotherhood Executives are here for the conference.

Several Winnipeg concerns affected by the strike notified the company employers this morning that their jobs would be held open until tomorrow. Advertisements for help—returned soldiers preferred—were inserted in a local newspaper.

Only One Thousand Canadians Now Remain in France at Front

GENERAL STRIKE OF AMERICAN TELEGRAPHERS CALLED—THE SIGNING OF THE PEACE TREATY—PRESIDENT WILSON WILL SOON RETURN HOME—SUNDAY AND SATURDAY EVENING BULLETINS.

LONDON, June 9. — There are only one thousand Canadian soldiers in France at present. These consist mostly of base hospital details.

REFUSE TO CALL OFF STRIKE

WINNIPEG, June 9. — The General Strike Committee has refused to call off sympathetic strike. Had this been done an adjustment of the labor difficulties probably would have been made.

MORE TIME TO SIGN.

PARIS, June 9. — Clemenceau favours giving the Germans but twenty-four hours to sign, but Lloyd George wants to give them a week. There will likely be a compromise.

WILL RETURN HOME.

PARIS, June 9. — It is announced that President Wilson will return to the United States with a week or ten days.

MASSACRE IN HUNGARY.

VIENNA, June 9. — Over three thousand Hungarians have been massacred in Western Hungary by the Bolsheviki.

FLEET FOR AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, June 9. — The government has handed over six destroyers to Australia, who will man the vessels.

TELEGRAPH STRIKE IN STATES.

CHICAGO, June 9. — Nation-wide strike affecting one hundred thousand telegraphers will be called on Wednesday. The Canadian operators will not handle American business.

Sunday Evening Bulletin.

LONDON, June 8th. — A Constantinople despatch, via Paris, says that the Turkish government has appointed a delegation to the peace conference, under the leadership of Mussad Pasha.

BERNE, June 8. — A despatch says that in a counter effort against the Rhenish Republic movement, the Berlin government has appointed Karl Trimborn, a leading clerical, as regional president of the Rhineland.

BOLSHEVIK BECOME ACTIVE.

COPENHAGEN, June 8. — The Finnish government general staff has received reports of the sudden opening of violent fire by the Bolshevik sentinels of the Finnish shores, at various points along the Russian front.

A GERMAN REPORT.

DARMSTADT, June 8. — Two persons were expelled from portions of the Rhineland occupied by the French because it is alleged that they refused to deal with the new Republic have arrived here.

Saturday Night Bulletin.

BOSTON, June 7. — An order to strike as soon as the word has been given, has been received by the commercial telegraphers of Boston.

WINNIPEG BUILDING DESTROYED.

WINNIPEG, June 7.—A fire from some unknown cause destroyed the Industrial Building at the Fair Grounds to-day.

DISORDER IN BAVARIA.

BERLIN, June 7. — There was great disorder all night in Munich, and machine guns were used. The strike of the metal workers has extended to Nuremberg and Fuerth.

NO COMPROMISE.

WINNIPEG, June 7. — Mayor Gray met a stormy crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers at Victoria Park to-day and told them that the city would not recede one inch in its determination to maintain law and order. He held out no offer of compromise to those who quit their city jobs.

ADDITIONS TO STRIKE.

WASHINGTON, June 7 — Telegraphers' strike in the south is unchanged except that the cable and lineman have joined the strike in New Orleans.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

A RUN DOWN SYSTEM is like a run-down clock. Unless toned up it is of little use. If you are run-down from over-work, don't neglect your condition. Get a box of Bliss Native Herb Tablets, take one or two at bedtime, and you will note an immediate improvement. For over thirty years they have proved a wonderful aid to men, women and children in maintaining health and vigor. George Grandstaff, Deeville, Texas., writes: "I was all run-down in health, and it seemed nothing would help me. I was induced to try Bliss Native Herb Tablets. I am thankful for this wonderful remedy, because I am enjoying good health." Don't delay taking Bliss Native Herb Tablets. There is nothing to equal them for removing the cause of constipation, liver and kidney trouble, sick headache, rheumatism or disordered stomach. They originate the liver, purify the blood and tone up the system; also improve the appetite. Get the genuine. Look for the trade mark and money back guarantee on every box. Price $1.00 per box of 200 tablets.

MRS. NEWHALL ON VERGE OF DESPAIR

OSHAWA WOMAN SAYS SHE IS FEELING FINE AFTER TAKING TANLAC.

"Tanlac was the only thing that gave me any relief, and I am convinced that it is the right medicine for people in the condition I was in," said Mrs. Elizabeth Newhall, of Oshawa, Ont., recently.

"I had been in a general rundown condition for over a year," she continued, "was extremely nervous, had no strength nor energy, and the least little exertion would so exhaust me that I would feel real faint. I ached from head to foot, and also had dreadful backaches. Nervous, blinding headaches would almost drive me distracted. My nerves were shattered so that the least little thing would upset me and I'd get up in the morning feeling so miserable I could hardly keep on my feet.

"After taking Tanlac for a few days I began to feel better. My appetite is now splendid and nothing I eat hurts me at all. Those terrible headaches are all gone. I have more life and energy, and my work is a real pleasure to me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

A BOOM IN SHIPBUILDING.

Nearly 7,800,000 Tons of Boats Now Under Construction.

LONDON, June 6.—Merchant vessels under construction throughout the world, with the exception of the central powers' countries, at the end of March aggregated 7,796,266 gross tons, according to figures for the first quarter of 1919 issued by Lloyd's Register of Shipping. The total compares with 6,921,989 gross tons under construction at the end of the last quarter of 1918.

The United States leads in extent of work under way, with Great Britain second, and the British Dominions third, and Japan fourth.

The returns, which only take into account vessels of 100 tons and upwards, the construction of which has actually been commenced, show that there were 657 merchant vessels of 2,245,845 tons gross under construction in the United Kingdom at the close of the quarter ended 31st March.

MR. FRANK CARVELL DECLARES HE WILL NOT CRITICIZE THE BUDGET

SAYS SOMETHING MUST BE DONE TO BRING COST OF LIVING DOWN.

INTERESTED IN STRIKE SITUATION

TORONTO, June 9.—Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, who is in Toronto on a visit of inspection of the harbor works now under construction here, is an optimist with regard to the labor situation. "I am not worrying," the Minister said Saturday. "I believe that industrial unrest will work itself out in time. The people in this country are just as true and loyal as any in the country. I suppose we are going through what the world has gone through after every great war, and things always adjust themselves in a short time. Mind, I say that something must be done as to prices. The cost of living has got to come down. Labor men are sincere when they say that it is impossible to live under existing conditions."

"Do you mean that the Government should take action to bring prices down?" "I should not go so far as to say that."

Says Little on Budget.

"The budget is, of course, the paramount issue of the day?" "I suppose some people are talking about it," the Minister parried, "but I do not intend to discuss."

"You will do so in the House next week, will you not?" "I really cannot say. The statement in a paper, that I have announced to Sir Robert, my intention of criticizing the budget and have secured this consent, is absolutely untrue."

"What is the chief objection raised to the budget?" "That it does not go far enough—that is, of course, to suit the West. There is no really strong free trade party, even in the West, but substantial reductions are wanted."

The resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar, according to Mr. Carvell caused little surprise in official circles, as the Minister of Agriculture had already made his attitude known "Mr. Crerar," continued Mr. Carvell, "was in a very unfortunate position. He is at the head of the Grain Growers' Association, the greatest body of free traders in Canada, and therefore could not support a budget which is so far removed from what he stands for. His stand is absolutely logical. Mr. Crerar, is one of the most absolutely straight and honest men I ever met."

"No other member of the Cabinet shared Mr. Crerar's view on the Cabinet—at least to the same extent?" "No others resigned," replied Hon. Mr. Carvell, non-committally.

Says It's Up to Provinces.

Hon. Mr. Carvell does not agree with the opinion expressed by Premier Hearst, that the eight-hour day is a matter for Federal legislation. On the contrary, he affirmed positively that all power is vested in the Provinces. "Any lawyer who reads sections 91 and 92 of the British North America Act will come to the opinion that the eight-hour day comes under the head of property and civil rights, which is relegated to the Provinces," he declared. Section 91, he explains, defines the powers of the Federal Parliament, and section 92 those of the Provincial Houses. Whether a man shall be compelled to work 44 or 48 or any number of hours and what wages he shall receive, Mr. Carvell regards as being indisputably questions of civil right.

Do you regard collective bargaining as a matter for Provincial recognition also?" "Undoubtedly. The Province has power to say whether any bargain is legal or illegal."

"Do you believe that there would be a general exodus of labor if an eight-hour law came into effect in one Province and not in others?" "That the Provinces would have to work out for themselves. I am not surprised at the attitude expressed by Premier Hearst. It is quite natural that he should want to get out of the situation as easily as possible."

Mr. Carvell is outspoken in his endorsation of the legislation provisiding for deportation of Bolshevist agitators. "I would fire them all," he declared vigorously. "There wouldn't be any Bolsheviki in Canada if I had my way. I have no use for red-eyed Socialists and that applies to those of every nationality in your midst. In question provides for the deportation of foreigners only. Native-born or naturalized Canadians cannot be deported. "We would have no right to throw them on any other country," he pointed out, "but we can lock them up."

Interested in Strike Situation.

Hon. Fr. Carvell evinced keen interest in the strike situation in Toronto and asked a number of questions concerning the progress being made, and also concerning the demands of the metal workers. He confessed inability to see how the 44-hour week would provide greater employment in factories which were now running at full capacity.

Mr. Carvell believes that considerable of the strike agitation is "just froth." The unrest he attributes largely to the fact that there are more people in the larger cities than there is employment for. Many have come in from the rural districts during the war, while others are returned soldiers who are remaining in the larger centres instead of returning to their distant homes.

Spending Borrowed Money.

The Dominion Government, he states, is probably spending $75,000,000, which will go directly into labor. "And note," the Finister pointed out "that all this is borrowed money. Sometimes I think if labor could realize that the Government is borrowing millions in order to provide employment, they might take a different view of the matter. Our revenues are not sufficient to provide for those expenditures. It is true that a good deal of the money was raised in Victory Loans, but the interest must be paid, and the bonds redeemed, just the same. "We are not spending money on public works, which will not have an economic value afterward. But we are spending money to provide employment, on matters which we could otherwise have laid over for a few years."

City Council Doings.

To put through the license reduction will require some tall hustling. Meantime lots of corns will be trampled on. The cure is "Putnam's," the old reliable corn extractor that has been curing corns and warts for years. "Putnam's" never fails, 25c. at all dealers.

BLOCKS A CHURCH UNION.

An Old Deed Ties Up Guelph Edifice to One Sect.

GUELPH, Ont., June 9.—The proposed union of the Congregationalists and Disciples in this city is off. An old trust deed of the Congregational Church property was discovered which sets out that the church can only be a Congregational church, ministered by an accredited minister of the Congregational body, whose teaching shall be in line with the declaration of the Union of England and Wales made in 1833.

RHEIMS CATHEDRAL STAMPS.

Will Be Sold in Various Countries to Provide Rebuilding Fund.

COPENHAGEN, June 16. — A scheme initiated in Denmark to sell special stamps like the well-known Christmas stamps for the purpose of procuring money to rebuild Rheims Cathedral as a monument for lasting peace is being put into operation. Committees already have been formed in different countries. In Denmark the Honorary President of the committee will be Princess Marguerethe, in France, Mme. Poincare, England, Queen Alexandra, Sweden, Princess Ingeborg and Finland, General Mannerheim.

The stamp will be printed and distributed from Denmark. The first edition of 400,000,000 is expected to bring in 20,000,000 crowns. The stamp, with a picture of the Cathedral bears the inscription, "Pax, Veritas, Libertas, Justitia," and a motto for the different countries.

WAR'S EFFECT ON EPISCOPAL ENGLAND

There are terrible days for the cloth in England. The popular Bishop of London, Dr. Winnington Ingram, unmarried, whose recreations are golf and cycling, finds himself taxed $22,500 out of his $30,000 annual income. He is leasing his London house, and is very doubtful if he can maintain Fulham Palace, with its beautiful garden, motor and ten servants. He puts it naively to the Diocesan Conference: "It can't be done. You ask your wives."

The Bishop of Peterborough, Dr. Woods, who surrendered his palace at Great Bowden for a war hospital, possesses an income of $30,000, out of which he gives his predecessor a pension of $7,000. He finds that, after payment of income taxes, but a bare $5,000 is now left, which is "quite insufficient" for the maintenance of his former hospitality. He announces his return to the palace as an experiment.

Dean Weldon, of Durham, caught in the May Labour demonstration at Bradford, was heckled by a workingman, who called attention to the fact that he got $7,500 per annum, to which the Dean replied: "Well, I can earn it. I work longer hours than you." Another clergyman, signing himself "former Bishop's Chaplain," writes: "One never hears of a man when he has reached a high position in the Church or State complain of a superabundance of his official income"; all of which demonstrates the war's effect upon Episcopal England.

CLEANING UP YOUR SUIT

If you have a suit that needs freshening up, the following is a good plan to follow:

First, whisk the suit thoroughly. Then remove all grease spots by applying gasoline. In doing this use a piece of material, similar to the cloth of the suit. In removing a grease spot make a wide circle extending well beyond the spot, and work in towards the centre.

When all spots are removed brush or whisk the suit with hot water in which there is some ammonia. If preferred a solution of soap bark can be used in brushing the suit. This will answer only if it is a dark suit as it has a tendency to darken the material. To prepare the soap bark, buy five cents worth of soap bark at a drug store. Steep it [illegible] These brush[illegible]

It will be well not to saturate the coat as it is liable to get out of shape.

Hang up coat and skirt and when partially dry, press with a hot iron. DO NOT let the iron touch the right side of the material. In ironing the skirt turn it inside out over the skirt board, put a piece of muslin over the wrong side of the material and press over that.

In pressing the coat do it on the wrong side, using a piece of muslin over the lining. If it is necessary to press the collar and lapels flat, put a double thickness of muslin over the right side, and press, but do not rub the iron back and forth.

In hanging the suit, always have the coat on a hanger. The coat will thus retain its shape much longer.

HIGHER LEATHER PRICES PREDICTED FOR A TIME.

Following upon previous advances, during the past week the local market for hides has advanced more than 10 per cent. From 24 cents a pound steer hides have jumped to 27 cents, and from 22 cents cull hides have gone to 25 cents. The advance in calfskins has been equally sharp Vealskins are up to 70 cents, as compared with 63 cents a pound at the end of last week.

Speaking of the latter, a hide dealer says it is hardly possible to believe it, but that fifteen or twenty years ago vealskins were practically being thrown away; now they are selling at 70 cents a pound. Everything manufactured from leather, he concludes, will be selling at a higher price than ever in consequence of this situation.

HELEN KELLER IN MOVIES.

It is promised that Helen Keller, the famous blind and deaf woman, is to appear in the "movies."

WORLD-WIDE PLOTS TRACED TO BUELOW

Swiss Trials Disclose German Scheme for Murders, Riots, and Revolutions.

ZURICH, June 6.—The further the trial of the twenty-eight alleged pro-German agents proceeds the more evidence is produced to show that German secret diplomacy has been at work throughout the world.

Two of the prisoners, Hindus, are charged with plotting revolutions in Switzerland and Italy, the murder of former Premier Salandra and Foreign Minister Sonnino of Italy, the blowing up of banks in Rome and Milan, and the destruction of the famous Simplon and other tunnels.

The examination of the accused, thus far, has indicated that they were only pawns in the hands of Prince von Bulow, once German Chancellor, and Baron von Stockhammer, who from Lucerne directed the movements of the revolutionists and riots in America, Europe, India, Egypt and North Africa.

The Hindu anarchist Lala Har Dayal, who was brought to Berlin by the Germans, was sent to Zurich and then to Constantinople in order to foment a holy war among the Mussulmans, using the German Embassy at Constantinople as his office, according to testimony adduced today.

It was further testified that all the money for use by the conspirators was sent from Berlin to Berne in the German diplomatic [illegible] It appear that German activity has not yet ended.

BINDERS AND MOWERS.

Duties Not Reduced, for They Were Already at Low Rate.

Reductions in duties on agricultural implements of various kinds, provided for in the new budget, do not include binders or mowers. The explanation is that already, by tariff revision of June 7, 1914, the Custom duties on these implements was fixed at 12½ per cent., a lower rate than on other implements, and lower than the new low rate in other farm machinery, which now runs from 15 to 20 per cent.

The war tax of 7½ per cent., now removed from agricultural implements does not affect binders or mowers, since it was never levied upon these articles.

BELGIAN FRONTIERS CLOSED.

AMSTERDAM, June 6.—A despatch received here from Eindhoven states that the Belgian frontiers have been closed and that all Belgian soldiers have been recalled from leave.

It is reported that general demobilisation will be ordered at the termination of the period given the Germans to sign the Treaty of Peace.

FONCK VOLPANED 30,000 FEET

SAFELY WHEN ENGINE FROZE

ISSY LES MOULINEAUX, France, — June 6. — Captain Rane Fonck, the famous French aviator attempted this morning to break the attitude record in an airplane of 31,500 feet made by Adjutant Casula, May 24. The aviator rapidly ascended until he had attained a height of 30,000 feet. Here, however, his motor froze and he was forced to make a thrilling volplane with his engine stopped.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

The sheriff retired hastily to the region behind the court-room.

The young men adjusted their chairs, arranged their copy-paper neatly, and sharpened their pencils. Mrs. Balfame's friends went forward to the door behind the jury-box which led to the tunnel. Even the sleepy spectators sat up nervously.

Ten minutes passed. Then the sheriff, his face now stolid and important, bustled in and across to the jury-room, opened the door and summoned the occupants. In every stage of dishabille they filed sullenly in; the sheriff went through the tunnel for Mrs. Balfame.

The Judge, without his gown and his hair ruffled, was in his seat when the prisoner entered. She came hurriedly, her great repose broken, her face grey. Rush, who had entered behind the Judge, met her and whispered:

"You are free. But you will need all your self-control. Don't let them have a story in the morning papers of a breakdown at the last moment."

Mrs. Battle, Mrs. Gifning and Mrs. Cummack, who were far more excited than she, took heart at his words, patted her dishevelled hair and motioned to their husbands, summoned from the Dobton Inn, to draw closer. Whatever the issue, they felt the need of masculine support, albeit they scowled at the obvious form that masculine needs had taken.

Mrs. Balfame had looked dully at Rush as he spoke. Between fatigue and the nervous strain of maintaining the superwoman pitch for the benefit of her friends, her mind was confused. She could only mutter, "I'll try. Is—is—it really—all right?"

"You'll be free and for ever exonerated in half an hour."

Mrs. Balfame sank back in her chair, thinking that half an hour was a long time, a terribly long time. How long did it usually take a jury to pronounce a prisoner not guilty?

Sitting before the table in front of her were two men whom she vaguely recognized. Behind them was the man she hated most now that her husband was dead, the reporter Broderick. And beside him were Alys Crumley and Miss Austin. What did it all mean? She drew a sigh. It didn't matter much. She was so tired, so tired. When it was over she would sleep for a week and see no one—not even Dwight Rush.

The district attorney was on his feet, his face as black as if in the first stages of poisonous fever. Neither he nor any one in the court-room threw Mrs. Balfame a glance. All eyes were on the Judge, who rose and made a short address to the jury.

"New evidence has just been brought to the notice of the court," he said. "It is of sufficient importance to warrant immediate consideration, and the case is therefore re-opened for this purpose. It is for you, however, to pass upon its worth. Mr. Rush will take the stand."

"May it please your honour," shrieked Mr. Gore, "I protest that this case has already been submitted to the jury, and that it is altogether out of order, and that it is altogether

"That is a matter within the discretion of the court," replied the Judge sharply; he had slept but fitfully and was not in his accustomed mood of remote judicial calm. "Mr. Rush will take the stand and proceed without interruption."

Rush ascended to the witness box and was sworn. Mrs. Balfame half rose, dropped back into her chair with another sigh. There could be but one explanation of this strange procedure. Rush had discovered that the jury was hostile and was about to incriminate himself. She could do nothing. She had brought up the subject only yesterday, and he had replied curtly that he had taken the pistol from his safe and hidden it elsewhere. And she was too tired to feel that anything mattered much but the prospect of a week's rest. Later she could exonerate him in one way or another.

The newspaper men were as sober and alert as if the hour were ten in the morning. With their abnormal news-sense they anticipated a complete surprise. To do them justice, they were quite indifferent to the possibility of Mrs. Balfame's release. If it were news, Big News, that was all that mattered.

As Rush took the witness-chair, the lines in his gallid face looked as if cut to the bone, but he addressed the jury in strong clear tones. He told them that two days since he had been informed by Miss Alys Crumley that Dr. Anna Steuer had positive knowledge bearing upon the crime for which Mrs. Balfame had been unjustly arrested and thrust into jail, but that they were afraid to tell of her friend's tragic situation lest it shatter her slender hold on life. She was very ill again after a relapse, although quite conscious, and their only hope was in perfect peace of mind.

If she recovered, Mrs. Dissosway, in whom alone she had confided, had felt sure she would give the testimony which must set Mrs. Balfame at liberty if the jury convicted her. On the other hand, Mrs. Dissosway had promised her niece that if the doctors agreed that Dr. Steuer's death was but a matter of hours and there was a real danger of Mrs. Balfame's conviction, she would tell the dying woman the truth and take the consequences.

Shortly after the case had gone to the jury, Miss Crumley and Miss Sarah Austin had gone out to the hospital, satisfied that Dr. Anna had but a few hours to live. But it was not until Miss Crumley had persuaded her relative that the delayed verdict of the jury meant conviction for Mrs. Balfame that the superintendent, who was a life-long friend of Dr. Anna Steuer, had given Miss Crumley permission to send for a stenographer and the witness she desired. Miss Crumley had therefore telephoned at once to Mr. Broderick, as she knew he would be sure to be in or near the court-room, and asked him to bring the witness and a stenographer.

They had reached the hospital in fifteen minutes. Dr. MacDougal had met them at the door of Dr. Steuer's room and informed them that the news of her friend's predicament had been broken to the patient, after administering stimulants, and that she had consented immediately to make a statement.

"It took her some time to make this statement," continued Mr. Rush. "She was very weak, and stimulants had to be given repeatedly. But in due course it was completed, signed, and witnessed by Mr. Broderick and the two physicians present. I shall read it to you with the permission of the court."

He then read them the ante-mortem statement of Dr. Anna Steuer:

"I shot David Balfame.

"I make this statement at one last I prove to be unable to add the explanation of my motives, and I herewith sign it."

Signed and witnessed.

"I had known for a long time that my beloved friend's life with this wretch was insupportable, but although I urged her repeatedly to divorce him and she refused it, it never entered my head to kill him nor any one else. I had spent my life trying to heal, and to give comfort where my patient's sufferings were of the mind as well as of the body. I had carried Balfame through several gastric attacks, caused by his disreputable life, with as much enthusiasm as if he had been the best of husbands. To have removed him during one of these would have been a simple matter.

"But that day out at the Country Club when he insulted the loveliest and most nearly perfect being on this earth, with the deliberate intent to ruin her position—the little all she had in the world that mattered—something snapped in my head. I almost struck him then and there. And when, during the ride home, Enid told me the hideous details of her life with that man all the blood in my body seemed to surge up and through my brain. He deserved death, and only death could free her. But how could this be accomplished? Too proud and too obdurate in her principles for the divorce-court, she was also too gentle and good and fastidious, in spite of her remarkable will, to strike him down herself.

"While waiting for a summons to the Houston farm, I paid several calls, and the last was at the Cummacks', one of the children being ill. As I came downstairs from the nursery I heard the conversation at the telephone— Balfame's drunken compliment to his wife. He said he would walk home. It was then that the definite impulse came to me, and I acted without an instant's hesitation. I always carried a revolver, for I was forced to take long and lonely rides in my country practice. I drove straight to the lane behind the Balfame place, left the car, put out the lights, and climbed the back fence. It was very dark, but I had been familiar with the grounds all my life and I had no difficulty in finding the grove. I waited, moving about restlessly, for I wanted to have it over and go out to the Houston farm.

"He came after what seemed to be hours of waiting, singing at the top of his voice. Mr. Rush tells me there is talk of two pistols having been fired that night, and that a bullet from a thirty-eight calibre pistol entered a tree just to the left of the gate. I heard no one else in the grove. My revolver was a forty-one and can be found in the drawer of my desk at home. I fired at Balfame the moment he reached the gate. I vaguely remember seeing another figure almost beside him, but as Balfame fell I ran for the lane and my car. I had no intention of giving myself up. I knew that the crime would be laid to political enemies, who, no doubt, could produce alibis. This proved to be the case, and when I broke down and was carried to the hospital it was with the assurance of public belief in gunmen as the perpetrators of the crime. That Enid Balfame, that serene and splendid woman, whose life has been a miracle of good taste and high sense of duty, would be accused never crossed my mind.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA
BY USING
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen, a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.

To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.

You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that the dyspepsia soon disappears.

Mr. Robt. Baldwin, Winnifred, Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have been a sufferer for years. I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, so one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local store, as it was about the only remedy he kept, and I can certainly say that I was more than pleased with the results, as I got better right away. I will always recommend it to other sufferers."

Slang Explained.

The saying, "not worth a continental," came from the fact that the Continental currency, issued by the Continental Congress, was worthless, or nearly so, during the American revolution and after. As the Continental Congress had no power to levy taxes it was unable to redeem its promises to pay. Besides, the country was flooded with counterfeits which could not be detected.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Loss of Appetite.

There are chronic diseases that cause, among many other symptoms, a great loss of bodily weight. Among these are tuberculosis and cancer, often diabetes, especially in the young, and of course any trouble with the mouth or throat that makes it difficult to swallow. But there are other cases in which there is loss of appetite and weight that are more difficult to understand. One sort of appetite or lack of appetite seems to be purely nervous. Young girls are especially liable to it. It sometimes occurs without any other symptom or nervous trouble and may bring the sufferer so near to complete starvation that her friends are greatly alarmed. In the early stages of this trouble her family usually try to bring her back to a normal habit of eating and accuse her of willing to keep slender and fascinating, but all to no avail. Later it becomes clear that something really is wrong, and the physician is called. That course should not be too long delayed, for a long period of starvation, even if recovery occurs, often leaves serious physical weaknesses behind it. If there is a fatal tuberculous germ at the bottom of the trouble a speedy examination and then a persistent course of treatment are the best things that can happen.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Peace Dove

By RAY WARBOURNE

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

Our darling Alida lay in what resembled a trance all through the early autumn days and then regained her strength sufficiently to sit up in bed and even in a chair at the window. Since that fatal day, however, when we found her lying face downward on the floor of her room dead, to all seeming, she had not spoken a word. There had come into her eyes a strange expression—a glaze, a dead, dread stare. She appeared to observe nothing before her or directly in her proximity. Her glance was far, as though way beyond her there loomed a picture that held soul and body in a deep thrall.

When we came to inspect the newspaper all torn and crumpled up in her hand, we, too, knew the truth. Among the list of war casualties was the name of Adrian Farrar. He had been directly at the front in the aviation service, his machine had been seen to drop all ablaze within the lines of the enemy, and the brave young volunteer, the fiance of Alida, had apparently met his fate. The blow had crushed our darling child. When after the lapse of a week she somewhat aroused from the deadening influence, she recognized nobody. The doctor was puzzled at the case, hoped that with time the brain cloud would pass away.

When the armistice was announced the little town went wild with excitement. We tried to make Alida understand what had taken place, but she did not seem to have the normal mentality to comprehend us coherently. The blaring of bands, the cheers, the general commotion of the occasion disturbed her greatly. She closed all the windows of her room and wrapped herself up in the couch coverings, as if to shut out sounds that struck harshly and unwelcome upon her senses.

"Do you think if we could rouse up Alida and drive into the midst of the celebration, it would awaken her mind and clear her clouded faculties?" I asked the doctor.

"I fear the strain might prostrate her," he replied, and the day passed by with the poor child having no conception of what its unusual turmoil signified.

Among the decorations of the little park square around which clustered the business establishments of the town was a large white dove. It had been hastily made and the material was crude, but as it was poised upon an emergency pedestal within the limits of the fountain, it was a striking and attractive feature of the occasion. It was allowed to remain in place and a month went by, winter came on, and I recall one day when it rained and then froze, and when the sun came out the glistening effect was fairly beautiful.

A wonderful piece of news came to us one day. Adrian Farrar had escaped death. Quite severely injured, he had fallen into the hands of the enemy abroad, had escaped and was now on his way homeward. We tried to convey the glad intelligence to Alida but her dulled intellect was unable to comprehend it.

"Do not despair," encouraged the doctor. "When young Farrar comes home and Alida sees him it may at once arouse her from her strange lethargy."

Alida was greatly attached to a light gretty dress that Adrian had often admired and which she wore the evening they had last parted. She would array herself in this after reclining most of the day, arrange her beautiful hair, put on a neck chain that Adrian had given her, and then seat herself at the window, crooning a low, mournful tune and gazing out blankly at the garden and street. It was about eight o'clock one evening when her brother came running down the stairs with a dreadful announcement:

"Oh, mother! Alida—she is gone!"

We found the rear door of the house open and marks of the dainty low slippers she wore in the snow. Alida had gone forth in light, thin garb with no head covering, and we shuddered at a thought of the possible results of the exposure.

Ungoaded, led by what wayward thought she never comprehended, Alida had wandered toward the center of the town. A lad living near us had been the first one to notice and recognize her. Astare, electrified, he had shrunk back in a sort of superstitious fear as he came across her. She had reached the fountain, had climbed up into its basin and there she was crouched, her arms about the celebration dove, her head nestling upon its breast, sweetly singing the old-time tune. A light snow coated the surface of the dove, but she seemed impervious to cold or discomfort.

With a shrill yell the lad put down the steps. He dashed into a hotel near by. At that moment its lobby was filled with a noisy, jubilant mogul, surrounding and cheering Adrian Farrar, who at that moment had arrived from the depot.

"Oh, Mr. Farrar! come! come quick! It's Alida Driscoll!" gasped the lad.

When the astounded Adrian reached the fountain, half comprehending the situation, and reached up and tenderly lifted Alida in his arms, she bestowed upon him one sweet smile and lay a limp weight in his arms.

But when with the dawn of a new day she again woke to consciousness, the light of reason returned was in her eyes, and they had opened on a new life of love and happiness.

TENDER GUMS... A WARNING

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty also. Lessening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—loose tissues, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tender—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

WHY DO WOMEN SUFFER

When There is Such a Remedy for Their Ills as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

[redacted], Ind.—"I had such a bad female weakness that I could not do my work and I could not get anything to relieve me. A physician treated me, but it did me no good. I had been in bed for two months, for the doctor told me I could not get up. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and (pellet form) and it cured me. I can do my housework now. I cheerfully praise your medicine."—Mrs. BUDA OSWALTER, 548 West Second Street, Hobart, Ind.

Women who suffer from maladies should not continue to drag themselves through the days under such conditions, but profit by the experience of Mrs. Oswalter and thousands of others who have tried this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If complications exist write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years' experience is entirely yours for the asking.

THE WORKING DAY.

How Many Hours Should a Man Be Required to Labor.

The perennial question "How many hours a day should be devoted to work?" is the topic discussed by a writer in the London Illustrated News, who affirms "that from the scientific point of view much is to be said for the further limitation of the hours of work." He also contends that the kind of work indulged in should more or less govern the number of hours to be spent at it. As he remarks:

"In monotonous or 'repetition' work, where the same manual operations have to be gone through over and over again, the attention of the keenest workman becomes dulled after a time, which varies with the individual; and thereafter, without any necessary consciousness of the fact on his part, the pace slackens or the work becomes less accurate. Hence, when rapidity of output had to be combined with scrupulous accuracy, as with the turning of shells during the last three or four years, it was found that better results could be obtained by employing three shifts of eight hours each than by working men or women, however willing, for spells of ten or more hours on end. Taking six working days in the week, and making no allowance for Saturday afternoon, this works out at forty-eight hours per week for each shift."

Citing occupations that could bear a longer working period without fatigue, the writer mentions woodcarving and painting, which could, he says—

"probably be carried on for a longer period than eight hours without actual physical fatigue supervening; because the constant, if slight, change of attitude and finger play necessary would prevent any one set of muscles and nerves from being exercised unduly; and, although this could not be repeated daily, the difficulty would arise from the giving out of the worker's imagination rather than of his muscles. Moreover, in such a case, the artist is buoyed up with the pleasure which attends the execution of all creative work, so as to feel fatigue less quickly than one who is merely repeating a mechanical process every minute."

On the other hand, occupations such as those of engine driver, motorman, tramcar driver, or craneman should not be for too long a period at a time—in fact, reasons this writer, "an eight-hour day would be impossible":

"To take an instance that will be familiar to most, no captain in his senses would dream of keeping a steersman at the wheel for eight hours at a stretch, except in some extraordinary and unforeseen emergency."

Therefore, the conclusion arrived at is that "no hard and fast line can be laid down for the guidance, still that the hours of work which would be light for one would be excessively hard if always enforced for another."

ARMENIA.

Country Is Old in History But Young Among Nations.

If, on the map of Asia Minor, you will draw a line from Alexandretta, on the Mediterranean, to Samsoun, on the Black Sea, and another line from Alexandretta due east to Mount Ararat, the mighty boundary-stone which marks the meeting place of Turkey, Persia and Russia, the resultant triangle will roughly correspond to the area of Turkish Armenia, says Major E. Alexander Powell, in the Review of Reviews. Though Turkish Armenia, in its broadest sense, is usually understood to include nine vilayets—muret-el-Aziz, Diarbekir, Sivas, Aleppo and Adana—the Armenia which it is proposed to revivify will probably consist of only the first six of these provinces, for the Turks will almost certainly be permitted to retain Sivas, the population of which is overwhelmingly Osmanli; Aleppo, the greatest railway centre in Western Asia, is within the British sphere of influence; while Pearce has claims to Adana.

To get a mental picture of the new state of Armenia you must imagine a country about the size of North Dakota, with Dakota's cold winters and scorching summers, consisting of a dreary and monotonous plateau of an average height of [illegible] feet, with snow-covered, treeless mountains and watered by many rivers, whose valleys form wide stretches of arable land. Rising above the general level of this Armenian tableland are barren and forbidding ranges, broken by many gloomy gorges, which culminate, on the extreme northeast, in the mighty peak of Ararat, the traditional resting-place of the Ark. This region has been identified with the Armenians as their historic home for three thousand years. The names of towns, valleys, mountains, lakes and rivers are Armenian; the countryside is dotted with the monuments of ancient Armenia; the soil is soaked with Armenian blood—for it was a blight of the Turks that they would have Armenia without the Armenians—and, always all the world over, every Armenian, no matter where he may dwell, is profoundly attached to this wild and sombre land, the cradle of his race.

The Armenians unquestionably have the first and the greatest claim on Armenia. They have been known as a nation since the times of Herodotus and probably earlier. Under Tigranes Armenia was the centre of an empire extending from the Crocus to the Caspian. Though for six hundred years she has suffered under Turkish cruelty and oppression, she has steadfastly remained the bulwark of Christianity in Asia. Before the war the Armenians in the six vilayets numbered approximately 1,000,000 as compared to 600,000 Turks. But there is no saying how many Armenians remain, for during the four years of the war the Turks perpetrated a series of wholesale massacres in order to be able to tell the Christian powers, as a Turkish official cynically remarked, that "one cannot make a state without inhabitants." A few generations of peaceful lives should be quite enough, however, for the prolific Armenians to repopulate the country and to restore it to its ancient prosperity.

Came Down from Romans.

Among the Albanians lives a fragment of a strange people who call themselves Rumani, said to be descendants of the Romans—of that fifth Roman legion which dispersed and scattered along the old highway stretching from Durazzo to Constantinople. This great road of ancient Rome (via Ignatia), called at its beginning the Appian Way, passes southeast through Italy to Brindisi; beginning again at Durazzo, runs thence through Elbassan by Lake Ochrida to Kruska, and on to Monastir and Vodena; thence to Saloniki and beyond to Constantinople.

The Rumani are proud of their origin, and answer the questions of race by saying: "I am a descendant of the Romans." They are a simple, pastoral people, not given to robbery or brigandage. Their primitive little villages of stone are frequently seen in the mountains, often perched near high summits. A large colony of them, known as Viacha, live on the slope of the Pindus Mountains in sight of Linguowiki, but far away across the valley and gorge.

From the heights where they graze their flocks in summer, the Rumani descend into the valleys in winter; and on the road men, women and children, surrounded by their hundreds of sheep and goats in search of grazing lands, form a picture of nomad life that reminds us of the days of Abraham.

There are said to be some 30,000 of these Rumani, but who really know their number, scattered as they are over hundreds of mountain peaks, in inaccessible villages or caves, and moving from place to place.

GEN. FUKUSHIMA

Famous Japanese Military Leader Is Dead.

Gen. Baron Yasumasa Fukushima died in Tokio on Feb. 19th, as the result of an attack of apoplexy.

Gen. Fukushima, who was regarded as one of the ablest, best-equipped men who had ever been at the head of the military affairs of Japan, was born at Matsumoto in 1852, in the Shinano Province, his family being very poor Samurai. He began life for himself as a drummer boy in a regiment of his prince's clan, having learned to drum in a modernized military school established by the Shogun. To qualify himself for a post in the newly organized Judicial Department of the re-established Central Government of the Emperor, young Fukushima studied modern languages assiduously. He was employed in that department only one year, 1874, as the next year he was transferred to the General Staff office. While a clerk there he added a special proficiency in geography to his other attainments. In 1876 he was despatched to the United States for inspection of military affairs, and in 1887 became Military Attache to the Japanese Legation in Berlin.

In the Chino-Japanese war Fukushima was chief of staff of the 5th Divison, and then of the First Army under Gen. Yamagata. During the Boxer trouble in 1900 he gained international fame as commander of the Japanese contingent and staff officer of the allied troops in Pekin. In the Russo-Japanese war Fukushima was on the staff of the Manchurian army under Marshal Prince Oyama. At the conclusion of this war he was made a vice chief of the General Staff, occupying this post until 1912, when he was appointed Governor-General of Kwangtung. He was promoted to a full generalship in 1914, and later was placed on the reserve list. Gen. Fukushima was created a baron in 1916, in recognition of his meritorious service to the state during the Russo-Japanese war.

Gen. Fukushima in 1892-93 made a perilous ride across Siberia. Accompanied only by an orderly, he made a trip on horseback across Siberia from Moscow to Vladivostok, traversing the almost untrodden wilderness when very little was then known about the region. During the trip the then Major Fukushima succeeded in climbing the highest peak of the Altain Mountains, in Mongolia. Arriving at the summit, he addressed the mountain as follows:

"I, Yasumasa Fukushima, major of the Imperial Japanese army, now stand on your summit. Lo and behold, I have now conquered you, and stand even higher than you."

It was as a result of this trip that Fukushima, then virtually unknown, became famous. Songs eulogizing his exploit were composed by Japanese musicians, and were long used in barracks and schools. The Emperor promoted him to the rank of colonel before he reached home. Gen. Fukushima spoke English, French, German, Russian, and Chinese with equal facility.

MAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE PRAIRIE PIRATE.

Settlers Have Trouble With the Coyotes.

"Those rascally coyotes have been killing my sheep again, and last week they got my finest prize calf!" lamented a homesteader on the Saskatchewan prairies a few days ago. "Strange to say," he went on, "my next-door neighbor, just three miles away, does not seem to lose any, but there's no credit due the coyotes on that account, for a sharp look-out is kept, and he is able to be among his sheep several times a day."

"Why do you not shoot, trap or poison them and receive a good price for their skins, as well as the bounty?" was suggested. "We settlers have been shooting, poisoning and trapping them ever since there were settlers on the prairies, and Indians before us, but coyotes are too wise to be caught by trap or poisons, and can smell a gun a mile away. The worst of it is, that every spring each pair has a family from six to fifteen in number, and by the late summer the young brutes have developed an appetite for farmyard fowl. Gophers, prairie chicken, wild duck and jack-rabbits are not good enough for them when they can get their teeth into something better!" he concluded.

This open winter and late, mild autumn have been a good friend to the prairie wolf, or coyote. Usually the deep snows and low thermometer makes the cost of living very high for coyotes during the dready winter months. Last winter was so cold and the snow so deep that they were driven to seek food on the outskirts of prairie towns and cities and were hungry and bold enough to rummage the garbage pails on the streets in the outskirts of Regina.

Fortune has favored them this winter, and while poor humans were gasping at the high price of lamb and veal, coyotes on the prairies were indulging sumptuously on both. Lamb and veal banquets, with entrees of turkey, jack rabbits, domestic and prairie chicken, have been the order of the day, seven days of the week. Consequently the fur of the coyote is in better condition than usual and as high as $35 is being paid for their pelts.

Although the coyote helps himself liberally to live stock and poultry, he has no intention of paying for them with his pelt and takes every precaution to arrange his raids and feasts at an inconvenient time for the homesteader.

When a flock of sheep becomes restless and nervous there's trouble brewing. Mr. Coyote is somewhere at a point of vantage waiting for the psychological moment, which means his best opportunity to separate one or two sheep or lambs from the flock.

As soon as the sheep see the coyote they stampede, but already the wily wolf has sized up the situation and is driving one or two in a safe direction, where he had already laid his plans. Having obtained his objective, his cruel steel jaws make short work of the fear-stricken victim.

Before visiting the poultry pens coyotes come quite near the house. Should any one appear he will turn around and go trotting leisurely away, as if to say "at a more convenient season," but if there is a gun they disappear like the wind. Nothing is swifter than the coyote, excepting the wolf-hound, which the most successful hunters take for the hunt. A couple of hounds and a "killer" are put in the back of the wagon and covered from sight. When a coyote is sighted the hounds are uncovered and start in pursuit.

In a very short time their great speedy brings the coyote to bay. A battle ensues and by that time the "killer" (a slower dog) arrives and finishes the coyote. Last January when a capture was made in this way one great hound was wounded so badly that he was lame for weeks. "What we have we hold" cannot be said of every bulldog especially when a coyote is in the game. A certain bulldog which developed a habit of riding on the side of a motor frequently jumped off to kill gophers. One morning he went scurrying after a coyote. After a mad chase the coyote reached his den, a deep hole in the earth, and disappeared, and the bulldog likewise disappeared. What occurred underground is hard to say, but in a very short time the bulldog had forced the coyote out for open combat. During a terrible fight, the coyote seized an opportunity to make his den again and the bulldog, much relieved, made a dash for freedom, a sadder and wiser dog.

Coyotes will stand for hours on some high point of land watching the grazing cattle and sheep and at the same time keep very alert to any movement about the homestead or on the trail. After a traveler has passed the coyote makes a thorough investigation of the trail and having sufficiently satisfied his curiosity, takes up his post of observation again.

They do a lot of prowling at night, and just after sundown their shrill yapping song can be heard at great distances. A little later as the dark curtain of night closes over the prairie and the northern lights dance their mystic dances along the horizon and up to mid heaven the long challenge of the coyotes sounds doubly weird and primitive.

A Climb.

"That's a peach he's with," said a skater on the river, "but I guess they're married."

"What makes you think so?"

"I just heard him asking her if she was ever going to learn to put on her own skates."

Some French Superstitions

THE soldier who does not know, in his own experience, of a case where a man who lit his cigarette "third off a match" and promptly went to his death, is a rarity. Third off a match, going up the line when warned for leave, passing a horseshoe on the road, being in the same platoon as one's brother or father, speaking one's regimental number in the trenches or being a determined souvenir hunter—these were the principal superstitions of soldiers in France. And superstition, even to the supposedly hard-headed young business man who joined up, became, after a few days in the line, just as much a part of a soldier's equipment as his rifle. The superstition was not the blind and terrified sort observed by savages. It was good-humored, even cynical; but was rigidly observed nevertheless.

Matches were often, nay, usually scarce among the fightin' troops. And soldiers smoke gregariously. That is, when one soldier pulls out a packet of cigarettes, however stealthily, at least two or three of his comrades discover the act and share a smoke with the owner. Then the match is lit. Even if the lighter of the match is not superstitious, and attempts to give a light to a third man, some one of the party is bound to bend forward sharply and blow it out.

The legends of death and calamity following the unlucky third man on a match are as numerous as there were troops in France. Every man has a story to illustrate the dire consequence of that breach of a malign fate's decree. And strangely enough, many actual examples are available. The soldier, of course, in a war where death comes screaming and rushing through the air, blindly striking out for victims and so often blindly catching them, comes to believe in a peculiar sort of spirit, a fate with a sense of humor perverted by too much handling of human life. The soldier sees around him every day death under so many queer and shocking circumstances and so many fine and lovable men getting killed, that gradually he comes to sort out the deaths of the splendid fellows as evidences of the mocking gestures of that sardonic fate. Hence, the superstitions, which are a sort of offering from the war-stained human mind to the malign spirit.

The writer sat at the foot of a dug-out stairway, on the Ecurie front. Up at the top, the morning sun shone, and a sentry whistled and hummed to himself. Two signallers sat on the stairway repairing a telephone box. A man came along the dugout and ascended the stairway. As he passed the signallers, one of them was in the act of passing his chum a cigarette. The man who was ascending stopped with a "What ho!" and helped himself to a cigarette. The second signaller lit a match, and before thinking, all three lit up from it, and the man who was ascending lighting his last.

The signaller who was holding the match jerked his hand back, but too late. The third cigarette was aglow.

"You will bum cigarettes, eh!" warned the signaller, laughing. "You'd better throw that fag away, or you're a goner!"

"Nothing doing!" said the man and continued his way up the stairway.

It was a quiet, sunny morning. But about fifteen minutes later, there was a muffled bang outside. The sentry put his head in the entrance and shouted:

"Stretcher bearer on the double!"

The man who had lighted his cigarette third had been killed by a rifle grenade while sitting in the sun on the fire step.

Another most common superstition surrounds the phrase, "got his number." Every article in the army, from a can of bully beef to a shell has got a number stamped on it. The soldier has a number stamped on him, on all his books and documents. Numbers begin to have a peculiar significance for soldiers. To the idea that a bullet or shell is numbered to correspond to a soldier's number and that that bullet or shell is the one designed for that particular soldier is only a short step. He imagines the grim fate so arranging it that a shell with his number on it is fired from the German guns at him. Hence, when a shell shrieks and crashes close to a soldier, he scrambles to his feet exclaiming: "that one didn't have my number on it, but pretty darn near it."

And in case the numbers are running serially, the soldier hastily seeks a deep and distant shell hole.

The particularly sad case of the soldier being killed on the eve of his departure to "Blighty" on leave has given rise to the superstition that a soldier warned for leave should promptly ensconse himself in the safest place available and stay there till he departs. At the battle of Passchendaele, leave warrants for three of the officers of a Toronto battalion were in the orderly room. The officers decided to wait till after the battle to go on leave. All three officers were killed that day.

The colonel of another Toronto battalion had his leave warrant in his pocket when he fell with a machine-gun bullet in his heart, leading his men in a big push at Vimy in March, 1917.

Lucky coins, images, buttons, love-letters, inscribed testaments, all manner of trinkets were the possessions of our soldiers as charms against the attentions of the soldiers' especial boodoo.

Poor Man's Court.

Judge McDonald, of Brockville, represented Leeds and Grenville in the Ontario Legislature after Confederation, and one of his fellow-members was George McManus, of Cardwell. Judge McDonald was recently telling a friend of an occasion when one of the members in a speech spoke of the Court of Chancery as "the poor man's court." "Yes," said Mr. McManus, when he spoke in reply, "the honorable member may well call it the poor man's court—for it leaves any man poor who gets into it."

Most Active Volcano.

The most active volcano in the world is Mount Sangay. It is 17,196 feet high, situated on the eastern chain of the Andes, South America. It has been in constant eruption since 1728.

The Beech Tree.

The beech, which is found in the temperate zone in Europe, America and Asia, is valuable in medicine for the creosote distilled from its tar. Creosote, creosote carbonate and guaiacol are medicines used to supplement the hygienic measures which have done so much to reduce the death rate in sufferers from pulmonary tuberculosis.

THE YOUNGEST V. C.

He Is a Schoolboy From Newfoundland.

Private Thomas Ricketts, of the 1st Royal Newfoundland Regiment, who was recently decorated by the King with the Victoria Cross, is the youngest V.C. in the British armies.

Son of a fisherman of Middle Arm, White Bay, Newfoundland, who earns his living on the Grand Banks, Ricketts joined his regiment in September, 1916. His ardor for the war led him to declare himself 18. In fact he was a schoolboy of 15, stoutly built and of medium height.

Now the wearer of the V. C., the D. C. M., and the French Croix de Guerre (with Golden Star), he returns to Newfoundland to resume his studies—probably at Bishop Field College, St. John's. Hearing of this, the King sent for the lad, and received him at York Cottage, Sandringham.

"This is the youngest V. C. in my armies," said the King, introducing him to a bishop who happened to be in the room; and the King then read aloud the record of the bold achievement, for Ricketts, while one of the bravest lads in the army, is probably the very shyest. He is struck dumb when asked to tell what he did in the great war.

His brave act was curiously like that of Corpl. Gregory, which Sir A. Conan Doyle immortalised in "A Story of Waterloo." Wounded at Cambrai in November, 1917, Ricketts went back to France in April, 1918. On October 14, during the British advance from Lodegheem, the attack was held up by heavy hostile fire, and Ricketts' platoon suffered severe casualties from a battery at point-blank range. Ricketts volunteered to go forward with his section commander and a Lewis gun to outflank the battery. They advanced by short rushes, but their ammunition was exhausted while still 300 yards short, and the enemy tried to get their guns away. Ricketts doubled back under heavy machine gun fire, got more ammunition, and by accurate fire drove the German gun teams into a farm. The Newfoundland platoon then advanced, captured the guns, and saved the situation.

While at Sandringham the youngest V. C. was presented to the oldest V. C., Sir Dighton Probyn, who gave his warmest congratulations to Ricketts.

Aviator Plans During Flight.

Col. Raymond Collishaw, D.S.O., D.F.C., the famous Canadian ace, is seeking new aerial honors by making a flight across the Atlantic Ocean, which he hopes to accomplish early in May. Col. Collishaw is going to England to complete arrangements for the great flight. He stated recently that he would use a Handley-Page super-biplane, one of the machines built to the order of the British Government for the purpose of bombarding Berlin, and which would have been used for bombing the German capital had not the signing of the armistice put an end to aerial hostilities. The machine is a wonderful combination of mechanism. It has a wing spread of about 130 feet and is equipped with five engines, each with its own propeller, giving an aggregate horse-power of 2,000. It has a dead weight carrying capacity of 15½ tons. He will start from St. John's, Newfoundland, and land at a selected point on the west coast of Ireland. He expects to make the flight in one day.

Much Paper Used.

Brazil is the second largest consumer of paper and paper products in South America, importing more than $12,000,000 worth in 1916, but the obvious for an increased trade in this line is not promising because of the country's educational development.

Great Britain has spent $700,000,000 on industrial housing since the war began.

BEHIND THE PLOW.

They sing about the glories of the man behind the gun,
There's something sort of thrillin' in the wonders he has done;
And it makes you want to holler when the boys go machin' by;
And the books are full of stories of the flag that's wavin' high.
But when the shoutin's over and the fightin' done, somehow
We'll find we're still dependin' on the man behind the plow.

SCORE OF BOLTERS FROM WEST ANTICIPATED ON BUDGET VOTE

MAJORITY EXPECTED FROM SASKATCHEWAN MEMBERS—McMASTER, OPPOSITION CRITIC, READY WITH AMENDMENT WHICH FOLLOWS SOMEWHAT LINES OF AGRICULTURE COUNCIL DEMANDS.

OTTAWA, June 10.— Parliamentary forces are playing for position. The debate on the budget opened yesterday afternoon, when A. R. McMaster, of Brome, the Opposition critic, undertook to reply to the speech of the Minister of Finance.

Preliminary to the opening of the debate the official Opposition and the opposition within the Government, which is represented by those who are not satisfied with the budget proposals, have severally conferred on the matter.

Amendment From McMaster.

Mr. McMaster will move an amendment in general terms which will embody proposals for the alleviation of the existing conditions of industrial and labour unrest, and which will lay down certain wide principles of tariff reform. In the latter connection it is not expected that the amendment will be as specific in its details as was the tariff amendment moved by Mr. McMaster on the address.

Western unionists went into caucus to-day to consider the attitude which they would take on the question. From indications before the caucus was called, there will be about a score of bolters from the West. British Columbia will, it is anticipated, pretty well stand pat with the Government. Alberta will give a majority for the budget. Saskatchewan will have a majority on the side of the bolters and Manitoba will [illegible] From the East the Government may lose Fred Pardee, of West Lambton, Hon. W. S. Fielding, of Queens-Shelburne and Stanley Elkin, of St. John.

The question at issue appears to be as to whether the Western bolters will be content to come in behind the Opposition amendment, or whether they will endeavour to introduce an amendment of their own. Mr. MacMaster has the right of way, and his amendment will be moved first. The motion of the Western men therefore would have to be in the nature of an amendment to the amendment, and there are some authorities who claim that this cannot be done on the motion to go into committee of ways and means.

Would Reduce Majority.

Should the westerners vote with the Opposition, the Government's majority, while not entirely eliminated, would be very heavily reduced. A score of bolters on the Government side would make a difference of forty, in a normal majority of about 80. The Government, however, may expect a few supporters from the Opposition side. Lapointe of St. James, and McCrea of Sherbrooke, both voted against the McMaster tariff amendment, on the address. Lavigueur of Quebec and Deslauriers of Montreal, may not vote for the McMaster resolution on this occasion.

The difference between the McMaster amendment moved to the address, and the tariff resolution of the Canadian Council of Agriculture is but slight. The latter provides for an increase in the British preference to fifty per cent., looking toward ultimate free trade with Great Britain. The McMaster amendment says nothing about the British preference.

MATCH THE CAMISOLE.

Is anything uglier than the transparent peplum blouse worn with a light camisole or corset cover? It was bad enough with the old time blouse that ended at the belt line, but when the newer type of blouse is worn thus there is an ugly discrepancy between the waist section and the skirt section of the blouse.

Of course, where the front and back panel of the blouse are of some heavier material the effect is quite satisfactory.

But when Georgette or chiffon is used then one really needs a dark camisole. It is not always easy to buy these, although they are to be had in navy blue, one or two shades of brown, green, and the other usual suit shades. But they are not difficult to make, and you should have one or two to go with every suit.

Soft satin of some sort is a good selection for the fabric, although crepe de chine is also good. They can be finished at the top with machine hemstitching, such as you can have done at a dressmakers' supply store, and the shoulder traps may either be made of ribbon to match or some of the fabric finished with a narrow hemstitching of the same sort. Needless to say, they should be adjusted so that some of the lighter lingerie appears above the dark camisole.

COMMITTEE OF ONE THOUSAND IS A SOVIET, SAYS LABOUR NEWS

STRIKERS' PAPER RECALLS TOM SHARPE'S MAXIM—BIDS GRAY KISS ASPIRATIONS GOOD-BYE.

SUPPORT DEPORTATIONS

(By W. R. Plewman.)

WINNIPEG, June 9.—The following quotations are from the Labour News:

"The Committee of One Thousand is in supreme control. Yesterday morning the Committee of One Thousand shipped box after box of bludgeons from their arsenal at the Auditorium to the City Hall. It was they who created the new special police force. It is they who are arming them. The Soviet dictatorship is a reality all right, all right. They evidently prepared to 'carry on' behind their barrage against the strikers.

"Mayor Gray is now definitely placed. He is with gunmen against workers. Actions speak louder than words. Remember Mayor Gray on election day. Make it ex-Mayor Gray. It is said that Mayor Gray has political aspirations. The Telegram has been grooming him for some time. Kiss your aspirations good-bye, Charlie, kiss 'em good-bye. The workers will remember how you stood by the gunmen in this hour of crisis, and when they get the ballot in their hands they will say: 'Here goes another nail in Gray's political coffin.'

"Remember Tom Sharp's maxim, Mr. Mayor. It put him out of politics for ever and a day. Charlie Gray's gunmen friends have killed him politically. Good-bye, Charlie. Farewell, a long farewell, to all your dreams of greatness. Pull the hole in after you, Charlie. Thank you.

"Molest No One."

"A word to the wise men and women—Molest no one.

"We want to advise our strikers and their wives and sympathisers in every part of this city to maintain, as they have done for over three weeks, perfect law and order in every way. The Strike Committee asks that no rigs be at any time molested in any way, that strikers do not argue with others on the streets, and that disorder of all kinds be continuously refrained from. There are hired thugs in town who will incite and destroy, so that the strikers may be blamed.

"Strike Spreading Every Hour."

"Every hour the strike is spreading. The daily press mendaciously suggests that our appeals are meeting with no response and that some cities have deserted us. It is not true, not one city that struck in sympathy with us has gone back, but others are coming out every day.

"New Vigour and Enthusiasm."

"So we shall hold the line. Instead of going back we are extending the strike. Delegates are arriving on every train from all over the Dominion. They are forming a Dominion Strike Committee, and the fight will be intensified. It will not be long, we believe, before we can prevail on the running trades to tie up the railways, but we want our delegates here first. This Dominion committee will put new vigour and new enthusiasm and new impulse into the whole movement. We shall soon be able to herald the tidings of victory. It is ours to-day to keep on doing nothing. Just to wait.

"Pinch of Want Approaching."

"Blue Monday approaches. After the exertions of the Sunday all the preachers are supposed to be very tired and want a complete rest. Well, we will have a complete rest on Monday. No local will go back—but will try hard to pull out one or two thousand workers who to-day are unorganised. It is harder work to do nothing than to swing along in the good old way. It is hard to see the pinch of want rapidly approaching, but we must face hard things.

"Traitorous to Start Work."

"The strike has been worthy of strikers and the strikers have been worthy of the fight. Let no one talk of starting work next week. That would be a traitorous act to the thousands on strike in this city. It would mean that we could not ask the thousands in other cities to stand by us. It would break our ranks and leave a gap through which the hordes of the enemy would pour. No, no, it is not backwards, but forward that we go. We are not crabs, but men and women of fire and conviction. The other side is losing its millions, while we are losing our crusts. They call off parades because they cannot match us at the game. They import thugs because we have perfect self-control. They employ two thousand special police at $6 a day to try to get us to start something.

"eW lahlsltaypetahm?doH thm
"We shall play them at their game—but our method is to 'do nothing.' We will not work again till our just demands are granted."

Support Deportations.

The following resolution has been passed by the Strike Committee:

"That we, the General Strike Committee, representing the 35,000 workers now on strike, many of whom are returned soldiers, again go on record that we support all efforts on part of authorities in their efforts to deport all undesirable aliens in our midst.

"(Sgd.) W. H. Logan, Chairman of Strike Committee; Jas. Winning, President Trades and Labour Council."

"The above resolution," says the Labour News, "was also passed by the striking soldiers in a separate meeting. They appointed a committee of four comrades, Moore, Dunn, Holly and Jones, to present this resolution to the so-called 'loyalist' soldiers. It was sent to their executive through its chairman, Col. Riley, with the request that these four men be allowed to present the whole matter from the strikers' point of view. Col. Riley said that this could not be done. The matter was now out of his hands since the organisation was virtually dissolved.

Porters Issue Statement.

The following statement has been issued by the sleeping car porters:

"To the general public.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is bringing into Canada coloured men from the United States, with the understanding that they are to be used on dining cars as waiters and as sleeping car porters for the extra summer service. These men are bein gused in places of porters who are now on strike, and the public is hereby warned that all porters other than those running through Winnipeg from outside points, such as Montreal and Toronto, are strikebreakers.

"Fraternally yours,

Is Saving Worth While?

Perhaps it doesn't seem so when you can only save a few dollars at a time and get little or no interest.

But when you can get 4½% interest on every $4.00 you save, with the Dominion of Canada as security for your savings—that is a different story.

You can do this—by means of War Savings Stamps.

Canada needs money for reconstruction. Canada says to every wage earner: "Lend me your odd savings as often as you can, and for every $4.00 you lend me now, I will pay you back $5.00 in 1924. The odd cents are for accrued interest.

Saving under this plan is worth while.

If you have never before been thrifty, be thrifty now. Thrift Stamps will help you to form the habit. Buy one every time you save 25 cents, and when you have sixteen, exchange them for a War Savings Stamp.

War Savings Stamps can be bought wherever this sign is displayed.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"No, it is impossible for me to say with truth that I repent. I might have, once. But these last six months! Millions of men in the greatest civilization of earth are killing one another daily for no reason whatever save that man, who seeks to direct the destinies of the world, is a complete and pitiful failure. Why, pray, should a woman repent having broken one of his laws and removed one of the most worthless and abominable of his sex, who had made the life of a beloved friend past enduring? Moreover, I have saved hundreds of lives at the risk of my own. I die in peace.

"This statement is made with full knowledge of impending death and without hope of recovery."

"This antemortem statement," concluded Mr. Rush, "was taken down in longhand by the stenographer who sits below, and signed by Anna Steuer, M.D., of Elsinore, Brabant County, State of New York. It was witnessed by Drs. MacDougal and Meyers, who accompanied me from the hospital to the Court-house. Mr. Broderick of the New York News, as I mentioned before, also heard the confession and affixed his signature."

He handed the sheets to the jury and stepped down. For a moment there was no sound but the scratching of pencils on the opposite side of the room and the faint rustle of paper in the jury-box. Mrs. Balfame had drawn her veil across her face and sat huddled in her chair.

The two doctors and Broderick took the stand briefly, the former testifying that Dr. Steuer had been of clear and sound mind when she made and signed her statement. Then the district attorney stood up, and in lifeless tones—Dr. Anna had been his family's most cherished friend—asked if there was any prospect of the self-confessed criminal being examined further. Rush went over to Mrs. Balfame and pressed his hand hard upon her shoulder.

"May it please your honour," he said, "Dr. Anna Steuer expired before we left the hospital."

MADE BY SCOTT & BOWNE MAKERS OF SCOTT'S EMULSION

Again there was a furious scratching of pens. Not a reporter glanced at Mrs. Balfame. They had forgotten her existence. The Judge asked the jury if they wished to retire once more for deliberation. The foreman faced about. The other eleven shook their heads with decision.

The Judge dismissed them and congratulated the defendant, who had risen and stood clutching the back of the chair. The reporters raced one another down the stairs to the telegraph-offices and telephone-booths.

It was physically impossible for Mrs. Balfame to faint, or to lose self-control for more than a moment at a time. She drew away from the friends that crowded about her, one or two of the women hysterical.

"I shall ask Mr. Rush to take me over to the jail for a few moments," she said in her clear cold voice. "I must put a few things together, and I wish to have a few words alone with Mr. Rush. She turned to the dazed Mr. Cummack. "Take Polly home," she said peremptorily. "Mr. Rush will drive me over later."

"All right, Enid." He tucked Mrs. Cummack under his arm. "Your room's been ready for a week."

As Rush was about to follow his client he turned abruptly and exchanged a long look with Alys Cromley. Both faces were pallid and drawn with fatigue, but their eyes for that swift moment blazed with resentment and despair.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

When Rush and Mrs. Balfame reached the jail sitting room she mechanically removed her heavy hat and veil and sank into a chair.

"Is it true that Anna is dead?"

Her voice was as toneless as the district attorney's had been.

"Yes—and we can only be grateful."

"And she did that for me—for me. How strange! How very strange!"

"It has been done before in the history of the world." Rush too was very tired.

"But a woman—"

"I fancy you were the romance of poor Anna's life. She indulged in no dreams of the usual sort, with her plain face and squat figure. No doubt she had centred all her romantic yearnings and all her maternal cravings on you. She thought you perfect—unequalled—"

"I ill"

She sprang to her feet and thrust her head forward, her eyes coming to life with resentment and wonder.

"What—what am I that two people—two people like you and Anna Steuer—should be ready to die for me? Why, I have never thought of a mortal thing but myself! Anna must have been born with damage in her brain. She knew me all my life. She saw me organize charities, give to the poor what I could afford, find work for the deserving now and again, and she heard me read absurd compositions before the Friday Club upon the duty of Woman to Society; but she must have known that all were mere details in my scheme of life and that I was the most selfish creature that ever breathed."

Rush shrugged his shoulders, although he was watching her with a quickened interest. "Why try to analyze? The gift to inspire devotion—inspiration—is as determinate as the gift to write a poem or compose a symphony. It has existed in some of the worst men and women that have ever lived. You are not that—not by a long sight—"

"Oh, no. I am not one of the worst women that have ever lived. Do you know what I am, how I see myself to-night? I am merely a commonplace woman everlastingly anxious to do the 'right thing.' That is the beginning of the end of me, with the exception of a brief aberration—a release under stress of those anti-social instincts that are deep in every mortal and exhibited by every child that ever lived. Oh, I am one of civilization's proudest products, for I never had the slightest intimacy with those inherited impulses before. Nor will they ever rise again. I've been 'improved' during my long hours of solitude in this room, but it's all of a piece. I've not changed. We none of us do that. I shall live and die a commonplace woman trying to do the 'right thing'."

"Oh—let us go now. You must rest. You are very tired."

"I was. But it has passed. The shock of Anna's statement and death brought me up standing. I shall sail for Europe to-morrow, if there is a boat. It was Anna's constant regret that she could not go to the battlefields and nurse, but she would not leave those that depended upon her here. In some small measure I can take her place. They give a first course in London I am told. And I am strong, very strong."

She paused abruptly and moved forward and took his hand.

"Good-night and good-bye," she said. "I shall sleep here to-night. And please understand that you are free."

"What do you mean?" Rush's face set like a mask, but the colour mounted. The grip of his hand was merely nervous, and when she withdrew hers his unconsciously went to his hip and steadied itself.

"I mean that so far as lies in my power I shall harm no one again as long as I live. Moreover, I have seen how it was with you for some time, although I would not admit it, for I intended to marry you. Perhaps I should have done so if it had not been for Anna. It took that to lift me quite out of myself and enable me to see myself and all things relating to me in their true proportions—for once. It is my moment—if I am ever to have one. You no longer love me, and if you did I should not marry you. I say nothing of the injustice to yourself—I could not take the risk of disillusioning you?" She laughed a little nervously. "I fancy I have done that already. But it does not matter. Go and marry some girl near your own age who will be a companion, not an ideal with heart and brain as well as feet of clay."

"You are excited," said Rush brusquely, although his heart was hammering, and singing youth poured throug his veins. "I shall leave you now—"

"You will say good-bye to me now, and that is the last word. I'll telephone my plans to Cummack in the morning. There is no reason for us to meet again. To me you will always be a very wonderful and beautiful memory, for it is something—be sure I appreciate even what it does mean—to have embodied a romantic illusion if only for an hour. Now good-bye once more; and find your real happiness as quickly as you can."

She had opened the door. She pushed him gently out into the corridor, closed the door and locked it. Mrs. Balfame was alone with the crushing burden of her soul.

The End.

WHERE TRUTH IS TABOOED.

Lying Is Essential to Politness Among Mexican Peons.

It seems to go against the grain of the ordinary Mexican peon to be strictly honest, says the Christian Herald. The peons are the labourers, the common people. They form the vast bulk of the population. Ask one of them a question and he will give you any answer he thinks you prefer. Whether it happens to be the truth or not appeals to him as a matter of slight importance. If he cannot read in your eyes the answer you want he will evasively and soothingly murmur, "Si, senor," which means absolutely nothing, except that he is eager to please.

He would much rather lie than appear impolite. He will cheerfully make futile promises, for his gracious but perverted sense of courtesy leads him to prefer to delight you at the moment even at the cost of disappointing and enraging you to-morrow when promises go unfulfilled.

There is not, perhaps, so much corruption in high places as there has been in times past. The popular comment used to be: "Every Mexican official has his price." An American once said to the Governor of a Mexican State:

"Do this for me and I will give you $5,000, and nothing need ever be known about it."

"Make it $10,000 and you can tell the world," the Governor replied.

AUSTRIAN TO BE SHOT.

Captain Funck Found Guilty of Conspiring Information.

PARIS, June 9.—Captain Funck of the Austrian army has been tried and sentenced to death as a spy by a secret court martial here. It appears that Capt. Funck was in Paris before the war began and remained in the city throughout the hostilities and it was alleged at the trial that he made the enemy acquainted with information regarding air raids and long distance shelling of Paris. The specific accusation upon which he was convicted was, "Communicating information concerning the bombardments by Gothas and Berthas to the German military attache at Madrid."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

When a Maid Laughs

By BERTHA B. McDONALD

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When John Lawrence left his home on the outskirts of town and took the little path along the railroad he walked as though he were treading on air. His heart was in tune with all the world and the autumn sun, just setting, seemed a great pot of gold, at the end of his day's rainbow, beckoning him to untold everlasting happiness. Lillith had given him to understand that afternoon that she really cared—Lillith, who had coquetted with him ever since she began going away to school. There could be no mistake about her attitude this time, her open encouragement permitting but one interpretation.

"May I come—tonight?" he had whispered as he was leaving her.

"Try and see," she answered coyly, wafting him a butterfly kiss from the tips of her fingers. And he was going to her now. He had determined to settle the future that very evening, come what may, and he was thinking with honest pride, as he walked along, of the comfortable nestegg in the savings bank which he could offer Lillith. When he was almost in front of the house he heard a sound of laughter and merrymaking from within, like a discordant note in the song his heart was singing.

"Bother take it!" he muttered. "Why couldn't she have been alone tonight, of all times?"

"Here he is!" shouted Lillith gayly, answering his ring; "let's make him stir the fudge."

He was dragged playfully into the living room, divested of outer garments and adorned with a huge gingham apron, which Lillith tied under his arms.

"Domestic roles are very becoming," she whispered with a blushing smile which set his heart to beating a brisk tattoo. "Here's the spoon, and don't you dare stop beating until I give you permission."

She closed his fingers over the spoon with an affectionate pat, turned the blaze a trifle higher under the chafing dish, and then left him to play a duet with Hugh Birch. Still John had no thought save that of being in Lillith's home for just one purpose, which he meant to accomplish in spite of visitors.

"Why all the hilarity here this evening?" he inquired casually of Nell Blakesly, who had taken a place beside him at the table.

"Nothing special that I know of. Lillith just telephoned late this afternoon that she thought a chafing-dish party would be fun, so we all came over."

Lillith Anderson had resorted to her old trick of playing with fire once too often. John was confident she must have known what he was coming for and, with the courage born of desperation, he decided there was no time like the present.

"Lillith, come here," he called.

The new note of determination in his sudden command startled the girl into obeying at once, a thing she was not in the habit of doing.

"At your service, captain," she mocked, saluting, soldier fashion, as she slipped into the chair vacated by Nell. "Fudge ready?"

"I don't know nor thing about it, and neither do I care a rap!" he answered doggedly. "I came here to see you alone and you deliberately planned this—"

"'Love is like the red, red rose,'" she sang, interrupting him, while she took the spoon from his hand, turned out the blaze and began beating the steaming mass as though her very life depended upon it. "Now, fellow citizens," she called out, "we'll soon have something delectable to please your sweet teeth, if John will carry it out to cool."

She poured the fudge upon a platter and held it out to him in such a half-frightened, pleading way that, as usual, he fell before the spell of her wonderful eyes and found himself carrying the candy obediently to the back porch. But a flash of the bracing night air re-established his determination and he tore off the apron as he strode angrily into the hall. "Must you go, John?" Lillith asked timidly, with a faint note of concern in her voice.

"I shall not stay here and have you mock me for one more second! You knew—you must have known—I was coming here tonight to ask you to be my wife, and you've played with me just as long as you're going to! What's your answer?"

He led her into the vestibule and shut the door, just as the rest of the party adjourned to the back porch to examine the candy, so they were alone.

"Will you marry me?" he went on, taking her face between his hands and raising her eyes to the level of his own. "Answer me—will you?"

A peal of hysterical, mocking laughter was her only reply, and John Lawrence left her, going out without another word. As he walked along the railroad track, taking the short cut home, his heart was heavy. Lillith had deliberately laughed in his face after boldly encouraging him to speak. There was only one thing in his mind, and that was to get away from her as far and as fast as he could.

He was dimly conscious that the whistle of the night express had sounded around the curve the other side of the bridge, but he was deeply occupied with his own thoughts to notice the misplaced rail in the track toward which the heavy train was whirling with increasing speed from the down grade behind. He had just time enough to jump aside when the engine crashed through one end of the little bridge and derailed the two or three cars behind it.

Almost instantly the night air was filled with cries of hysterical women, frightened children and the moans of the injured, and John Lawrence, forgetting himself and his troubles completely, rushed forward to offer assistance. In an incredibly short time most of the town had flocked to the scene of the wreck. John worked hard, pulling away pieces of wreckage, putting out fires which started in many places and carrying the injured to places of safety.

With a little child in his arms he was passing beneath the glare of a brakeman's lantern when two hands grasped his arm and a frightened voice cried out:

"Thank God, you are safe! I watched you start home this way and I was afraid you might have been killed."

He placed the child upon a heap of nearby blankets and gathered the sobbing girl in his arms.

"Would you have cared, Lillith?"

"I—should—have—died—too!" she whispered. "And, John, dear, I'll never try to tease you again."

Zam-Buk

Zam-Buk's superiority is due to the fact that it is a herb medicine, containing none of the animal fats or harsh mineral drugs found in ordinary ointments. Again, the medicinal properties are so highly concentrated that they obtain the maximum amount of healing, soothing and antiseptic power, so that a little of this balm goes a long way.

Another reason why Zam-Buk is most economical. It will keep indefinitely and retain to the last its strength and purity. Best for skin diseases and injuries, blood-poisoning and piles. All dealers. 50c. box.

AS TO MEN AND HUSBANDS

According to This Writer There Is a Subtle Distinction Between the Two Species.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony men become dull and uninteresting and turn into husbands, says a writer in Judge. Husbands are all just alike and can be spotted out of any social gathering by the same set expression about the eyes and mouth.

It is more trouble to teach a husband to fetch and carry than a fox terrier puppy, and as a rule the puppy acts much better when there is company around. Husbands wait until some Sunday morning when you have distinguished guests with you for the week end. They burrow in the back of the closet and pull things off the high shelves and go through the rag bag. Then they appear at the breakfast table in the coat of one suit, the trousers of another and a fancy vest, with an inch-wide tie tied in a four-in-hand as a finish.

And when you advertise your horror in a frantic effort to convince the visitors that he is suffering from temporary aberration any and every husband will assume an air of bewildered innocence and say:

"Why, what's the matter with this? It's just what I wear every Sunday morning when there's no one here!"

Husbands always keep the Sunday papers on the floor. No man ever does this until he is married. His mother will not let him.

Husbands read to you the printed recipes they find on the woman's page of the paper. They get enthusiastic about some dish they have always declared they would rather die than eat and say:

"Now, there's an idea for you. Why can't we ever have something like that?"

Women acquire a husband for much the same reason that a man gets a cape. They are a fearful bother, but one presents a better appearance with one in hand.

MARKS ON STOLEN CARS GIVE NOTICE TO DEALERS.

A service of genuine worth is rendered to its patrons by one automobile manufacturing company. When it is reported to the central factory that a car has been lost or stolen, the factory history is consulted and the car's secret markings collected.

In bulletin form these markings are then sent regularly to the company's dealers and garage men, who know that a thief always erases the engine mark, but usually overlooks the number on some small, inconspicuous part. In this way the company has been able to recover hundreds of stolen cars in the last few years.—Popular Mechanics.

WASPS SWAYED BY EMOTION

Observations Made by Naturalists Prove That They Have Qualities Akin to Human Beings.

A book, "Wasp Studies Afield," by Phil and Nellie Rau (Princeton University Press) maintains, giving instances, that insects—wasps, to be exact—feel and display emotions.

The evidences are plausible. A wasp, after regaining her spider following a long search, pounced on it with unmistakable viciousness. When later some meddlesome ants approached her burrow she kicked at them angrily and curled her sting menacingly.

Another species certainly displayed anger when a spider she was pursuing made one leap and escaped. She grew frantic; she became so excited over her discomfiture that she acted madly, walking, leaping and running about the ground in a frenzy till she tumbled into a mole's hole.

Still another wasp, examining broken ground in search for her prey, acted calmly till she arrived at a certain pile of loose earth. Her demeanor instantly changed as she "struck pay dirt." "She became greatly excited, nervous and quivering with eagerness."

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its uplifting research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It clears out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are dressing your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a permanent crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

FISH WOUNDED IN WAR.

The Story Told by Inspectors in England—A Cod Tale.

The inspector for the Eastern sea fisheries board, in a report says: "The fishery officer at Mablethorpe informs me that of the cod caught on long lines one in five had bad wounds. Some were totally blind, others without an eye, and the larger number were wounded in the body. The Gromer officer told me that he and the fishermen on the Norfolk Coast had noticed many codfish with wounds and scars. The Sherringham officer states that the packers have come across many injured cod, some having as many as five wounds."

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 26 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

LATEST IN FARM FENCES

Posts of Wood, Iron or Cement Can Be Used.

Important Factors to Be Considered Are Cost, Durability and Service —How to Lengthen Life of Fence With Undue Costs.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

BLESSED is the farmer who, conscious in the security of his fences, can leave home on a day's business, or retire to rest at night, without anxiety as to possible depredation committed by straying cattle, or his own stock, to corn, roots, or grain, during his absence or rest. Brush, stump, and stone fences—relics of bygone days—can still be seen here and there, but are rapidly disappearing, and are being replaced with modern up-to-date woven wire fences that are built, not with the idea of the smallest possible initial cost, but with forethought for the future, remembering that quality and material as well as the design and construction of post fences are elements that determine its life and service.

The prime factors in a fence are fair cost, durability and service. The annual up-keep of fences is considerable, and to the farmer a material that will do away with the expense of repairing, replacing, painting, or other form of maintenance, should strongly appeal to him as representing true economy, almost regardless of first cost. The opportunity for economy is found, first, in using the kind of posts which, taking into account both cost and durability are cheapest in the long run. In setting a post which will have comparatively short life, he loses not only through having to buy new posts, but also because of the additional labor involved in removing the old and setting the new one. There is, however, great difference in the lasting properties of different woods. The average life of a fence constructed of wood posts cannot be safely figured as greater than 8 or 9 years. For length of service cedar and white oak outlast all other woods. By treating the posts with creosote, coal tar or charing them, the cost of up-keep might be materially lessened.

That the end or corner posts bear all the strain, and are the foundation of the fence, is common knowledge to every experienced fence builder. They must, be well anchored, rigid and strong, and so constructed that they can be depended upon to give proper service at all times, and under all conditions. The foundation carries the strain and must, therefore, be absolutely solid and permanent, so as not to permit the fence to sag.

The setting of wood posts in cement as commonly practiced is not conducive to the longevity of the post, because a water-tight union between the post and the concrete is not secured, and ultimately decay sets in. By far the most effective way is shown in diagram (Fig. 1). The post is first notched as shown in sketch, and the concrete worked well into the notch. This sheds the water trickling down the post, and cannot possibly get between the post and concrete, and the life of the post is considerably lengthened. A post concreted in this way, and kept painted, is practically immune from decay.

However, every locality differs in the material used for fence posts—wood, steel and cement are all used. The supply of farm timber available, or the prices and condition of the local market for the other commodities determines largely the fence post used. One of the most important factor in the construction of steel posts is the anchorage. The end and corner posts and their braces should be set in concrete whenever possible, as in that way best results and maximum efficiency and service will be secured (Fig. 2).

A steel post cannot possibly give complete satisfaction, no matter how lasting the material itself may be, if it is not strong enough to withstand the use to which the average fence is subjected. It must be capable of resisting and sustaining sheets without bending or breaking.

Concrete fence posts properly reinforced and made from suitable materials, carefully selected and proportioned, should last indefinitely, and are, therefore, a good investment. Considerable variety of surface finish and ornament, limited only by the skill of the individual worker, can be given to the concrete corner, gate, and line posts (Fig. 3.)

Large heavy wires not lighter than No. 9 in woven wire fence are much more durable than finer wire, and a lasting improvement for the farm. Hinged joints in the stays make the most substantial union, so that under pressure, the stays forced out of alignment will spring back when released. Triple tension curves in the wire fabric will not be pulled out by the stretching process, and will allow for sufficient contraction and expansion. Sound and rigid posts and proper stretching of woven wire fence are the first considerations in fence building. Regardless of the type of posts, or the height or make of a wire, the farm which is fenced stock-tight is a valuable and money making farm in any section of the country.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

Cultivation and Drainage Pays.

Loosening up a soil by cultivation increases the pore space, and with loams, mucks and clays this increases their power to absorb and retain water while at the same time allowing more free air space. Drainage also makes a soil more porous, thereby producing the same results. Coarse sands retain less water when loose than when compact.

Farm produce or furniture, food or feathers, lumber or scrap iron, milk or machinery—the Maxwell is the most economical investment in the Dominion for any freight-carrying problem.

It costs from 100 to 400 per cent less than heavier trucks which may do only ten to twenty per cent more work. It costs only a little more than lighter trucks and (apart from being completely equipped) does much more work—in less time. It costs several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity.

The Maxwell is made in Canada. It embodies the full fruits of the Maxwell manufacturing facilities and record. A scientific engineering job—not a mere assembled mechanism.

Low cost for upkeep means that the Maxwell will earn extra profits for you. And there's real service available on this speedy ton-and-a-half truck anywhere in Canada.

Take the specification data of any other truck—higher or lower in price. Discuss them in front of the Maxwell chassis.

Then write your check as facts dictate.

WILLARD WILL GET $2,777 PER MINUTE FOR DEMPSEY FIGHT.

The Willard-Dempsey contest will entail an expenditure of $3,150 a minute for the boxers, providing the match goes the full twelve rounds. Willard, under this computation, will receive a fraction more than $2,777 a minute, while Dempsey's reward will be a fraction more than $763 a minute. This is the largest money expenditure for a bout in the history of pugilism.

POST-MARK WORTH MONEY.

If anybody has accumulated during the war a hoard of used envelopes, he will do well to look through them, because certain postmarks are already in demand by collectors.

The triangular "Passed by Censor," the American "Passed as Censored," the blurred "Damaged by Immersion in Sea Water" (a relic of U-boat activities); the Italian "Poste Militaire"—these and others all have some intrinsic value now, and will have more in the near future.

"Feed the Guns."

Perhaps the most noteworthy valuable of wartime post-marks are those of the "Feed the Guns" type. The idea of using such marks—advertisements for stamp defacing—was originally put into practice in Canada where they were common long before the war. And it was there that patriotism was first appealed to by means of them.

Early in 1917 Canadians were exhorted by post-mark to "Help to Win the War—Buy War-Savings Certificates," and to "Save Your Money—Lend It To Your Country."

The most famous Canadian postal slogan, however, was "$25.00 for $21.50—Buy War-Savings Certificates," of which there was a French version for French-Canadians.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

GATHERING IN TORONTO

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION.

A TRYING PERIOD

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 10. — "If this country is to retain confidence in organized labour, Trades and Labour Unions will have to denounce any of their members who hold and preach seditious doctrines, that are repugnant to the common sense of Canadian people," said W. J. Bulman, of Winnipeg, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in the course of an address, at the forty-eighth annual meeting of the Association which opened here to-day. All parts of Canada were represented in the gathering, although the attendance from the western provinces was smaller, owing to disturbed industrial conditions west of the Great Lakes.

Tariff Revision.

Tariff revision is needed is the view of the Association and the President advocated the appointment of a tariff commission of seven properly qualified men, acting in an advisory capacity to parliament, to make a thoroughly scientific investigation and recommendations for revision. Public ownership of railways was described by Mr. Bulman as a "great experience," and the opinion was expressed that it might be found necessary for the government to take over the Grand Trunk railway also. The extension of principle of government ownership to the Canadian Pacific would, however, endanger the success of the whole undertaking by preventing competition, he said. The President reminded the Association that while Canada had passed through the war and a part of demobilization, there was still ahead of her a trying period of readjustment from war to peace. While the general negotiations between employers and employees had been satisfactory, the extreme elements, revolutionary in methods and speech, had made their appearance and were hard to deal with. The Manufacturers' Association does not take the view that the Canadian industrial system is perfect, said the President, "but we ought to try and improve the unsatisfactory conditions by the British, not the Russian way.

There was a lengthy debate at the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to-day during the discussion of a report of the Executive committee, when Col. Maclean was strongly criticised on account of an article appearing in Maclean's magazine alleging that the Association was run by a clique and was unfriendly to farmers and labour. Sam Harris, of Toronto, declared that whoever wrote the article was a "yellow cur." Former President Parsons denied that he was hostile to churches. Whatever he said was as a Methodist to a Methodist. Colonel Maclean denied the allegation that he desired to attack the Association. He was willing to work and pay to make it the strongest body in Canada outside the Dominion Parliament.

EXPECTS THE HUNS TO SIGN TREATY

GERMAN [COUNTER] PROPOSALS LOOKED FOR ON FRIDAY OF THIS WEEK.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 10. — The signing of the peace treaty by Germany before July 1st and its ratification by the various parliaments before August 1st, is predicted to-day by the Echo de Paris.

It expects the answer to the German counter-proposals to be handed over probably on Friday.

The course of the Germans, it thinks, will be to replace the Scheidemann government by another in case the present government determines not to sign the terms as the allies finally present them. It is understood that Premier Clemenceau has not moved from his position against any modification of the peace terms.

No settlement of the Silesian question or that concerning the Polish Western frontier has been reached.

CIVIC EMPLOYEES STRIKE IN SEATTLE

PROVISIONS MADE TO CONTINUE OPERATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.

(Special to the Examiner.)

SEATTLE, June 10. — In response to Mayor R. H. Gales' ultimatum on Saturday that unless the outside civic employees reported for work yesterday they would be discharged from the city's service, very few returned to work, and those that did were for the most part elderly men.

At the city engineer's office it is stated that the strike of civic employees is fairly general. The scavenging department is practically at a standstill and the incinerator is for the time being out of commission.

The men who returned to work belonged to the maintenance department. There is little fear of the city's water supply being cut off, the city engineer having made provision for just such an emergency.

Denial was made to-day by Business Agent McFarlane of the civic employees that he had threatened to have the water supply cut off unless the Mayor withdrew his ultimatum.

A mass meeting has been called for this afternoon by the strike committee. The object it is stated is to place the strike situation in all its phases before the citizens.

No steamship service from Seattle to Vancouver is now afforded owing to the strike. The "Prince Rupert," of the Grand Trunk Pacific Line, sailed from here on Sunday and arrived in Vancouver. She will tie up there. The "Prince George" and the "Prince Albert," the former leaving Seattle last Wednesday, are both berthed in Vancouver.

Attempt Will Be Made to Operate Street Cars in Winnipeg Wednesday P.M.

CREDIT BUSINESS IS BEING NARROWED DOWN—CASH AND CARRY SYSTEM IN FORCE.

(By J. Conklin, Copyright, 1919.)

WINNIPEG, June 10.—Street cars will be running in Winnipeg Wednesday afternoon, according to the City Hall report, following last night's session of the Council. The Council again asked the company to resume service as soon as possible. The Transportation committee will meet the company's manager Wednesday afternoon. The manager, talking to the Examiner correspondent this morning, had no statement to make at the moment, but intimated that an announcement would come from the company to-day. A deputation from the Returned Soldiers' committee, which has been working in conjunction with the strikers, waited upon the Council and asked that cars be not allowed to run until the present trouble was settled on the ground that many strikers were returned men.

The elimiantion of credit business and the adoption of "cash and carry" system during a continuance of the strike is the practice of food vendors practically all over the city. No new accounts are being opened and old customers are being closely checked up, and if too heavy in the books, are cut off. It was stated that persons known to be on strike are asking credit in increasing numbers from butchers and grocers and are being refused.

A RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

PUPILS OF MRS. W. A. GREENSLADE GAVE EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

Last evening in the Conservatory of Music Hall, one of the most interesting and artistic musical events of the season was presented in the recital of Mrs. W. A. Greenslade's advanced pupils. The higher points of the efficiency of their instructor could have been paid than the splendid work of the pupils, which was thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

The opening number, a piano duet by Misses Pearl Rehill and Florence Saunders, Master Homer Borland and Robert Breckenridge, was a revelation of the splendid technique of the pupils and proved their complete mastery over even so difficult a selection as "Majurka," Weber. In the second selection, a vocal solo by Miss Florence Emmerson, contralto, who sang Lehmann's "Roses After Rain" and Brewer's "Fairy Pipers," the talented soloist exhibited her splendid range and reflected the careful tuition in all the intricate rudiments of singing she has received. A piano solo, Durand's "Valse in E Flat' by Miss Gwendolyn Donnelly, proved an attractive and interesting selection. The ladies' quartette in two selections, "Pale in the Amber West" by Parks, and "Snow Flakes," by Cowen, was insistently encored and justly so, as the young ladies displayed unusual talent and their voices were admirably balanced, producing an exceptionally splendid harmonic effect.

Miss Pearl Rehill contributed a splendid and thoroughly enjoyed item in her piano solo, "Arabesque" by Lack, while Miss Keitha Kidd, soprano, was heard to great advantage in her vocal solo, "Break of Day," by Sanderson. A vocal duet by Misses M. Cunningham and F. Emmerson, "When Life is Brightest," by Pinsuiti, proved the two young ladies to have an undoubted future in the musical world. Miss Florence Saunders' talent as a pianist was ably proved in her pian osolo, Valse Chromatique, by Godard, while Miss R. Quartermaine won new laurels for herself in her solo, "Spring's Awakening," the clarity of her tones and graceful phrasing being thoroughly appreciated.

First Appearance.

Last evening marked the first public appearance of Mrs. S. Richardson (nee Eileen Braund) since her recent wedding, when she played the accompaniment to Miss Norma Moore's much appreciated solo, "Andante in G. Minor Concerto" by Mendelssohn. In this number and her final number, Miss Moore was esthusiastically received by the very large audience who attended the recital. Miss K. Masterson won a warm place in the hearts of the audience by her solo, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," to which Mrs. Greenslade played the accompaniment. In a vocal solo, "Blow Blow Thou Winter Winds," from As You Like It, Mr. E. Bartley made a splendid impression, his singing being decidedly above the average.

THE IRON HANDED RULERS OF BERLIN

(United Press.)
(By Carl D. Groat.)

BERLIN, June 10. — Despite doubt cast by the Government leaders on the well advertised rumors of a forthcoming "Peoples' Coup," to overthrow the present regime, War Minister Noske is taking no chances. His guards, the Iron Handed Rulers of Berlin, are in readiness for any eventuality. He has personally undertaken the task of assuring their loyalty through increased pay and other concessions.

ALL READY FOR NON-STOP FLIGHT

BRITISH VIMY BOMBER EXPECTS TO HOP OFF TO-MORROW.

(Special to Examiner.)

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD., June 10. — The British Vimy Bomber air plane, piloted by Captain John Alcock, with Lieut. A. W. Brown, as navigator, was ready to-day for an attempt at a non-stop flight across the Atlantic. Weather conditions permitting, Alcock was expected to start by tomorrow. There was a possibility that he might hop off to-day following Hawker's route toward the Irish coast. Those attached to the Vimy camp, however, would not go further than to predict that a start would be made during the week. The Vimy was taken for a trial spin yesterday, manoeuvring over the water and making a good landing.

Captain Alcock is anxious to get away before the huge Handley-Page "Berlin Bomber," which was nearly ready for its own trials when the Vimy made its test trip.

The [illegible] Major H. G. Brackenbury, will be ready to start before the end of the week, according to present indications.

VETERANS LOOK FOR A SHAKE-UP

Several Resignations have been Turned In.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 10. — Rumors are rife to-day that Prof. H. E. Haultain has resigned his post as vocational officer for Ontario in the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. When seen to-day Prof. Haultain would neither deny nor affirm the rumors. It is stated however by close friends that the resignation is in Sir James Lougheed's hands.

This resignation following close upon the resignations of Dr. Ryan and Dr. McKelvey Bell is thought to foreshadow further changes.

Provincial Secretary Turley and J. V. Conroy, secretary of the district command, in statements to-day say the veterans of Ontario demand a shake-up in the department, the resignation of Sir James Lougheed and F. A. Roberston, deputy head, and the employment of returned soldiers in their stead.

ODDFELLOWS WILL HOLD FIELD NIGHT

VETERAN JEWELS WILL BE PRESENTED TO TWENTY-TWO MEMBERS.

A field night of Peterborough and Otonabee lodges, I.O.O.F., will be held on Thursday evening, June 12th.

The Millbrook lodge will confer the initiatory degree.

Rev. Walter Cox, Grand Master for Ontario, will pay his first visit to Peterborough as Grand Master and will an address on the Centennial Endowment Fund campaign.

A banquet will also be tendered the Grand Master.

During the evening twenty-two Veteran Jewels will be presented to veteran members of Otonabee Lodge No. 18.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

LITTLE CHANGE IN THE WINNIPEG STRIKE—TRAINMEN REFUSED STRIKE PERMIT.

DELEGATES GATHER

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 10. — The sympathetic strike in aid of the Winnipeg iron workers which began on May 15th, was considered broken to-day, so far as its effect upon the safety, welfare and convenience of the general public is concerned. It was estimated that about one-third of the men and women involved in the sympathetic walk out have returned work and that many others have applied for their former positions.

(By J. J. Conklin.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 10.—One of the most significant developments was the gathering of strike delegates from Halifax to Vancouver at the Labour Temple yesterday afternoon, preparing to take out of the hands of the local Strike committee much of the heavy work of handling the strike. Two are present from each centre, and greater pressure is expected to be made from now on to secure a special spmpathetic strike in all sections of Canada. The running trades will be the first to receive attention. Up to date they have had no success in their mediation with employers. In fact no progress has been made since the strike began in getting employers of the metal trades to approach any nearer to the views of employees. The younger element in the trainmen's organizaitons is keen to make common cause with the present strike, and members are every day having it brought home to them that this is a united fight on the part of the employers, backed up by all governments in Canada, to deal a blow to organized labour from which it will take years to recover, if it is not met with all strength.

The Trainmens Turn Next.

The trainmen are beginning to see that if the unions at present on strike fall, it will be trainmen's turn next to meet the onslaught of interests. The officers have the strike vote in their pocket. It was completed last week and embraces all parts of the western systems. It is practically unanimous and wires were sent Sunday and yesterday to the International organizations headquarters in the United States demanding a strike permit, which up to date had been emphatically refused. Some dissatisfaction is heard on the part of merchants and smaller business interests with the Citizens' committee. The latter have settled down to let the strike die a death by the slow process of strangulation. At present it is far from being dead and accounts are pressing on not a few. The stampede of labour back to work shows no sign yet of being large. In fact the unions are holding strong. Railway work is held up and officials waited on Mayor Gray to-day in behalf of the Canadian National Railway to see if a settlement could be hurried. The C.P.R. is in a better position to meet the strain as their system is in good shape and so is the rolling stock, but in time the the outlook will be serious. Of the policemen dismissed last evening, 180 turned in their uniforms to-day. About fifty new constables were added to the force this month and some of these will stay on, but for the most part Mayor Gray's specials of 8,000, earning six dollars a day, will be the civic guardians.

Addressed Meeting.

Rev. Canon Scott, who is well known, and Rev. J. S. Woodsworth, both addressed open air meetings of the strikers yesterday, expressing sympathy with their cause. General Ketchen also was very moderate and complimentary in his address to the strikers. He declared that no striker's name had been reported to him as being guilty of misdemeanor. Winnipeg grave diggers obeyed the call of the Central Strike committee yesterday and quit work. It was only on Tuesday that the organization of the union was completed. Most of the men, it is declared, are Austrians. As a result of these men joining the strike there will be no interments at the cemeteries, and bodies will be placed in the morgues and kept there till the strike is over. An interesting circumstance is that the death rate during the three weeks of the general strike has been lower than that for the corresponding period for a number of years. Premier Norris has informed Hon. James Calder of the strong feeling against alien enemies in Manitoba and in order to prevent trouble arising, the Premier urges that the government take immediate actions in the metal trades dispute. The original cause of the strike may be settled if the Strike committee agrees to call off the general strike, in return for recognition of the principle of collective bargaining on the part of the iron masters. Mayor Gray announced that the Provincial Bureau of Labour is doing nothing to end the present labour unrest in Winnipeg Hon. Edward Brown stated that the government had no in-

THE FRONTIERS OF HUNGARY

(Special to the Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, June 10. — A Budapest despatch received here to-day, reported that the Hungarian Soviet Government had received a message from Premier Clemenceau inviting it to send representatives to Paris to learn the Peace Conference decision regarding the frontiers of Hungary. The despatch, which was filed yesterday, said an answer was required within 48 hours.

CITY GETS OPTIONS FOR DISPOSAL

AND COMMITTEE IS INSTRUCTED TO EXTEND ITS ENQUIRIES.

Options on several properties from which a site for the proposed sewage disposal plant may be selected were laid before the Board of Works last night by a special committee composed of Mayor Duncan, Alderman Phelan, McIntyre and Hamilton. These lots are across the river opposite the end of Park street. Ald. Phelan also stated that he had assured the reeves of North and South Monaghan that the Council had set themselves to his problem and that it was hoped that material progress would be reported shortly. The committee was instructed to procure additional information regarding property values on both sides of the river; to engage a valuation if necessary; to take any other steps deemed advisable and report as soon as possible Ald. Edgar moved seconded by Ald. Crowe that the committee be fully authorized in their particulars. Engineer Parsons explained that the sewage would have to be pumped to a higher level, whether the pipes crossed the river or not.

GOOD BILL AT THE GRAND THIS WEEK

VAUDEVILLE IS EXTRA GOOD—THE PICTURES.

One of the finest vaudeville acts presented at the Grand Opera House for some time was seen last night, and will be presented to-night and Wednesday, with Smith and Troy in "A Breeze from the Philippines." The act was a headliner at Shea's, Toronto, and created a big impression. They are songsters of the first order, but only by hearing them and witnessing their big act can they be justly appreciated.

Harry Conley presents "At the Cross Roads," apother good vaudeville act which draws the attention of everybody from grandad to the baby.

Frank Morrel as "The California Boy," completes the vaudeville performance for the first three days of this week, and is up to the standard given by the management.

The Pictures.

That tremendous drama of Redemption, "Laughing Bill Hyde," which everybody has been expecting for weeks, has at last arrived in town, and is the principle attraction at the Grand the first half of this week. The story is told by Rex Beach, one of America's foremost writers, and its magnetic influence has been commented by those "in the know."

Completing the bill is a Max Sennet California comedy, which contains so much disregard for other people's property and well-being as ever. The weekly screen magazine is also an interesting feature of a good programme.

PROVIDED THE COMPANY WILL PROTECT THE MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL AGAINST ANY LEGAL ACTION THAT MAY ENSUE UNDER THE IMPENDING INJUNCTION.

VOTE WAS 7 TO 3

The acceptance of the Russell-Townsend Company's cost plus tender of $228,600, for the construction of the Hunter street bridge, was recommended to the Council by the Board of Works last night, on a motion proposed by Ald. Edgar and seconded by Ald. Turner.

An amendment by Ald. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Gainey, that the lowest lump sum tender, Mr. Ed. Canroy's, of $251,639.35, be accepted, was defeated, only Ald. Garside and Phelan voting with the mover and seconder.

When Ald. Phelan, who presided, called for the vote on the motion, Ald. Gainey interposed with the statement that Mr. Nevin of the Russell-Townsend Company, had promised the members of the council that the company would protect them against any possible injunction effects.

"If Ald. Edgar will add a rider to that effect, I will vote for his motion," Ald. Gainey said.

"Put it in if you want it to go through," remarked Ald. Crowe.

Ald. Edgar was dubious about the positiveness of any statement Mr. Nevin made as to guaranteeing the members of the council against personal liability if the company exceeded the available money to pay for the bridge when finally completed. However he assented to the affixing of this provision, and the motion carried on the condition "that the company guarantee the members of the Council against any action brought against them for illegally letting the contract or for expending more money than has been provided for the construction of the bridge."

It also requires the contractors to [illegible] were: Ald. Hamilton, Turner, Gainey, Edgar, Crowe, Garside and Mayor Duncan.

Rescind Former Motion.

Ald. Edgar then moved, seconded by Ald. Turner that the resolution awarding the contract to the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company at their former tender of $276,860, be rescinded. This carried almost unanimously.

The Russell-Townsend Company's price is for the cost of the bridge, plus $29,000 for engineering fees, equipment and other charges, and they estimate that the total cost would be $228,600, including their fee. At earlier meetings in April, Mr. John Russell refused to guarantee this tender, but he emphatically declared that the company had on only one occasion exceeded their estimate. He was confident that the final cost would not exceed that sum. Ald Edgar reminded the Board of Works

"Peterborough Prospects Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1919.

WHAT IS THE REMEDY?

In his letter to the newspapers on Saturday Mr. Joseph Wearing emphasizes the indifference of a large number of ratepayers to civic matters, especially in connection with the election of members of the City Council. Mr. Wearing is undoubtedly correct in his statements in this regard. Many of our citizens who afterwards criticize everything done by our city rulers, do not even take the opportunity of exercising their franchise on election day. If the Council next year is controlled by the labour interests, it is just as Mr. Wearing points out, because the members of the labour unions have realized their responsiblity as citizens and have effectively used the means that the law provides. It is regrettable that there should be such a spirit of indifference among so many of our citizens. What is the remedy? Disenfranchisement of those who do refrain from voting without a sufficient reason would be one drastic step that might be taken. But isn't there some less severe method than this? The fault cannot be laid at the doors of the newspapers, who have repeatedly and strongly urged our people to take an interest in municipal affairs, and especially to see that the greatest possible interest was displayed in looking for the city's managing board, aldermen with the qualifications necessary to handle the important business that has to be transacted by the municipal council in a centre like Peterborough.

THE BRIDGE PROBLEM

Once again has a contract been recommended in connection with the Hunter street bridge question. The action of the Board of Works last night in deciding to recommend that the contract be awarded to the Russell Townsend Company, is the most hopeful sign in some time especially in view of the fact that seven aldermen voted in favour of the motion. Perhaps something turns up in the meantime that may cause some of the others to change their minds, and this has happened several times before in the course of the preliminaries in connection with the bridge, there is every prospect that at the next meeting of the Council, the by-law authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Russell - Townsend Company will be passed. Making prophecies in regard to the Hunter street bridge, however, is as far from safe ground as ever in view of the numerous changes of front that have taken place. All that can be accurately said at the present time is that the council is perhaps the nearest to reaching a settlement of the problem that they have been at any period since the question first came before the aldermanic body. And the citizens weary of reading the reports of the frequent meetings and of the frequently new angles to the problem will be glad to hear that the prospects of an early settlement of the whole matter are brighter than for some time.

BOLSHEVISM IN RUSSIA

There are in Canada a number of revolutionary Socialists who profess to believe that the truth is not being told about conditions in Russia; who declare that the policies of the Bolshevik leaders have been misrepresented and that the world is being deceived as to what has taken and is taking place in that stricken country. Fortunately those who hold to these views are comparatively few and the number would be even smaller if the pamphlet issued by the Department of Public Information under the title "Bolshevism in Russia" could be generally distributed. The pamphlet contains a number of reports of conditions in Russia as recently presented to the British Parliament by British official representatives and others from other British subjects who have recently returned from that country and from witnesses of various nationalities who have had an opportunity of studying the conditions for themselves. The story of the Bolshevik regime is given from the time of its rise to April of this year and in a foreword of the White Paper, in which the reports are published it is explained that "they are unaccompanied by anything in the nature of comment or introduction since they speak for themselves in the picture they present of the principles and methods of Bolshevik rule, the appalling incidents by which it has been accomplished, the economic consequences which have flowed from it and the almost incalculable misery which it has produced."

A circulation of these reports would stop any feeling that the newspaper reports of the suffering of the Russian people were exaggerated and untrue. Page after page tell of wholesale arrests and executions of the Bourgeoisie by the Bolsheviks. The conditions in the prisons where British prisoners were confined are said by the British Ambassador at Copenhagen "to defy description". Another report declares that the worst crimes of the Bolsheviks have been against their Socialistic opponents. Of the countless executions which the Bolsheviks have carried out a large percentage has fallen on the heads of Socialists who had waged a lifelong struggle against the old regime, but who are now denounced as counter-revolutionaries merely because they disapprove of the manner in which the Bolsheviks have discredited Socialism. The reports show that the Bolsheviks have established a rule of force and oppression unequalled in the history of any autocracy that they have suppressed every newspaper that does not approve their policy, that they have abolished the right of holding meetings and have restored the barbarous methods of torture. Thousands of men and women have been shot without even the mockery of a trial and "thousands more have been left to rot in the prisons under conditions to find parallel to which one must turn to the darkest annals of India or Chinese history. The most serious crime in the eyes of the Bolsheviks is anti-Bolshevism and the work of discovering and punishing offenders of this kind is in the hands of the Extraordinary Commission, an autocratic body which arrests examines, imprisons and executes at will with no charge, no public trial and no appeal.

The pamphlet contains sixty-four pages of reports similar to those quoted. It leaves no doubt as to the appalling nature of conditions generally in Russia under the fanatic rule of the Bolsheviks.

THE COST OF LIVING PROBE.

The first session of the high cost of living commission resulted in the passing of resolutions that give little promise of affording relief to the people oppressed by high prices. The committee will proceed to "pass the buck" to the boards of trade of municipalities, supported by the representatives of other organizations, such as the trades and labour councils and the G.W.V.A.

It appears that the committee is anxious to perform its duties before the present session has ended. It is realized that the formation of the committee was a kind of hurry-up call by the Government for a life line designed to rescue it from the rising tide of discontent that sweeps up to the doors of the House of Commons. Members stated that it would be impossible for the committee to cover a wide range of investigation "during the remaining days of the session," and as a consequence, the members will search for whatever loose ends of information that may be picked up throughout the country by municipal committees.

In the first place it is ridiculous to suppose that the average board of trade has members with either the time or inclination to enter the lists against the dragon of high prices. And the average board of trade will now be inclined to assume the responsibility of attacking local concerns which might be suspected of influencing the costs of products, nor will it undertake to examine the problem of middlemen or food boarding, or any of the other national issues which affect every community from coast to coast.

This committee, if it is to accomplish anything worthy of the name, must call on the best economists the country affords and enlist their efforts in getting at the truth. Such men as O'Connor, former cost of living commissioner, should be brought to the witness stand to testify as to the reason for the present state of affairs. Men like J. Lambert Payne, who recently wrote an excellent series of articles on the subject, could at least lead the committee toward the fields where the quarry lies. Those dealing with incomes and excess profits could throw some light on the subject, while the country has many financial and agricultural experts who could give more information in ten minutes than all the boards of trade in the country.

Every line of food dealing should be examined. Such a man as Mr. Matheson, a wholesale grocer of Montreal, who declared that the profits of Canada were in the hands of the speculators, should be asked to give his testimony, and the best men labour can secure should be asked to bring facts rather than opinions to the meetings.

Recently Mr. Robb, M. P., chief Liberal whip in the House of Commons charged that certain Montreal interests had taken advantage of "inside" information to sweep the Canadian market clear of its butter supply and make a huge profit for themselves out of the manipulation of so important an article of diet. Mr. Robb is not the kind of man who makes reckless charges. What better work could be done by this commission than to probe the charge to the bottom, and recommend punishment, if possible. It would at least indicate that the members were alive to get at concrete facts rather than to garner a mass of abstract jargon from all quarters.

The Liberal members of the committee have a huge responsibility. Let it be hoped they will make the present investigation a practical probe of the question, and that they will fearlessly attack where they see it. McCoig of Kent and Euler of Waterloo should be men who will listen to any information that may be given them, and go deeply into the whole problem.—London Advertiser.

WILL ROGERS LENDS WIT TO SCREEN TITLES, TOO

"There's a sucker born every minute and most of them live," says Will Rogers, the lariat-throwing wit, in a thrilling scene of "Laughing Bill Hyde," the Rex Beach-Goldwyn production, at the Grand to-day and to-morrow (Wednesday), in which he has the name role. The remark is occasioned by the failure of a posse of deputies to recapture two escaped convicts Bill Hyde and Danny Dorgan, though the officers are within a yard of the hiding fugitives.

After breaking jail Bill and Danny make their way to the edge of a village. Spying the deputies they run into the woods and hide. The posse comes very close, beating up the brush. Bill and Danny have about given up hope of escaping them when one of the party suggests that it is foolish of them to search near the town for the criminals. The others agree with him and they leave. It is then that Bill Hyde delivers himself of the slang classic.

"Of course I know that it was not meant that bunch shouldn't find us," said Rogers later while discussing the scene on his return to the Goldwyn studio. "But escapes like that one surely do happen. Look at the nineteen-year-old kid murderer, who broke jail twice and then rushed through nineteen New York cops as though they wasn't there. Yes, siree, there's one born every minute."

WILL ROGERS, ROMEO.

A beautiful Indian girl takes Will Rogers unawares in an amusing incident in Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," with the following query: "When are you going to ask me to marry you?" The famous lariat-throwing wit never could be accused of being a Lothario, but her words give him confidence and for a spell Rogers, as Bill Hyde, proves himself an ardent lover.

LIGHT CRIMINAL LIST BEFORE JUDGE HUYCKE—WAR MEMORIAL SUGGESTED TO GRAND JURY.

Two criminal charges against Henry Hughes, of Dummer township, comprised a light bill for the Grand Jury at the opening of the June sessions of the County Court before Judge Huycke this afternoon. It is alleged that Hughes shot with intent at Arnold Mason and threatened to shoot Fred Greenwood. The defendant claims that Mason and Greenwood were trespassing and cutting wood on his property.

The Grand Jury was empaneled as follows:

John Crane, Albert Dick, Alfred Dane, Edwin Fife, Oswald Gibbs, James Hamilton, George Harrison (foreman), S. T. Milburn, Uriah S. Payne, Walter Preston, W. J. Thompson, W. J. Waldon, T. H. Webster.

The members of the bar present were Crown Attorney Hatton, Joseph Wearing, J. V. McElderry, G. N. Gordon, A. R Widdifield, O. A. Langley, F. D. Kerr.

Four cases were withdrawn from the jury civil list. The claims of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hubel for damages from the G.T.R., resulting from the accident at the Rink street crossing of the Belleville line last fall, were settled out of court.

The Ivison case against the G.T.R. for $600 damages to the little boy who was injured at the Reid street crossing this spring was set over by consent to the December court.

Damages For Miss Mooney.

The Mooney vs. Flavelles Ltd. case was also settled by the defendants paying $200 into court covering judgment and costs. Miss Mooney, of Harvey township, brought action to recover damages for the loss of sight in her left eye from a piece of egg shell getting into it while she was engaged as a candler for the defendants in Lindsay.

G. N. Gordon for the plaintiff and F. D. Kerr for the defendants. Mr. Gordon also represented the plaintiffs in the three actions against the G.T.R.

Four cases remain on the jury list.

The Judge's Address.

Judge Huycke in his address, approved of the retention of the Grand Jury, indicated its need as a protection for the public, and interestingly traced its history back to the middle ages. He congratulated the city and county that there was only one criminal case to be tried. The period of stress and strain was not over. There was a feeling of unrest and dissatisfaction abroad, but it was commendable that this city and country were not being overrun with disorder such as was reported from other countries.

History had shown that the pendulum always swings from one limit to another. To-day it has gone to the extreme socialistic limit. There were different ideas or degrees of socialism. Some socialists were very conservative, others were extremists like the Bolsheviki.

"We should all set our faces like flint against anything that would upset the institutions that have been developed and handed down to us by our forefathers, and for which our sons have fought and bled."

From this point, Judge Huycke said he was moved to recommend to the Grand Jury that they consider the question of war memorials for the soldiers of this county. His Honour said he would welcome any suggestions which he considered would be very timely. In other counties and countries there are movements on foot to provide suitable memorials, and Peterborough should not fall behind. It was a question whether a memorial should be set up for the whole county, or for the city acting alone and similarly the smaller centres such as Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield. This question, together with the form of the memorial, should be carefully considered. There was no occasion for immediate action in putting the suggestions into effect, but some action should be initiated in order that this county which had established a splendid record in the war should not take a second place in providing a suitable monument of some kind or other to its gallant men.

THE TENETS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Mr. Editor: I know you dislike religious discussions in the columns of The Examiner—for they neither edify nor harmonize, but usually develop an acrimony equal only to politics in their unkindest spirit.

Therefore, I ask the privilege of your columns, not for discussing religion, but to print the Truth. The writer is not a member of a Christian Science Church, but only a close student—sufficiently close to know that he has not been "misled" to embrace its teachings, as some good orthodox people like to put it.

Three of the pulpits of Peterboro have been conspicuous for their repeated denuciations of Christian Science in anything but a Christ-like spirit. It is not necessary to refer to these pulpits other than to remark their fondness for preaching on sensational subjects, it is presumed, to help close up the gaps in their pews, and with the object of attracting a little questionable notoriety.

Last Sunday morning in St. Paul's, the pulpit announcements were garnished with the urgent request for everyone to take home with them the copies of the "Presbyterian Record" distributed in the pews, and to "be sure and read the article against Christian Science."

The article in question is just another of those clergyman criticisms, which reveal how little the writer knows of Christian Science — just enough to misinterpret and misrepresent.

With your permission, Mr. Editor, allow me to reproduce here the real tenents of Christian Science, which should a sufficient reply to all such criticisms Christian Scientists have no religious creed, neither had Christ. But the following are the important points or religious tenets of Christian Science:

1. As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to Etenal Life.

2. We acknowledge and adore one Supreme Infinite God. We acknowledge His Son, one Christ, the Holy Ghost, or Divine Comforter; and man in God's image and likeness.

3. We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin, and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished as long as the belief lasts.

4. We acknowledge Jesus' atonement as the evidence of divine efficacious Love, unfolding man's unity with God through Christ Jesus, the Way-Shower, and we acknowledge that man is saved through Christ, through Truth, Life, and Love as demonstrable by the Galilean Prophet in healing the sick and overcoming sin and death.

5. We acknowledge that the crucifixion of Jesus and his resurrection served to uplift Faith to understand Eternal Life, even the allness of Soul, Spirit and the nothingness of matter.

6. And we solemnly promise to watch and pray for that mind to be in us which was also in Christ Jesus; to do unto others as we would have them do unto us; and to be merciful, just and pure.

Just a few words more before closing. Men do not condemn a movement unless they feel its influence penetrating their prejudices and false positions and awakening them to unwelcome truth. The Church always has denounced and prosecuted whatever has not accorded with its inherited traditions, and formulated beliefs.

A full and scientific knowledge of the Bible, offering salvation through righteousness, includes the healing of disease as well as of sin. What authority has anyone for saying that God will lovingly accept a humble petition for the removal or forgiveness of sin, but will turn a deaf ear to and refuse the sincere desire of one to be healed of a physical disease?

The teachings of Christian Science do not ignore or attempt to brush away the doctrinal points of theology; but they do offer a rational explanation of them from a spiritual basis, thereby fulfilling the Christian's hope and making them a present day guide by which to live.

Respectfully yours,
Student.

EFFORT TO AVERT RAILWAY STRIKE

TORONTO STREET RAILWAY COMPANY APPLY FOR CONCILIATION BOARD.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 10. — The Toronto Railway Company has applied for a board of conciliation to settle the threatened trouble with the employees, and named F. H. Phippen as the company's representative on the board. The street railway employees meet on Saturday to decide what action they will take.

Deputy Minister of Labor Acland has wired that the board is being formed for the settlement of the dispute.

"We have not had any notice from the men that they will appoint a member of the conciliation board, said Assistant Manager F. L. Hubbard of the Toronto Railway Company this morning, "but if they do that it will probably avert a strike."

Mr. Hubbard said that the decision of the company to apply for a conciliation board was not made yesterday but a week ago. "There is a regular legal procedure to be followed," said Mr. Hubbard. "Each side has five days in which to choose a third member."

VICTORIA CROSS IMPOSTER

Lionized in New York, But Had Never Been at the Front.

NEW YORK, —The Canadian soldier, George Olstrom, who had played the hero and come to grief, will have imitators, but no superior, in the art of filling the stage of fictitious glory. One New York newspaper believing the yarn that Olstrom, single handed, had captured a trench of German soldiers, hailed him in a glowing apostrophe as a superman. And yet the fellow had never been at the front at all; in fact, had spent his time in France in a hospital suffering from a physical disability that should have kept him out of the service.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

HAD MUTINOUS CREW, TESTIFIES A CAPTAIN CHARGED WITH MURDER

SKIPPER AND MATE OF THE BARKENTINE PUAKO DENY THEY FORCED MAN TO JUMP OVERBOARD.

NEW YORK June 9.—Declaring that he had to face a mutinous crew on the voyage when Axel Hansen, a seaman, jumped overboard, Captain Adolph C. Pedersen, skipper of the American barquentine Puako, who with his son Adolph, eighteen years old, is charged with murder on the high seas, took the stand in the United States District Court.

Captain Pedersen described the Puako is a suicide ship, basing his statement on the fact that two members of the crew leaped into the sea during the fateful voyage from Victoria, B.C., to Cape Town, South Africa. The charge of murder against Captain Pedersen and his son developed when the crew of the Puako declared that Axel Hansen had jumped overboard after a severe beating at the hands of the younger Pedersen, second mate of the barquentine, following which Captain Pedersen is alleged to have kept his vessel on her course, making no attempt at rescue.

On the other hand Captain Pedersen testified that his crew was a fighting crew and that there was a great deal of discontent. He stated that he had never at any time struck Axel Hansen. He admitted that when the cook, John Henry Stewart, served sour milk at breakfast he had remonstrated with him and later slapped his face and put him in irons for a period of five days. Captain Pedersen admitted having put the cabin boy Smithson in irons because he was "sneaky, tricky and lazy," but added that he had only kept him in irons until he apologised.

The defence insisted that a confession signed by Axel Hansen had been given voluntarily. The confession was introduced by Dudley Field Malone, counsel for the defence. It named three others of the crew, Frank Grielen, Lester Jansen, and B. Olsen, as being in a conspiracy with Hansen to do away with Captain Pedersen and the other officers and seize the ship. Also it was stated therein that after the officers were captured it was proposed to sail the Puako to an island or abandon her on the coast of Chili. Hansen had appended his name o the confession, which was dated 30th July, and had written after the signature "I wilfully sign this, as I am not forced to do it."

The younger Pedersen took the stand in his own behalf, and under cross-examination by United States Prosecutor S. Lawrence Miller testified that he had written the body of the confession at the dictation of his father before it was presented to Hansen to sign. He denied that there were any threats at any time and stated that Hansen had signed of his own free will.

The log book of the Puako was brought in as an exhibit. It was in bad condition, the entries not running according to date. Captain Pedersen was questioned about the condition of the log and replied in an evasive manner. He could not satisfactorily explain why the entry of 27st August followed that of 28th August.

Justice Hough asked for the log book and examined it carefully. He remarked: "This is my personal opinion. The maker of this book supposed he had enough room under the heading 'official log' for an ordinary voyage, but there wasn't enough for this voyage."

MUST LEAVE UNION OR THE POLICE FORCE.

British Government Issues Ultimatumto the Metropolitan Bobbies.

LONDON, June 9.—In the House of Commons, the Right Hon. E. Shortt, Home Secretary, who asserted that the Police Union had broken the agreement entered into last August, and was associated with the extremist policy, stated that the Government had definitely decided that the present state of things could not continue.

The Government, he said, would set up a statutory body under which every policeman would be entitled to take his grievances to the highest authority. Members of the force would be called from the Police Union, and men insisting on remaining would cease to be policemen.

DESCRIBES PLIGHT OF HIS COUNTRY

GERMANY LIKE AN EMPTY CASTLE BURDENED WITH DEBTS AND TAXES.

By Rudolph Kommer.
(United Press.)

BERNE, June ... — Chancellor Renner, head of the Austrian peace delegation, in an interview while returning from Feldkirch to St. Germain to-day, described his country as "a big land owner from whom factories, fields and mines have been taken, and who has been left with only an empty castle and the debts and taxes of his former extensive property."

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps.)

You can keep your skin free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

45c AN HOUR FOR LABOURERS IS BOARD OF WORKS DECISION, BUT EVADED DECISION AS TO MINIMUM

PIPE LAYERS MAY BE PAID MORE THAN THAT WAGE AND STREET SWEEPERS LESS—ALDERMEN ARE DIVIDED ON EXACT DEFINITION OF THE NEW WAGE.

MR. PARSON'S DELIVERANCE

Without defining it as a maximum or minimum wage the Board of Works decided last night that 45c shall be paid to all outside labourers employed by the city with the exception of pipe layers on the sewers who may be paid more and street sweepers who may receive less than the fixed scale.

Ald. Gainey contended that the resolution passed by the Council was a minimum wage to be paid to all the men with an upward grading for those who had more difficult work.

Ald. Morrison pointed out that the street cleaners required as much money to live as did other men. Besides they were doing work that would require able-bodied men if these old men were not available. They have been servants of the city for years and deserved the 45c rate.

Ald. Gainey—"I certainly understood that 45c was to be the minimum wage and that men on sewers should be paid 50 and 53c an hour according to the severity of their work.

Mayor Duncan—"The labourers asked for 45c and I say give it to them. If they won't work for it let them go. Mr. Parsons has nothing to worry about there.

Ald. McIntyre stated that H. Smith, J. Pritchard and Sam Dancey, street sweepers, had been refused 45c an hour.

Mayor Duncan—"It serves some of them well right for not working. The Union I understand was not particular about them going on strike.

Ald. Edgar said he believed that 45c was intended as the maximum.

City Engineer Parsons replying to Ald. Garside said he didn't know of any men working on the streets who lived outside the city.

Ald. McIntyre insisted that 45c was the minimum wage.

Mayor Duncan—"If you are going to give them all 45c, pick out the best men and let the rest go as you would do in your own business.

Ald. Hamilton—"It is a question about these three street cleaners?

Mr. Parsons—"I want to know who should be dismissed if I am to take them on again.

Ald. Gainey—"One man now working is a bachelor I understand without any family to support."

Mr. Parsons—"Not to my knowledge."

Ald. Hamilton—"You will be putting on more men soon?

Mr. Parsons—"Yes. We were going to get George street ready tomorrow but the street railway I learned are going to put in new ties.

Ald. Hamilton—"I would be satisfied to see these men get the preference."

Mr. Parsons—"I want to know definitely what I am to do."

Desires to Be Fair.

The City Engineer stated that there seemed to be a feeling among the labourers that he and Mr. Evans were in some way opposed to the men. "We want to know what we are to do. Some of the Council consider 45c a minimum wage and others say it is the maximum. All we want to do is to be fair to the men but it is for the Council to give us the instructions. I was sore at the way Mr. Tooms rubbed it in to us. Take the pipe layer. I doubt if you could get a man to do that work for 45c if all the other men were paid the same rate. They have always been paid five cents an hour more than the others.

Ald. Hamilton—"Well, pay the pipe layer 5 cents more now."

Mayor Duncan—"What did you pay the pipe layer before the strike?"

Mr. Parsons—"The pipe layer was paid $4 for nine hours and the other men got $3.60."

Mayor Duncan—"They all joined hands and said they wanted 45c all round, now let them be satisfied."

Ald. Gainey—"Mr. Parsons' idea is that all men can't lay pipe, that it requires long experience and therefore should be paid more."

Ald. Phelan—"Is it understood that the pipe layers are to receive more?"

Ald. Edgar—"No, we want a resolution."

Mayor Duncan—"It's the same as the painters' union. They take all the painters in, and some of them are not skilled men. But they are satisfied for all to receive the same price."

Motion for Maximum

Ald. Edgar moved seconded by Ald. Turner that 45c be the maximum wage for city labourers except pipe layers.

Ald. McIntyre moved an amendment seconded by Ald. Garside that 45c be the minimum wage. This was lost by 6 to 5, the five supporting it being the four labour aldermen with Ald. McIntyre.

"Let's get this understood", said Ald. Hamilton suggesting that the older men on the sweeping gang should be satisfied with 40c an hour.

Ald. Morrison—"If you had no old men what would you pay for street sweeping?"

Ald. Parsons pressed for instructions as to what he was to do about re-engaging the sweepers. "We don't need any now," he added.

Ald. McIntyre—"I think they should be taken on."

Mayor Duncan—"Leave it to Ald. Phelan and Mr. Parsons."

Mr. Parsons also asked whether returned soldiers should be given the preference. The committee assented to this providing the soldiers are married and are residents of the city.

Mayor Duncan—"That was always understood."

Mr. Parsons—"The soldiers may not be members of the Union.

Ald. Gainey—"They will be soon."

Ald. Hamilton proposed an amendment that sweepers get 40c, general labourers 45c and that the others be paid 5c an hour more.

"I don't like that," said Ald. Morrison.

Ald. Edgar's motion, seconded by Ald. Turner, was then modified providing that 45c, shall be the rate except for pipe layers and street sweepers. This motion carried.

It Took Years To Learn

That in Dr. Chase's Ointment There Is Positive Cure for Piles or Hemorrhoids.

Reports come to us almost daily from persons who have suffered 10, 20, 30 years or more from piles or hemorrhoids before finding out that Dr. Chase's Ointment affords immediate relief and ultimate cure for this annoying and distressing ailment.

This is not a trouble about which people care to speak, but if you ask your friends about Dr. Chase's Ointment, you will be surprised to hear how many have been cured of piles by its use. It is the one treatment for piles on which you can depend absolutely for prompt relief.

Mr. B. F. Tracy, Minesing, Ont., writes: "For about thirty-five years I was troubled with itching piles, which kept me from sleep until I was completely worn out. Then at length I would drop off to sleep and rub myself raw. I tried every kind of ointment made, without any permanent good. I also tried a homeopathic doctor, but only had momentary relief from his treatments. Three years ago I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and about half a box completely cured me. I have never been troubled with piles since, and can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering from this terrible agony or from any other skin disease."

("This is to certify that the above statement is correct in every particular."—Rev. H. Berry, pastor, Methodist Church.)

Mr. H. B. MacDonald, Walkerton, Ont., writes: "Having suffered from piles for some time, I finally tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, which afforded almost instant relief, and in time, cure. I have great faith in Dr. Chase's Ointment, and think it superior to any ointment on the market. I would advise anyone suffering from piles to give it a trial."

Many continue to suffer from piles in the belief that a surgical operation is the only cure. Fortunately, Dr. Chase's Ointment is available and has saved many thousands from the risk and expense of the doctor's knife. 60 cents a box, all dealers or by mail postpaid from Edmanson Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

CONCRETE CONSTRUCTORS PRESENT BILL FOR $190

Concrete Constructors Limited of St. Catharines, whose lump sum tender for the Hunter street bridge has been under consideration for several months, have presented an expense account of $190 to the city.

At last night's meeting of the Board of Works, Mayor Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that this communication be received.

This bill is made up of $100, representing two months' interest at 6% on the company's cheque for $10,000 which the city has retained, and $90 for the expenses of three members of the company who, it is claimed, came to Peterboro on May 12th at the invitation of the council.

DEFAULTERS ARE SURRENDERING TO THE DOMINION POLICE

SEVERAL IN PETERBORO COUNTY HAVE GONE OVER THE TOP DURING THE PAST FEW DAYS.

Defaulters living in the districts adjacent to the city have evidently been impressed with the "sit tight and wait policy" of the Dominion police judging by the number who have surrendered to Inspector H. F. Ward.

Angus Twomey of Downeyville, a defaulter under the M.S.A. voluntarily surrendered to the Military authorities in Toronto and drew the minimum fine of $250 and costs on June 5. He was followed by Richard Sullivan of Indian River on June 9 on the same charge to which he pleaded guilty and was fined the same amount and costs by Magistrate Cohen of Toronto.

Stephen Coleman Guthrie, 23 years of age of Hall's Bridge, a deserter from the 1st Depot Battalion voluntarily surrendered to Inspector Ward at five o'clock last evening. Guthrie took French leave of the battalion on June 15 and wore his uniform until it was in tatters. He stated that he had been idle and had stayed around his home district where he had not been molested.

James G. Robertson of Haliburton surrendered voluntarily to Chief Short of Lindsay yesterday morning. He was remanded in custody and will be tried to-morrow morning with C. M. McKay and James Brown also alleged defaulters. Inspector Ward is leaving for the town on the Scugog to-morrow to prosecute the case. Robertson is a farm hand and was ordered to report to the military authorities on May 14, 1918 but never put in an appearance.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF PRICES WERE LOWERED

OTTAWA June 10. — Asked before the cost of living committee what would be the result if a limit was placed on the price of hogs, the raw material from which bacon comes, E. C. Fox, the general manager of the William Davies Company, exclaimed, "It would be a tragedy, gentleman—a tragedy."

He told them of the shortage of food in the world to-day, of which the meat shortage was the worst. The world looked to the United States and Canada o produce hogs. Germany, formerly the second greatest hog producing country in the world, after the United States, had 20,000,000 in 1914. She now only had 6,000,000. Europe was not a butcher cattle producing country but a dairy cattle producing continent. Fixing the price in Canada of hogs would limit the production. That was why he called it a 'tragedy.' He was speaking as a man "who could make a living anywhere." "I woul dplace no barries on natural production," he declared. "You speak like a free trader," declared E. V. Devlin of Wright. "I have never declared my principles in that regard,' answered Mr. Fox, "but if I were in England I would be a rabid free trader."

SOLDIERS WERE WELCOMED HOME

CONCERT GIVEN IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH LAST EVENING.

St. James' church gave a welcome home to the soldier members of her church on Sunday evening. The choir rendered special music and an appropriate sermon was preached by the pastor.

On Monday evening a concert was given in honour of the returned soldiers and their friends.

The programme was of a very high order and was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed by all present. The programme was as follows:

Chairman—Rev. B. Geantrix, pastor.
Piano duet — Miss Allen, Miss Bridgshaw.
Song "Queen of the Earth'— Mr. Anderton.
Duett 'Forever with the Lord' — Mrs. Doig, Mrs. R. Kitney.
Reading, 'Laska'—Miss Greer.
Solo, 'The King's Own'—Mr. Pratt.
Male quartette, 'Onward Soldiers'—Mr. Pyke, Mr. Pratt, Mr. Cuffe, Mr. Anderton.
Solo, 'Down the Vale'—Miss Nicholls.
Violin solo—Mr. Whitehouse.
Song 'Flight of the Ages'—Mrs. E. Kitney.
Duett 'Tarry With Me'—Mrs. Doig, Mr. A. Lee.
Duet, 'Larboard Watch'—Mr. Cuffe, Mr. Anderton.
Solo, 'Valley of Laughter'— Mrs. Doig.

Mr. Nicholls, organist, was a most able accompanist.

After the programme a good supper was provided by the ladies of St. James' church. The Brotherhood and Gleaners Bible class looked after the guests while at the tables.

The church was approriately decorated by Mr. Carte and Mr. James.

DOCTOR PRESCRIBES VINOL

For Schoolboy To Create Strength After Sickness.

VINELAND, N.J.—"I am a schoolboy, 17 years of age, and typhoid fever left me weak and debilitated, so I had to stay out of school three months—my doctor prescribed Vinol. It has built up my strength and now I am feeling fine."—S. E. Bunce.

The reason Vinol was so successful in this boy's case, is because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run-down system, make rich, red blood and create strength.

McDermid & Jury, E. L. Payne and all the best drug store in every town and city in the country.

Sauce accompanied soup with strips of toasted bread.

RUSSELL-TOWNSEND TENDER RECOMMENDED BY BOARD OF WORKS

last night of this assurance.

"If we had done what we started out to do long ago," he said in offering his motion, "there would be many men working to-day who are idle. We would have let the contract to the Russell-Townsend Company."

Recommended First.

At previous discussions of the bridge contract it had been stated that the Russell-Townsend figure for the narrow bridge could be exceeded by $20,000 or thereabouts, and still be less than the other tenders. Far back in April the Board of Works recommended the Russell-Townsend Company's tender, but immediately took alarm at Mr. R. R. Hall's threat of an injunction if on the cost plus basis the bridge finally cost more than the appropriation therefor.

Latterly, the Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company's guaranteed tender was accepted by the Council, but the bylaw containing the agreement was defeated when as a result of the Council's increasing the wages of laborers and carpenters, Messrs. Paulin and Magee announced the withdrawal of their guarantee.

Action Accelerated.

Last night the pendulum swung suddenly back to the Russell-Townsend Company, after the Board had spent an hour or more listening to Mr. R. A. Palmer of the Hamilton Bridge Works extolling the advantages of a steel bridge, with concrete pillars and deck, and also to Mr. Ednest R. Clarke of the Sherwood Construction Company, explaining his company's alternative design and tender of $250,000 for the bridge in in its original length.

After these engineers departed leaving behind them more or less complete plans varying considerably from Mr. Frank Barber's, the committee seemed to have turned back to the very beginning. But if there was any nascent opinion that they were about to consider a steel bridge or throw open the whole proceedings to admit competitive plans in both steel and concrete, this suggestion was quickly dispelled, when Ald. McIntyre remarked: "There is such a mix up in it now that I don't know where we are at," and Ald. Edgar countered with his resolution.

Ald. Crowe accepted the opportunity to state that as the successor of Ald. Murray he desired to advance the preliminary work from the basis erected by the Council, although he believed that the Sherwood Construction Company's tender seemed the best to him. He made it plain that he wished to avoid causing any delay, and was prepared to proceed with the work from the stage to which the council had developed it.

Last Minute Plans.

Mr. Palmer had estimated the cost of a steel bridge of the original width at from $200,000 to $225,000. This would be reduced for the narrower bridge. However all his arguments apparently dissolved with his departure. And likewise Mr. Clarke's, for the committee at once turned their attention to the tenders of the bridge as designed and planned by Mr. Barber.

Mr. Clarke had stated for instance that his company had worked for the C. P. R. 12 years, expending millions of dollars. He mentioned the railway as a reference and in regard to the Sherwood Company's finances referred the committee to the Royal Bank.

over the story she is reading, but the truth of the matter is that she needs glasses.

Very often the need of glasses makes a person cross and irritable and produces that attitude of mind wherein it is impossible to enjoy even a favorite magazine.

For such people we would suggest an examination of the eyes—now.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN IN PETERBORO ON SUNDAY EVENING NEXT

A conference of ministers and laymen was held yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. in reference to the arrangements for the evangelistic campaign which is to open in Peterborough next Sunday night and continue probably for several weeks. The reports presented showed that the arrangements are in excellent condition, and that the indications are that the campaign will be very successful.

The big tent, 100 feet by 50 feet, in which the meetings will be held will be erected and in place on the lot on Hunter Street just west of the Bell Telephone Office, by Wednesday night of this week. The ground has been levelled in preparation for its erection. Arrangements have been completed also for excellent lighting facilities. Seats will be provided for 1,000 people, and will be in place by Friday or Saturday.

A Feature.

It is expected that the singing will be quite a feature of the campaign. The choirs of the different churches are to be asked to co-operate. It is hoped that arrangements can be made for the choirs in the different churches to become mainly responsible in turn for the singing on certain specified nights. This would mean that each choir would need to provide the main talent once every two weeks. The ministers have given their hearty approval to this arrangement and delegations from the committee will lay the matter before the members of the different church choirs this week. Definite promises of support have already been promised from some of the choirs. The various churches will be asked to provide ushers in the same way. For the Sunday evening services members from all the choirs will be invited to take part.

Some of the churches near the centre of the city have signified their intention of closing their Wednesday night prayer meetings in order to permit their members to attend and assist in the evangelistic services. Some of the churches in the outlying districts may not do this, but instead will gather their members together in prayer for the success of the campaign. Already requests are being received by Evangelist H. D. Kennedy from people asking for prayer for certain people, not only for some living in the city, but in some cases for people living in other cities as well.

Private Prayer.

A week ago a request was issued from the city pulpits that the Christian people of the city should join in reading a chapter of the Book of John each day. The chapter to be read today is the 10th chapter of John. While cottage prayer meetings are not being held the committee request that Christians all over the city shall unite in private prayer on behalf of individuals and for the general success of the campaign. Arrangements have been made for the proper advertising of the meetings, not only in the city, but in outlying districts as well.

Evangelist Kennedy has had a wide and successful experience as an evangelist in many States of the American Union, and during the past year has conducted successful meetings in several parts of Ontario. He has a remarkably wide grasp of the Scriptures and a convincing and striking manner of presenting Bible truths. The meetings promise to prove interesting from the start.

The first one will be held next Sunday evening at 8.15, just after the regular church services close.

JUDGE HUYCKE GAVE AN APPLICANT A COOL RECEPTION

APPLIED FOR CITIZENSHIP, BUT JUDGE SAID HE HAD REFUSED TO FIGHT.

"I won't recommend him for citizenship," was Judge Huycke's sharp comment upon the application of a young Russian at the opening of the June sessions of the County Court this afternoon. "He refused point blank to go to war. I know this man, and I can't forget these things. If he can make any explanation to satisfy me for doing what he did he might be worthy of consideration, but he doesn't deserve citizenship. He is a Russian, but he refused to fight for his own country, and also for this country in which he was living."

Mr. G. N. Gordon remarked that his client might purge his record of any marks by his future service, but Judge Huycke offered no comfort or hope to the applicant that his request would be granted.

A Bavarian on the List.

Mr. John C. Reidel was born in Bavaria and intended to take out citizenship papers in 1912. He delayed action and then the war broke out. As a native of an enemy country he was prohibited from applying during the war. Mr. Reidel holds an important position with the Colonial Company, his solicitor, Mr. Widdifield, stated.

"He is a native of a country with whom we are still at war," remarked Judge Huycke. He promised to consider the petition.

Was Born in France.

When M. Raymond Collet presented himself in support of his application for citizenship, he stated that he was born in France. Judge Huycke asked him why he had not been called to the French army during the war. M. Collet submitted his discharge papers, stating that he had been relieved of military duty twelve years ago on account of an accident, which rendered him unfit for service.

Other applications for citizenship were received from Thomas Anthony, an Italian, Jacob Freidman and Phillip Black, of Russia, Meyer and Joseph Steinberg.

PRACTICE FOR THE BELLEVILLE GAME

All local players who have signed certificates with the Peterborough Central Ontario League team, as well as all members of the Orientals City League team, are asked to turn out for practice at Riverside Park tomorrow night at 6.30 o'clock.

This will be the last practice before the game at Belleville on Saturday. All the Central Ontario Leaguers should be out.

BIG GAME TO-NIGHT IN CITY LEAGUE

There promises to be an unusually big crowd on hand for the City League game between De Laval and the Orientals to-night at 6.45 at Riverside Park. Neither team can afford to drop the game, and it will be a battle royal all the way.

Manager Solomon of the Orientals is getting out a couple of new players to-night, and says his team is through losing games; and from now on will be getting out after the leaders.

Kirn and Nicholson will be the battery for the Orientals, while the De Laval battery will consist of Neary or Prest and Bergoine.

SPORTING COMMENT

Must Win

Lindsay Greys will have their work cut out for them Wednesday in the twilight game against Oshawa but Coach Stalker is drilling the boys and they should be in fine fettle. Oshawa are tied with the leaders of the league, and Lindsay must take a fall out of the lake shore boys or go further down the ladder. In other words Lindsay must break into the winning streak.

If the boys fail to get out to practice Coach Stalker intends replacing them with players who will, and after the game in Peterboro last Friday, when a team from town defeated the Matthews-Blackwell team, Stalker feels confident that he can bring the Central Ontario team along with by notch.

The game is called for 6 o'clock, and will be in the hands of Umpires Kay and Butler.—Lindsay Warder.

A Score Board

The management are endeavoring to arrange for the erection of a large score board at the Lindsay baseball park.

"Sandy" Lockington, Pres. of the C. O. B. L., went to Ottawa Saturday, and failed to see his Port Hopers win at Cobourg.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

tention of attempting to bring the two contending bodies together until such time as the Strike committee decided to call off the sympathetic strike.

The Police Force.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 10.—Re-organization of the Winnipeg police force was begun to-day, the city having discharged late yesterday all policemen who refused to sign an oath not to join the sympathetic strike. Meanwhile protection was being furnished by special mounted constables recruited from returned soldiers. At a stormy meeting of the City Council, which lasted until after midnight, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars was appropriated to pay for the special police force. One alderman, Albert Leader, admitted that many union men had already returned to work. Further desertions from the ranks of the strikers were predicted to-day by members of the Citizens' committee. At Vancouver the postal workers refused unanimously to take a strike ballot in connection with the present sympathetic strike there. Today, the eighth day of the strike, found Vancouver life nearly normal, except for partially crippled conditions on the water front activities. Loading and discharging of ships on the docks, however, is proceeding under handicaps.

Returning to Work.

(By Isa. T. Kolbert.)

WINNIPEG, June 10.—The first serious breach in the ranks of the strikers occurred to-day by scores of civil employees deserting the sympathetic strike, according to their idea in the office of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. The refusal to work followed an earnest last night of the opposition to the city's move to reorganize the forces to give a new police force, following the one discharged when the members refused to sign the city's "loyalty ultimatum." The bill was passed by the City Council with two labour aldermen voting against it. A wage of $6 a day was allowed the new policemen, most of which are returned soldiers. It was estimated to-day that nearly two thousand had been sworn in. They patrolled the streets in civilian attire, but wearing armlets bearing the words, "special constabulary." Each new officer carries a heavy club. Exclusive of policemen, the police officials estimated that seventy per cent. of the striking municipal employees have returned to work.

THE STRIKE IN PARIS

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 10. . . The labor crisis which was suspended over the pentecostal holidays became acute again to-day. Numerous meetings were to be held to-day by labor organizations, including the postal workers, transport workers, Paris railroad men, national council of miners' federations, executive committee of general labor federation and congress of registered seamen.

It is expected that meetings will show whether the extremists or the conservatives will control the unions. The extremists are seeking to turn the strike into a political movement, while the Conservatives contemplate a policy of playing into the hands of the government.

Economy may be wealth but you can't use it in politics to much advantage.

Cats unlike politicians, give voice to the most decided utterances while in the dark and on the loose.
